MEMORANDUM FOR MICHAEL DEEVER

FM: Susie Summerall A

RE: Congressional Medal of Honor Ceremony

In Joe's absence I have looked into the request for having the President call MSG Roy P. Benavidez to invite him to a ceremony at the Pentagon at 1:30 pm on February 24, 1981 where the President will present him with his Congressional Medal of Honor.

Mr. Benvidez has been invited by the Department of Defense and is aware that the President will award the Medal of Honor. Therefore, it seems inappropriate that the President should call and invite him. The Military office suggests that the President should call to congratulate MSG Benavidez, and indicate that he looks forward to seeing him on the 24th, but not to issue an invitation as this has already been done by DOD.

Attaches is all of the background submitted by the Military Office regarding this scheduling request. I have learned from Richard Darman that the President signed the award on Tuesday, February 9th.

MSG Roy P. Benavidez may be reached at 713/543-5801.

JACK VALENTI
PRESIDENT

February 13, 1981

Dear Mr. Deaver

My old and dear friend Armand Deutsch chatted with me after the birthday party for President Reagan. He told me of a conversation with you on that evening in which Artie reported: That you had received my request for the President to tape a message for the Academy Awards, and to introduce, via tape, the president of the Academy, Fay Kanin; that you had spoken with the President and he had unhesitatingly agreed to do the tape.

The Academy officials, the producer of the Awards television show (Norman Jewison) and I are all overjoyed at this response.

May I suggest that your office tell me with whom the producer, Mr. Jewison, can be in contact with to organize the logistics of the tape, etc. Since the show will be aired live on March 30, it would be most helpful to complete the tape at least a couple of weeks in advance of the telecast.

Mr. Jewison said he would be pleased to offer a draft of the President's remarks, if that would be useful, though I daresay you and your colleagues are well equipped to handle that chore.

The essential ingredient now is to establish a contact point with the White House so that Mr. Jewison can be in personal touch with whomever you designate to manage this small enterprise.

*Let's fund to Mark Goodson

Without eroding your own busy schedule, could you have someone in your office be in touch with me so that I can link together your representative and Mr. Jewison?

Many thanks, Mr. Deaver.

I will wait to hear from your office.

Sincerely,

FROM: Lyn Nofziger L

When [REDACTED] was in, he told me that the guy he beat for Supervisor is suing him, and all the ex-POW's who signed a letter for him, for a million dollars a piece. He says that he's trying to raise money for legal fees and he wants President Reagan to sign a fundraising letter for them. I told him that I had to be opposed to that sort of thing, that I did not think that we could use the President's name for those kinds of purposes. However, I don't wish to be arbitrary about it so I think I need your opinion on it, too, and probably a couple of other people's. b(6)

I really don't think it is our job to get in the middle of these kinds of things. Nor do I wish to be the person who goes out and finds [REDACTED] somebody to sign his letter. [REDACTED] I just don't think the White House ought to get involved in this. b(6)

Please give me your opinion.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Mike Deaver

FM: Joe Holmes

1. The advent of unobtrusive, lightweight video cameras and equipment has made it now possible to videotape those portions of the President's day which would have historical significance.

These videotapes would be done by military cameramen with security clearance, and professional equipment from the Army and Navy photographic centers under direction of the Director of White House Television and Radio services.

2. The footage would be compiled and edited for the National Archives, and at the end of the Reagan Presidency, be transferred to the Reagan Library for use by students, scholars and historians.
3. Visits of heads of state, ceremonial functions and other public functions of the President will be normally covered. It is necessary, however, to define guidelines for other presidential functions and meetings which will be videotaped with, and without sound.

It is recommended that certain discussions of the President, his chief advisors, and members of the cabinet be videotaped for inclusion in the Reagan Library. Also coverage of personal activities of the President, First Lady and the First Family, on a limited basis.

Approval to implement these videotaping activities immediately is requested in order to provide a complete audiovisual history of this Presidency.

JH/cmm

WHITE HOUSE AUDIO VISUAL ACTIVITIES
(VIDEO TAPE, MOTION PICTURE, AUDIO)

- PURPOSE: To review the White House audio-visual program and propose alternatives to present managerial procedures.
- BACKGROUND: There are three White House audio-visual support activities under the White House Military Office.
- A. White House Communications Agency
  - B. Naval Photographic Center
  - C. Army Audio-Visual Center

WHITE HOUSE COMMUNICATIONS AGENCY (WHCA)

This office's function as a White House audio-visual activity is to record the President of the United States in all his public utterances.

The office further functions as an audio-visual recording center by copying all television appearances of the President, and selected appearances by senior staff and members of the First Family.

Both the audio tapes and audio-visual tapes are then forwarded to the National Archives and would be available to the Presidential Library.

NAVAL PHOTOGRAPHIC CENTER

This center has provided photographic support to the President since 1963. Presently they provide:

- o one cameraman at the White House to provide official photos on the President's schedule.
- o a crew to cover with 16mm film, all official activity of the President including foreign as well as domestic trips.
- o occasional production of documentary type films upon request of the White House. (During the Johnson Administration they averaged one hour documentary on LBJ every two months.)

