Dr. W. Glenn Campbell
c/o John H. Moore
Acting Deputy Director
Hoover Institution
Stanford, California 94305

Dear Glenn:

Twenty-five years ago, you became Director of the Hoover Institution and resolved to give this country a better base of knowledge and an improved analytic capacity on matters foreign and domestic.

You put together a wonderful team of scholars, and you achieved your goal with spectacular success.

Congratulations on a job well done.

Sincerely,

George Bush

STANFORD, CA 94305

DEAR GLENN:

I AM INDEED SORRY THAT IT IS NOT POSSIBLE FOR US TO BE THERE FOR THE CELEBRATION OF YOUR 25TH ANNIVERSARY AS DIRECTOR OF THE HOOVER INSTITUTION. YOU HAVE DONE SUCH AN OUTSTANDING JOB FOR ALL OF THOSE YEARS THAT THIS RECOGNITION IS MUCH DESERVED. I AM VERY PLEASED THAT THIS CELEBRATION RECOGNIZES YOUR GREAT WORK.

I HOPE THAT YOU WILL CONTINUE IN YOUR CAPACITY AS DIRECTOR FOR A LONG TIME TO COME AND PERHAPS I WILL BE ABLE TO JOIN YOU THERE FOR YOUR 30TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION. JANE JOINS ME IN SENDING OUR FOND CONGRATULATIONS AND WARM BEST WISHES.

SINCERELY,

Acting Deputy Director
Hoover Institution

Dear Glenn:

Congratulations on the occasion of your 25th anniversary as Director of the Hoover Institution.

As you know, my own years of public service have largely coincided with your tenure at Hoover. During that time, I have had frequent occasion to call on you and the scholars at the Institution. And whatever the issue--whether it concerned the State of California or the entire nation, domestic policy or foreign affairs--I found Hoover to be a source of thorough analysis and real innovation.

That, of course, is largely due to your efforts and dedication. It is no exaggeration to say that, under your leadership, the Hoover Institution has become perhaps the preeminent public policy organization in the world.

For most people, this would be more than sufficient achievement for an entire lifetime. But I know that where you are concerned, 25 years may mark a milestone, but it will not signal an end to your involvement in the issues that have motivated you from the beginning. It is my fondest hope that your future years will be every bit as successful.

Sincerely,

William Clark

Dear Glenn:

I am writing this letter to you both as a friend and as an Honorary Fellow of the Hoover Institution. For Nancy and me it is a special honor to be part of the dinner on July 18 celebrating your 25th year as Director of the Hoover Institution. It is truly a unique occasion, and we are proud to extend to you and Rita our warmest congratulations.

Nancy and I would also like to express to you and to your colleagues at Stanford our deep appreciation for the invitation to locate the Presidential Library and Museum of this Administration in affiliation with the Hoover Institution at Stanford University. We are confident that the collections coming to Stanford will be of great value to future students and scholars.

Under your direction for the past quarter of a century, the Hoover Institution has grown and flourished. As a consequence of your leadership it enjoys today an excellent reputation for scholarship throughout the United States and the world. It has become very simply a unique national asset.

During the past sixty-five years, thousands of scholars from throughout our nation and abroad have experienced first-hand the wealth of the great collections located at the Hoover Institution. We will forever owe a debt to Herbert Hoover for his foresight in establishing one of the great libraries in the world. In the same way, the scholarly community and the nation owe a special debt to you for carrying on the legacy of Herbert Hoover and creating one of the world's great centers for the advanced study of domestic and foreign affairs. You should be very proud of these achievements, and we are privileged to share this pride with you on this special evening.

Nancy and I send you our best wishes for every future success and happiness.

Sincerely,

Dear Glenn:

Congratulations on twenty-five outstanding years with the Hoover Institution. I regret that I cannot be with you tonight to join with your many friends and admirers as they fete you on this special occasion. I am delighted, however, to have served as a Sponsor for this unique event.

Your contributions to the Institution are innumerable. During your tenure the Hoover Institution has become an internationally renowned center for the study of foreign and domestic affairs. Many times members of this Administration have turned to the Hoover Institution for an in-depth analysis of a key issue. Your research and documentation are consistently excellent, and it gives me great pleasure to join with your many friends in thanking you, and in wishing you well tonight. Our greatest hope is that you will give us another twenty-five years of excellence in academic research.

