Sultan's Wealth Is Vast; His Power, Greater Still

By HENRY KAMM

Special to The New York Times

BANDAR SERI BEGAWAN, Brunei, July 12 — Multicolored triumphal arches are being erected throughout this capital and across the roads leading to it. Garish signs are going up on grandiose Government buildings, raw, new office towers and shoddy Chinese shops, and chains of Christmas-tree bulbs illuminate them.

The theme of the décor is the number 42, because Paduka Seri Baginda Sultan Haji Hassanah Bolkiah Muiz-zaddin Waddaulah, the 29th in his line of rulers of Brunei, will celebrate his 42d birthday on Friday.

Four parades in the capital, where about one-quarter of the country's population of 227,000 lives, will be the highlights of 10 days of celebrations. Perhaps, as in most years, some of the prison inmates will be set free.

A Dwindling Breed

In the 21st year of his reign and from a newly built palace of 1,800 rooms — a more recent, somewhat smaller palace houses the second of his two wives — Sultan Hassanah Bolkiah is one of the last remaining absolute monarchs, freely spending and investing the riches that accrue from the petroleum and natural gas of his realm on the northwest coast of Borneo Island.

Where the public purse ends and the Bolkiah family's private assets begin is one of Brunei's enduring and closely guarded mysteries. But there is no doubt that the ruler and his family are among the most conspicuously rich people in the world, and that by Southeast Asian standards, most people in Brunei live in the com-

Communist world or about religions other than Islam is effectively banned.

Handel Passes the Censors

Earlier this year, an amateur choral group that wished to perform Handel's "Messiah" had to submit the text to the Home Ministry, the top police authority, before receiving permission to sing.

Last March, the Sultan announced the detention of two conservative businessmen who had served as president and secretary general of a small party that had been formed at official instigation but had, surprisingly, adopted critical views.

At a meeting in New Zealand, Abdul Latif Chuchu, the secretary general, had criticized the Sultan's absolutism and called for parliamentary democracy and urged the United Nations Human Rights Commission to hear his complaints.

The Sultan dissolved the party. Its two officials remain imprisoned without trial. Politically interested Bruneians said they did not know how many people are detained for political offenses, nor whether some of those arrested in 1982 were still imprisoned. Diplomats' estimates range from fewer than 10 to about 40.

Much of the criticism that reaches here comes from exiles who enjoy a measure of tolerance in Malaysia and smuggle leaflets into Brunei. The criticism centers on the great wealth and conspicuous use of it by the Sultan and other family members.

"Since I've been here, I have seen unending coming and going of jewelers and others selling the best of

Gorbachev Plays It Safe—and Makes No Gains—in Polish Visit

By Jackson Diehl
Washington Post Foreign Service

WARSAW, July 14—Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev today ended a four-day bilateral visit to Poland that in its lack of substance and highly orthodox style underlined the Kremlin's concern with avoiding upheaval in its volatile neighbor.

In a series of speeches to the Polish parliament, shipyard workers, intellectuals and youth, Gorbachev broke no new ground in Polish-Soviet relations and scrupulously avoided the controversial themes of Polish domestic politics. To the dismay of hopeful intellectuals, he made no effort to reach out to Polish society or spur the political elite out of its longstanding torpor.

Instead, Gorbachev stood before small crowds assembled by police and party officials and blandly repeated the formulation that Poland and the Soviet Union are pursuing the same goals of economic and political change. He allowed nervous Polish authorities to orchestrate every "spontaneous" encounter on his tour with a heavy hand that evoked the repudiated techniques of Leonid Brezhnev or even Joseph Stalin.

Finally, Gorbachev embraced the beleaguered Polish leader, Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, with an enthusiasm that seemed calculated to bolster a regime battered by runaway inflation, strikes and an increasingly hostile public mood. "I will tell it directly to you Poles," he said last night on television. "You were lucky at this stage of history there has appeared a man" like Jaruzelski.

For the millions of Poles who have hoped Gorbachev's rule would open the way for real change in their chronically troubled country, the lackluster, cautious performance must be at once disappointing and puzzling. How, Jaruzelski's many opponents are asking, can a dynamic reformer like Gorbachev really believe that after seven years of stagnation and failure, the general

Gorbachev's schedule contained the kind of small political gestures that are the hallmark of Jaruzelski, real but so modest as to be virtually meaningless: an "unscheduled" stop at a private farm, for example, and a brief visit with a bishop in Krakow's St. Mary's Church.

Remarkably, the politician who ignited the wide-open debate of the recent Soviet party conference deliberately ducked the issues that most concern Poles. Though he directly addressed the "lessons" of Poland's experiment with the free trade union Solidarity during his 1986 visit, Gorbachev avoided the word "solidarity" in speaking to a

Though scores of Poland's best-known intellectuals called on Gorbachev to break the barrier of silence around the World War II Katyn Forest massacre of Polish officers—the most emotional issue of Polish-Soviet relations—Gorbachev completely avoided the subject.

And today, when Catholic editor Marcin Krol challenged Gorbachev during an otherwise stultifying "meeting with intellectuals" here to give his view of the 1968 Soviet in-

Dear Bill:

Thanks for your message and the return of the Marksmanship Trophy. I never expected to see it again. I also never told you where I got that thing or under what circumstances. If you knew, you might understand my willingness to have given it away.

