Dear Mr. President:

The continuing flow of refugees from Mozambique into Malawi has been the subject of much interest and concern in the United States. Working directly with your government and through the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, we will continue to do our utmost to assist Malawi to meet the tremendous challenge which this has placed upon you and your country.

While the Malawian relief workers continue their heroic, day-to-day efforts to sustain the lives of these refugees, I thought it important also to express my personal admiration and that of the American people for the extraordinary generosity which you and the Malawian people have demonstrated in providing sanctuary for nearly 500,000 Mozambicans. Recent reports concerning the level of violence and depredation of civilians in Mozambique underline again the vital life-saving role which your country continues to play in ameliorating the suffering caused by the tragic circumstances in Mozambique.

Please accept my profound admiration and respect for the protection which you have extended to these innocent victims.

Sincerely,

Ronald Reagan
