The following bills have been vetoed by Governor Ronald Reagan:

AB 550 - Bagley ✓

Redefines "cigarette" in the California Cigarette Tax Law. The bill also prohibits the State Board of Equalization from issuing a wholesaler's license to a wholesaler, rather than to a distributor, whose license has been revoked or suspended unless specified conditions are met.

REASON FOR VETO : Governor Reagan said, "This measure redefines 'cigarette' in the California Cigarette Tax Law to exempt cigarettes that are rolled in tobacco (little cigars) from the cigarette tax.

"It should be noted that while these small cigars are not included in the federal cigarette tax definition of 'cigarette,' they are taxed by federal law under another provision. Conforming the California definition of 'cigarette' to the federal definition achieves, therefore, a very different tax result. While these items would be totally exempt from any kind of California tobacco tax, they would still be subject to a federal tobacco tax."

It is estimated that the adoption of this bill will result in an annual General Fund loss of $28,000 and a loss of $12,000 to local government.

AB 1725 - Quimby ✓

"Accordingly, I am returning the bill unsigned."

Adds transportation of wheelchair or litter patients, or both, in nonemergency vehicles, and the transportation of persons in emergency vehicles, to exceptions to the authority granted by the Public Utilities Code to charter party carriers.

REASON FOR VETO: Governor Reagan said: "The position of those who provide nonemergency transportation services was not heard when this bill was before the legislature, nor was the potential fiscal impact of the measure fully examined. I believe that the matter of regulation of nonemergency transportation services deserves more intensive study by the legislature.

"Accordingly, I am returning the bill unsigned."

Governor Ronald Reagan today signed two bills which will provide property tax relief to homeowners and veterans who have been excluded from refunds.

The measures, AB-1726 by Assemblyman John Quimby (D-Rialto), and AB-2349 by Assemblyman R. E. Johnson (R-Chico), extend the deadline for filing for a $750 reduction in home assessments until September 1.

The Quimby bill also allows persons who qualify for the 1968-69 tax rebate but did not file for the $750 property tax exemption to now do so.

Qualified veterans who had filed for the exemption but were told by local assessors that they were ineligible now automatically become eligible for the $750 under the Johnson bill.

Governor Ronald Reagan today signed legislation which will benefit California consumers "by further strengthening poultry inspection procedures in the state and, at the same time, saving taxpayer dollars."

The legislation (AB 970), imposes stricter inspection of poultry products and plants to bring them up to federal standards.

The governor said: "I am pleased to sign this legislation, because it promises to benefit California consumers in two ways--by further strengthening poultry inspection procedures in the state and, at the same time, saving taxpayer dollars."

The administration-sponsored measure, authored by Assemblyman Ray E. Johnson, (R-Chico) authorizes the State Director of Agriculture to enter cooperative agreements with federal agencies to enforce federal standards on poultry plants and products.

By bringing the state inspection system up to standards required under the Federal Wholesome Poultry Products Act, the state will be reimbursed up to 50 percent of the cost of the program.

It is estimated that this will save California taxpayers more than $30,000 annually.

An important step toward meeting California's future transportation needs was taken today when Governor Ronald Reagan signed a bill creating the California Transportation Board.

In signing the measure, AB 974, the governor paid tribute to its author, Assemblyman John Foran, D-San Francisco, and to Gordon C. Luce, Secretary of Business and Transportation, who strongly supported it.

"Both Assemblyman Foran and Secretary Luce can take pride in their efforts which brought us this important new tool to work on California's future transportation needs," the governor said.

Creation of the seven member board implements a recommendation made in November by the Governor's Task Force on Transportation following an 18 month study of public and private air, land and sea transportation systems.

Los Angeles architect William L. Pereira headed the 24-member task force, initiated by Secretary Luce, which included experts in every field of transportation.

The new board will review master plans, both private and public, for the overall state-wide transportation system including the California Freeway and Expressway System, the State Aviation Master Plan and regional transportation plans developed by such organizations as the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission, the Transportation Association of Southern California, the San Diego Comprehensive Planning Organization and the Sacramento Regional Area Planning Commission.

In addition it will assist the state in planning and developing policies for new transportation systems including supersonic air transport, automated highways, computer-dispatched urban transit systems, super-tanker ships and containerized freight trucking.

