Governor Ronald Reagan today announced the appointment of Barry D. Whittlesey of Carmichael as state director of housing and community development.

The appointment, requiring Senate confirmation, carries an annual salary of $28,296. Whittlesey will serve at the pleasure of the governor.

Currently the state Department of Health's deputy director for legislation, Whittlesey succeeds Robert J. DeMonte, now director of the governor's office of planning and research.

The 50-year-old Republican has been with the Health Department since last March, after joining the state Health and Welfare Agency as assistant to the secretary for legislation in 1971. For seven years before that, he was an administrative assistant to Senator Gordon Cologne.

Between 1958 and 1964, Whittlesey was assistant city manager and planning director for the cities of Indio and Colton.

The long-time Coachella Valley resident served four years during World War II as an enlisted man in the U.S. Navy and two years as a commissioned officer following his graduation from Annapolis in 1949.

Whittlesey had his own insurance business in the early 1950s. He ran unsuccessfully for the 75th Assembly District seat in 1970.

His many community activities included serving on the President's Community Lay Committee for Education and the Citizens' Committee for Master Plan Development. He has held offices in the American Legion, Indio Exchange Club, Coachella Valley Advisory Planning Committee and was a district deputy for the BPO Elks.

Whittlesey has been a member of the Republican State Central Committee since 1964.

HIGHLIGHTS
LOCAL ASSISTANCE BUDGET

The governor's Local Assistance Budget for 1974-75 increases state contributions to local government by 3.8 percent, from $6,360,210,784 (1973-74) to $6,599,800,515 (1974-75)

EDUCATION (K-14)

The proposed governor's budget includes approximately $2.662 billion for financing both local elementary and secondary schools, grades K-12, and community colleges, grades 13 and 14.

Of this total, $2.166 billion is allocated for direct local support of grades K-12; $307.3 million is allocated for local support of community colleges; $6.2 million is earmarked for community college student financial aid; $135 million for the state contribution to the Teachers' Retirement Fund, and $48 million for debt service on Public School Building Bonds.

K-12 Education

The proposed budget includes approximately $2.349 billion for financing local schools (including Debt Service on local school bonds and Teachers' Retirement), grades K-12. Of this total, $2.346 billion is from the General Fund. This represents a 74 percent increase in state support to K-12 local schools since Governor Reagan first took office. During the same period, it is estimated that the average daily attendance in grades K-12 will have increased only 1.1 percent and the cost of living, as measured by the U.S. Consumer Price Index, 41 percent (1967-68 to projected 1974-75).

During the current fiscal year, total expenditures for grades K-12 are estimated at about $2.224 billion General Fund, including Debt Service on local school bonds and Teachers' Retirement. Thus, the state contribution to local schools, General Fund, is increased $122 million over the current fiscal year.

Passage of AB 1267, Chapter 208, Statutes of 1973, provides a statutory cost of living increase to California school districts beginning in 1974-75. This legislation increases the State Foundation Program levels by $60 per elementary and high school ADA in 1974-75, and provides for future cost of living increases in Foundation Program levels. A $60 increase per ADA will provide a 6.3 percent increase for high school and 7.8 percent increase for elementary schools.

California's burgeoning population of young people led to a concentration on providing "more" education in the 1960s. With a leveling off of K-12 enrollment, there is now the opportunity to concentrate on "better" education:

1. Through the Development Centers for Handicapped Minors, the state provides a special program for severely handicapped children to help these special children live a more normal and adjusted life. Since 1962 when the development centers began as pilot programs, the number of children served has increased from 32 to more than 2,700 in 1974. In 1973 the program will expand by 200 children and in 1974 by an additional 100. This will be achieved by a 1974-75 budget augmentation of $990,000 for a total program budget of $6,012,630.

2. Early Childhood Education was started in 1973-74 fiscal year with an appropriation of $25 million to fund specialized educational programs for school students, kindergarten through the third grade. Through the efforts of the early childhood education program, it has been possible to provide school districts with the latitude of serving their students through a consolidation of ECE and other primary grade categorical aid programs. Within 1974-75 an additional $15 million is provided for Early Childhood Education increasing the state effort in this program to $40 million in 1974-75.

3. During the 1974 legislative session, the governor will propose bilingual education legislation to enhance the educational opportunities of students whose language and culture differ from those of the dominant society. It is estimated that within this group of school children there exists a 37 percent school dropout rate as compared to a 16 percent dropout rate for children in the total population. Four million dollars ($4,000,000) has been included in the 1974-75 Department of Education budget for the purposes of the anticipated legislation.

Community Colleges

The governor's proposed 1974-75 budget for California's 97 community college campuses includes $307.3 million General Fund in direct local support and an additional $6.2 million for Student Assistance. During the current fiscal year, state General Fund expenditures for these purposes are estimated at $266.1 million.

The 1973-74 total includes $66.5 million of new state financing for community colleges which was made possible by the enactment of SB 6 (Chapter 209, Statutes of 1973). It provides for (1) an increase in the state foundation program level from $643 to $1,020 per student, (2) local property tax relief, and (3) for the first time, future statutory cost of living increases in the state foundation program. In 1974-75 the state foundation program will increase by $60 per student, a 5.8 percent increase per ADA.

State support for the community colleges has increased 241 percent since Governor Reagan took office, while the average daily attendance in community colleges has increased 66 percent.

TAX RELIEF-SHARED REVENUES

The proposed 1974-75 budget will provide $1.059 billion in tax relief. This does not include $75 million in tax credits for renters. Thus, direct tax relief totals $1.134 billion, an increase of $71 million over the amount allocated during the current fiscal year.

