MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: ROBERT C. MCFARLANE

SUBJECT: Gromyko on the Basis of Soviet Foreign Policy

Foreign Minister Andrey Gromyko recently defined Soviet foreign policy in terms which rule out common East-West interests in any significant area -- save the prevention of a major war. Gromyko also confirmed continued Soviet support for so-called "liberation movements" in the third world.

Writing in an April issue of Moscow News, Gromyko stated that the fundamental principles of Soviet foreign policy are "proletarian internationalism" and "peaceful coexistence." He said "proletarian internationalism" is expressed in Soviet support for the "revolutionary and liberated movements of working people's masses and oppressed peoples." The Soviets would, for example, include the Marxist-Leninist movements in Angola, Nicaragua and El Salvador in this category.

Gromyko defines "peaceful coexistence" as: "a specific form of socialism's class struggle against capitalism. This struggle is going on and will continue in the field of economics, politics and, of course, ideology, because the world outlook and the class goals of the two social systems are opposite and irreconcilable (emphasis added). However, this historically inevitable confrontation must be conducted in forms which would not generate military conflicts and, the more so, would not jeopardize the very existence of humanity."

While the above definitions of "peaceful coexistence" and "proletarian internationalism" have been in Soviet writings for many years, it is highly unusual to see them expressed in such a candid manner by one of the most senior members of the Politburo and by the one who is primarily responsible for the conduct of Soviet foreign policy.

NLRR 148-2543-5-8

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. ROBERT C. MCFARLANE
THE WHITE HOUSE

172420
P11: CO

BY KDR NARA DATE 4/8/13

SUBJECT: Proposed Import Ban on Certain Soviet Products
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

With respect to the issue of a possible import ban on certain Soviet products allegedly made with forced labor, the following developments have occurred recently.

The Department of State, in cooperation with the International Trade Commission and the Department of Commerce, sent a cable on April 21 to US missions in 33 countries in all areas of the world requesting information on goods manufactured using convict or forced labor. This action is part of an investigation by the ITC which was initiated at the request of the Senate Committee on Finance, on December 29, 1983. The investigation, instituted under section 332(G) of the Tariff Act of 1930, is attempting to determine the nature and extent of imports into the US of goods that are wholly or partially manufactured by convict or forced labor. The ITC will hold a public hearing in connection with its investigation on July 10 and issue a final report between November 12 and the end of the year.

The Department of State has previously informed the NSC of its view that the evidentiary base is inadequate to support the proposed ban on Soviet products. This issue is not simply a technical one, but could have a significant impact on US-Soviet relations, including US exports to the USSR. Further, it would be inappropriate to single out the Soviet Union when other trade partners may be using similar practices. This view is consistent with that expressed by Senator Dole, who, we understand, has written to Treasury Secretary Regan pointing to the need for a consistent and comprehensive official position on this issue, and stating his preference that a final decision on the Soviet issue be deferred until the ITC report is available.

The State Department believes that no action should be taken on the Soviet forced labor issue until the ITC investigation has been completed.

SECRET/SENSITIVEMEMORANDUM FOR MR. ROBERT C. MCFARLANE
THE WHITE HOUSESubject: Proposed Presidential Statement - Building
Cooperation between the US and Soviet Peoples

We have an opportunity next month to package together and highlight what the President is doing to promote contacts between the US and Soviet peoples. The Woodrow Wilson Center for International Studies is sponsoring a conference at the Smithsonian June 26-27 of the major scholarly and professional organizations conducting exchanges with the USSR. Its primary aim is to initiate an effort to break out of the narrow circle of contacts to which the Soviets now try to confine us inside the Soviet Union. The organizations will be sympathetic with what the Administration has been quietly doing to increase US-Soviet communication outside the deadlocked nuclear arms control field. It would be an excellent backdrop for a Presidential statement bringing to public attention for the first time the full range of initiatives we have taken in this area in recent months.

Specifically, the President could present a five-point program for increased contact and cooperation with the peoples of the Soviet Union.

1. Initiation of negotiations on a new exchanges agreement, which will both reopen the way for official exchanges and encourage increased people-to-people private activity. Our proposed agreement contains some novel features, e.g., an annual appearance by each country's leader on the other's television.

2. Opening of new Consulates in Kiev and New York, a move immensely popular in the Ukrainian-American community as it will provide direct access to the Ukrainian people -- the largest non-Russian nationality in the USSR.

3. Reinvigorating existing agreements for practical cooperation in the fields of environmental protection, housing, health and agriculture -- the last area reinforcing how the Administration has responded to farmers' interests, as it did by renewing and strengthening the Long-term Grain Agreement.

DECL: OADR

-2-

4. Renewing three agreements expiring this year -- the fishing agreement (supported by the fishing industry and individual fishermen on the West Coast), the Long-term Economic, Industrial and Technological Cooperation Agreement, and the Incidents-at-Sea Agreement (important in defusing potential naval incidents), and preparing to examine renewal of the World Oceans Agreement (of importance to NOAA and the oceanographic community) with no problems anticipated.

5. Promoting other agreements and steps to deal with problems, e.g. negotiations to settle the Pacific maritime boundary question and technical measures to prevent another KAL disaster.

Most of these agreements have people-to-people implications. All are of obvious humanitarian or economic benefit or serve to improve communication and reduce risks of confrontation.

The statement could be simply released in connection with the opening of the conference (and read there by a senior Administration official). However, its impact would be greatest if the President, schedule permitting, were to deliver it in person at the Smithsonian or invite conference attendees to the East Room (or the Rose Garden) for a brief reception. By reading the statement to the group he would dramatize his interest both in better contact between the American and Soviet peoples and in private sector initiatives (by these organizations) -- two themes he has stressed.

If this approach is approved, we will be pleased to draft a statement.

Charles Hill
Executive Secretary