I can't be at the dinner, but I also can't let this occasion pass without a note of congratulations.

These days any one keeping at anything important, and sometimes controversial, for 25 years -- or being permitted to do so -- is a special achievement and recognition of its own. The growth of the Hoover Institution in all respects speaks for itself -- even if as an old Easterner I resent all that intellectual power moving West. After all, you could teach me all I needed to know about government spending and deficits years ago in Cambridge, when everything was clearer!

Congratulations on a well deserved tribute to your institution building -- only a young curmudgeon could have done it.

I am deeply sorry that I will be unable to return to the States for your tribute to Glenn Campbell on July 18, but I would indeed be delighted to serve as a "Sponsor" for the occasion.

Glenn Campbell has been a great leader for the Hoover Institution and for the country. The scope of his service, his many and varied contributions to national policy and to national education are a testament to his commitment to the ideals and values this nation represents.

Glenn has been a close friend and colleague for more than two decades. He was deeply involved with Georgetown's Center for Strategic and International Studies from its very beginning. All of us at CSIS benefitted tremendously from his knowledge and wisdom.

I have also had the privilege of serving with Glenn in other, governmental capacities. There, too, I have seen first-hand the great impact of his insight, good judgment and commitment.

On the occasion of this celebration, please extend to Glenn my warmest and most heartfelt congratulations. He has served as an example to us

Dear Glenn:

Among the pleasures I have discovered since emerging from the isolated world of the scientific laboratory has been the opportunity to know and learn from people who think about policy issues the way I used to think about nuclear physics. It has been a heady experience, but nowhere have I found such intellectual stimulation and excitement as I have when visiting the Hoover Institution or meeting with its members.

You deserve great credit for that. Your guidance over the past twenty-five years has resulted in a mix of thinkers noted as much for their diversity as for their brilliance. That combination has served Hoover well, as can be seen in its enviable reputation today. But the combination, those clashes of ideas that you have nurtured, have served the nation even better, offering insights, provoking reevaluations, and in general showing that there's no substitute for wisdom in developing national policy.

I deeply regret that I could not be with you at this well deserved celebration, but I do want to join your other friends in extending my heartiest congratulations at this festive occasion.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that I join as a sponsor of the dinner marking of the 25th anniversary of Glenn Campbell as Director of the Hoover Institution. The honor is one that is justly deserved. Glenn has provided impressive leadership in the field of advanced study of domestic and foreign affairs, and the Hoover Institution has been very fortunate to have his direction and leadership over the years.

Inasmuch as I can't be with you this evening, I want to take this opportunity of congratulating you on your well deserved recognition that this dinner represents.

Your enormous contributions to your own institution and to the Regents of the University of California are so well known that they hardly need comment but I would like to thank you warmly. Both institutions have been fortunate indeed for the skill and devotion that you have brought them. But beyond these more conspicuous activities, I am well aware of the thoughtful advice that you are constantly bringing to the welfare of our nation and in particular the Federal government, which far surpasses the normal call of duty.

This also gives me the opportunity of saying how much I enjoyed our personal relationship and the opportunity to work so closely with you over the years. Long may you wave!

This letter is written for the purpose of expressing to you the deep admiration I have for all that you stand for and have accomplished throughout your career. As you know, I love a real fighter for the proper causes, and certainly no one fits this description better than you. As a matter of fact, I have often reflected upon the fact that we are an excellent team in that we think alike, work well together, and freely express ourselves to each other. In addition, I think we are pretty damn smart--both of us. I guess my only regret is that our paths did not cross sooner in order that we could have fought our team battles together over a longer period of time.

Dear Glenn:

Warmest congratulations on your 25th anniversary as Director of the Hoover Institution! The Institution is truly a national resource, and you deserve immense credit for bringing it to its present station of eminence.

As I look back on my two years with the Regents of the University of California, so recently concluded, I want to express my personal appreciation for your outstanding service to that institution as well. Your presence on the Board serves to keep everyone on their toes, and your long experience provides a needed dimension. I am glad that you have been renominated and that the University will have your continuing contribution.

My memories of the Regents are warmed with remembrances of the many conversations you and I had after meetings. Your good nature and friendship went a long way to make this "transient" alumni Regent feel particularly welcome. In the process we had a lot of fun too!