The homeowners property tax exemption will total $668.5 million, an increase of $17.2 million over 1973-74. The business inventory tax relief program will total $261.5 million, or $39.6 million more than the current year.

Property tax relief for senior citizens is budgeted at $60.1 million, and $20 million is included to reimburse local government for the open space program under provisions of the Williamson Land Conservation Act.

Payments to local government under the provisions of SB 90 (1972) for sales and property tax revenue loss will total $4 million in 1974-75.

Renters' tax relief, which provides an income tax credit and/or refund, will total $120 million with direct payments of $45 million. This is an increase of $5 million in direct payments to renters.

Shared revenues (money collected by the state and returned to local governments to finance various programs) will total $738 million in 1974-75.

HEALTH PROGRAMS

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

In 1974-75 it is estimated that $2.46 billion will be expended from all sources (including Federal Funds) for local assistance for health programs by the Department of Health. $1.057 billion of this total is from the state General Fund).

The 1974-75 budget for local assistance proposes $1,000,000 in General Fund to provide services under the newly enacted Child Health screening program AB 2068 (Chapter 1069, Statutes of 1973).

The 1974-75 local assistance budget also proposes $181.9 million from the General Fund for Developmental Disabilities, an increase of more than $11 million.

There will be three new regional centers for the Developmentally Disabled established in 1974-75, two in the Los Angeles area and one in San Joaquin County. This will bring to 19 the number of such centers established since 1965. An additional $4.9 million ⁱⁿ General Fund has been proposed to serve increased caseload in the regional centers in 1974-75.

It is expected that a new Medi-Cal Intermediary System will be implemented in 1974-75. The system will combine the best features of the current Medi-Cal Management System and Medi-Cal Intermediary Operations and provide quick and accurate information on claims, providers and other information needed to manage the Medi-Cal program.

DEPARTMENT OF BENEFIT PAYMENTS

The Department of Benefit Payments (formerly the Department of Social Welfare) provides benefits to welfare recipients of $785 million in 1973-74 and $864 million in 1974-75. This increase of $79.4 million includes necessary expenditures to cover the provisions of AB 134 (1973), the state legislation implementing Title XVI of the Federal Social Security Act (HR 1). Included within the 1973-74 budget is an increase of approximately $61 million which will fund the necessary changes in the current fiscal year as a result of HR 1.

It is estimated in 1974-75 the Department of Benefit Payments will provide services to 1,911,000 welfare recipients exclusive of those receiving food stamps. This average monthly caseload reflects a reduction of approximately 382,000 recipients below that of March 1971, the start of the governor's welfare reform program.

STATE WATER RESOURCES CONTROL BOARD

Chapter 508, Statutes of 1970, and Proposition 1 of the 1970 general election, authorized the sale of $250 million in general obligation bonds. These funds are used to pay the state's share of costs for construction of water quality control projects throughout California. In fiscal year 1974-75, this bond authorization will be fully obligated. Chapter 994 passed by the legislature and signed by the governor in 1973, places a new Clean Water Bond issue of $250 million on the June 1974 general election to continue the grant program. Passage of this bond act will provide approximately $40 million in clear water program benefits in 1974-75.

REIMBURSEMENT OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT
FOR STATE MANDATED PROGRAMS

This budget is the first to reflect the cost of reimbursing local governmental entities under the provisions of SB 90, Chapter 1406, Statutes of 1972. The legislation requires the state to pay for additional costs of local government resulting from revenue losses or program increases associated with state mandates. The budget for fiscal year 1974-75 includes over $14 million to pay local governmental entities for costs arising from the enactment of 12 bills which met the criteria of SB 90 regarding reimbursement for legislative mandates. In excess of $3 million will be expended for mandated costs during fiscal year 1973-74.

// GOVERNOR REAGAN'S 1974 STATE OF THE STATE MESSAGE //

Governor Ronald Reagan today urged the legislature to "cast politics aside" to meet the energy crisis, assure public confidence in government and otherwise make the decisions necessary for progress and prosperity in California during 1974. In his annual State-of-the-State address, Governor Reagan outlined a comprehensive 30-point program, including steps to make the Secretary of State a non-partisan elective position and to establish new safeguards against higher taxes.

Beginning his eighth year as California's chief executive, the governor also called on the people of California to reduce their fuel and power consumption 10 percent to help conserve energy while longer term solutions are going forward.

While 1974 is an election year, the governor said: "It is not a time for politics as usual. Government's only reason for existing is to serve the people. If we are to serve their needs, we must cast politics aside. We must demonstrate that government deserves the public's trust."

He said although economic activity is expected to be reasonably strong this year, the energy crisis would cause a downturn in state revenues. "But to answer one question you may have, the budget I present to you this week will be balanced. The scheduled (20 to 35 percent) income tax rebates and property tax reductions will go forward. I see no need for any general tax increases this next fiscal year."

In his televised remarks to a joint session of the legislature, the governor reviewed some of the major achievements during the past seven years, including a cumulative total of more than $4 billion in tax relief, property tax reform, vastly improved state support for schools, and stronger criminal penalties. He singled out the bi-partisan support for welfare reform for special mention and said it had become "a model for the nation."

"One thing is clear," the governor said. "We served the people best when we paid more attention to the problems and less to the politics."