"This board and our recently announced HUD grant will assist our agency in bringing together the planning and coordination of transportation in California and represents the culmination of efforts by many people toward these goals," Luce said.

Five members of the new board will be appointed by the Governor, subject to Senate confirmation. The remaining two posts will be filled by the Chairman of the Assembly and Senate Transportation Committees serving as ex-officio members of the Board. Members will serve without pay and will meet at least four times a year.

Governor Reagan is screening potential members of the board.

Governor Ronald Reagan today climaxed a major effort by his administration to "further strengthen state control and regulation of pesticides" by signing into law two key bills in his legislative program which "will benefit not only agriculture, but the general public as a whole."

Both measures (AB-1209, Pattee and Ray Johnson; and AB-1210, Pattee) were sponsored by the Reagan administration and approved unanimously in the legislature.

In a statement, the governor said:

"During recent months there has been considerable scientific and public concern over the use of pesticides in California.

"While the state has exercised tight controls over such usage for more than half a century, this administration has been working actively for the passage of legislation to further strengthen state control and regulation of pesticides.

"I am pleased to say that these two bills will help us accomplish these important objectives and will benefit not only agriculture, but the general public as a whole."

AB 1209 requires that before any pesticide application is made, the applicator must have a written recommendation from the pesticide dealer or his agent in considerable detail. This should prevent any misapplication of chemicals due to misunderstanding or poor communication. It also puts on record exactly where the responsibility for any misuse of pesticides lies.

AB 1210 requires that a pesticide dealer must be licensed by the director of agriculture and that the dealer's agent or salesman must be registered with the agricultural commissioner of every county in which he operates. To get a dealer's license, the applicant must pass a test of his knowledge of laws and regulations governing pesticides.

Up to now, state laws did not regulate the operations of pesticide dealers or salesmen. AB 1210 fills this gap.

It also provides California with additional tools to ensure that pesticides are used properly. Dealers' license fees, to be shared with the counties, will cover the cost of administering this program.

Governor Ronald Reagan today signed into law a key element in his anti-crime legislative program, a bill (SB-66, Sherman) designed to protect informants who provide evidence of activities in such areas as narcotics, bookmaking, prostitution and organized crime.

"The legislation," he said, "will give law enforcement another effective means of obtaining evidence of vice activities by protecting the informant against reprisal by protecting his identity. For, once an informant is identified, he is useless for future activity and is in danger of losing his life."

The bill establishes a judicial procedure which will protect the informant against disclosure by permitting a closed hearing. On the other hand, the defendant will be guaranteed a fair and open hearing because, if the court determines in closed session that the informant is a material witness to the alleged crime, the informant must be identified.

Governor Reagan noted that "some 90 percent of all narcotic convictions are made possible through the use of confidential informants."

"Most vice activities---such as narcotics, bookmaking, prostitution and organized crime---involve willing victims rather than complainants who ask for police protection or prosecution. Those in the law enforcement field are agreed that informants are necessary in the fight against crime," he said.

"I believe that this legislation---with its protection of the informant and fairness to the defendant---will move California a step closer toward insuring the safety of the state's law abiding citizens," he added.

The governor expressed his appreciation to Senator Lewis F. Sherman who carried the bill for the administration and noted the support it received from such organizations as the California Peace Officers' Association and the District Attorneys' Association.

Governor Ronald Reagan today signed into law a bill which "could substantially reduce the cost of housing construction to low income families in California" by "cutting through red tape and speeding the end product to the consumer."

The measure, AB-1971 (Wilson, R-San Diego), was sponsored by the Reagan administration and will be known as the California Factory Built Housing Law. It establishes a uniform state code for factory-built, pre-fabricated housing and permits inspection of such construction at the factory, prior to being accepted at the site.

Governor Reagan said: "The introduction of factory methods in building homes---coupled with the easing of an over-abundance of regulations, as provided in this legislation---could substantially reduce the cost of housing construction to low income families in California.

"The bill will not only help meet the ever growing need for such housing by cutting through red tape and speeding the end product to the consumer, but it should also open up a new labor market, stimulate the economy, and further develop space-age technology in the field of housing," he said.

Governor Reagan congratulated Assemblyman Pete Wilson for successfully guiding the measure through the legislature and commended the Department of Housing and Community Development, the California Builders Council, the League of California Cities, and the California Real Estate Association for their efforts in drafting the model housing legislation.

