MEMORANDUM FOR FRED F. FIELDING

FROM: JOHN G. ROBERTS JGR
SUBJECT: Correspondence from William Best to Michael K. Deaver

William H. Best of Jason Systems Inc. has written Mr. Deaver to urge a crash program to achieve American technological superiority over the rest of the world. Best is the same character who was copying Craig Fuller on business correspondence in which Fuller was not involved. We prepared a letter for Fuller to send to Best and sent it to Fuller on September 13. Fuller has not yet sent the letter. His office advises that he plans to edit it and mail it in the near future.

Your note on the tracking sheet suggested that we should cut Mr. Best off. I agree, but think we should simply not respond to this letter. The letter does not even seek a response, and there is actually nothing improper about this letter, as opposed to the previous correspondence. This letter simply airs Mr. Best's views. I have prepared a memorandum to Deaver, advising him not to respond.

William H. Best, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Jason Systems Inc., wrote you on September 23 to urge that the United States initiate a crash program to achieve technological superiority. We have had some difficulty with Mr. Best's correspondence in the past. Best has engaged in the practice of "copying" innocent Administration officials on his business correspondence in an apparent effort to convey the totally false impression of close links with the Administration to potential customers. We are presently taking steps to redress this problem. With respect to Best's letter to you of September 23, I think the best course would simply be not to respond at all.

PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL

The Honorable Michael K. Deaver
The White House
Washington, D. C. 20500

Dear Michael:

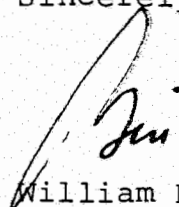

While you agreed with me some months ago that we were involved in a very significant conflict with the Japanese, I have just returned from a very critical meeting with the Director of Planning and Policy for the Intelligence Community Staff, and I still find our entire government, academic and industrial base in total disarray relative to response to this challenge.

Illustratively I will make one single point: The key components in the most advanced aircraft in widespread use in military applications in our country, the F-16 airplane, are made in Japan.

It is my judgment that the implications of that are rather profound, and it is time, indeed it is well past time, that we have overtly or covertly a crash national initiative and effort that is the mandate of the leadership of this White House to drive this country, this nation, in its academic, military and industrial entities into the next century.

There is nothing of greater consequence to the future of this nation than an immediate, affirmative, aggressive action plan to achieve a technological lead over the rest of the world, or we will all end up being poor dirt farmers in Bakersfield, California.

Sincerely,

William H. Best
Chairman of the Board and

Dear Mr. Best:

I have received a copy of your August 23 letter to Lt. General Lincoln D. Faurer. In light of the fact that I have no official or personal connection with your company, and certainly am not involved in any way with the projects discussed in the letter, it strikes me as totally inappropriate for me to be noted as a recipient of copies of this correspondence.

The notation on the correspondence that I am receiving a copy may convey the false impression to the addressee that I am in some fashion involved or directly concerned with Jason Systems. As you know, this is not so. In order to avoid such false impressions, I request that you cease immediately the practice of copying me on your correspondence, and advise recipients of your prior correspondence of this fact. Your acknowledgment of this request, with evidence of compliance with it, at your earliest convenience, will be most appreciated.

SUBJECT: Use of Craig Fuller's Name

As you will see from the attached memorandum from Craig Fuller, a computer company has taken to copying Fuller on its correspondence to government officials in a transparent effort to suggest that Fuller supports or is interested in the company's business. Others, such as Senator Goldwater, are apparently being used in a similar fashion. Fuller has asked for our advice and I have drafted a letter for his signature firmly advising the company to cease copying him on its correspondence.

FROM: CRAIG L. FULLER

SUBJECT: Jason Systems

A few months ago, I mentioned to you my concern that William H. Best, the Chairman of a company called Jason Systems, Inc., was sending copies of correspondence to me suggesting that I had some interest in or connection with his organization, which I do not. Another letter came recently and I thought I would bring the matter to your attention.

Although I have met William Best a couple of times, I have no interest in the company and no reason to be receiving material from Jason Systems. The one project I discussed with him concerned his work with supercomputers. Issues related to supercomputers are being managed by the NSC and I so advised Bill Best.

