BACKGROUND -- CHP MANPOWER LEVELS

This is a "paper reduction" only since it relates only to unfilled positions and will not affect the maintenance of the CHP's present service levels, including law enforcement and safety effectiveness.

The 1965 legislative mandate to double the CHP has been satisfied during the current budget year.

Filled uniformed officer positions will, in fact, be increased by 119 over the 1969-70 level. This will insure continuance of present service levels.

In addition, 40 uniformed officers will be freed for enforcement activities, by using non-uniformed personnel for radio dispatch and roadside vehicle inspection programs.

There also will be corresponding increases in non-uniformed backup personnel to assure that no overall reduction in public service occurs.

BACKGROUNDER -- MENTAL HYGIENE

As noted in the Governor's Budget (Page A-17), the Department of Mental Hygiene reached 100 percent of the new and higher staffing standards for nursing personnel in hospitals for the mentally ill a month ago (January 1, 1970)---less than two years after the standards were recommended and adopted.

This achievement came six months earlier than even the governor's accelerated program to meet the standards had projected. (Governor Reagan announced last October that he was accelerating the program to achieve the standards by June 30, 1970).

Originally, the Department of Mental Hygiene intended to reach 100 percent of these standards by June 30, 1974, a goal considered highly laudable because the previous and lower standards adopted in 1952 were never attained, prior to 1967.

The new standards were recommended by a blue-ribbon California Commission on Staffing Standards at the request of the State Senate and with the support of Governor Reagan. They allocate the number of treatment personnel actually needed, based on the patient's degree of illness.

The number of patients in California's hospitals for the mentally ill has been declining steadily for a decade. On June 30, 1959, there were approximately 36,800 patients in hospitals for the mentally ill. The current population is about 13,650, the smallest total in 40 years. This is expected to drop another 2,300 by June 30, 1971, to an estimated 11,350.

As a result of this decline, plus the projected decline in patient population, over the three-budget year period from fiscal year 1968-69 through the 1970-71 fiscal year, 7,124 beds in hospitals for the mentally ill will be surplus to patient needs.

However, the Department of Mental Hygiene's budget for 1970-71 fiscal year will reflect an increase of 508 beds in the state hospitals for the mentally retarded.

The result will be a net departmental reduction of approximately 6,600 beds, all in hospitals for the mentally ill where the decline in patient population has been taking place.

The reason for decline in patient population is the increasing growth of community mental health programs under the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act. As a result of this program, 90 percent financed by the state, more mentally ill patients are being treated in their own communities rather than being sent to state hospitals. More effective treatment methods---including use of tranquilizers---also has contributed to the overall reduction of the patient population in hospitals for the mentally ill.

In keeping with recommendations by Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post, the Department of Mental Hygiene is deactivating beds, wards and buildings no longer required for patient use.

Insofar as possible, the phase out of excess beds will be accomplished through closing unsuitable buildings. An example of this policy was the decision in the 1969-70 budget year to phase out Modesto State Hospital, an obsolete facility housed largely in surplus World War II structures. The closure of this facility was recommended by the legislative analyst for a number of years for reasons of economy and because the patients at Modesto could be housed in more modern institutions, often closer to their individual homes.

The Department of Mental Hygiene will maintain a bed capacity approximately 15 percent greater than the projected patient population in hospitals for the mentally ill. This moderate excess bed capacity is required for flexibility of operations (unexpected increase in patient loads, etc.)

The same decline in patient population which resulted in the excess bed capacity also will result in excess personnel. Fewer patients require fewer personnel. The patient population in hospitals for the mentally ill (as noted above) has dropped from 36,800 in 1959 to an estimated 13,650 at present. By June 30, 1971---the end of the forthcoming budget year, the patient population is expected to decline another 2,300 to about 11,350.

This will result in an excess of 1009.8 positions, all in hospitals for the mentally ill. The Department of Mental Hygiene will continue to follow the present policy of abolishing these positions by attrition as they become vacant and by offering any displaced employees jobs in other hospitals as vacancies occur.

