Dear Philip:

Thank you for your kind letter of September 2. I am looking forward to our visit in October, and I would be delighted to have lunch with you on the thirteenth. Bill is working on my schedule with the embassy and as the time draws near, I will have them get in touch.

Please give my regards to everyone.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

From Mike.

I have just returned from holiday to hear the very good news that you may be in London from 11th - 16th October. I know that Robert Fellowes is hoping to organise a lunch for you, Bill Sitmann and Mike McManus on Wednesday 12th October. I wondered however whether it would be possible for you and me to have lunch together one day that week. Would Thursday 13th October be any good to you?

All good wishes.

Yours truly,

Dear Mrs. Fuller:

We have heard from your friend, S. N. Pierce, that you will be coming to Washington, D.C. later this month.

This note is to let you know that we have arranged for two places on the VIP Tour of the White House on Wednesday, September 28th. You should report to the East Appointments Gate at 8:45 AM - there is no need for tickets.

We hope that you have an enjoyable stay in our Nation's Capital.

CHARLES A. PERRY

WASHINGTON CATHEDRAL + MOUNT SAINT ALBAN + WASHINGTON, D. C. 20016 + (202) 537-6221

Dear Mr. Speakes:

My communications director, Ms. Nancy Montgomery, has informed me that following the memorial service on September 9th for the victims of the KAL disaster you called to "order" her to instruct our longtime contract photographer, Mr. Mort Broffman, not to supply pictures to the New York Times and Time Magazine. She has informed me that you demanded from her a written apology for the way in which the cathedral in its press arrangements "embarrassed" you and "took advantage of the President" and that your language and your posture were threatening.

The facts as she related them to me are as follows:

In the interest of cooperation with the White House and cognizant of the pressures under which you work, we agreed to a policy for this service which included two still photographers, yours and ours. We joined with you in not wishing to intrude on the President's privacy as a worshipper. Ms. Montgomery specifically mentioned to your subordinates, Mr. Hart and Ms. Haggard, that Mr. Broffman would sell pictures to the New York Times, Time Magazine and Associated Press, a practice we normally allow.

After the fact you called to browbeat Ms. Montgomery into getting Mr. Broffman to withdraw his pictures, completely ignoring her representations regarding her prior conversations with your staff.

Please understand, Mr. Speakes, that Washington Cathedral is not an extension of the White House, but an independent, religious institution separated by the provisions of the first amendment from the government. You do not make press policy for us. Rather, out of a desire to be helpful, we cooperate with you. I am sure you recognize that this spirit of cooperation involved hundreds of hours of the time of our professionals seeking to accommodate the needs of the White House, the Secret Service and the Department of State. This we are happy to do but it should be remembered that we do this out of a sense of civic and moral obligation not out of organizational or legal compulsion. The service was a public service of Washington Cathedral, not a "private service" as you described it to Ms. Montgomery.

FHI

This cathedral has worked closely with every presidential staff since Theodore Roosevelt and Ms. Montgomery has worked with every press secretary since the Eisenhower administration. She and I are not unaware of the enormity of your task and until your call have received nothing but appreciation for our cooperative spirit.

Nevertheless cooperation does not include obsequious bending to browbeating behavior. Rough language and threats are not appropriate commerce between state and church. Ms. Montgomery informed me that you said if she did not agree to your post facto demands, the President would not return to Washington Cathedral. I trust his decisions regarding participation in worship at Washington Cathedral are made on a basis larger than pooling arrangements involving the sale of pictures.

We look upon the national services at Washington Cathedral with some satisfaction and trust they have well served both the national interest and the glory of God. We trust also that they have been of pastoral support to the victims of terrorism and injustice and a force for reconciliation for the nation as a whole. We welcome the participation of the President and look forward to his return.

I know that relationships with your office will continue to be cordial and productive and write in that spirit and with that hope. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Charles A. Perry

Dear Michael,

The years have passed but I still remember the San Jose piano player performing all those evenings when we were in college. Thomas and I have, of course, followed your career and keep in touch with more personal aspects of it from Tim Murphy and indirectly from Berg Benson.

Thomas and I are living in Laguna Beach. He is practicing law in Orange, and I am vice president of marketing and promotions for a Spanish advertising and promotion agency.

