Governor Ronald Reagan today announced the following bills have been signed:

AB 61 - Chappie

Authorizes a board of supervisors to compel by ordinance the owner, lessee, or occupant of specified property in the county to remove dirt, rubbish, weeds or other rank growth from such property and adjacent sidewalks. The bill also allows the board to prescribe, by ordinance, the procedure for such removal or destruction.

AB 76 - Schabarum
(Chapter 155)

Prohibits the sale and registration in California of any new motor vehicle required to meet emission standards unless the manufacturer has securely affixed thereto a decal showing the applicable exhaust emission standards and the exhaust emissions of the engine and transmission combination determined by tests or certification fleet tests. New car dealers selling an automobile without the decal will be subject to a civil penalty not to exceed $1,000.

AB 77 - Schabarum
(Chapter 156)

Authorizes the Air Resources Board to revise its test procedures for new motor vehicles when warranted by scientific developments, to establish new revised standards for emissions from motor vehicles tested under these new procedures and to express these new standards in different terms and numerical values than those in existing law or regulation. In no case may the new standards be less stringent than existing standards.

AB 107 - Wood
(Chapter 157)

Includes reuse or reclamation of water sought to be appropriated as a specifically mentioned relative benefit to be derived from appropriated water, which the State Water Resources Control Board is required to consider in acting upon applications to appropriate water.

AB 116 - Veysey
(Chapter 158)

Provides that the city council shall be the supervisory authority of a recreation and park district if the district is a subsidiary district of any city, pursuant to the District Reorganization Act of 1965.

AB 142 - Foran
(Chapter 159)

Requires the California Highway Patrol to adopt reasonable regulations establishing specifications and standards for safety helmets offered for sale, or sold, for use by motorcycle operators and passengers. The bill prohibits the sale, or offer for sale, for use by motorcycle operators and passengers, any safety helmet which is not of the type approved by the Department.

Adds flour and protein concentrate and animal food to the list of fish products for which specified information, such as origin block of catch and type of gear used, is required. The bill also requires that the master of any vessel operating with a trawl net must complete a trawler log furnished by the Department of Fish and Game and submit it by the tenth day of each month rather than by the fifteenth.

AB 214 - Dunlap

Declares a portion of the Napa-Vallejo Highway between Rio Del Mar and Kelly Road to be a county road for purpose of being eligible for grade separation funds.

AB 237 - Barnes

(Chapter 165) Allows a city to annex territory owned by the State of California, if the state consents and if the territory is contiguous, in the same county, and not a part of any other city.
- AB 436 - Deddeh
(Chapter 166) Provides that a nonresident entitled to exemptions may operate a motor vehicle in California for a period not to exceed 10 days from the date he established residence in this state, except if he is employed for compensation for the purpose of driving. The bill also provides that a nonresident from a foreign jurisdiction, holding a valid license issued by a jurisdiction having licensing standards deemed equivalent to those in this state, may drive without obtaining a California driver's license, except if he accepts employment to drive for compensation.
- AB 472 - Biddle
(Chapter 167) Eliminates the six months minimum confinement period prior to release in outpatient status of persons confined in the California Rehabilitation Center.
- AB 473 - Biddle

The award of the B-1 contract to a California firm was hailed today by Governor Ronald Reagan as a "strong example of what men like Senator George Murphy can mean to our state.

"Senator Murphy worked vigorously to point out to the Administration that California's aerospace industry is the most talented in the United States and would be the logical choice for developing and manufacturing this new aircraft.

"He held long discussions with top officials in Washington to secure this award. As a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Senator Murphy's value to California is again demonstrated by the award of this contract to our state.

"I am, of course, extremely pleased that California has been selected.

"The 43,000 new jobs this important contract will bring our people will provide a strong shot in the arm to California's economy.

"Working with Senator Murphy, members of the national Republican administration, and the Department of Defense, we have long stressed that California's aerospace industry merited strong consideration in those deliberations which led to the award of the B-1 contract.

"California has led the way in aerospace and military technology for many years. Today's decision bears out the deserving recognition our aerospace industry has received by our nation's leaders in Washington.

"But even more important, the decision demonstrates the value of the close working relationship between our state administration, Senator Murphy and the national administration."