ENERGY CRISIS

His proposal for a 10 percent power and fuel cutback was listed with other steps already taken and forthcoming to help ease the energy crisis on a short term basis, including reduced speed limits, daylight savings time and a reduction in state energy use.

To further relieve the short-term problem, the governor:

--Urged that the Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve be opened to pump enough oil for current military needs, freeing a comparable amount of fuel now being consumed by the military from other sources for use in meeting civilian needs.

--Pledged that California would cooperate fully in any national program to conserve and fairly apportion available fuel and electric power.

But he said agriculture and industry must receive a high priority in any allocation program because cutbacks in those areas could mean fewer jobs. "It will do little good for someone to have all the gasoline he can use, if he has no job to drive to because the industry for which he worked is shut down by an energy or fuel shortage."

While those steps will help, the governor emphasized that the long term answer to the energy crisis is for the state and nation to act now to "free America forever of dependence on unstable foreign oil that can be turned on and off at will, by those who would use world commerce for economic blackmail and coercion. "If we can put a man on the moon, we can find ways to heat and light our homes and industries," he said.

As part of this long term effort, the governor said the state is exploring the possibility of adding new hydro-electric units at Oroville Dam and other existing dam sites to expand "this source of smog free electricity." He also recommended that planning start now for any facilities necessary to receive oil from Alaska's North Slope.

And, for the third year in a row, the governor urged legislative action on power plant siting. His administration, the governor said, is prepared to work with the lawmakers "to reconcile our obvious differences" on power plant siting procedures.

ELECTIONS REFORM

Noting the increasing responsibilities of the Secretary of State's office in elections and reporting of campaign contributions, Governor Reagan proposed a Constitutional Amendment to make this office a non-partisan position similar to the state superintendent of public instruction. Such a step, he said, is necessary to eliminate any suggestion of partisanship in the supervision of election and campaign laws.

He also called for an independent citizens commission on elections to review ballot measures, monitor election reforms and otherwise "protect the integrity of the entire election process."

"Such a commission could establish campaign and election policies in the same way the state Board of Education guides educational policy," the governor said.

In another major reform proposal, Governor Reagan unveiled a legislative package designed to control government costs and hold down taxes. "It is essential to reduce and limit the tax burden on our people if our free economic system is to survive," he said. "Even while differing over specifics, many of you have said (only recently) that legislative action can control the size and cost of government. I ask you to take that action this year."

The key part of the package is a proposed Constitutional Amendment requiring the legislature to return to the governor a balanced budget or propose specific new taxes to bring it into balance. The state Constitution now requires the governor to submit a balanced budget and to propose higher taxes, if necessary, to make sure it is balanced," the governor said. "Since two safeguards are better than one, I shall ask you to pass a Constitutional Amendment imposing the same restraint on the legislative branch."

Another emphasis this year, he said, would be to present to the legislature the findings and recommendations of his task force on local government reform. The task force is nearing the end of a year-long review of California's governmental structure and will propose ways to streamline it and restore a greater degree of local autonomy. "All of us may find that the facts challenge many of our own long-held beliefs and assumptions," the governor said.

In other areas, he called again for mandatory prison sentences for criminals who use weapons, tougher probation and parole policies; a law to make the California Ecology Corps permanent and announced plans for an Academy for Educational Management to help administrators gain the experience necessary to manage public schools more efficiently and economically.

Here, in brief, are the 30 major points in Governor Reagan's State-of-the-State address:

BALANCED BUDGET/NO NEW TAXES

1. Announced that the 1974-75 budget would be balanced, scheduled property tax reductions and income tax rebates on 1973 income would go forward as scheduled.
2. Said he sees no need "for any general tax increases this next fiscal year."

CONTROLLING COSTS/REDUCING TAX BURDEN

3. Called for a Constitutional Amendment that would require the legislature to return to the governor a balanced budget or propose specific new taxes, if necessary, to balance it. (This would impose on the legislative branch the same fiscal restraint that now requires a governor to submit a balanced budget or propose whatever taxes necessary to bring it in balance.)

To further encourage "realistic budgeting," the governor asked for a package of laws requiring that:

4. --Any bill costing $1 million or more must provide for increased revenues to finance it or specify how the budget could be reduced to absorb the new spending program.

5. --All bills with a fiscal impact must include a synopsis declaring the measure's cost for the first four years.

6. --Every bill imposing major new costs must include a separate fiscal analysis noting whether it can be financed within existing revenues or if new taxes are required. "If a tax increase is necessary, this fact and the amount of new taxes required should be spelled out clearly and simply, in capital letters."

7. Said the state should adopt a policy now of phasing out bridge tolls as bond debts that financed these structures are paid off.

ENERGY CRISIS ACTION

Reviewed the short term actions already taken, including daylight savings time, reduced speed limit, cutbacks in state energy and fuel use, and:

8. Asked all Californians to help meet the challenge of the energy crisis by reducing their own energy use by 10 percent.

9. Urged the federal government to open the Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve to pump enough oil to meet military requirements, freeing gasoline and fuel for civilian needs until more permanent solution to energy shortage is achieved.

10. Declared that "California stands ready to cooperate fully in any national program to conserve and fairly apportion available fuel and electric power."

11. Urged a "high priority" for agriculture and industry because "any severe cutbacks of energy for industry and agriculture mean fewer jobs."