Bill, on a separate matter, if you still have time I would appreciate your advice on an invitation I received from Mr. Hans-Otto Wilhelm who is the State Minister of Rheinland Pfaltz and Chairman of the Board for "Ein Hartz fur USA" advising me that I have been awarded one of six German-American Solidarity Medals for 1988. The award ceremony is to be at the AFN 45th Anniversary Gala on August 27. Obviously I will not be able to attend that event. The question for you is should I allow myself to be listed as an awardee. I know that the USO and Bob Beltz and AFN are going through the usual squabble over fund-raising activities and this August 27 event is a fund-raising activity. Any guidance you might have would be appreciated.

UNCLASSIFIED/EYES ONLY

Finally, Bill, Alma joins me in wishing you and Ann all health, happiness, prosperity and success in your retirement. You did a magnificent job in V Corps and throughout your career. I don't know what your plans are but I would like to hear. If you pass through Washington after you leave Frankfurt, I expect and insist that you call so that we can all get together.

With warmest best wishes,

Colin

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT,

I SEE YOUR LETTER AS A CONFIRMATION OF THE IMPORTANCE OF THE RELATIONSHIP DEVELOPED BETWEEN US, AS EVIDENCE OF YOUR GOOD FEELINGS. INDEED, ALONG WITH SIGNIFICANT POLITICAL RESULTS, OUR MEETING IN MOSCOW HAS BEEN GIVEN AN ENCOURAGING HUMAN DIMENSION - NOT ONLY IN TERMS OF OUR PERSONAL LIKING FOR EACH OTHER, BUT ALSO IN TERMS OF WARMER RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN OUR PEOPLES AND THEIR MORE CORRECT PERCEPTION OF EACH OTHER.

JUL 15 1988

Honorable Colin Powell
Assistant to the President for
National Security Affairs
Washington, DC 20503

Dear Colin:

I understand Secretary Baker is considering action to stop imports of tea and certain candy from the Soviet Union because of some information indicating they may have been made with convict labor. I also understand that you will be talking with Secretary Shultz on this topic next week and thought our opinion on the subject might be helpful to you.

It goes without saying that Section 307 of the Trade Act of 1930, which prohibits imports of products made with forced labor, should be enforced.

As we are in the midst of intensive efforts to improve our trade relations with the Soviets, it seems to me equally true that such trade action be taken only after we are quite sure of the current facts. It is also important that the same procedures be followed for imports from the Soviet Union as would be followed in investigating allegations related to other countries. This includes any "de minimus" or other standards that would apply to other countries.

We hope there will be a chance for further airing of the subject before action is taken. I hope that you will add my concerns to those of others in ensuring fair and careful action in enforcing this provision of our trade laws.

I plan to share my concerns also with Secretary Baker upon his return.

Sincerely,

Lice

Secretary of Commerce

SUBJECT: Feedback ☐

1. In response to the request by General Powell in Tuesday's briefing, on the Airborne Reconnaissance Support System and Advanced Airborne Intelligence Collection System (AAICS), to engage the DCI/DDCI on the topic of "earnest seed money" for FY 1990 from the DCI and NFIP, I did so and provide the following:

- o General Powell should sign the memorandum as revised.
- o The DCI will begin review of the issues of the FY 1990 National Foreign Intelligence Program (NFIP), including funding of airborne reconnaissance, as part of the summer review cycle beginning on Tuesday, 19 July, at a meeting of the National Foreign Intelligence Council (NFIC). Another meeting of the NFIC likely will occur in August. This topic of funding has been a DCI decision issue in the past and almost surely will be again this year.
- o The DCI and NFIP have put a modest amount of money into advanced airborne collection over the years, because the DCI has believed it important, and this appears likely again.
- o The funding issue should be addressed jointly with the other key issues, such as management.
- o Whatever the substantive and fiscal outcomes, the DCI and the Secretary of Defense need to be able to say that the right squares were checked en route to a joint decision. ☐

Dear General Powell:

It is our privilege to inform you that the Action Committee for German-American Solidarity e.V. - "Heart for USA" - has voted to award you the German-American Solidarity Medal for outstanding contributions to German-American relations.

This year, six medals will be presented during ceremonies to be held on Saturday, August 27, 1988 at the Jahrhunderthalle in Frankfurt/Hoechst, Germany. The other five awardees are:

Mrs. Hannelore Kohl, Mrs. Helga Haub, Mr. Robert Litzenburger, Mr. Heinz G. Haberkamp and Prof. Dr. Hans Galinsky.

The German-American Solidarity Medal is a prestigious honor which was introduced in 1983 during the tri-centennial celebration of German emigration to America presided over by Dr. Henry Kissinger, himself an awardee. To date only thirty other medals have been presented to individuals who have distinguished themselves by encouraging German-American friendship and understanding.

The 1988 awards will be presented on the occasion of the American Forces Network (AFN) 45th Anniversary gala on August 27. We would like to invite you to be our guest at this event which is a fund-raising affair for the Action Committee for German-American Solidarity e.V. - "Heart for USA" - and the United Services Organization (USO), Frankfurt.

Hopefully, you will be able to attend to receive your medal. Please do let us know so that we can make the appropriate arrangements.