THERE WILL BE NO LAYOFFS.

The standards of care now in effect in hospitals for the mentally ill will be maintained, despite the reduction in authorized personnel.

BACKGROUND-ITEMS HIGHLIGHTS

TAX RELIEF

The local assistance portion of the proposed 1970-71 budget includes $319.6 million for homeowner property tax relief and other forms of tax relief. This is $75 million more or 30.7 percent more than the $244.6 million actual expenditures for tax relief in fiscal 1969-70.

Property tax relief for homeowners is up $20 million. The special program of property tax relief for senior citizens is up $1.8 million.

STATE EMPLOYEE SALARIES

The 1970-71 budget includes funds for the equivalent of a 5 percent salary increase for state employees, including academic and non-academic employees of the University of California and the State Colleges. The governor also has expressed his support for increasing the state's contribution to employees' health insurance by $2 per employee during the fiscal year 1970-71 from the present $8 to $10 per employee per month.

MENTAL HEALTH

The budget for 1970-71 includes a total of $291.1/^{million} for mental health, $15.8 million more than the $275.3 million estimated actual expenditures for mental health during the current 1969-70 fiscal year. Actual expenditures is the amount estimated for the various programs after including additional amounts authorized by legislative action. The state is earmarking $172.6/^{million} to finance local mental health services (Lanterman-Petris program, etc.) during 1970-71 or $22 million more than actual expenditures for this purpose in 1969-70.

HIGHER EDUCATION AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS SUPPORT

The 1970-71 budget contains $697 million for higher education (including approximately $30 million for salary increases).

State support for state colleges totals $329 million for fiscal year 1970-71 (including salary increases), an increase of $40 million over the $288.1 earmarked for state colleges in the 1969-70 budget.

The 1970-71 budget allocates $348 million for the University of California, an increase of $18 million over the current fiscal year (counting salary increases).

The budget allocates $16.646 million for the State Scholarship and Loan Commission, $3.035 million more than the amount authorized for student scholarships and loans in fiscal 1969-70.

The amount allocated for community colleges for 1970-71 is $151.983 million (not counting capital construction funds).

The 1970-71 budget proposes an allocation of $1,655.6 million for public schools. This represents a 34.6 percent increase in public school budget allocations over the past four years. It is $33.9 million higher than the authorized General Fund expenditures for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

(Background note: For the past four years, state support for higher education has increased by an aggregate total of 65.2 percent, reflecting the top priority given to higher education.)

SOCIAL WELFARE-MEDI-CAL

The 1970-71 budget earmarks $673 million from state funds for the Department of Social Welfare's various assistance programs. This is an increase of $83 million over comparable expenditures in the current fiscal year. Average monthly caseloads for all assistance programs are expected to total approximately 1.8 million cases or 210,000 more than in 1969-70. This large increase exceeds the amount that should be expected as a consequence of population growth, increase in cost of living and social factors.

Court rulings (such as the Supreme Court decision eliminating all state residency requirements for welfare) contribute to the additional caseload.

Medical assistance (Medi-Cal) will provide benefits to an estimated 2,119,600 persons in fiscal year 1970-71 or 262,700 more than in 1969-70.

Expenditures from state funds for medical assistance are expected to be $453 million in 1970-71, an increase of $65.3 million over the current budget year.

Combined state spending for welfare and medical assistance programs totals $1,126 billion.

"My office and I have been working closely with State Controller Houston Flournoy and Senate President Pro Tem Howard Way and Assembly Speaker Bob Monagan. Together we have developed and are proposing to the legislature what we think is a broad, fair share tax reform program.

"First, it will sharply reduce homeowner's property taxes and it will hold them down. This is an addition to the tax relief now afforded by the $750 exemption. For the overwhelming majority of homeowners, this will mean cuts in their property tax ranging from more than 20 percent in more expensive homes to about 40 percent on lower cost homes. The average taxpayer living in a $20,000 house who now pays a property tax of $500 a year, would have a reduction of $200.