Longer-Term Solutions

12. Renewed his call for legislative action to speed authorization and approval of "environmentally protected nuclear power plant sites" and said the administration was prepared to work with the legislature to "reconcile our obvious differences" on this matter.
13. Announced that the state was exploring the possibility of adding new generating units at Oroville and other existing dams, to expand hydroelectric production's "smog free electricity."
14. Because California has no ports capable of handling super tankers, said state must begin planning now for any facilities necessary to receive oil from Alaska's North Slope when it is available.
15. Said the state must also move forward on solar energy research, geothermal energy development and every other promising means of meeting energy needs.
16. Declared that "where energy needs conflict with environmental goals, we must strike a reasonable balance."

ELECTIONS REFORM

17. Asked the legislature to propose to the people a Constitutional Amendment making the office of Secretary of State a non-partisan office, selecting this official on the same basis as the non-partisan state Superintendent of Public Instruction.
18. Proposed a Citizens Commission on Elections to serve as an independent body to review and analyze initiatives and other ballot measures and to monitor election reforms and campaign practices.

CRIME/CORRECTIONS

19. Urged the legislature to consider recommendations by the governor's select committee on law enforcement problems to "streamline our criminal justice system and otherwise strengthen our ability to protect the law abiding."
20. Announced he would again propose a law to "impose mandatory prison sentences for those who commit a crime while armed."
21. Advocated stricter controls on probation policies and said: "where there is any doubt in granting probation or parole, the doubt must be resolved in favor of protecting society."

EDUCATION

22. Announced plans for an "Academy for Educational Management," to help train and assist administrators in managing public schools efficiently and economically.

23. Announced he would ask Trustees of State College and University system to create a Doctor of Arts program to give full-time teaching "the professional recognition it deserves."

24. Said any laws involving school labor disputes must not "compromise the public's right to decide educational policy, through their elected boards and officials."

EMPLOYMENT/WELFARE REFORMS

25. Said the administration would explore with labor and business leaders ways to minimize the impact of unemployment because of the energy crisis.

26. Noted that reorganization has now created the Employment Development Department, with specific stress on job development and placing qualified workers into jobs.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION

27. Urged support for $250 million park bond issue on June 1974 ballot.

28. Said he would ask legislature to make the Ecology Corps permanent (it was created by executive order).

29. Thanked the legislature for bi-partisan support in passing law that gives California "the nation's strongest forest practices regulations."

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

30. Announced the task force on local government reform would soon offer a "sweeping review of our entire governmental structure" and the state would propose ways to restore local control in local government, making it easier to create smaller units of government and "to consolidate where that best serves the people."

Governor Ronald Reagan today announced the appointment of Dr. J. M. Stubblebine as director of the new state Office on Aging, which came into being January 1 as a result of 1973 legislation.

Stubblebine, , has been director of the state Department of Health since its inception last July 1.

The Office on Aging, part of the Health and Welfare Agency, will be the single state agency for coordination and administration of federal funds under the Older Americans Act. The office, with an annual budget of $14 million, is charged with developing solutions to problems of transportation, health, income, housing and nutrition for California's more than 2.5 million elderly.

Coordination of programs for the aged has been the responsibility of the Commission on Aging, which, when reappointed, will function as an advisory body.

"Dr. Stubblebine has done an outstanding job of bringing together the state's diverse health and social service programs," the governor said. "Over the past year he has succeeded in taking three separate departments and molding them into a single functioning unit. I am confident he will carry out the new and special responsibilities of identifying and resolving the special needs of the aged in a similar exemplary manner."

Reagan said Stubblebine's managerial skills, coupled with his intimate knowledge of the state's health and social service programs, are valuable additions to the programs for the elderly.

Stubblebine joined the Reagan administration in July 1971 as director of the Department of Mental Hygiene. In October 1972 he was named to spearhead the incorporation of Mental Hygiene, Public Health and Health Care Services departments into a single Department of Health. Included in the consolidation were social services from the Department of Social Welfare and alcoholism programs from the Department of Rehabilitation.

A graduate of the University of Oregon Medical School in 1951, Stubblebine has served in medical capacities in San Francisco, Sonoma, Napa and Marin counties, as well as San Quentin Prison and the University of California Medical Center at Davis. He is on the staff of the UC Davis Medical School.

Dr. Stubblebine's annual salary will be $36,793. He and his family live in Sacramento.

STATE SURPLUS AND FEDERAL REVENUE SHARING

At the conclusion of the current year budget as of June 30, 1974, the state will have on hand $27.6 million of General Fund Surplus, plus $186.5 million of unexpended Federal Revenue Sharing. The surpluses as of June 30, 1975 are currently estimated at $105.4 million of General Fund, plus $167 million of unexpended Federal Revenue Sharing Funds. In addition, all 1974-75 expenditures will be within the limitations of Proposition 1 which was on the November, 1973 ballot.

HIGHER EDUCATION

University of California

Governor Reagan is proposing an overall General Fund support budget including salary increases for the University of California of $493.1 million in 1974-75, an increase of $38.8 million over the current 1973-74 level of support. This represents an 8.5 percent increase over the 1973-74 budget.

Enrollment growth represents the largest factor of this increase with some $10.6 million needed to handle enrollment increases. Also included in the 1974-75 budget is the continuation of the 1973-74 appropriation of $1 million for the improvement of undergraduate teaching; continuation of the 1973-74 appropriation of $1.3 million for the Extended University; $500,000 of new monies to be used for the purpose of developing and implementing intra-and intersegmental library systems; and an additional $980,000 of new monies to improve the University's data processing management information systems.

California State University and Colleges

The governor's proposed 1974-75 General Fund support budget for the California State University and Colleges is increased 8 percent over the 1973-74 level. It is up $35.3 million, from $444.9 million to $480.2 million, including proposed salary and employee benefit increases.