Governor Ronald Reagan today issued the following statement:

"To open the press conference, I would like to comment briefly on the state's current financial situation and those measures we have proposed to the legislature for meeting the budget requirements of the coming fiscal year.

"As you know, yesterday Finance Director Verne Orr went before the fiscal committees of the Senate and Assembly to outline the administration's recommendations for overcoming a projected $141 million imbalance in revenues and expenditures for fiscal 1970-71.

"He pointed out that the cause of the problem is two-fold: a shocking $70 million increase in welfare and Medi-Cal costs; and an estimated $71 million decline in revenues to the state caused by a cooling of the economy.

"To bring the budget into balance, several alternatives were open.

"First, we could have simply proposed a $141 million tax increase to make up for the deficit. This is traditionally government's way of meeting financial crises of such magnitude.

"Or, we could have proposed a combination of increased taxes and budget cuts.

"Neither of these alternatives was acceptable. We chose instead to reduce the budget. We will not increase the California taxpayers' burden to solve this problem. Balancing the state budget must be done by bringing the cost of government within the amount of money available.

"Now let me point out once again the part played by runaway welfare costs in this problem.

"Without sacrificing the quality of service, we have shaved to the bone the cost of running those departments and agencies of state government over which we exercise direct control. Indeed our continuing economies and departmental savings reduced the projected deficit by many millions of dollars. It is the third year in a row where savings in the cost of government which could have reduced the taxpayers' burden have instead been swallowed up by excessive increases in the cost of welfare and Medi-Cal.

"I have already submitted welfare reform legislation which could save roughly $100 million.

"The people deeply resent the reports of welfare abuse they read in the press---abuses which make it possible for hundreds of full-time public employees with salaries as high as $14,000 a year to legally receive welfare payments.

"They question how it is that the average Medi-Cal patient can receive more than twice as much money per year for medical care as the average person who is not on public assistance.

"I have asked Bob Martin to exercise his authority as director of the Department of Social Welfare to make whatever changes in state regulations are legally possible and appropriate to tighten the state's administration of welfare.

"We also are redoubling our efforts to seek changes in federal welfare laws and regulations which are overly restrictive and unnecessarily costly. Where it is not possible to change such regulations through negotiation with the federal government, we are prepared to go to court."

Governor Ronald Reagan today appealed to business and industry to support the 1970 Summer Jobs for Youth Program.

The campaign, headed by Lieutenant Governor Ed Reinecke, is a combined effort by the private sector and federal and state agencies to find summer employment for 400,000 young people.

"While a very small minority grab the headlines for disruptive acts on the campus, the vast majority of our young are dedicated to obtaining an education and are willing to work hard to finance it.

"I urge all Californians to support them and their goals by reviewing their business needs in the hope of discovering jobs which can be filled during the summer months," the governor said.

He pointed out that federal and state agencies have already made thousands of summer jobs available to young people. But he stressed the campaign must have the support of all segments of society.

"This is a golden opportunity for business and industry to demonstrate that they have faith in the young citizens who are showing their faith in them," Governor Reagan said.

Governor Ronald Reagan today announced California has been selected for a unique federal-state research project to determine the relationship between air pollution and highway design and location.

The study, the most comprehensive of its type in the nation, will be conducted by the California State Department of Public Works, assisted by the State Air Resources Board. Financial and technical support will come from the Federal Highway Administration and the National Air Pollution Control Administration.

"For the first time we will be able to gather information on the location and design of freeways that can be matched with facts on smog emissions," the governor said. "I am pleased that California, which is the recognized leader in the fight against air pollution, has this opportunity to establish another pattern for the nation to follow in its fight for clean air."

The research project was first proposed by Director of Public Works James A. Moe to federal highway officials in January and received the endorsement of the California Environmental Quality Study Council.

The study will cost approximately $700,000 with $400,000 of the amount to be made available over a three-year-period by the Federal Highway Administration. Additional support in manpower, instrumentation and funds will be provided by the National Air Pollution Control Association, the governor said.

The smog research project will be coordinated with the state's Los Angeles Freeway Surveillance and Control Project along a 42-mile loop of freeway in the central Los Angeles area.

The surveillance project was initiated by the state 18 months ago to study the traffic flow in an effort to get maximum use of roads under a variety of freeway conditions. Portions of the San Diego, Santa Monica and Harbor Freeways, which are typical of freeway conditions throughout the state, are included in the study.