"Second, each renter who files an income tax return will receive a $50 credit against his tax; if he owes less than $50, his entire income tax will be forgiven. (This is over and above the double standard deduction for renters which was provided in 1968)

"Third, we propose a special school equalization program which will produce additional funds for about 80 percent of the 1,144 school districts. The program would increase the foundations support program by placing the first $2.05 in the existing school tax equally behind all the school children in California. I want to stress that this is not a new or additional tax. It is a redirection of existing resources into an equal education opportunity program.

"Fourth, and very important to us, we are proposing an expenditure limit on counties and school districts to guarantee that the property taxes will not go back up following our reductions. Property tax rates would be adjusted annually to population and cost-of-living factors, but beyond those levels they could only be increased by a vote of the people.

"Fifth, the program includes relief of property tax used to pay the cost of welfare programs. This will help all property taxpayers--especially those in agricultural and urban areas with heavy welfare caseloads. The county will pay the first 25-cents of the property tax going to welfare; above that the cost will be borne 70 percent by the state and 30 percent by the counties.

"Also proposed is a uniform sharing ratio between the state and the county for the categorical aid programs, and a shift in Medi-Cal financing that will place greater incentives on holding down these rapidly escalating costs.

"Sixth, the business inventory tax would be permanently reduced to 50 percent. This would provide a stimulus to our economy and thus help attract industry and jobs to California.

"Finally, we propose to mandate the availability of the use-assessment provisions of the Williamson Land Conservation Act, and to provide replacement revenue to the counties. This will help preserve our rapidly disappearing open spaces as well as provide tax relief for agriculture.

"Those are the areas of tax relief--tax cuts, if you will. To pay for these tax cuts, we propose to increase the state sales tax by one cent; and add a new bracket to the personal income tax for joint returns of $32,000 taxable income per year and above; adjust our capital gains treatment to produce an additional $20 million a year; adjust oil depletion allowances to produce another $15 million a year; increase bank and corporations taxes by one-half of one percent per year, and establish a minimum income tax to close the loop-holes where, for example some now pay no tax at all.

"All of these leave roughly $150 million still to be found to offset the reductions in ~~the~~ property tax. We all agreed this should be obtained from the income tax and while this entire program represents a joint effort on this particular point there was no discussion beyond the decision to use the income tax as a source for the remaining replacement revenue. The decision was mine as to the exact way this would be done.

"It is no secret I have always been philosophically opposed to withholding; and yet faced with a choice between a 10 percent increase in the income tax or obtaining the same amount of revenue with no increase in the present rates, I cannot in good conscience advocate the increase. Yesterday morning I informed these gentlemen that today I would propose withholding as the means of making possible the property tax reductions and renter relief we have agreed upon.

"That sound you hear is the concrete cracking around my feet.

"I believe a majority of taxpayers--including many who share my philosophy about withholding--have reluctantly come to the conclusion that inflation and the increased emphasis on the income tax as a source of revenue have made withholding inevitable.

"In recent years the amount of state revenues from the income tax has increased 30 percent. This has accentuated the cash flow problem and forced the state to increase its borrowing during the lean months. There will be a considerable savings to the taxpayers in reduced interest charges as a result of withholding.

"When withholding goes into effect, there is a gigantic windfall in the transition year. We will return this one-time windfall to the taxpayers. A year from this April, each citizen will deduct somewhere in the neighborhood of 40 percent of his tax just as he will deduct 10 percent this April. As nearly as can be figured now the rebate will be more than $400 million.

"Our total fair share tax reform package provides substantial and guaranteed relief to the beleaguered homeowner; it shifts certain tax burdens in an equitable manner; it is fair to the homeowner and the renter and it is fair to business and agriculture; it will close loop-holes; it will improve the method of financing our public schools, and it will help to stimulate our economy and preserve our open spaces."