Budget augmentations are directed toward program improvements and maintenance. Of key importance in the 1974-75 program are the following proposals: $1.5 million to undertake a major library development project intended to improve library usage dramatically through automation and interlibrary cooperation; $1.3 million for computing support, primarily to increasing student access to computers---throughtimesharing.

The 1974-75 budget also continues $1.4 million to be used for instructional innovation and improvement, and provides approximately $500,000 for such projects as expanding the credit-by examination program, augmenting the external degree program which reaches adults not served through traditional higher education, and for a pilot program to determine the services needed by disabled students, who now number 5,000 in CSUC.

UC and CSUC Salaries

The governor's budget recommends salary and benefit increases of $18,775,000 at the University of California and $20,516,000 at the California State University and Colleges. Faculty salaries at these institutions will be increased by 4.73 percent and 5.45 percent respectively. These increases are commensurate with national salary trends as indicated by the studies compiled for each segment by the Coordinating Council for Higher Education. Non-faculty salaries will be increased an average of 3.7 percent.

California Postsecondary Education Commission

Planning for postsecondary education will be undertaken by the California Postsecondary Education Commission. The Commission, which begins operations on April 1, 1974, will have broader planning powers and a budget of $858,600. It will for the first time bring independent colleges and proprietary institutions into the regular planning process.

Financial Assistance to Students

The proposed budget will increase the number of lower income students able to pursue academic and career programs in postsecondary education as well as help relieve the squeeze placed upon students from middle-income families hard pressed to meet the rising costs of higher education today.

The state General Fund will provide $58 million in direct assistance to students for their financial needs in 1974-75 through the State Scholarship and Loan Commission, educational opportunity programs, matching funds to take advantage of federal aid programs, and fee waivers at the University of California and California State University. In addition, the University of California will spend more than $10 million for student aid from federal reimbursements for operations and facilities supported by the state.

The dramatic growth of funds available to students through the state Scholarship and Loan Commission in the past seven years from $5 million to the proposed $43 million presents dramatic evidence of the governor's commitment to assisting students in postsecondary education. In accordance with legislation signed by the governor, there will be an increase in the state Scholarship Program in the number of awards from 27,403 in 1973-74 to 32,134 in 1974-75 and the maximum award ceiling will increase from $2,200 to $2,500.

The Occupational Training Grant Program, created in 1972, will receive an additional $177,000 in 1974-75 in order to fund first and second-year occupation training students. Educational opportunity programs to assist students delayed by poor preparation, low income and social conditions were first established under this administration and will receive a proposed $11.5 million in the budget year.

In total, state support for student financial aid not only allows deserving students to pursue postsecondary education but offers them choice among the types of programs---career and academic---and the type of institution, public or private.

CAPITAL OUTLAY-EDUCATION SYSTEMS

University of California

On the general campuses of the University, the governor is proposing the expenditure of $84.8 million in state and educational fee funds. Of this total, $10 million is specifically for the purpose of correcting seismic and life safety deficiencies; $12 million to correct library deficiencies at the Berkeley and Santa Barbara campuses; and $40.9 million from the 1972 Health Sciences Act including a new dentistry facility on the San Francisco Campus and expanded veterinary medicine facilities

California State University and Colleges

For the state University and Colleges, the governor is proposing the expenditure of $32.8 million on state funds. Of this total $22.3 million will correct structural deficiencies, provide for future planning, make existing and funded buildings operable, construction facilities needed to fully utilize existing campuses and to provide for a balanced campus, and $10.5 million will provide facilities for enrollment growth.

Community Colleges

The governor is proposing $14,054,600 of state appropriations for the California Community College System. This capital outlay program includes $4,332,500 for land acquisition, site development, and utilities; $10,332,500 for classroom facilities; $15,582,300 for science and vocational technology programs; and $13,701,400 for libraries, physical education facilities, cafeterias, theatres, and administration and maintenance facilities. The total program will be financed through the electorate approved Community College Construction Bond Act of 1972.

K-12 Education

In 1973, the legislature appropriated $3,100,000 for site acquisition and preliminary engineering work for relocating the existing state schools for the blind and deaf located in Berkeley. The 1974-75 Capital Outlay Program appropriates an additional $19,942,000 for designing, constructing, and equipping replacement residential, educational, and support facilities.

STATE DEPARTMENTS

Salary Increases and Employee Benefits

The 1974-75 budget includes funds to provide salary increases of approximately seven percent over the amount currently being received by state employees. These raises are designed to keep civil service employees' salaries in line with comparable salaries in private industry. The total funds provided include $69.5 million as a 1974-75 equivalent to funds that have been frozen in the 1973-74 year by the Cost of Living Council and an additional $38.6 million for raises over and above that amount.

In addition, there is $44.9 million to provide a fringe benefit package for state employees and state university non-faculty employees. The benefit package is equivalent to a 3.1 percent salary increase for civil service employees.

There also will be reserved $69.5 million for 1973-74 civil service employees that will be released when the Cost of Living Council permits the current year employee salary increase.

California Highway Patrol

The 1974-75 budget for the Highway Patrol includes approximately $1,200,000 for the Abandoned Vehicle Abatement Program. The primary method of removing the estimated 240,000 presently abandoned vehicles and the 100,000 annually abandoned is by contracting with those city and county governmental agencies that wish to conduct the program themselves. It is estimated that between 300 and 500 contracts will be processed in 1974-75. An estimated 120,000 abandoned vehicles will be removed from the roadways in 1974-75.