Governor Ronald Reagan today commended the Nixon administration for proposing federal legislation to create a National Energy Reserve off the Santa Barbara coast and pledged the state's full cooperation in helping to make the plan a reality.

The president's proposal would create a 16 mile wide marine sanctuary---seaward from the present state sanctuaries---off the Santa Barbara coast, and cancel 20 existing oil leases in the planned reserve.

Governor Reagan said that such state sanctuaries have existed since 1955 and noted that he had urged the Nixon administration to establish a similar sanctuary.

"The Nixon plan, which dovetails closely with legislation now before Congress by Senator George Murphy, promises to complement the state's efforts to protect and preserve the environment in the Santa Barbara coastal area," the governor said.

Governor Reagan noted that last year the State of California halted the issuance of exploratory oil drilling permits on state tidelands.

In addition, he pointed out that his administration sponsored important legislation, now in effect, which:

--Requires the testing and certification of oil dispersing agents for use against oil pollution.

--Requires that companies responsible for oil spills pay the full cost of cleanup (Porter-Cologne Act).

Governor Ronald Reagan today promoted Kenneth F. Hall, a key administration aide since January, 1967, to the position of State Deputy Director of Finance. The appointment is effective July 1.

Hall, 32, has served as assistant secretary of the State Agriculture and Services Agency for the past two years. He previously worked as assistant cabinet secretary to the governor.

He succeeds Kirk West in the $28,500-a-year post. West is resigning to accept an appointment as deputy state controller.

In his new job, Hall will work directly under State Finance Director Verne Orr.

Governor Reagan and Orr called Hall "an extremely able and energetic young man with a proven capacity for leadership."

In welcoming Hall to his new assignment, they also expressed deep appreciation to West for "his outstanding performance as deputy director of finance during the past year and a half.

"We look forward to the same kind of close working relationship with him in the future as he assumes his important new responsibilities in the Controller's Office."

West joined the administration in October, 1967, as assistant to the Secretary of the State Resources Agency. He previously served as research director for the Republican State Central Committee from 1963-66 and then as senior consultant to the Assembly Minority in Sacramento.

Hall, a native of Pasadena, received his bachelor's degree from the University of Redlands in 1960. While at Redlands, he was one of a hundred students selected from across the nation to spend a year in Washington, D.C., studying the federal political process. He was the recipient of a Ford Foundation Fellowship grant for graduate work at the University of Southern California where he received his Master's Degree in political science.

He served as an administrative assistant to Assemblyman Newton Russell (R-Tujunga) from 1964-66 and joined the Reagan administration as a special assistant to the governor in January, 1967.

He was promoted to assistant cabinet secretary in September, 1967.

As assistant secretary of the Agriculture and Services Agency since September, 1968, he has helped to coordinate cabinet policy for the 12 departments within the agency. He has also been responsible for liaison between the administration and state employee organizations, including the California State Employees' Association.

He is a member of Pi Sigma Alpha, a national political science honorary society, and People to People Inc., an organization which hosts international visitors to California's capital city.

He and his wife, Lynn, have two children. They live at 5208 Carrington Street, Sacramento.

Governor Ronald Reagan today joined Vice President Agnew in saying that if remarks attributed to a Harvard University student just appointed to the President's Commission on Campus Unrest are correct, the youth should resign.

Governor Reagan was referring to Joseph Rhodes Jr., 22, a junior fellow at Harvard who was named to the Commission last Saturday.

At the same time, the governor said it was regrettable that at least some of the press failed to report one of the reasons the Vice President gave in suggesting the resignation.

In the third paragraph of his statement, the vice president said Rhodes has been quoted as saying, "Governor Ronald Reagan was bent on killing people for his own political gain." The quote appeared in the June 15 edition of the New York Times.

"If that quote is correct," Governor Reagan said, "then there should be no question that Rhodes should resign. Such distorted and completely absurd statements clearly show that he lacks both the judgment and the objectivity to sit on a presidential commission.

"However, I am also distressed that at least some of the press failed to report that quotation as repeated by the Vice President because it is imperative that the American people know the facts and the caliber of the people who are to study one of the most serious issues facing our country."

Governor Ronald Reagan today signed into law a bill he proposed last January which immediately channels $16.5 million in state funds for classroom construction in a dozen school districts throughout the state.