I have had no direct contact with Bill Best for months and while the letters seem innocuous it seems inadvisable to be copied on correspondence between Best and government officials or private sector organizations.

Please advise if there is any action you think I should take on this matter. At the present time, I am simply forwarding any material I receive to Central Files without taking any action.

Thank you.

Dear Linc:

I have just returned from a rather lengthy trip to the West Coast and have had a chance to reflect a bit on some of the alternatives that still exist in various aspects of THE JASON PROJECT proposal.

We must make sure that all systems are "go" and in their proper order. We have to do it right, carefully, thoughtfully, professionally and properly, but most of all in such a way that it is as close to "fail safe" as we know how to make it.

I think we can succeed if we are careful and thoughtful. The first item I want to suggest is that we headquarter THE JASON PROJECT in the State of Arizona. I told a gentleman on Capitol Hill that we would do so, and I must be a man of my word.

Secondly, we mentioned in the December 10th proposal that we thought it was meritorious to consider the idea of setting up a separate corporation, aside from Jason Systems Inc., which we might call THE JASON PROJECT INC. The name "THE JASON PROJECT" has served us well thus far in identifying the basic nature of the activity that we have discussed.

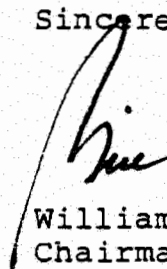

I propose to set up a separate corporation. The corporation will be governed by a three-person Board of Directors. I would serve as the Chairman and I would propose that the other Directors be Dr. Louis Tordella and someone like Ambassador Richard Helms, with whom we have discussed the matter but who has declined for personal reasons.

I know there may be some other items that will surface as this goes on, and I would certainly appreciate your observations on the suggestions I have mentioned above.

August 23, 1983

I appreciate your interest and look forward to having an opportunity to meet with you personally.

Sincerely,

Louise D. Bellucci

October 6, 1983

Dear Mr. John D. Roberts, Jr. —

Hi! I hope my letter finds you
& all there doing well.

Mr. Roberts, recently a friend of mine in Los Angeles - sent me a batch of articles by L. Ron Hubbard — and, I chose
"What Is An Executive?" to send to you.

Hi, I would greatly appreciate hearing your views on, "What Is An Executive?"
as I "highly" respect the President's staff.

Keep up your fine work — take care &
"do" get back to me!!

My Very Best,
Louise Bellucci

OCT 12 1983

What is an Executive?

By L. Ron Hubbard

What is an executive? Is it someone who is important? Who gets more pay? Who has authority? Perhaps. But these are not the real reasons that such posts exist.

Most successful executives can personally do more work than other people: their output¹, quite usually, is very large. And though this is often necessary, that isn't the reason either.

Let us take up the meaning of the word "executive." It is derived from the word "executor" which means "a person who gets something done or produced." The word comes from the Latin ex -completely + sequi -to follow and means "to follow through to the end." In other words, to get something DONE!

In any business or production organization, its prosperity depends upon GETTING THINGS DONE!

The executive is there to ensure that the people produce what they are supposed to produce and in viable quantity and with no overt products².

And that is why an executive is there and that is what he is supposed to do.

In these druggie days of super-socialism, people can get other ideas of why an executive is there. And, unfortunately, executives themselves can get other ideas of their role.

It is an unfortunate fact, whether in a capitalism or a communism, that when an individual human being does not produce, he not only, in the short run or long run, cuts his own throat but he also drags the whole team down. A team or organization that does not produce not only loses its morale and pride, it also is committing eventual suicide.

The graveyards of history are full of "leisure classes" that did not produce: the peasants get real tired of seeing the aristocrats loaf and eventually cut off their heads. Modern times are crammed with beautiful experiments of "workers' paradises" where everyone is starving to death.

One sees the TV commercials and reads the paperbacks and they tell him that his goal is expensively bought leisure and that the ideal is to lie beneath the palm trees and do no work. Whole ideologies get built around this beautiful dream of a world in which no single person ever lifts a finger and sighs away his days in loafing bliss.