Governor Ronald Reagan today announced plans for the most intensive and far-reaching Summer-Jobs-For-Youth campaign ever launched in California---with the goal of providing productive and meaningful employment opportunities for every young person willing and able to work.

More than 450,000 young people, 16-21 years of age, are expected to seek summer jobs this year, he said.

John T. Hay, general manager of the California State Chamber of Commerce, who directed Governor Reagan's Summer-Jobs-For-Youth campaign last year, said at least 325,000 young people are known to have been placed in jobs during the overall 1969 summer vacation period.

The governor expressed his appreciation to Hay and others, especially those who served on his blue-ribbon youth employment committee, for their efforts in making last year's summer jobs campaign the success it was.

To oversee and coordinate all aspects of the 1970 effort, Governor Reagan designated Lt. Governor Ed Reinecke to chair a new and larger blue ribbon Committee For Summer Youth Employment, including three of the four persons who served with Hay on last year's committee: Henry Sante of San Francisco, a public accountant and charter member of the Mexican American Political Association; Charles Goady of Oakland, a PG&E executive who has long been active in Bay Area black community affairs; E. James Houseberg of Salinas, executive vice president of the Grower-Shipper Vegetable Association of Central California.

Serving jointly as vice-chairmen under Reinecke will be Ernest Loebbecke, president of the California State Chamber of Commerce; Albin Gruhn, president of the California Federation of Labor-AFL/CIO; and Dr. Richard D. De Lauer, regional chairman of the National Alliance for Businessmen.

Others chosen to serve on the governor's committee are Manuel Dias, vice president, California Federation of Labor-AFL/CIO; Richard Carpenter, general manager, League of California Cities; Daniel Lopez, deputy director, State Department of Human Resources Development; and Einar Mohn, director, Western Conference of Teamsters.

Richmond H. Mallory of Sacramento, an Aerojet-General Corporation executive, will take a leave from the firm to serve as the full-time executive director of the campaign, under Reinecke.

Governor Reagan said the 1970 Summer-Jobs-For-Youth campaign will, for the first time, bring together and coordinate the youth job placement efforts of such diverse organizations as mayors' councils, chambers of commerce, civic and fraternal groups, organized labor, the National Alliance of Businessmen and the State Department of Human Resources Development.

"This single, unified approach promises to improve communications at the community level and eliminate unnecessary duplication of effort, maximizing youth employment opportunities and insuring the most intensive, far-reaching Summer-Jobs-For-Youth campaign ever launched in California," he said.

The governor noted that duplication in job solicitation, multiple listing of employment openings, countless calls by job seekers and competition for youth job placements between various public and private agencies tended to dilute the potential effectiveness of past summer youth employment programs.

"The 1970 campaign represents a blueprint which can, and I am sure will, overcome such weaknesses," he said.

"Our objective this year is to form a single organization in each community and vest in it the authority for coordinating all youth job campaign efforts. Summer youth coordinators will be appointed to carry out the program.

"The major goal of our unified community approach is to promote full participation, support and cooperation between employers, labor unions, all levels of government and civic groups to insure maximum job availability for every young person willing and able to work," the governor added.

The Department of Human Resources Development, through its local employment offices, Service Centers, HRD Centers and Youth Opportunity Centers, will receive the job offers and administer the placement program.

It will also provide technical help to the Governor's Committee and provide liaison between the various job centers. In addition, the department will handle summer youth employment in state agencies.

Special liaison groups will work to make sure that young people in our crowded inner cities are aware of our campaign.

"As in previous years," the governor said, "we are enlisting the help of three outstanding professional athletes. They are Les 'Speedy' Duncan of the San Diego Chargers, Ron 'Pinto' Smith of the Los Angeles Rams and George 'Butch' Atkinson of the Oakland Raiders.

"These men will work in areas where the need is greatest--- personally calling on employers, service groups and the news media to promote the summer job campaign.

"Through the joint efforts of all of us---members of our blue ribbon committee, chambers of commerce, business and professional associations, civic and fraternal organizations, young people throughout the state, and the tens of thousands of employers in California's business and governmental sectors---I am confident that our 1970 Summer-Jobs-For-Youth campaign can be far and away the most successful ever.