Approximately $393,000 is provided to fund two additional zones to facilitate highway patrol operations in the areas of San Luis Obispo and San Bernardino. In the past these two zones have been managed from Los Angeles.

Department of Motor Vehicles

The budget for the Department of Motor Vehicles contains an increase of $2.1 million to implement a system of year-round vehicle registration as required by Chapter 889, Statutes of 1973. In addition to equalizing the workload associated with the registration process, the year-round registration system will also result in an even cash flow into the Motor Vehicle Account and Motor Vehicle License Fee Account of the Transportation Tax Fund.

Parks and Recreation

The number of visitor-days Californians and out-of-state visitors will spend in our state parks during 1974-75 will total approximately 44 million dollars.

The governor's new budget will provide $2,805,000 in additional support for the operation of our growing state park system. These increased funds will provide additional staffing and operating expenses at Lake Perris ($341,434), Huntington State Beach ($242,856), Lake Oroville ($161,560), and Seacliff State Beach ($138,875). Twenty-three other parks account for the remainder of the increased expenditures.

The 1974-75 capital outlay budget for the department proposes expenditures of approximately $20 million in new projects. Some of the major areas proposed for development in 1974-75 include Lake Perris ($3,728,215), Bolsa Chica State Beach ($2,353,837), Peace Valley ($2,279,871), San Gregorio State Beach ($1,764,500), Border Field ($1,422,243), Ritter Canyon ($1,294,334), and Lake Oroville ($1,093,600).

Department of Conservation

The Forest Practice Act of 1973 established a new Board of Forestry and mandated new logging procedures such as more specific timber harvesting plans and more involved inspections of timber operations as well as more concise inspection reporting procedures than previously existed. To meet these objectives, the budget includes $1,350,000 to finance the administration of the program.

Department of Health

Consolidation of the various state health programs into the Department of Health has provided both greater effectiveness in delivery of health services to the citizens of California and economy in staffing and operating the various programs. Support expenditures for the Department of Health in 1974-75 are proposed at $102.5 million including $51.0 million from the General Fund.

The 1974-75 budget includes $640,000 in additional funds to operate Patton State Hospital as a facility to serve Penal Code patients as well as Developmentally Disabled patients.

Department of Corrections

The governor's proposed operations budget for the Department of Corrections in 1974-75 is $155,543,326, an increase of $8.5 million or 5.8 percent. In addition, $2,715,000 is proposed for capital outlay.

Funding increases in operations include provisions for estimated growth in prison population and parole caseload. The average daily institution population is expected to rise to 24,105 from 22,545. Staffing will be added to meet the requirements of the Gagnon vs. Scarpelli decision. The decision requires that counsel be provided for certain parolees at hearings for possible return to prison.

The capital outlay budget provides $2.5 million for security and structural modification of the south block at San Quentin State Prison.

Department of the California Youth Authority

The proposed 1974-75 General Fund budget for the Department of the California Youth Authority is $64.1 million, an increase of $1.8 million above the 1973-74 level. Commitment rates to the department are expected to remain relatively stable. The increase in institution population is a result of increased length of stay by Youth Authority wards.

Department of Employment Development

The Employment Development Act of 1973 created the Department of Employment Development and assigned to it the duties and responsibilities of the Department of Human Resources Development.

The accounts and tax collections, along with the auditing functions of the Department of Human Resources Development, are transferred to the newly created Department of Benefit Payments. The activities of the Commission on Aging are transferred to the newly created Office on Aging which will coordinate the state's efforts in assisting this state's 2.7 million persons 60 years of age and older.

The department will expend $1.4 billion in 1974-75, including $15.1 million from the General Fund.

Department of Rehabilitation

Effective October 1, 1973, the disability determination activities were transferred to the Department of Health. Proposed expenditures for 1974-75, despite the transfer of these activities, will show an overall increase. The major increase will be $4.5 million in additional federal funding to expand the program for rehabilitation of the disabled.

The secretaries for Resources and Business and Transportation have proposed a total expenditure of $4 million from the California Environmental Protection Program Fund (personalized motor vehicle license revenue) for environmental protection and enhancement projects. The $4 million is allocated in the following manner: the Department of Fish and Game $1,300,000; the Air Resources Board $1,800,000; the Solid Waste Management Board $465,000; the Department of Education $275,000; Chapter 1165, Statutes of 1973, which is budgeted in the Special Resources Services and Studies budget, $160,000.

Governor Ronald Reagan today issued the following statement:

"This statement is to reaffirm my intention to maintain a neutral stand among Republican candidates/who may run for nomination ^{For Gov. this June} this June. While my particular reference is to the nomination for governor, it also pertains to all other contested primary races.

"California has an 'open primary.' The intent of the law is that all who may believe they have the qualifications for a public office have the opportunity to run for it. The law, of course, does not prohibit endorsements of candidates and I could state a preference. But to do so, it seems to me, would be divisive in our party.

"Since 1966, the Republican Party of California has been united. I do not want that ideal situation to change. There have been contests in primary elections but these have not been characterized by the kind of strife Republicans experienced in some earlier years. I believe in the Eleventh Commandment: instead of heated competition within our own political family, the primary campaign should be a proving ground for the General Election against the strongest Democratic opponent in the field.

"Looking toward the elections in June, I believe that my best service to our party will be to restate my deeply held belief that we Republicans cannot win unless we remain united. I am urging my supporters to each work hard for the candidates of their choice during the primary campaign and then join together in June behind the party's nominee...but I will remain neutral."

