PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: PRIME MINISTER CARLSSON OF SWEDEN
STATE DINNER TOAST
WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1987 1537 / 100 31 25

Prime Minister Carlsson, Mrs. Carlsson, ladies and gentlemen, welcome to the White House. Nancy told me much about the warmth and goodwill so evident in Sweden during her June visit. We both have looked forward to this opportunity to express our appreciation, and to return the hospitality so graciously extended to her.

I welcome you, Mr. Prime Minister, as long overdue friends. Sweden, while quite some distance in miles, has never seemed very far away to me. As a boy in Southern Illinois, I had neighbors with names like Hanson and Lund, and it was not a very long walk to Steinberg's Hardware Store.

This morning, in the course of our discussions, I realized anew what I have long known: that Sweden and America share the same basic values, and the same hopes for a more peaceful and prosperous world. We often pursue our similar goals through different means, but our democratic traditions have bred in us both an appreciation for diversity, and an understanding that there is often more than one way to achieve a goal. (Here, is there a Swedish saying like more than one way to skin a cat, or other? This would be an appropriate place to lay out a quote or refer to folk wisdom.)

Today, we welcome our guests with special warmth because this is not merely the visit of a Prime Minister, on an official trip, but also somewhat of a sentimental journey. In 1960,

Mr. Prime Minister, early in your married life, you went to Northwestern University in Illinois, where you attended graduate school, and Mrs. Carlsson worked in the University library -- a hard-working young couple building a future together. I am happy to note that the still young Carlssons next month will celebrate their thirtieth wedding anniversary. Please accept the warm congratulations of both Nancy and myself. I understand you will be visiting Northwestern again this Saturday, and I wish you a most pleasurable return to this special place.

Mr. Prime Minister, our countries have been friends as long as the United States has been a country. Today we have had the opportunity to reaffirm the bonds of affection between our peoples and to talk of the issues we, as the leaders of two free Nations, face in the world. Prime Minister and Mrs. Carlsson, I raise my glass to you in friendship, and with a hearty skol.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: PRIME MINISTER CARLSSON OF SWEDEN
WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1987

Prime Minister Carlsson, Mrs. Carlsson, ladies and gentlemen, welcome to the White House. Nancy told me much about the warmth and goodwill so evident in Sweden during her June visit. We both have looked forward to this opportunity to express our appreciation, and to return the hospitality so graciously extended to her.

I welcome you, Mr. Prime Minister, as long overdue friends. Sweden, while quite some distance in miles, has never seemed very far away to me. As a boy in Northern Illinois, I had neighbors with names like Hanson and Lund.

This morning, in the course of our discussions, I realized anew what I have long known: that Sweden and America share the same basic values, and the same hopes for a more peaceful and prosperous world. We often pursue our similar goals through different means, but our democratic traditions have bred in us both an appreciation for diversity, and an understanding that there is often more than one way to achieve a goal.

Today, we welcome our guests with special warmth because this is not merely the visit of a Prime Minister, on an official trip, but also somewhat of a sentimental journey. In 1960, Mr. Prime Minister, early in your married life, you went to Northwestern University in Illinois, where you attended graduate school, and Mrs. Carlsson worked in the University library -- a hard-working young couple building a future together. I am happy to note that the still young Carlssons next month will celebrate their thirtieth wedding anniversary. Please accept the warm congratulations of both Nancy and myself. I understand you will be visiting Northwestern again this Saturday, and I wish you a most pleasurable return to this special place.

Mr. Prime Minister, our countries have been friends as long as the United States has been a country. Today we have had the opportunity to reaffirm the bonds of affection between our peoples and to talk of the issues we, as the leaders of two free Nations, face in the world. Prime Minister and Mrs. Carlsson, I raise my glass to you in friendship, and with a hearty skol.