At a special ceremony in his office, the governor said:

"The additional classrooms this money will help to build will go a long way toward relieving the need for double and triple sessions in school districts most critically affected---those experiencing the most rapid growth in the state."

(AB-74, Crandall)

The bill puts the $16.5 million in the form of a loan to the State Local Allocations Board which will be repaid out of the proceeds of yesterday's favorable school bond sale conducted by State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest.

The bond funds are expected to be available to the state in July.

As a result, the $16.5 million repayment will be used to build additional classrooms on a number of community college campuses. These projects will be selected by the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges.

"The double effectiveness of this plan insures absolute maximum utilization of state funds currently on hand for school construction purposes," the governor said.

"Certainly, the additional facilities required to meet the mushrooming enrollment needs of the community colleges are of equal importance to the continued progress of our overall system of public higher education in California."

Governor Reagan listed the following school districts as those designated by the Local Allocations Board for the $16.5 million in construction aid:

Napa Valley Unified, Napa County	$7,761,483.22
Geyserville Unified, Sonoma County	861,565.04
Igo-Ono Platina, Shasta County	60,000.00

Governor Ronald Reagan today signed into law a key element in his 1970 consumer protection legislative program---a bill to permit the adoption of high safety standards for all tires used on motor vehicles in the state.

He noted that California law does not now prescribe such standards for vehicle tires after they have been sold or installed for the first time.

"This legislation (AB-733, Lewis) will better protect tire users throughout the state by filling this void and prohibiting the sale of used and recap tires which fail to meet high safety standards set by the California Highway Patrol," he said.

"In addition, it will define the minimum amount of tire tread and durability necessary for a vehicle to operate safely on our streets and highways.

"This is an important step forward---not only in our administration's efforts to protect consumers, but also in strengthening the state's overall highway safety program.

"In the final analysis, the law will help to save lives, and that is the most compelling reason of all for its enactment," the governor said.

This bill is intended to insure that district attorneys and county auditors will be paid for the month of June.

Governor Ronald Reagan today issued the following statement:

"Good afternoon. I'd like to start off with some comments about financing our public schools---grades k through 12.

"No one can show with any degree of certainty the actual financial needs of the schools or whether their needs are due to insufficient money or mismanagement of the money now being received. Nevertheless, more money must be provided in the coming year.

"But there is one thing I want to make absolutely clear here and now---more money is needed this year to solve their immediate needs. Today I suggested to the chairman of the Budget Conference Committee a cost of living increase for California's public schools which can be financed in next year's budget. I have proposed the legislature follow the 5 percent cost of living increase which has been applied to other state departments. This, however, is offered only as a guideline for their deliberation.

"I have also suggested methods of financing this increase through budget cuts, a re-ordering of priorities within the budget and pending legislation which would make money available for the schools. Some of this would be one time money but this is a one time funding to meet the present crisis without an increase in the present tax burden.

"We intend to cooperate with the legislature in a reorganization of the basic structure of educational finance and school administration to provide modern and efficient management techniques.

"This would include a management performance auditing function responsible, among other things, for establishing management standards for school districts and for rating the efficiency as well as the efforts of individual school districts.

"Additionally, a master plan for k-through-12---similar to the master plan for higher education---should be prepared to determine the goals the public schools should meet during the '70s.

"Modification of the certification requirements for administrators, thereby utilizing management rather than educational skills in operating a school district, also is necessary. And revision of the reading achievement tests so that meaningful ratings of students in each district can be made known to parents, students and taxpayers should be accomplished.

"While these tools will be of great assistance, by themselves they will not solve the problem of school finance.

"I am therefore also proposing that the executive and legislative branches of government work together to find long-range solutions. Simplified state funding formulas, block grants, coordination of budget cycles, reforms in the education code and experimentation and innovation are among the items that must be presented to the legislature next year for a really meaningful overhaul of public school education.

"Finally, I hope and trust that all of us, in government and out, will join in a common effort to meet these challenges and to assure the taxpayers of California that they are getting the greatest benefit for their tax dollars."

Governor Ronald Reagan today issued the following statement
after meeting with relatives of American prisoners of war in Southeast Asia:

"Once again I want to appeal to all those in public office to join in urging the repatriation of American prisoners of war in Southeast Asia.