Governor Ronald Reagan today proclaimed a state of emergency in the counties of Humboldt, Shasta, Siskiyou and Trinity because of the flooding, storms and high winds in those areas.

At the state's request, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) will make a U-2 overflight of the area to aid in damage assessment. This will provide high-altitude photographs of the entire disaster area.

Flood operations in the counties are being supported by the state Office of Emergency Services, National Guard, Highway Patrol and departments of Health, Transportation and Water Resources. A preliminary estimate by OES shows $14.4 million in damage in the four counties.

Attributed to the storm in Humboldt County are two deaths and one missing person. About 575 persons have been evacuated from their homes. About 200 homes and more than 100 businesses have been damaged or destroyed, according to estimates.

The governor said the state will continue to aid local officials in providing all assistance necessary to ensure the safety of persons and property.

Governor Ronald Reagan today announced that he has regretfully accepted the resignation of Earl Brian, California's Secretary of Health and Welfare, effective January 31.

The governor received Brian's letter of resignation today.

"Earl Brian has done a truly outstanding job for the people of California, first as Director of Health Care Services and, more importantly, as Secretary of Health and Welfare," the governor said.

"He has made significant contributions to the health and welfare of our citizens. The Welfare and Medi-Cal Reforms he accomplished and implemented have saved the taxpayers more than $1 billion, resulting in decreased local property taxes while increasing grants to the truly needy.

"While I deeply regret the loss of his talents as an administrator I admire his determination to move ahead in the area of public service.

"I wish him the best of good fortune in the future."

In his letter of resignation, Brian said:

"The past three years have been the most rewarding of my life. As a member of your administrative team, I have had a signal opportunity to serve the people of California.

"I now feel that I should turn my full energy to the pursuit of elective office so that I may expand that role in serving the people of this state.

"It would be inappropriate to begin this pursuit while serving as your Secretary of Health and Welfare. Therefore, I wish to respectfully submit my resignation today, effective at the end of this month.

"I am deeply grateful for your trust in providing me with the recurring opportunity to play a significant role in proposing and implementing new directions in health and welfare.

"I truly regret that I will not be able to contribute further to your administration's zenith year, adding in whatever small way to the luster of the legacy that your administration will leave for generations to come."

Governor Reagan noted that Brian injected new energy and direction into the massive Health and Welfare Agency, which administers the state's health, welfare, corrections and employment services.

"Several of the major program proposals we sought in the legislature last year were initiated and developed by Dr. Brian, and it was primarily through his strenuous efforts that these proposals were put into effect," the governor said.

"He was directly responsible for the creation of the new Department of Benefit Payments. It will provide streamlined and more efficient fiscal control over nearly $5 billion annually in federal and state tax funds. New and tighter quality controls will be possible over the provision of health care in California hospitals and nursing homes.

"Under his direction new emphasis has been given and assistance directed to law enforcement agencies in diverting youth from criminal activities and a more streamlined and effective Employment Development Department is now operational as we enter a year of economic uncertainty."

Brian, 31, first joined state government in 1967 when he was appointed by Governor Reagan to be executive secretary of the state Social Welfare Board. He left California to become a U. S. Army flight surgeon in 1968, serving a two-year tour of duty which included a year's combat tour in South Vietnam, where he was decorated several times for bravery under fire.

Following his return to California in 1970, Brian was named director of the Department of Health Care Services. At age 27 he became the youngest department director in state history. He was appointed Secretary of Health and Welfare in 1972.

Brian, a native of Raleigh, North Carolina, graduated from Duke University Medical School in 1966 and served his internship at the Stanford University Medical Center in Palo Alto. He is married to the former Jane Lang and has one son, Earl III, age 3.

No successor has been selected.

Acting Governor Ed Reinecke today asked President Nixon to declare seven Northern California counties a disaster area because of this week's floods, storms and high winds which have caused an estimated $35 million damage.

The seven counties are Glenn, Humboldt, Mendocino, Shasta, Siskiyou, Tehama and Trinity. They will be eligible to receive federal aid under the Federal Disaster Relief Act if the President grants California's request.

Relief could include funds to restore public and private property and make low-interest loans available to individuals through the Small Business Administration and the Farmers Home Administration.

In his request, Reinecke said all available state and local resources have been used in carrying out disaster operations in accordance with existing mutual aid agreements.

Dr. William E. Mayer, acting director of the state Department of Health since January 8, today was appointed the department's director by Acting Governor Ed Reinecke. Senate confirmation is required.

Part of the Health and Welfare Agency, the Department of Health has about 23,000 employees and a proposed fiscal 1974-75 budget of approximately $2.3 billion. Headquartered in Sacramento, the department has offices in 61 cities. It was created last July 1 as a consolidation of the former departments of Public Health, Mental Hygiene and Health Care Services and included some functions of the Social Welfare and Rehabilitation departments. Dr. J. M. Stubblebine was its first director.

"Dr. Mayer has had an important influence on the rapid development of the new Department of Health into a unified and effective service organization," the governor said.

"I am certain that he will continue to exercise the administrative leadership and keen insight into the people's health problems that he has displayed during a distinguished medical career."

Dr. Mayer, 50, is a health administrator with broad experience in state and county government and military medicine. He was Del Norte County's physician and health officer in 1970-71 and headed the mental health programs in Contra Costa and Humboldt-Del Norte counties. His military experience spanned 20 years, including command of four hospitals and training in aviation and nuclear medicine. He was awarded the Bronze Star for valor in combat during the Korean Conflict.