Unfortunately, this does not align with the facts. The unhappiest little kids in the world are those who have nothing to do: they whine and mope and quarrel and are quite a burden to their mamas. People on relief or living on social security are the most miserable lot, morale-wise, one ever collided with: they will tell you they would rather have a job. The death rate of men who have retired is startling: cast aside and feeling purposeless, no longer producing anything, they, as insurance companies will tell you, mostly pine away and die. In short, people who don't produce are very unhappy people.

Union agitators, once upon a time, promised all the workers that in a few decades, they would be in clover. Less work and more pay was the slogan. And where, today, is this dream? Failing to produce, union members are out there in their millions, unemployed! And this lack of production is making the cost of living so high that even if they did work, they would have trouble finding enough dollar bills to buy a hamburger.

A certain amount of lying in the sun is a good thing. A laborer should not be worked to death.

But all things are best in moderation. The "leisure class" goes to extremes of purposeless loafing, the working man produces far less than he's paid for and in either case down comes the organization or the country.

A worker-oriented executive is trying to be liked by not requiring work from his organization: What is he actually accomplishing? He is lowering their living standards; he is pushing them into poverty; if he keeps on failing to persuade them to produce, he will kill them off. It categorizes as a suppressive act³. "Go on, Joe, take the day off." "Oh, you poor fellow, you shouldn't work so hard." "Who cares about the stats, let's only work from eleven a.m. to noon." "Are you all comfortable as you doze? Oh, that's good, snore on." Such a person is surely not an executive: he's an imposter with a pistol leveled at the staffs' head. For surely, surely it is HE who has them drawing such low pay and it is HE who will at last, through their tolerated indolence, get them fired. It is HE who will lose the org⁴. That's a pretty high price to pay for "being a good fellow."

Hoïding a post on which he is entrusted to get things DONE, he is a traitor to his organization and to his staff.

Of course, there are penalties connected to getting people to produce. They are often green and unhatted and need somebody to show them where to put what when. They are often bewildered and don't understand why these papers have to go in the right folders. And when one tries to get them to do some work, they sometimes snarl back or walk off and won't play pool with one anymore.

But if one thinks that by taking it easy on staff he will make points, an executive is VERY mistaken. Usually such an executive is actually despised. Down deep the staff knows what he SHOULD be doing with them and if he, having the title, doesn't do it, they see him as a fake.

It is interesting that staffs respect competent executives who get the job done. They respect the one that makes them work and they trust him.

It is a maxim that crews, staffs and employees respect only those in power who do their jobs and get them to do theirs. Oh, yes, they will elect people who tell them they don't have to work. But it's interesting that the first ones they blame when things go wrong are these worker-oriented softies: in the chaos of their wake, the next one people will support is a tough strong one who knows his business.

The only executives that staffs and crews really respect are those who get them to produce and get the job done.

Look at Carter, the past unlamented president. Although he talked a lot about leadership, although he was the darling of the working man and all that, in office he was so wishy-washy, soft and incompetent — everybody's pal — that they eventually threw him out with a landslide victory for his opponent, a very tough talking man who was actually anti-socialist.

However one tries to coat the pill, there is no substitute, in an executive, for the ability to get the crew to produce.

The fire-breathing product officer will be followed and supported when the wishy-washy old pal guy will be stepped all over in the rush to follow a real leader.

Across the world, looking at organizations, one can spot every company and org which has executives who do not get their crews to produce. Such areas loom up like danger flags of trouble. Although their executives might think they are being good fellows, loafingly cheered by all, the fact is that their crews, behind their backs, despise them, the public regards them with contempt and the upper management echelons look at those loafing stats and put the names of those executives in a little black book for soonest firing.

It is not hard to detect a happy, cheerful org: its stats are up. And it is not hard to detect executives who are NOT making their crews produce: there's lots of conflict and trouble in the place and their stats are down.

Management looks everywhere for executives who can get their crews to really produce. And oddly enough, so do the crews. If you don't believe it, try it.

¹OUTPUT: The amount of work accomplished or the quantity of something produced by an employee, machine, plant, company, etc.

²OVERT PRODUCT: A bad one that will not be accepted or cannot be traded or exchanged and has more waste and liability connected with it than it has value.

³OVERT: We have the word "overt", meaning a bad deed.

⁴SUPPRESSIVE ACTS: Actions or omissions undertaken to knowingly suppress, reduce or impede Scientology or Scientologists.