#502

Governor Reagan today signed legislation which would broaden the protective and prevention features of California's highly successful probation subsidy program. The bill---part of the governor's legislative program---also appropriates $200,000 to finance delinquency prevention projects throughout the state, the first such state appropriation ever made.

The measure---SB-428, Kennick---will permit the counties to place pre-delinquent youths and adults who have committed misdemeanors in special supervision programs which are financed by the probation subsidy.

Under the subsidy program, the state provides subsidies for counties in return for reducing their expected level of commitments to state institutions, both youth and adults. The subsidies must be used to set up special supervision programs to provide intensive counseling, psychiatric and other services to help rehabilitate those who are not sent to the state institutions.

Governor Reagan noted that "during the first three years of the program, commitments to state institutions were reduced by more than 7,000 persons. Although the state subsidy totaled $30 million, the state was able to save several times this amount, taking into consideration what it would have cost to build new institutions for these offenders and for maintaining them," he said.

"By making it possible for pre-delinquents and lesser offenders to receive probation services under the program," the governor said, "the state will help the counties rehabilitate potential criminals before they commit really serious offenses.

"I believe there is no more effective and economical way to meet the problem of crime and delinquency than to prevent it. And, this can best be done by providing opportunities for rehabilitation before the potential offender has embarked upon his criminal career."

Governor Reagan said that the $200,000 appropriation for delinquency prevention projects will qualify the state for several times that amount in federal funds. The money will be disbursed to many of the counties---setting the stage for a community based assault on delinquency.

A portion of the appropriation will also be used to fund two demonstration projects developed at the direction of State Human Relations Secretary Spencer Williams to identify potential delinquents early in their school careers and take prompt steps to prevent them from becoming delinquent. The projects are called the Delinquency Early Warning System.

Governor Ronald Reagan today signed into law two administration-backed bills which lay the groundwork for greater highway beautification and improved community values in the state.

The measures (SB 1238, Marler; and AB 455, Porter) will permit the state to lease non-operating parcels of highway rights or excess lands to local government for use as mini-parks and recreational areas.

The governor said his action "is in keeping with the concern of this administration for preserving and improving California's environment and assuring that all our citizens receive maximum benefit from existing highway property."

SB 1238 permits the director of public works to lease non-operating rights of way to local agencies to combine beautification and recreational uses, and will allow the state to assume a more flexible position regarding the cost of developments on such parcels by local governments.

State funds cannot now be used to defray expenses in establishing such a facility. The bill enables the state to allow a local agency full credit for funds that would have been spent on landscaping, maintenance or similar amenities that would have been required had the land remained solely under state control.

"This could cut the cost of the lease by a substantial amount or be applied to the actual development of the facility," Public Works Director James Moe said.

The measure also authorizes the state to classify portions of the state highway right of way as non-operating lands. It applies to those lands which, while not actually required for traffic operation, must be retained by the state because they are under a freeway, in an interchange, or required for freeway drainage purposes.

Governor Reagan said AB 455 may prove, in the future, to be of even greater assistance in improving community values because it involves excess property which otherwise would be sold.

The bill provides that any excess parcels or portions of parcels lying within 200 feet of the closest boundary of the state highway may be leased to a local agency for park purposes. It will make it possible for determinations to be made in each case that the development of a park on such property would protect the highway and preserve its view, appearance, light and air, and usefulness.

Both measures will make it possible for many communities to develop mini-parks or recreational areas at very little expense.

Los Angeles and San Francisco recently expressed a desire to lease space adjacent to operating freeways. San Diego is interested in lands located in an interchange now under development.

Department of Public Works records indicate there are several hundred potential sites where the joint use could become reality.

Governor Ronald Reagan today signed into law five administration-backed bills designed to help tighten up welfare and Medi-Cal expenditures.

One measure (SB 847, Stevens)--part of the governor's legislative program--not only saves the taxpayer the cost of an unnecessary state subsidy to families with adequate financial resources, but also uses a portion of the savings to expand placement opportunities for the mentally retarded who cannot be kept in their own homes.

The bill corrects a present inequity under which aid is granted to totally disabled persons, without regard to the financial resources of the parents of such persons. It prohibits parents who are financially well-off from claiming welfare allowances for room rent and other items of household expense which would exist even though the disabled persons were not living with them.

Governor Reagan said he was especially pleased to sign the legislation because "it strengthens the important concept we have been pushing during the course of this administration---the need for family responsibility wherever possible."