Dr. Mayer received the Freedoms Foundation National Award in 1958 and the leadership award of the National Management Association in 1962. Los Angeles---Governor Ronald Reagan today issued the following statement:

"In February of last year, I had the pleasure of announcing the establishment of the $5,000,000 John and Alice Tyler Ecology Fund to be administered by Pepperdine University in Malibu. The fund supports the Tyler Ecology Award, which is to be given annually to the person or persons who have done the most to improve the world's environment. Today it is my pleasure to announce the first recipient of this coveted award.

"The selection was made by a panel of nine distinguished scientists representing the following universities: Auburn, Baylor, California Institute of Technology, Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Pepperdine, Purdue, Scripps Institution of Oceanography and the University of Southern California.

"The selection for the recipient of the $150,000 Tyler Ecology Award was based on the following requirements: he must have conducted scientific research for the past 10 years; his research must have been of practical or applied value; and, his findings must have been disseminated on a worldwide basis.

"According to the selection committee, it was impossible to find one man to meet this criteria. So we have three winners of this first Tyler Ecology Award. The selections were unanimous.

"They are: Dr. G. Evelyn Hutchinson, Professor Emeritus of Zoology, Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut; Dr. Arie Jan Haagen-Smit of Pasadena, Professor Emeritus of Bio-Chemistry, California Institute of Technology; and Maurice F. Strong, Executive Director of the United Nations Environmental Program, Nairobi, Kenya.

"These men will each receive a check for $50,000 at an awards banquet in Los Angeles, February 8.

"I would like to take this opportunity to be the first to offer my congratulations to the three award winners, and to the selection committee for a difficult task well done.

"If you have any questions, I have with me, Dr. Omar Fareed, chairman of the selection committee, and Col. Bob Bales, executive director of the Tyler Award."

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT WAS RELEASED JANUARY 30, 1974, UPON INQUIRIES FROM UPI AND THE SACRAMENTO BEE (via telephone):

Governor Ronald Reagan tonight lauded President Nixon's State of the Union speech for its "forthrightness and progressive tone."

On Watergate, the governor said:

"The time has long since passed when the guilt or innocence of those involved in Watergate should have been determined by the courts. Justice in this election year will not be served by another prolonged, televised extravaganza."

On the President's ten points, the governor commented:

"President Nixon showed his determination to move ahead in seeking solutions to the urgent problems facing the nation and the world. His proposals were substantive and on target and I am looking forward to the opportunity to study them in detail. They deserve the full attention of the Congress and the nation."

Governor Ronald Reagan today issued the following statement:

"There is a measure on the June 4 ballot this year that will allow every voter to have a personal say in assuring the future of California's beaches, parks and other outdoor recreation areas.

"The measure is Proposition 1. It has nothing to do with a tax limitation. But it is a response to the crisis that our state park system is facing because of the unprecedented demands being made on outdoor recreation. Last year nearly one million people were turned away from our state parks because of over-crowding, and 85 percent of them were Californians.

"Proposition 1 is a bond issue that will provide $250 million to help solve the problem. The money will be spent on beaches, parks, for wildlife preservation, and for important historical features in the State Park System.

"This vital ballot measure includes $90 million that will go directly to cities, counties and special districts for parks, beaches and other recreation areas. Local government is strapped for park funds throughout the state. And in these days of fuel shortages, the need for more local recreation areas is obvious.

"Our parks, beaches and historical sites are the inheritance that each generation leaves to the next. Our yes vote on this bond issue tells future generations how richly we value this heritage.

"Bill Lane, publisher and a prominent conservationist, has agreed to serve as State Chairman of Californians for Parks, Beaches, and Wildlife. This is the organization that will lead the drive for the $250 million bond measure this June."

L. W. (Bill) Lane, prominent conservationist and publisher of Sunset Magazine, was introduced today by Governor Ronald Reagan as state chairman of Californians for Parks, Beaches and Wildlife, the organization leading the drive for Proposition 1 on the June 4 ballot.

Proposition 1 seeks voter approval of $250 million in bonds for the purchase and development of parks, beaches and historic areas and for wildlife conservation.

The bond issue includes $90 million to be divided among the state's 58 counties--on the basis of population--for local governments to acquire and develop parks and recreation areas.

Each county will receive at least $200,000, if Proposition 1 is approved, the governor said.

The breakdown of the remaining $160 million is:

- $90 million for state park system land acquisition.
- $45 million for general state park development.
- $15 million for development of historical resources within the state park system.
- $10 million for the acquisition or development of property for wildlife management. This would be allocated to the Wildlife Conservation Board.

Governor Reagan noted Lane's long interest in California's parks and stressed the need for Proposition 1's passage.

"Last year, nearly 1 million persons had to be turned away from our state's parks because of overcrowding," he said. "And California residents account for 85 percent of the park visits.

"In these days of fuel shortage, the need for more local recreation areas is obvious."

Lane cited a doubling of California's population in the past 25 years, compared with a tenfold increase in use of parks, beaches and other recreation areas.

"Population trends will add further demands," he said, noting that the "baby boom" after World War II is expected to result in a 90 percent increase in the number of adults between the ages of 25 and 34 in the West by 1985.

He noted that persons in that age group are the most ardent campers, hikers and boaters.

Lane said Proposition 1 has the support of leaders of both major political parties, businessmen, labor, women's and minority groups, conservationists and virtually every major element of the state's population.