"Again, let me strongly urge every employer to take a hard and close look at those jobs which can surely be provided---where real work is involved to justify the pay---and then match them, wherever and whenever possible, to the employment needs of our young people.

"I can think of no better way to emphasize the merit of our free enterprise system," the governor said.

"By now, you are familiar with last week's Superior Court ruling in Los Angeles which would have the effect of requiring compulsory bussing of school children throughout the Los Angeles City Schools system.

"The far-reaching implications of this judicial ruling are of deep concern to most Californians, of all ethnic backgrounds, in every sector of the state.

"Mandatory bussing will shatter the concept of the neighborhood school as the cornerstone of our educational system. What is worse, it will seriously undermine all efforts to improve the quality of our public schools.

"School officials in Los Angeles will be forced to siphon off an estimated $42 million to pay for bussing during the first year alone.

"The same $42 million would pay for hiring 4,200 new teachers.

"Over the first eight years of the bussing program, an estimated $200 million of taxpayers' money will be diverted from education to this totally unnecessary and unwanted moving of children from their home neighborhoods.

"To those who think we are making too much of this, let me point out that the court ruling would make bussing mandatory--a top priority--at the expense of such educational items as new classrooms, books, instructional aids, and maintenance. This utterly ridiculous judicial decision, which is questionable as to its legality, can only hamper the quality of education our children receive and deprive them of the natural environment of the neighborhood school.

"Now I know there are those who will charge that opposing compulsory bussing is somehow equivalent to encouraging discrimination. But those who make such a charge lack understanding of the real needs of our children whatever their race or ethnic background.

"It was best explained by a mother who told me that what she really wanted was a better education for her child in the neighborhood school he was attending. She said, 'We want teachers to keep our children in a grade until they learn what they are supposed to learn in that grade. We want an end to passing them simply because they've come to the end of the year.'

"The fact is, some of the most innovative and forward-looking projects for minority children in our public schools would be imperiled if bussing becomes mandatory. For example, what would happen to the vital teaching program for youngsters of Mexican descent in Los Angeles schools which is now underway? More than 600 bilingual specialists have been assigned to neighborhood schools in Spanish-speaking areas of the city to assist in resolving these youngsters' language problems---at the most critical period in their educational lives.

"It is no wonder that so many parents of Mexican descent are opposed to bussing.

"Indeed, over the past three years I have talked with countless citizens from all minority groups in the state and I believe the vast majority hold the same view.

"Somehow I doubt that in the separation of powers, the judiciary was intended to legislate or run our schools. The 1964 Civil Rights Act is very explicit in its denial of compulsory bussing to achieve a social balance.

"Forced bussing is not a promise of improved education. It only promises to jeopardize educational quality by diverting funds which would otherwise be used for true educational purposes.

"Forcing children to be herded onto buses and carted across town each day--away from their familiar home environments--represents a vast and dehumanizing manipulation of school populations.

"Because I believe that last week's court ruling in Los Angeles poses such a serious threat to the preservation of educational quality in our public schools, I have asked the State Department of Education to explore and recommend all possible alternatives to mandatory bussing.

"Furthermore, I have directed my legal staff to take all possible action to assist the Los Angeles Board of Education in its efforts to appeal the decision.

"In the meantime, it will be the continuing policy of this administration to vigorously oppose--by all^{legal}/means--the forced bussing of California school children."

Governor Ronald Reagan today praised President Nixon for a quick response in declaring 14 flood-stricken Northern California counties a major disaster area and ordered state teams into the field to cooperate in providing relief services to victims.

"This action by the President makes it possible for flood victims to immediately begin the work of rebuilding and it provides them with relief services that range from the removal of debris to unemployment compensation," the governor said.

He also announced that a state support team, headed by State Disaster Office Director Charles P. Samson, has joined federal teams to assist in the recovery programs. It will operate out of a joint OEP Disaster Field Office in the Shasta County Courthouse in Redding.