All the best to you in the future.

Congratulations on twenty-five years of service as Director of the Hoover Institution!

Twenty-five years ago, when former President Hoover picked a young Harvard reject to bring political balance and ideological objectivity to the Stanford campus, many were surprised. I was a member of the engineering faculty at the time, and I didn't know what the fuss was about. Now I understand!

Seriously, Glenn, you have taken a small institute of good quality and turned it into a world class Institution of great excellence. You have done an outstanding job. Again, congratulations and best wishes to you and to Rita Ricardo Campbell. May you continue onward and upward!

Dear Glenn:

Unfortunately, Kitty and I will be unable to attend the dinner on July 18 marking your twenty-fifth anniversary as Director of the Hoover Institution. But inasmuch as we cannot be there to honor you I would like to take this occasion to congratulate you on the extraordinary job you have done in bringing the Institution to its current level of intellectual leadership, not only in our country but throughout the world.

As you may recall, I was new on the campus when you received your appointment. I remember so well the hurdles that were set up for you to clear before you could achieve your objectives for the Institution and how difficult those early years were. Our friendship was nurtured in that kind of an environment and it has been strong ever since.

The quality of the people you have brought to Stanford has made it one of the university's most valuable assets and its research publications and teaching have had a positive and pervasive influence throughout the country. Its close affiliation with Stanford is to me one of its major strengths and there is no question but that this same association has been an important factor in Stanford's excellence as a university. Without your perseverance this could not have happened. And you should be very proud of your accomplishment, as are your friends.

Dear Glenn:

I send warm felicitations on this happy celebration of your twenty-five years as Director of the Hoover Institution. We are dismayed at our inability to be present. But mindful of your devotion to duty and to national endeavor, we believe that you understand when we must instead express at a distance, but from the heart, our enthusiasm for your leadership of the Hoover Institution.

From the days of our earliest associations in Washington so many years ago, to the present, when you are a skilled advisor in the crucial issues of the Oval Office, your counsel about what the federal government should do has been decisive. And it has helped all of us, as workers for and students of national stability and security. The "peace" aspect of your institution's title has ever received your untiring support. Indeed, this has been a factor in the freedom from nuclear confrontation at a time when many other strategies of weakness and compromise were virtually inviting such confrontation.

Along with high competency in scholarship and administration, invaluable for our national decision making, you have brought a personal commitment and integrity of highest merit. This, itself, has been an inspiration to generations of new experts in foreign affairs and security strategies. Further, it has been a delight to your host of friends; nowhere else can be found such eloquent and well turned righteous indignation as you can marshal when needed and deserved! You couple appropriate moral conviction with very human and articulate common sense.

Dear Glenn:

It is with regret that I shall miss the dinner in your honor on July 18, 1984.

You brought strong leadership to the Hoover Institution and have exercised it effectively to the great benefit of the Institution and of Stanford University. Mr. Hoover would be proud of what you have accomplished.

With all best wishes.

Very truly yours,

Dear Bus:

It will be my pleasure to be a sponsor of the dinner being given to honor Glenn's 25th Anniversary as Director of the Hoover Institute. Unfortunately, it will not be possible for me to attend the dinner on July 18 because of another commitment. I do regret this because Glenn has done a tremendous job over these many years in helping to establish the Institute in the respected position it holds. As you said, this is a richly deserved tribute and I trust that you will extend my personal good wishes to Glenn on the occasion of this fine recognition of his work.

With best wishes,

Dear Glenn -

Incredible how one's later years race so swiftly away! I find it so hard to realize you have been the spage, factotum and guru of Hoover for a whole quarter-century - since those crackling last two years of Ike's Administration when, finally, he was able to be the outspoken, hard-hitting, conservative he had intended and hoped to be from the beginning.

It was in that season, extending on into my P+G years of the Sixties, that I met you and became your comrade on sundry policies, issues and endeavors dear to Hoover.

Ever since, I have observed with eyes aglow and willing admiration how you fashioned solid, enduring growth and high-quality performance, how you won the allegiance, not only of scholars eminent throughout the world, but also the respect and cooperation of our nation's toughest pragmatists in the business, industrial, governmental and political arenas, all the while most skillfully piloting the Good Ship Hoover through waters often tempestuous and always at least in a rail.

