THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

MEMORANDUM FOR:

JAMES A. BAKER III

FROM:

ELIZABETH DOLE

SUBJECT:

Weekly Summary Report ending May 22, 1982

Indian, Religious, Conservative/Limited
Portfolio Government, Fraternal Organizations

Manager Morton C. Blackwell

SIGNIFICANT ACTIVITIES

- met with presiding Bishop John Allin of the Episcopal Church
- meeting with Dr. Jack Willke, National Right to Life Committee on the Helms Human Life bill
- meeting with leaders of major national Indian organizations on topic of Indian economics

RED FLAGS

- a wide variety of groups supporting the President are screaming that they need many more record votes in both Houses of Congress in order to hold accountable and thereby defeat this year legislators who are usually in opposition to the President.
- the tuition tax credit supporters are worried about failure of the Administration to submit to Congress the President's proposed tuition tax credit bill.

MISCELLANEOUS

- wide variety of activist groups delighted at school prayer amendment and only concerned that we have not yet had principle sponsors in both Houses introduce the President's proposed amendment.

SUMMARY:

Met with Bishop Allin, presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church and Mrs. Dole. The Bishop and his aid, Father Charles Cesaretti were anxious to obtain a Presidential pardon for two episcopal priests who were convicted and given suspended sentences for their efforts to assist anti-Castro Cubans to escape to the U.S. after President Carter insisted that the flow of refugees stop. They promised to send Mrs. Dole a complete packet on the men.

Later, in my office, Bishop Allin and I discussed the voluntary school prayer amendment. He said that the bad news was that the church was opposed to the amendment but the good news was he believed the wording was the best possible and the church would not make a fight against the amendment.

FROM: MORTON BLACKWELL

SUBJECT: Weekly Summary Report Week Ending May 15, 1982

SIGNIFICANT ACTIVITIES:

- Appearance on Jerry Flawell's national broadcast of the Oldtime Gospel Hour
- Half hour interview on prime time talk show on Los Angeles station KBRT radio.
- Meeting with a dozen organization leaders who support tuition tax credits.

RED FLAGS:

1. The pro-abortion statements of NIH Director Dr. James Wyngaarden have badly offended the President's pro-life supporters.
2. In light of the Administration's promise to issue the wording of our voluntary school prayer amendment, it will be quite embarrassing if we start next week having missed our self-imposed deadline.
3. Conservative moment group activists will predominantly be opposed to our budget compromise. This sentiment is best summarized by Howard Phillips' comment: "The President can abandon our principles; we can't."

WASHINGTON

May 7, 1982

MEMORANDUM FOR: ELIZABETH H. DOLE

VIA: Red Cavaney
Diana Lozano

FROM: Morton Blackwell

SUBJECT: Weekly Summary Report Week Ending May 8, 1982

RED FLAGS:

1. Conservative organization leaders feel that tinkering with the Balanced Budget Tax Limitation Amendment, which apparently has been suggested by Secretary Haig, will so complicate the matter as to make it difficult to generate the grass roots enthusiasm needed to pass the amendment.
2. Unless the issue of tuition tax credits is separated from the controversy over the "Bob Jones University wording" of the tax exempt status bill, this bill will be thoroughly defeated due to conservative as well as liberal opposition.

MISCELLANEOUS:

Conservative support of the President's proposed amendment for voluntary school prayer runs wide and deep. If the wording is appropriate, there will be a massive grass roots crusade on this issue.

DATE: 5-6-82      TIME: 3:00 p.m.      PLACE: Rose Garden

PROJECT OFFICER:

Morton Blackwell

NUMBER OF GUESTS:

300 approximately

ADMINISTRATION PARTICIPANTS:

President and Mrs. Reagan, Elizabeth Dole and staff

SUMMARY:

Rose Garden ceremony where the President announced his support of a voluntary prayer in school amendment to the Constitution. In the negotiations leading up to this announcement, we lost the battle to issue the text of the President's proposed amendment but it is likely that we won the war. The background paper and questions and answers paper which were distributed at the meeting were enthusiastically received by the school prayer supporters in attendance.

The language of the amendment is virtually certain now because of the lucid and detailed explanation contained in the materials distributed at the Rose Garden to the media and guests.

This issue, if we promptly announce an appropriately worded amendment, will be the source of immense organizing efforts by pro-prayer groups. More mail will probably go out on this topic in the next several weeks than in any previous public policy contest since the Panama Canal fight.

Virtually all of the foes of this proposed amendment from the religious community will be people who:

1. Already oppose virtually every Reagan Administration initiative.
2. Are diametrically opposed to the opinions on this issue of the overwhelming majority of their grass roots congregations.

FOLLOW-UP In short, this issue unifies virtually all the elements of the President's winning coalition and isolates as well many of the usual leaders of the opposition to the President.

SUMMARY:

He is a leader of the veterans legal leadership in Michigan. Michigan Reagan supporters have been systematically put out of access to the rewards for political support which normally follow to those who signed on early to the winning side. No person who supported Reagan for President in 1976 or who was an original supporter of Reagan for President in the 1980 primaries in Michigan, have yet received any position of responsibility in this Administration. The patronage has gone through liberal Republican government machinery or through those who took control of the Reagan campaign after it became likely that he would win.
