MEMORANDUM FOR VADM JOHN M. POINDEXTER
THE WHITE HOUSE

Subject: Proposal to Send NSDD No. 221 to Major Narcotics Posts

The recent NSDD on Narcotics and National Security sets out specific actions to increase the effectiveness of our counter-narcotics efforts in order to enhance our national security. Among these actions is the coordination of all assistance, intelligence and interdiction activities of U.S. government agencies by the U.S. Chief of Mission at applicable posts.

It is important that U.S. Chiefs of Mission realize the emphasis the President places on their anti-narcotics efforts. The Vice President's announcement has made our Ambassadors aware of the existence of a new directive. One Ambassador to a Latin American country with serious narcotics production and trafficking problems has repeatedly requested a copy of the NSDD.

The Department of State understands the concern with sending White House documents to the field, but in our opinion the content of this particular NSDD should not preclude making it available to Ambassadors. We therefore propose that a copy of the NSDD be sent through appropriate channels to the Chiefs of Mission of all countries in which we have significant narcotics control programs in order to ensure that the importance placed by the President on this subject is adequately stressed and that they understand their coordinating responsibilities.

If you are reluctant to authorize the transmittal of the NSDD to all countries with narcotics programs, we could develop a shorter list of key countries.

MEMORANDUM FOR STEVEN GARFINKEL
DIRECTOR
INFORMATION SECURITY OVERSIGHT OFFICE

SUBJECT: National Security Decision Directive on Narcotics and National Security

This is in response to your request for a copy of the National Security Decision Directive on narcotics and national security.

You are correct that the NSDD was not intended to expand the universe of information relating to narcotics that could be classified for national security reasons and that the directive is wholly consistent with Executive Order 12356.

Given your responsibilities in the oversight of Executive Order 12356, your request for a copy of the NSDD is hereby approved. In addition, I am enclosing the fact sheet on the NSDD which may be of assistance to you in your oversight role.

ACTION

MEMORANDUM FOR RODNEY B. McDANIEL

FROM: BRENDA S. REGER

SUBJECT: Information Security Oversight Office Request for NSDD 221

The Information Security Oversight Office, which takes its policy directly from us but is administratively housed at GSA, is finding that Coast Guard employees, in particular, are using the existence of NSDD 221 (which they've never seen) to classify domestic Coast Guard activities which were never intended to be classified and he needs help in stopping the practice. Activities involving liaison with foreign countries, intelligence agencies etc. do and always have fallen within the classifiable categories. I have drafted this both to provide ISOO with a copy of the original and with the fact sheet version which he can use to reign in the exuberance of the Coast Guard in classifying information which does not warrant classification.

RECOMMENDATION

That you sign the attached memo granting ISOO's request for a copy of the NSDD.

July 9, 1986

Dear Mr. McDaniel:

On April 8, 1986, the President signed a National Security Decision Directive (NSDD) on Narcotics and National Security. For several years the nexus between these subjects has involved the Information Security Oversight Office (ISOO) because of its impact upon classification activity in an area that is primarily law enforcement. Already ISOO's analysts have come across classification actions that are being justified upon the issuance of the NSDD.

Having had the opportunity to review the NSDD in Brenda Reger's office, I recognize that its provisions are wholly consistent with Executive Order 12356, "National Security Information," and that the NSDD did not expand the universe of information related to narcotics that could be classified for national security reasons. Nevertheless, it is important that ISOO have a copy of the NSDD for reference in order to exercise its oversight responsibilities. For that purpose I request that you provide ISOO with a copy of the NSDD.

Sincerely,

Steven Garfinkel

NATIONAL SECURITY DECISION
DIRECTIVE NUMBER 221

Narcotics and National Security (U)

Purpose. To identify the impact of the international narcotics trade upon U.S. national security, and to direct specific actions to increase the effectiveness of U.S. counter-narcotics efforts to enhance our national security. (C)

Background. The expanding scope of global narcotics trafficking has created a situation which today adds another significant dimension to the law enforcement and public health aspects of this international problem and threatens the national security of the United States. (C)

While the domestic effects of drugs are a serious societal problem for the United States and require the continued aggressive pursuit of law enforcement, health care, and demand reduction programs, the national security threat posed by the drug trade is particularly serious outside U.S. borders. Of primary concern are those nations with a flourishing narcotics industry, where a combination of international criminal trafficking organizations, rural insurgents, and urban terrorists can undermine the stability of the local government; corrupt efforts to curb drug crop production, processing, and distribution; and distort public perception of the narcotics issue in such a way that it becomes part of an anti-U.S. or anti-Western debate. (S)

While these problems are endemic to most nations plagued by narcotics, their effects are particularly insidious for the democratic states of the Western Hemisphere. Moreover, the expansion of narcotics activity creates a regional, as well as a country specific, problem. (C)

A recent National Intelligence Estimate, "The International Drug Trade: Implications for U.S. Security" (NIE 1/8-85) examines the dangers from drug trafficking and highlights the following points: (S)