Federal and state teams will brief local government officials on requirements for aid at meetings to be held Wednesday in Redding, Thursday in Oroville and Friday in Lake County, Samson said.

Governor Reagan proclaimed the 14 counties a disaster area on January 27 and on February 3 and asked the President to make his declaration to qualify flood victims for additional federal aid.

Attorney General John Mitchell:

"Monday, the citizens of Berkeley were once again subjected to a series of savage and senseless acts of sabotage and terrorism by rampaging bands of vandals. One Bay Area newspaper called it 'one of the worst riots in Berkeley's history.'

"The indiscriminate destruction caused by the unprovoked mob violence of these street guerrillas and anarchist revolutionaries will exceed $100,000.

"Six Berkeley policemen were injured, several seriously, while attempting to carry out their duties to protect life and property.

"On the same day, a bomb planted in a San Francisco police station exploded and sent shrapnel ripping into walls and police officers, killing one officer and wounding eight others, some seriously.

"Only three days earlier, last Friday, two other bombs detonated in the parking lot of the Berkeley Police Department. One officer was seriously wounded, six others were injured, and three cars were destroyed.

"Other outbreaks of guerrilla terrorism and mob violence occurred this week at other locations around California as well as in Seattle and New York.

"There is evidence that at least the Berkeley riot was not spontaneous, but was well planned in advance. This city has suffered from a long series of violent confrontations planned by mindless revolutionaries who are dedicated to the overthrow of our democratic system of government and free way of life.

"The enclosed report of my staff on the Peoples' Park riot details some of this history.

"State government and local law enforcement agencies in California are doing all in their power to bring to a halt these violent confrontations.

"We intend to continue in these efforts.

"However, to enhance the effectiveness of our own actions at the state and local levels, I am requesting that the Department of Justice immediately convene a federal grand jury, and that your agency begin an investigation as soon as possible to determine whether there have been any violations of federal laws by those persons fomenting and participating in these riots, and, in particular, whether any of the individuals involved in this recent terrorism crossed state lines to incite riots, or for other unlawful purposes.

"I strongly believe that the recent violence by the mob in Berkeley, including its identifiable leaders, willfully violated the civil rights of literally hundreds of law-abiding citizens.

"I, therefore, urgently request that the investigation of the Justice Department include an immediate, thorough and continuing inquiry into the cowardly acts of terrorism and destruction I have cited.

"The people of California have simply had enough of this sort of thing. They are fed up with the continuing assaults against their personal safety and property and against their law enforcement officers."

Governor Ronald Reagan today reappointed William French Smith, Edwin W. Pauley and Robert O. Reynolds to the University of California Board of Regents.

Pauley, who has served on the board for 30 years, twice as its chairman, will fill out the balance of the term currently held by Reynolds, which expires March 1, 1972.

Reynolds, along with Smith, is being named to a full 16-year term. The appointments are effective March 1.

Smith, 52, is a prominent Los Angeles attorney and civic leader. He has been a regent since December, 1968, when he was named to succeed Mrs. Dorothy B. Chandler who resigned after 14 years on the board.

Reynolds, a 55-year-old Los Angeles business executive, was first appointed to the board in January, 1969, to fill out the term of Regent Samuel B. Mosher who resigned.

Governor Reagan lauded Pauley for his "long and dedicated service as a regent of the university over the past three decades.

"He is truly a pillar of the University of California, and I am very pleased that he will continue to serve as a member of its governing board," the governor said.

Pauley, 67, is a 1922 graduate of the University of California at Berkeley where he received a Master of Science degree one year late.

He was named to the Board of Regents by Governor Culbert Olson in 1940. As a regent, he twice bestowed honorary degrees on presidents of the United States---President Kennedy in 1962, and President Johnson two years later.

He served as chairman of the Board of Regents from 1956-58 and again from 1960-62.