One half of the savings to the state general fund from the new provision---or, roughly $1.6 million this fiscal year---will be allocated to the State Department of Social Welfare to help pay private institutional costs for mentally retarded persons who cannot be kept at home.

These additional funds will permit the release of a number of mentally retarded persons from state hospitals and pay for their placement in private institutions, generally at less expense than the cost of state hospitalization.

Another administration-sponsored measure (SB 857, Deukmejian) signed by the governor will make sure that welfare funds intended to aid needy children are not siphoned off for use by an unrelated man living with the family.

Under the bill, the man will have to contribute to the expenses of the family---at least to the same extent it would cost him for the same accommodations secured independently.

A bill (AB 1351, Ketchum) to develop efficient, highly automated processes for determining eligibility and making aid payments will also reduce the cost of administering welfare programs. Heart of the measure is the creation of an integrated welfare management information system employing the most sophisticated electronic data processing equipment.

In signing the legislation, Governor Reagan said:

"Development of this information system will enable the state to greatly improve the management and the effectiveness of public assistance programs. It will help analyze policy alternatives, make accurate cost estimates, assist in controlling program costs, eliminate duplication of effort by various governmental agencies, and improve the exchange of pertinent information."

When developed, the system should further cut down paperwork and relieve social workers of clerical tasks so they can devote their time to those who need their assistance.

The State Human Relations Agency will be responsible for developing the system in cooperation with the counties and with the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare. HEW recently selected California as one of four pilot states to help develop a nationwide uniform social welfare information system.

The measure appropriates $108,000 as the state's share of first-year development costs. The federal government will contribute $350,000.

Plans call for the Welfare Information System to ultimately form the nucleus of a broad, agency-wide information system serving nine departments, and facilitating exchange of information in such welfare-related fields as Medi-Cal, rehabilitation and human resource development.

Another measure (AB 1454, Duffy) signed by the governor provides for disqualification from Medi-Cal of any person who charges the program more than the reasonable value of the services he receives.

A companion bill (AB 1460, Duffy) receiving the governor's signature will strengthen the state's ability to recover the cost of medical assistance given to persons who were injured by someone else who is civilly liable. This measure will assist the state in recouping its costs when, for example, a welfare recipient is injured by an insured driver.

Governor Reagan said "the two bills will go a long way toward reducing Medi-Cal costs to the state's taxpayers and appropriately discipline those who try to gouge the program---both prime objectives of this administration."

Governor Ronald Reagan today signed two bills designed to give college administrators more muscle to deal with hard-core campus troublemakers.

The measures are AB 534 by Assemblyman Frank J. Murphy (R-Santa Cruz) and AB 1286 by Assemblyman John Stull (R-Encinitas).

The Murphy bill is aimed at those who disturb the peace on the campus, students or employees who have been dismissed for campus disruptions and re-enter without permission, those who fail to leave the campus after ordered to do so by college authorities and outsiders who are ordered off campus and return within 72 hours without permission.

Violators will be subject to misdemeanor complaints and if found guilty could be fined up to $500 and jailed for six months, or both.

"Assemblyman Murphy's bill will give college administrators muscle to deal with hard-core campus troublemakers by making it possible to isolate them. It also provides criminal penalties if the troublemakers return to the campus," the governor said.

"This measure can assist in maintaining our campuses as educational institutions--not battlegrounds," the governor remarked. "As I've pointed out repeatedly, academic goals must be pursued through legitimate educational channels without force or violence. Nonacademic goals must not be allowed to destroy the educational process."

The Stull bill gives college and university officials the power to discipline students or faculty members convicted of crimes arising from a campus disturbance, and would withdraw state financial aid from students participating in campus disorders.

It also allows the Regents of the University of California, Trustees of the State Colleges and the governing boards of junior colleges to adopt rules of student behavior and establish penalties for violations which will be presented to each student at the beginning of the semester or quarter.

"There is absolutely no reason why the state should financially assist students who are actively engaged in destroying the schools that are providing them with an education," the governor said.

"This bill will withdraw state scholarships from students who commit criminal acts on and disrupt the peace of the campus.

"The people of this state, who have generously supported our institutions of higher education, will no longer tolerate public assistance to students who reciprocate by destroying the very institutions this assistance enables them to attend. We will not pay for our own destruction."