"The continued imprisonment of 1,600 brave men--more than 400 of them Californians--in violation of international law is the concern of all Americans and it should be the concern of people everywhere who believe in freedom.

"Their release is a matter that transcends politics and differing points of view on our involvement in Southeast Asia.

"We must make it clear to Hanoi that we are speaking with one voice when we ask for the release of these prisoners.

"I am writing to our two United States Senators and our California Congressional Delegation to ask that they support this cause."

REPRESENTATIVE ELECTION FOR AGRICULTURAL WORKERS CONDUCTED BY STATE CONCILIATION SERVICE

SUBMITTED BY GOVERNOR RONALD REAGAN JUNE 30, 1970

PURPOSE:

In order to effectuate the policy of the State of California as expressed in Section 923 of the Labor Code, and to encourage peaceful settlement of labor disputes, provision is hereby made for the conduct of representative elections for agricultural employees by the State Conciliation Service to be carried out pursuant to agreements entered into between employers and labor organizations.

BY WHOM CONDUCTED:

All such elections shall be conducted by the State Conciliation Service in accordance with the rules, regulations and procedures of that Service.

AGREEMENT NECESSARY:

The services of the Conciliation Service in conducting such elections shall be available only when the employer and the labor organization involved have entered into an agreement for the conduct of such an election.

CONTENTS OF AGREEMENT:

Such an agreement shall cover and shall bind both parties with respect to the following:

- (1) The unit shall be the individual farm operated by the employer upon which the employees sought to be represented by the union perform agricultural services.
- (2) The time and place of the election shall be as determined by the Conciliation Service.
- (3) The persons eligible to vote shall be those agricultural employees employed in the unit in question who were on the payroll for the period just previous to the date of the agreement and who have been on said payroll for such period as determined by the Conciliation Service.
- (4) The ballot shall be secret and the wording of the ballot shall be as determined by the Conciliation Service.
- (5) The language or languages to be used on the ballot shall be as determined by the Conciliation Service.
- (6) Acceptance by both parties of the results of the election as determined and certified by the Conciliation Service.

(7) Recognition by the employer of the union as the sole and exclusive bargaining agent for all the employees in the unit if the union won the election and was certified by the Conciliation Service; such recognition to continue during the period of any contract entered into or until a subsequent election is agreed upon, but if no election is agreed upon, for a period not to exceed one year.

(8) The obligation of the employer to meet at reasonable times and at reasonable places with the union certified by the Conciliation Service and to discuss the terms and conditions of employment of the employees represented.

(9) The obligation of the union to refrain from any strike or other coercive activities during the time such discussions are continuing, and the obligation of the employer to refrain from any lockout during this period of time.

(10) The obligation of the union, if rejected by the employees, not to seek to organize the employees of that employer nor to exert any coercive action against the employer for a period of one year from the date of the certification of the results of the election, and the right of the employers to obtain immediate injunctive relief in the event of a violation of this obligation.

(11) Acceptance by both parties of the decision of the Conciliation Service with respect to all challenged ballots.

Governor Ronald Reagan today issued the following statement to the press:

"Two months ago I urged passage by the Congress of farm labor legislation authored by Senator George Murphy of California. I have repeatedly stressed the need for provisions such as those contained in the Murphy bill to guarantee farm workers the right to organize and to select by secret ballot the union, if any, of their choice.

"Unfortunately the Congress has not as yet enacted the legislation to make this possible. In the interim, to provide a means by which farm workers may express their desire for union membership, I am making available the Conciliation Service of the State Department of Industrial Relations to supervise any election requested by the workers, or their representative, and the employer. This will provide the means for settling---voluntarily---the present fresh grape controversy---by providing for free elections, using secret ballots, which will enable farm workers to choose which, if any, union they wish to join.

"I am, therefore, calling on all those involved in this controversy--the farmer, the worker, the union representative, the clergy, and the store which sells fresh produce---to find a solution which does not destroy an entire industry and the jobs it normally provides.

"Since there are now no established rules of procedure for conducting elections involving agricultural workers, I have submitted a set of procedures which the Conciliation Service will use in supervising such elections.

"I have asked Earl Coke, secretary of the Agriculture and Services Agency, to answer any questions you may have on this subject."