I became informed through a television news update that you were heading up a task force on women's issues. I am acutely interested in this area and for several years I have been actively involved with women's issues, mainly as a counselor with the University of California at Irvine's Women's Center. After interviewing countless women during these years, the knowledge I have gained has really sparked in me a concern to see task forces such as this one develop. Michael, I am interested in learning your objectives and willing, if you need any help in California, to donate some of my time.

Bill
I know you are busy, but it would be great to hear from you. One of my most vivid recollections of you during those years is one that formed when Thomas, I, you and Berg were playing bridge in our apartment and you trumped Berg's (your partner) ace. He stood up, threw down his cards, said a few choice words and we all ended up laughing at his antics. The result was, however, to avoid Berg as a partner!

I wish you all the best, Michael. I always felt you were such a genuine person and that you would only align yourself with other such people.

For this reason, I have had great confidence in this administration.

Dear Esther:

I'm very sorry that you didn't get the Treasurer's post. But, frankly Mrs. Ortega is a first class appointment.

I'm also sorry for the way this was handled. Unfortunately you were led to believe things by people who didn't have that authority. I have asked John to see if there are some other spots you'd be interested in.

Again, my apologies.

Dear Mike:

I guess I received your answer to my July 5th letter last Thursday from John Herrington.

"Crushed" is probably not a strong enough word to describe my feelings. However, I do know in my deepest of hearts that everything works together for the best. In time I'll accept that. I'm not sure I'll ever really be capable of forgiving those that kept me "strung out" for a year - the worst year of my professional life - at least so far.

It was terribly clever of the Sr. Staff to hold off the nomination of the Hispanic woman for U.S. Treasurer until the first day of National Hispanic Week. That was a real stroke of genius. I'm hopeful that Mrs. Ortega will bring the necessary hispanic votes to re-elect the President next year.

Thank you for your support of me for the Treasurer's position. Just being considered for such a prestigious office is an honor. You've contributed to my political education Mike. Thank you for that too!

Sincerely,

Esther R. Greene

Dear Mike:

Since 1974, the Central Labor Council of Phoenix, Arizona, operated a Food Bank Program. One day each year lettercarriers, in the normal course of their duties, picked up donated canned goods and other non-perishable foods along their mail route. Participation by the lettercarriers was entirely a volunteer effort. The Program was immensely successful, producing 60 - 90 tons of food in one day. Under the Democratic President in 1978, the Postmaster General stopped the Phoenix effort on the grounds that it was an unauthorized use of government vehicles.

In April, the White House instructed the Postmaster General to allow the volunteer letter carriers to pick up the food donations. The labor union leaders were most grateful. While the President was in Phoenix visiting his ailing mother-in-law, the union leaders sought to thank the President for helping them to continue feeding the hungry. The unions were prepared to escort the President through St. Vincent De Paul's Church-warehouse and visit the senior citizens receiving the donations. The unions were told that the President refused to take credit for removing the regulatory obstacle enabling them to feed the hungry and that the President's good deed must not be recognized by either the participating labor unions, those receiving the food, or the citizens of Phoenix. Subsequent to the wishes of the Postmaster General, the President's involvement remained secret.

PAGE TWO
September 9, 1983

RECOMMENDATIONS

That the President:

1. recognize the Phoenix Food Bank Program, preferably with a visit to the Church-warehouse.

Benefits accrued: Catholics
the needy elderly Hispanic, et al.
the union volunteers

2. the President request the program sponsors to work with the Postmaster General to emulate the Phoenix program in other states -- i.e., a national program model on hunger.

Sincerely,

Michael P. Balzano, Jr.

Dear Bishop Morse:

Thank you for your kind invitation inviting me to opening ceremonies of the Episcopal Heritage Center on October 16. I'm sorry but I have an engagement with the President that I cannot get out of.

I can appreciate your interest in military musical participation. I, too, have heard many of the band presentations and understand how they can add tremendously to any ceremony. I sincerely regret, however, that I cannot assist with your request for this particular occasion.

The Pentagon advises me that Armed Forces support of public events by active duty or reserve units must not endorse, imply endorsement, nor selectively benefit any religious group or organization. If this program were a free and open to the public military concert and not affiliated with your church's regular programs, then support might possibly be authorized by the Department of Defense since the band would just be utilizing the church facilities as a non-sectarian activity for the benefit of the entire community. To actively participate in this church activity would, however, be inappropriate.

I do want to drop by the Center while you are in town. Keep me posted.