It has all been no less than a masterful and spectacular personal achievement, Glenn - so striking, so widely acknowledged, as to assure you of that deep and abiding satisfaction which comes only from overcoming the hardest challenge that life can present.

So very many of us all across this nation who have long marveled at your extraordinary talents will, I knew, weigh in as I do on this occasion. We are prized to cheer and applaud a cherished friend who has done so much in so many ways to bring great distinction to a wonderful Institution.

I know you will have a marvelous party and am so sorry Sally and I could not be there to share in the festivities. All hail to thee!

Dr. W. Glenn Campbell
Director, The Hoover Institution

Sincerely,

Barbara Harlow

Dear Glenn,

I would like to add my voice to those who honor you in celebration of your 25th anniversary as Director of the Hoover Institution. I only regret that I cannot be there in person but I have just now returned to the area after an extended vacation out of the country. Hence, my delay in writing to you.

During your tenure as Director the Hoover Institution has produced an enviable record for scholarly works. The quality of its Fellows has reached an all-time high and through their consultations and their writings they have had a constructive impact on public policy and on the improvement of human understanding.

You have good reason to be proud of your handiwork and of your personal contribution to the great measure of success that the Hoover Institution has enjoyed under your leadership.

Please accept my very best personal wishes for your continued success.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Bus:

Glenn Campbell is one of my colleagues on the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board of whom I'm especially fond. Ergo, I'm only too happy to "sponsor" the dinner in his honor, July 18th.

But, darn, I can't be with you as I am planning to leave for Europe in mid-July, not returning until after Labor Day.

Nevertheless, it's true that 'the best-laid schemes o'mice an' men gang aft agley'. So, if for whatever reason my European plans gang agley I'll let you know in time to save a place for me at the table.

The Hoover Institute has been a mighty fortress of Historical Truths for many a year, and much of the credit goes to Glenn.

Sincerely,

Dear Glenn:

I am pleased that you are being honored on the occasion of your twenty-fifth anniversary as Director of the Hoover Institution, and I am honored to be chosen as a Sponsor with the opportunity to write a few words about your service there and the contributions Hoover has made to scholarship and the study of policy making. Matthew Arnold, writing about Edmund Burke, said he "is so great because, . . . he brings thought to bear upon politics, he saturates politics with thought." Under your leadership, the Hoover Institution can make the same claim. Because of the scholarship bearing on issues of public policy emanating from Hoover, the level of informed debate has been raised in this country and policy decisions have improved, at least some times. And even where decisions go astray, the path is harder because it is strewn with the hard facts of economic reality: costs are made known and law makers are made uncomfortable.

I hope therefore that you take as much pride as your admirers do in the work that has been done at Hoover in these last twenty-five years. To expound sound principles, to gather and disseminate the facts, to force an elevation in the level of debate are accomplishments worthy of Burke. You, too, have caused thought to bear upon politics.

Yours sincerely,

Charlie

Dear Glenn:

As an eyewitness to your 25 years at the helm of the Hoover Institution, no one knows better than I how you have overcome difficulties and stormy weather and achieved the magnificent success represented by the Hoover today.

The Chief would be as proud of your performance and as grateful for your friendship as I am!

Hail to the Chief! Godspeed to Glenn Campbell.

Dear Glenn:

Congratulations on twenty-five years of solid accomplishment. By giving of yourself and being wholly personally committed, you have brought the Hoover Institution to its present position of international recognition. I have enjoyed each of our projects. I shall always treasure our walks and our talks on the river road, our dinner meetings in Washington, and our examination of documents and testimony for the case in Kansas City. Each experience proves that your scholarship and wit are always in evidence.

Most of all, I cherish the friendship of you and Rita and I look forward to the next twenty-five years with the keenest delight to enjoy that great mixture of excitement and tranquility upon which you thrive.

Sincerely,

Dear Glenn,

I'm so glad we're able to pay you the tribute of tonight's dinner. You've shown us all what a good man can do with twenty-five years of steadfast drive and purpose.

And you never flinched. You proved yet again the validity of my mentor
John Paul Jones' plan of attack before Trafalgar:

"NO CAPTAIN CAN DO VERY WRONG