ARMY AUDIO-VISUAL CENTER

This center with over 200 staff has complete video tape facilities with commercial broadcast quality. To date they have been utilized only on an occasional basis such as providing two camera mobile video tape equipment for Presidential TV rehearsals, productions at Camp David, etc.

All three organizations are available for, and have the capability to fill White House audio-visual requirements.

To meet these requirements they do not require additional equipment, additional personnel nor additional directives. Procedures have been well established for employing their services by the White House.

However, the problem with the White House audio-visual structure has been a lack of coordination, a lack of effective daily management, and the lack of a single supervisor to employ the best techniques and services of the three audio-visual units. There has been duplication of activities, lack of communication and an inability of White House staff to keep on top of technical changes in the state of the electronic art.

CONCLUSION: The audio-visual program of the White House has grown beyond anything originally envisioned and "procedures" to handle it have become unworkable and collapsed.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

1. Establish a Director, White House Television, Motion Picture and Radio Services in the Military Office.
2. Channel all video tape, motion picture and audio activities through the Director who would have the expertise to provide knowledgeable direction and guidance, is conversant with White House realities and has a close and knowledgeable association with the Press Secretary and his staff.

Dear Sir:

The Museum of Fine Arts, Houston and the Association of Community Television (Public TV Channel 8, Houston) have asked their Trustees and Directors to contact you concerning the President's planned federal spending cuts for the arts. As much as I would hate to see these two organizations miss any anticipated revenues, I fully support the spending cuts as outlined by President Reagan in his State of the Union Address.

The museum and Channel 8 have honored me with the privilege of serving on their boards. I fully support their programs of service to the community. However, I cannot overlook my nations problems to support special interest groups, even if they are my own. Inflation and inadequate capital formation are plaguing our country and this President is the first in my memory to attempt to do something about these serious and potentially disasterous conditions. Please give him your support. He has mine.

Yours very truly,

David L. Garrison, Jr.

Many thanks for your letter of January 29th. I am sorry we haven't been able to get together on the telephone. I am sure you can understand how hectic things are.

I appreciate having the benefit of your thinking on copy-right legislation. Because this involves legislative matters, I have taken the liberty of forwarding a copy of your letter to Max Friedersdorf, Assistant to the President for Legislative Affairs, for his review. Mr. Mike Deaver

Dear Mr. Deaver:

You must forgive my presuming on our luncheon acquaintance to phone you. Everyone you've met in the past year, not to mention those you've known longer, is undoubtedly doing the same thing. Our agenda is more readily accomplished by letter, in any case. (I suspect the telephone is subtly eroding our entire civilization.)

I've discussed both these matters briefly with Bill Smith, who suggested you as the proper arbiter. I well understand there are matters of over-riding importance the Administration must deal with first, but at some point you will turn your attention to motion pictures, both as art and commerce. Let me speak to both, representing different constituencies.

The American Film Institute, which I chair, was created by the National Endowment for the Arts, on whose board I also served a term. Since the Chairman of the Endowment is appointed by the President, a new appointment will in due course be made. Before that happens, I'd like to provide some input.

The commercial interests of the motion picture industry are represented by the Motion Picture Association, of which Jack Valenti is President. A prime concern of everyone whose living depends on film is the copyright legislation, now generally regarded as inadequate to the problems presented by the burgeoning cable television industry. Inevitably, the Administration must review this legislation and make recommendations to the Congress. Before they do, Mr. Valenti would like the opportunity to discuss the problem, probably with Mr. Meese.

I await, at your convenience, your judgment on these matters.
I think they are important.

Cordially,

Charlton Heston

Dear Rick:

How nice to hear from you. One of the nice things about my new job is that I've heard from so many old friends.

Maybe one of these days when things settle down we'll have an opportunity to renew our friendship.

Again, thank you for writing.

Dear Frank:

This is just a note to thank you for your letter of February 2, which I read with interest. Thanks, too, for your kind words of congratulations. The pace is hectic, but I am enjoying it very much.

It is very kind of you to offer wine for use at the White House. I've been working with Corti Brothers in Sacramento and Dave Berkely in particular who has been very helpful. I'm anxious to let the world know about California's greatest resource.

Keep me posted on your activities.

Sincerely,

Dear Jim:

Many thanks for your letter of February 4. I am sorry we haven't been able to get together and I'm sure you can understand how hectic the pace has been lately.

Congratulations on being named Senior Vice President for Marketing of The Charles Schwab Corporation! I know this is a well-deserved position and I wish you every happiness and success.

I appreciate your willingness to help the Administration and I am sure that down the road, we will be taking advantage of your kind offer. I know you could offer a great deal and I will get in touch with you as soon as something appropriate comes along.

I'm truly sorry we couldn't work something out. Please stay in touch and let me know when you'll be in town again.

Sincerely,