- The narcotics trade threatens the integrity of democratic governments by corrupting political and judicial institutions. The effect on U.S. interests from such a situation can range from a regime unwilling or unable to cooperate with counter-narcotics programs to a government that is unable to control key areas of its territory and elements of its own judiciary, military, or economy. (S)
- In key drug-producing nations, trafficking organizations have used control of local media to influence public attitudes and impede the ability of local governments to cooperate with U.S. counter-narcotics programs. (S)
- Narcotics activity is inevitably accompanied by a rising rate of violence. This includes crimes by and upon those seeking to buy drugs, against innocent bystanders, between competing trafficking networks, and violence against public officials associated with narcotics control, including U.S. personnel. (S)
- In many countries, the same networks used to smuggle drugs are also employed to bring in illegal weapons. (S)
- Some insurgent groups finance their activities through taxing drug activities, providing protection to local criminal traffickers, or growing their own drug crops. Access to money available from narcotics can have a major impact on the capability of the insurgent forces. (S)
- Some terrorist groups have been linked to drug smuggling primarily to finance their activities. The profits from even one consignment of narcotics could provide small terrorist cells with substantial operating capital. (S)
- Several sovereign states -- Cuba, Nicaragua, and Bulgaria, for example -- have supported or condoned international drug trafficking for financial or political reasons. (S)

Policy. The international drug trade threatens the national security of the United States by potentially destabilizing democratic allies. It is therefore the policy of the United States, in cooperation with other nations, to halt the production and flow of illicit narcotics, reduce the ability of insurgent and terrorist groups to use drug trafficking to support their activities, and strengthen the ability of individual governments to confront and defeat this threat. Implementation. To implement this policy, the departments and agencies of the United States should perform the following: (U)

- The Secretary of State and the Administrator of AID should ensure that narcotics control objectives are fully integrated into foreign assistance planning efforts. The planning process should include consideration of programs designed to assist foreign governments achieve effective control objectives and should be guided by the principles of controlling crop production and targetting trafficking at the source and in transit. Proposed assistance should be linked to a foreign government's willingness to develop and implement effective narcotics control programs. (S)
- The Secretary of Defense and the Attorney General, in conjunction with the Secretary of State, should develop and implement any necessary modifications to applicable statutes, regulations, procedures, and guidelines to enable U.S. military forces to support counter-narcotics efforts more actively, consistent with the maintenance of force readiness and training. U.S. military activities in support of counter-narcotics efforts should include, but are not limited to: (S)
 - o assistance to other U.S. government agencies in the planning and execution of large counter-narcotics operations. (S)
 - o collection, analysis, and dissemination of intelligence. (S)
 - o participation in coordinated interdiction programs. (S)
 - o small-scale combined exercises to enhance planning, intelligence, mobility, and communications. (S)
 - o training to assist foreign military forces in planning and conducting counter-narcotics operations. (S)
 - o technical and materiel support to enhance the ability of a foreign government to combat drug production and trafficking. (S)
- The Vice President and the Secretaries of State, Treasury, Defense and the Attorney General should strengthen international support for counter-narcotics initiatives by raising this issue in high level discussions with counterparts in producer and trafficker nations as appropriate. They should also raise narcotics as an international security issue with U.S. allies, urging these nations to increase their assistance and cooperation and encouraging them to also raise the issue as a high priority in their own relations with producer and trafficking states. (S)

- The Director of Central Intelligence, in consultation with the Attorney General and other relevant agencies and acting in accordance with E.O. 12333, should enhance, where appropriate, support of the drug enforcement effort targetted against international drug traffickers, particularly those with known or suspected ties to terrorist or insurgent groups. Such enhanced effort shall be in accordance with applicable Presidential Findings and the National Security Act of 1947. (S)
- The Director of Central Intelligence, in conjunction with the Attorney General, the Secretary of Defense, and the Secretary of the Treasury, should ensure that existing provisions of E.O. 12333 and related implementing procedures which permit the collection and dissemination of information on U.S. persons concerning the foreign aspects of international narcotics activities to appropriate law enforcement agencies are fully and expeditiously adhered to. (S)
- The Director of Central Intelligence should ensure that the intelligence community gives special emphasis to collecting, assessing, and disseminating foreign intelligence on all aspects of the international illicit drug trade. In pursuit of this goal, the intelligence community shall continue its efforts to target specific drug source and transit regions for in-depth analysis of the links between drug trafficking organizations, insurgent groups, and terrorists. (S)
- The Secretary of State, in collaboration with the Director, USIA and the Administrator of AID, should assist in developing drug abuse prevention and education programs within drug producing, transit and consumer nations. Public diplomacy aspects of these efforts shall be reviewed as appropriate by the International Information Committee and the International Political Committee. (S)

- The U.S. Chief of Mission should assure the necessary coordination of all assistance, intelligence and interdiction activities of U.S. government agencies toward specific countries as a priority responsibility. The Chief of Mission should periodically report his efforts to bring the full range of U.S. resources to bear to engage the cooperation of producer and transit countries. (S)
- The Secretary of Defense, as Executive Agent for Communications Security (in accordance with E.O. 12333 and NSDD-145) and the National Communications System (in accordance with E.O. 12472 and NSDD-97), should coordinate with appropriate agencies and departments to ensure that a secure and interoperable interagency telecommunications capability is available for drug-related operations and intelligence collection and dissemination in support of interdiction and other counter-narcotics activities. Existing national communications system (NCS) assets, U.S. Government-owned and leased, will be used to the maximum extent possible. (S)

The Attorney General, as Chairman of the National Drug Enforcement Policy Board, shall submit a report to the President by September 30, 1986 giving the status of plans and accomplishments for all actions directed herein. (C)
