TALKING POINTS FOR MEETING
WITH THE UNITED STATES SENATE
YOUTH DELEGATES

- * I am delighted to welcome you to the White House, our national home. This house belongs to all of us, and judging from your qualifications, I'd say there's a good chance at least one of you may be a future resident.
- * I am very proud of all of you. You are all proven leaders. You know the meaning of responsibility, commitment and hard work. Seeing you here makes me very proud because I know that, when my generation passes the burden of leadership to you in a few short years, America need not fear. You are ready to take up the challenge.
- * And there are many challenges to be faced. As I said in my State of the Union address, America has always been greatest when we dared to be great. We can reach for greatness again.
- * You, our nation's young people, full of high ideals and optimism are our best hope for preserving America's prosperity and more importantly -- our freedom.

February 2, 1984

MEETING WITH SELECTED MEMBERS
OF THE HOUSE AND SENATE PRIOR TO
THE CENTRAL AMERICA BRIEFING
AND ANNOUNCEMENT CEREMONY

DATE: Friday, February 3, 1984
LOCATION: Cabinet Room
TIME: 10:00 a.m. (30 minutes)
FROM: M. B. OGLESBY, JR. MB
ROBERT McFARLANE

I. PURPOSE

To consult with key members of the House and Senate, and to demonstrate the Administration's strong commitment to the implementation of recommendations made by the Kissinger Commission.

II. BACKGROUND

On January 11, 1984 the findings and recommendations of the Kissinger Report were announced. Subsequently the Administration has been reviewing the report and analyzing the possible legislative proposals and strategy. In order for the Administration to have a reasonable prospect for legislative success this year, it is vitally important for key Congressional leaders to sign on--or at least not object--to the legislative package before it is transmitted to the Hill. Our ability to assemble a relatively broad based bipartisan coalition is particularly crucial to our prospects for success in the House.

The bill H.R. 4042--which would have extended the existing certification requirements associated with American aid to El Salvador--was pocket vetoed on November 30, 1983. Since that time, a group of Congressmen led by Michael Barnes (D-MD) has filed suit challenging the Constitutionality of this pocket veto. A new bill (reported to be very similar in content to H.R. 4042) is scheduled to be considered on the House Floor during the week of February 6, 1984.

During a meeting with senior White House staff on Wednesday, February 1, 1984, Congressman Barnes and other Congressional leaders indicated that the "conditionality" issue (i.e., certification) ultimately must be addressed if there is to be any hope for enactment of the Administration's legislative package this year.

Discussions between senior representatives of the Administration and the Congress presently are under way to address this and other issues.

This meeting is intended to help set the overall tone and reinforce the Administration's commitment, rather than to finalize details of the Administration's legislative proposal on Central America.

SUGGESTED TALKING POINTS FOR
MEETING WITH SELECTED MEMBERS
OF CONGRESS ON CENTRAL AMERICA

-- The consensus reached by the Bipartisan Commission on Central America is truly remarkable; and the message is compelling: The crisis is serious. Our help is vitally needed. Fundamental U.S. interests -- moral and strategic -- are at stake.

-- We have a responsibility to act. As Commission member Robert Strauss wrote in the WASHINGTON POST: "I do not believe that anyone can responsibly advocate that this nation do nothing, that it can turn its back on the repression and poverty that breed totalitarianism of the left and the right."

-- The Commission recommends -- and I agree -- that a larger commitment of resources, provided with greater continuity and predictability over a number of years, is necessary to bring democracy, peace and equitable prosperity to Central America.

-- Our policy is guided by the principles of democratic self-determination, economic and social development that is fair to all, respect for human rights, and cooperation in meeting threats to the security of the region.

-- Actions consist of a comprehensive and balanced mix of economic, political, diplomatic and security activities which must be implemented simultaneously. The proposals are based on long-standing inequities and by Soviet, Cuban and Nicaraguan attempts to take advantage of grievances for their own ends.

-- The Commission's report and the legislation we will soon propose follow the spirit of Senator Scoop Jackson and his commitment to non-partisanship when the national interest is involved.

NOTE: State Department Deputy Secretary Ken Dam should be recognized to provide an overview of the Central America plan before opening the meeting for general discussion.