He is founder and chairman of the board of Pauley Petroleum, Inc., Los Angeles. In addition, he is a director of Western Airlines, Inc., and is a member of the boards of trustees of Occidental and Pepperdine Colleges, and of the governing board of Georgia Military Academy.

From 1945-47, he served as United States representative, with the rank of ambassador, to the Reparations Commission. He also was an advisor to the secretary of state on economic affairs, and a special assistant to the secretary of the army, in 1947.

Pauley lives in Los Angeles.

Smith graduated summa cum laude from the University of California at Los Angeles in 1939. Three years later, he took his law degree from Harvard University,

He is a senior partner in the Los Angeles law firm of Gibson, Dunn and Crutcher.

A World War II naval officer, Smith was named a director of the California State Chamber of Commerce in 1963. He served on the California Congressional Recognition Council from 1957-60 and from 1964-66.

He is a former national vice president and chairman of the Harvard Law School Association of Southern California.

Reynolds, a 1936 graduate of Stanford University, is president of the California Angels Baseball Club, of which he is a part owner. Prior to devoting his full time to the Angels ballclub, in the summer of 1968, he served as president of Golden West Broadcasters, a group of radio stations, for 16 years.

Reynolds has been active in Los Angeles community affairs for many years, having served a lengthy term as president of the board of Webb School in Claremont, a private boys' preparatory school.

He also is a past director of the Stanford Alumni Association.

"As you know I have submitted to the legislature a battle plan for an all-out war on drug abuse.

"This is a war in every sense of the word because our future as a free society could well depend upon the outcome. There can be no compromise with the menace of drug abuse. If we surrender, we run the very real risk of losing an entire generation.

"Therefore, I have asked for the cooperation of all federal, state and local agencies and I have asked educators, the medical profession, drug manufacturers, law enforcement officers and every citizen to enlist in this fight.

"The task of marshalling these forces will be handled by the State Office of Narcotics and Drug Abuse Coordination which I have created by executive order.

"The man who heads this ~~department~~, and will serve as field commander of this campaign, must have very special qualifications.

"He must have knowledge of the entire drug scene. He must be able to work with educators, legislators, law enforcement agencies and all those concerned with the problem---especially our youth who are the chief targets of the drug pushers.

"But most important of all, he must be totally dedicated to this fight against drug abuse.

"Today I am happy to announce that we completed our search for the man we believe has these unique qualifications.

"I am pleased to announce the appointment of Arthur Suddjian as Coordinator of the State Department of Narcotics and Drug Abuse Coordination.

"I am going to ask Human Relations Secretary Lucian Vandegrift to introduce Art because his office will be located in the Human Relations Agency.

"The majority of the state departments already actively engaged in fighting narcotics addiction and drug abuse are located in the agency, including Corrections, Youth Authority, Mental Hygiene, Public Health and Rehabilitation.

"But before I introduce Van, I want to say a few words about Art.

"Art is a former police officer, a correctional officer, and an educator who has helped to establish drug abuse prevention and education programs throughout the state. In addition he has served as a consultant on drug abuse problems to governors of seven western states.

"He is an active participant in state and national conferences on problems on drug addiction. He has served on several state commissions concerned with the problem and he participated in Operation Intercept--- a program to stop the trans-border shipment of dangerous drugs. And he is a consultant to the Commission of the Californias---an organization of state and Mexican law enforcement, public health and education officials who are tackling the problem on an international scale.

"I would like to mention one more thing before I ask Lucian to introduce Art.

"In 1968, Art was named 'Man of the Year' ~~by the PTA~~ for his community youth work.

We expect that he will be our 'Man of the Year' for this campaign."

"Just a month ago---on January 22---I urged the legislature to pass the most comprehensive and far-reaching Omnibus Clean Air Law to battle smog ever proposed by any state or nation.

"The provisions of such legislation, based on the findings and recommendations of our Air Resources Board, would give us the tools we need to enforce drastic reductions in smog emissions from automobile engines during the decade of the 70s and could cut hydrocarbon fumes more than 80 percent and reduce nitrogen oxides in the air by at least half, by the year 1980. As you know, these are the principal ingredients of automobile-produced smog.

