Dear Ron:

The President has asked me to give you a brief outline of the goals and objectives of the upcoming ninth Economic Summit of Industrialized Nations, which the President is hosting in Williamsburg over the Memorial Day weekend. The President will be meeting with his colleagues from France, the United Kingdom, Canada, Japan, the Federal Republic of Germany, Italy and the Commission of the European Communities. This Summit experience will be a significant departure from previous sessions in that the President and his Summit partners are themselves shaping the discussions, and have insisted that there be no prearranged agenda.

The President's point of departure will be to ensure with his Summit partners that the economic recovery now underway here in the United States and elsewhere is durable. As we pull out of the worst recession in decades, we and our partners recognize that the recovery is fragile and not shared by all countries, particularly developing countries. Therefore, at Williamsburg, the President will lead discussion on both how to maintain momentum for sustained noninflationary growth and how to reduce the insidious effects of the recession: high unemployment, increased debt in the developing nations, and tendencies toward protectionism. The Summit leaders will also discuss and endorse developments in various international fora dealing with security-related trade issues.

Throughout the Summit, the President will express the shared concerns of the Administration, the Congress, and the American public on a wide range of important economic issues. Following its conclusion, senior Administration officials will be available to meet with Members of the Congress to discuss the Summit's outcome.

The enclosed paper provides succinct background on the Summit and the issues likely to be addressed there. Please let us know if we can provide further information.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Kenneth M. Duberstein
Assistant to the President

Williamsburg Summit

U.S. PERSPECTIVES

May 28-30, 1983

WILLIAMSBURG ECONOMIC SUMMIT OF 1983

President Reagan will host the Summit of Industrialized Nations in Williamsburg, Virginia, May 28-30. His major purpose will be to provide for an exchange of views on the most important economic issues.

Background: This Summit is the ninth in a series of annual meetings that began in Rambouillet, France in 1975. The other participants will be: Francois Mitterrand (France), Margaret Thatcher (United Kingdom), Pierre Trudeau (Canada), Helmut Kohl (Federal Republic of Germany), Yasuhiro Nakasone (Japan), Amintore Fanfani (Italy), and Gaston Thorn (Commission of European Communities).

The Summit leaders will meet as the worst and longest recession of the postwar period comes to an end. Economic recovery is already underway in the United States and elsewhere. But, serious problems, such as high unemployment, remain.

The President will emphasize informal discussion at this Summit. Although the serious issues will have been carefully prepared, there will be neither a rigid agenda nor a pre-negotiated communique. The brief concluding statement will reflect what the eight leaders actually discuss.

U.S. Position: The emphasis of the Summit will be two-fold: to establish the framework for broader economic recovery and to reinforce the cohesion and confidence of the Summit nations.

The President is looking forward to the Summit with four priorities in mind:

1. Marking the real progress made in beginning economic recovery;
2. Making clear that only sustained recovery can help the Summit nations and others, especially in Europe where unemployment has increased for 11 years, and developing nations, where heavy debt obligations will persist for the rest of the decade. These efforts will involve:
  - Acting with steadiness, consistency and a longer-term view across a range of policy areas;
  - Bringing down inflation in all countries and encouraging convergence of domestic economic performance;
  - Reversing recent protectionist trends;
  - Supporting the international financial system in order to maintain vital trade, especially for the developing world;
  - Continuing ad hoc discussions of the relationship between trade and financial issues;

WHITE HOUSE
SITUATION ROOMMEMORANDUM FOR MR. WILLIAM P. CLARK
THE WHITE HOUSE

SUBJECT: Williamsburg Summit: Meeting with Lane Kirkland

Organized labor, operating through the Trade Union Advisory Committee (TUAC) of the OECD, has traditionally provided the Chairman of the Economic Summit with labor's views on the subjects to be discussed at the Summit. Lane Kirkland, in a meeting with Secretary Shultz on March 30, stated his interest in a meeting with the President to continue this tradition.

Kirkland has now scheduled a meeting with the Trade Union representatives of the other Summit countries under TUAC auspices for May 12 and 13 in Washington. He requests that a meeting for this group be arranged with the President on one of those dates.

Secretary Shultz strongly recommends that the President receive Kirkland and his group. The proposed dates do, however, pose some complications. The Secretary's schedule is at this point uncertain. Allen Wallis who would normally attend such a meeting and the other members of the Sherpa team will be in Paris for the final preparatory meeting May 11 through the morning of the 13th. With due regard for the President's schedule, if the meeting with Kirkland could be arranged late on the 13th, it would be technically possible for Wallis to be back in Washington in time for the meeting.

Kirkland's letter to the Secretary (attached) requests that "the date and arrangements for the meeting be fixed as soon as possible."

SUBJECT: Briefing for the President on Williamsburg Summit (U)

Briefings for the President on his participation in the Williamsburg Summit will be conducted on May 24 through 27. The briefings schedule will parallel as closely as possible the schedule of events at Williamsburg. Members of the sherpa team and the political preparatory team will provide for the President the likely viewpoints of the other summit participants. Your role is to participate in the "general discussion" portions of the briefings with suggestions as to how the President could best handle the situation as it develops from the presentations in order to advance U.S. objectives and positions.