⁵ORG: slang abbreviation for "organization".

MEMORANDUM FOR FRED F. FIELDING

FROM: JOHN G. ROBERTS JGR

SUBJECT: Continuing Correspondence from Reginald Brinkmann, Jr.

My memorandum of September 26, 1983 (copy attached) provides the necessary background. Brinkmann has now written Senator Tower again, with a copy to you, asking for an opportunity to meet with you, Brad Reynolds, and a member of Tower's staff. I see no purpose to be served by such a meeting. We do not have to reply to anything at this point, although Tower will doubtless refer the request to us eventually. We should await such a referral.

MEMORANDUM FOR FRED F. FIELDING

FROM: JOHN G. ROBERTS JGR

SUBJECT: Continuing Correspondence from
Reginald R. Brinkmann, Jr.

You will recall that Mr. Brinkmann wrote James A. Baker III to complain that his civil rights had been violated in connection with service of process in a domestic dispute, and that Justice Department officials were not prosecuting his complaint. We referred the matter to Justice, and so advised Brinkmann.

Senator Tower was also looking into the matter for Brinkmann. Tower forwarded to Brinkmann copies of letters from U.S. Attorney Rolfe and Civil Rights Division Section Chief Rinzel explaining why they could do nothing with Brinkmann's complaint. Brinkmann has now replied to Tower, copy to you, threatening to "go public" to the New York Times, Washington Post, and Dan Rather. I recommend no response, but we should refer the letter to Justice, which was not copied.

Honorable John Tower
United States Senator
961 Federal Building
300 E. 8th Street
Austin, Texas 78701

Dear Senator Tower:

This is in response to your letter regarding a complaint from your constituent, Reginald Roy Brinkmann, Jr.

Mr. Brinkmann also wrote a letter to the U.S. Attorney's Office in Dallas, Texas concerning the alleged misconduct of two Dallas County Sheriffs. Mr. Brinkmann's letter was forwarded to this office for review of a possible violation of his civil rights.

We have carefully reviewed the information which was forwarded to us by your respective offices, and we have concluded that there is no prosecutable violation of Federal criminal civil rights statutes. Accordingly, we were unable to assist Mr. Brinkmann.

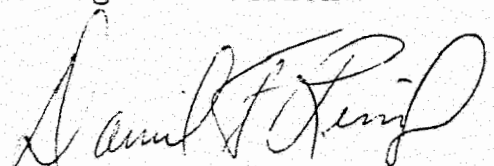

Inasmuch as Mr. Brinkmann feels that his civil rights were violated, we have suggested that he consult with private counsel to determine what remedies may be available to him.

Mr. Brinkmann's enclosures are returned herewith.

Sincerely,

Wm. Bradford Reynolds
Assistant Attorney General
Civil Rights Division

FOR CABINET AFFAIRS

FROM: FRED F. FIELDING Orig. signed by FFF
COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT: Proposed Announcement to Presidential and Secretarial Appointees Concerning Subscriptions

You have asked for our views on a proposal, originating with Bruce Chapman, that you announce to Presidential and Secretarial Appointees that they consider adding publications such as National Review, Human Events, Accuracy in Media Report, Policy Review, Public Opinion, Public Interest, and American Spectator to their office subscription lists. Your announcement would be accompanied by distribution of a handout with the mailing addresses of the listed publications.

While we understand the purpose of such an announcement, it is nonetheless true that the publications in question are for-profit ventures, and formally touting them in the manner proposed by Chapman would not only raise serious appearance problems but would also be likely to generate adverse publicity. Accordingly, we recommend against the proposal.

Please find enclosed for your consideration a brief announcement and handout for possible use at the next meeting with Presidential and/or Secretarial Appointees.

Announcement to Presidential and Secretarial Appointees

Most of your offices subscribe to various magazines, newspapers and newsletters. But if your offices are like most throughout government, you may not be subscribing to such publications as: National Review, Human Events, Accuracy in Media Report, Policy Review, Public Opinion, Public Interest and American Spectator.

These and other similar publications can provide you and your staff members with sympathetic and useful analysis on issues relevant to the Administration. You might wish to consider adding such publications to your current office subscription list. For your convenience, this handout has their mailing addresses.