"In spite of the increased number of cars and trucks on our highways smog is on the decline in California.

"We can and must help speed that decline.

"For this reason, I am today taking the unusual step of calling on the State Air Resources Board and its technical advisory committee to convene a special two-day session in Sacramento, March 4 and 5, which could provide the impetus necessary to further speed the decline of smog caused by automobiles.

"Top executives of the nation's major automobile manufacturing firms and oil refining companies are being invited to this special meeting to discuss the feasibility of significantly increasing the use of lead-free gasolines in new cars sold in California. The heads of the Ethyl Corporation and the DuPont Company---producers of the lead compounds used in fuel---are also being asked to participate.

"In addition, we are hopeful that these leaders will be able to bring key members of their technical staffs.

"Engines with high compression ratios, in many of today's new automobiles, require the use of gasolines containing lead compounds---or in everyday language, ethyl. Although such engines ^{provide} promise high performance, they produce substantially greater amounts of nitrogen oxide fumes.

"During the past several weeks, the Air Resources Board has noted reports from auto manufacturers of the need for engines to operate on non-leaded gasolines, if they are to meet California's increasingly tougher emission standards. At the same time, the board has received other reports that some petroleum companies may be planning to market better lead-free gasolines, thus reducing the need for engines with high compression ratios.

"Because these reports raise many important questions about the availability of fuel and the prospects for greatly improved automobile smog control systems, it is imperative that the top officials of our auto and oil refining industries come together in a single forum to fully and frankly discuss their problems and needs with us.

"This will enable our Air Resources Board and its technical advisory committee to act as a focal point for working closely with both sides.

"I am confident that the knowledge to be gained from this special session of the Air Resources Board will contribute greatly to our ability to insure the decline of air pollution in the skies above California."

Governor Reagan is enroute to Santa Barbara to
Courthouse at approximately 2:30 p.m.

Governor Ronald Reagan flew to Santa Barbara County Thursday afternoon to confer with local officials about the rioting and burning at Isla Vista. Following the meeting, the governor issued this statement:

"Throughout last night and into the early hours of this morning, a lawless mob of approximately 1,000 persons roamed through the town of Isla Vista in Santa Barbara County committing wanton acts of violence and destruction. This mob engaged in such criminal offenses as arson, felonious assault, rioting, and the malicious destruction of property.

"In response to the request of local authorities, I ordered officers of the California Highway Patrol into the area to provide mutual aid to the Sheriff's officers and police departments from Santa Barbara County and the surrounding cities and counties who joined together to meet this attack on the peace and order of that community.

"To prevent any reoccurrence of the tragic and useless events of last night, I am now taking the following ^{additional} steps:

"(1) At the request of local authorities, I am declaring a state of extreme emergency in Isla Vista and the surrounding area.

"(2) Sufficient California Highway Patrol officers--and the National Guard if needed--are being ordered into Santa Barbara County to insure the protection of life and property.

"(3) In cooperation with the Board of Supervisors and sheriff of Santa Barbara County, we are developing special emergency regulations which would prohibit the forming of mobs on the streets or in public places throughout the period of this emergency.

"(4) I have asked the state attorney general to assist local law enforcement in the investigation of yesterday's events, leading to the identification of those who incited and led the rioting, so that they may be arrested and prosecuted for their crimes. This will include an investigation of the conduct of William ^{Kunstler} Kuntzler, the figure involved in the recent Chicago conspiracy trials, who spoke on the campus of the University of California at Santa Barbara immediately prior to the rioting, to determine whether or not he participated in, encouraged, or advocated the lawless conduct that followed his speech.

"At the same time, I would like to point out that a number of UC Santa Barbara students were reported as assisting law enforcement officers in urging the rioters to leave, in helping extinguish fires and generally attempting to ease tensions. I would like to congratulate those students for their mature and responsible action."
