Dear Mr. Applewhaite:

Thank you for your recent letter reiterating your interest in reappointment as a Member of the Federal Labor Relations Authority.

As you may be aware, the President has announced his intention to nominate Barbara Jean Mahone to this position. Ms. Mahone is eminently qualified and we are confident that once confirmed she will serve the President well in this position.

Your continuing interest and support is appreciated as is your service during your tenure on the Federal Labor Relations Authority.

With best regards,

Sincerely,

Can you prepare a response for me pls.

Dear Mr. Deaver:

As the incumbent Republican member of the Federal Labor Relations Authority who is interested in being reappointed and who sincerely has the best interest of the agency at heart, I feel compelled to make certain observations.

I have been informed by an unofficial source that the White House Office of Presidential Personnel intends to support the nomination of another individual to my position, and that the President will designate that person as chairman of the Authority. It appears that the person under consideration is without labor-management relations training or experience.

The Federal Labor Relations Authority is an independent agency in the executive branch with responsibility for administering the Federal Service Labor-Management Relations Statute pursuant to the Civil Service Reform Act of 1978. Each member of the Authority deals primarily with the substantive elements of labor relations. By definition, this entails the direct interpretation of federal statutes and federal regulations. Every decision issued by the Authority, impacts, in some way, of the federal employment system. All three of the current members have a long history of experience in public and private sector labor law. (see Attachment I.) Regardless of whatever background any potential candidate to this office may possess, an absence of exposure to and knowledge of labor law will not only prove detrimental, but whatever policy and direction the Administration may wish to pursue would be endangered. Moreover, it would be an extreme embarrassment to have an individual in this position being easily controlled by the Democratic incumbents.

In the summer of 1982, the members of the agency delegated authority to the chairman for the control of administrative matters such as procurement, fiscal management, personnel management and office services. (see Attachment II.) Under Title VII of the Civil Service Reform Act, no member is given any more authority than any other member. Consequently, prior to the time of the delegation, the internal administrative authority had rested with all three members acting by consensus. This method proved to be inefficient and ineffective. The delegation, on the other hand, has the potential for bringing this administrative chaos under control.

The Honorable Michael K. Deaver

It must be stressed, however, that this delegation may be revoked at any time by the other two members. Therefore, any belief that the designation of an individual as chairman gives to that individual unqualified administrative control of the agency is misfounded. If the current members sense an inability to relate to or work with the designated chairman, they could simply revoke the delegation and return to tripartite administration of the agency.

Under the current delegation very few changes have been made. I have advised Presidential Personnel that upon my renomination and designation as chairman, I would be prepared to take immediate measures to implement the streamlining of the agency's daily operation. It is my strong belief that I can be effective working with the other two members regardless of whether or not the delegation of authority is in effect. Prior to the present delegation, I was able to accomplish a reorganization of the Office of the Chief Counsel by merging two operational functions resulting in a more expeditious method of processing cases. In addition, I have proposed many other cost-saving measures. This is by no means sufficient. Upon my reappointment and designation as chairman, I would intend to take further actions to assure the economic efficiency of the agency.

I have made the foregoing information known to Senators Laxalt and D'Amato, both of whom have continued to support my reappointment and designation as chairman.

Due to the importance of this matter, I have sent letters to the Honorable Edwin Meece III and the Honorable James A. Baker III. I request either a joint or individual meeting to discuss my future relations with the Federal Labor Relations Authority. Thank you for your time and attention to these concerns.

Sincerely,

Leon B. Applewhite

Dear Mike,

Enclosed is another in the ongoing series. This is a personal friend of Peter Stremmel's who was with the group that had cocktails with us in your suite at the Mayflower.

He has also indicated that if London is not possible he would take Bonn or Geneva.

February 28, 1981

Dear Berger,

That was a great evening last month -- Dee and I really enjoyed chatting with Mike and Carolyn Deaver, accompanied by our good friends the Stremmels up in your suite the night of the inaugural. Next time you are in town I hope we can get together.

I would appreciate your mentioning to Mike my interest in a Science Counselor post in Europe. I am most interested in the London job, which is one of those now being vacated (incumbent was a colleague of mine in the Ford White House). This will be a job that is strategically important.

Our dealings with countries like Great Britain, with whom we share such close relations and common problems of industry and economics, call for very careful attention to coordination of technology policies. Being well plugged in to U. S. industrial leaders, and to science and technology circles here in Washington with emphasis in the energy area, I could be particularly effective there.

The attached gives a quick summary background. If you or Mike need any more information, you can reach me in the office at (202) 252-5436 or thru Dee in Scoop's office at (202) 224-9375.

Many, many thanks -- look forward to seeing you next time you are back.

Sincerely,

Bill

Dear Mike:

It has come to my attention that Deane Beman, Commissioner of the PGA Tour, is being considered for appointment to the President's Council on Physical Fitness. I have worked closely with Deane over the past nine years. He is a fine athlete and a particularly able and articulate sports executive.

Deane has greatly increased public interest in professional tournament golf and in the sport of golf generally. His able and innovative business leadership has allowed the PGA Tour to increase its assets and revenues, and the amount contributed to charity from its tournaments, severalfold over the past nine years.

Deane is a strong supporter of the President and in my judgment would make an excellent addition to the President's Council on Physical Fitness.

Dear Mike:

I discussed with Shirley on the telephone last week the possibility of entering the name of Deane R. Beaman as a candidate to the President's Council on Physical Fitness. I am writing to you to ask your assistance with this.

Mr. Beaman, as the Commissioner of the Professional Golf Association has been an outstanding representative of the nineteen million people in the United States who are frequent golfers. Under his leadership, the PGA has expanded over 1,000 percent -- and is still growing fast. I have enclosed a personal resume for Mr. Beman, and I think you will find it quite impressive.

In many discussions with Mr. Beman, I find him to be a loyal supporter of the President, and the goals the President has set for America. If a further character reference should be needed, please contact Secretary of the Treasury Donald Regan. He has known Mr. Beman for many years.

Mike, thanks for any help you could give me on this. Deane is deserving of this most prestigious appointment. My best to your family, and hope to see you soon.

Best regards,

Lanny

note

January 3, 1983

Dear Mr. Deaver:

My new year salutations to you and your family, especially Blair. We established a little rapport at Sutter Lawn last summer.

I'd like to request permission to offer your name as a character/work reference as I encounter such requests in interviewing for employment. I will be mailing my resume to major advertising firms on the West Coast. Advertising has held my interest for a couple of years now as a field which demands both creativity and executive leadership from participants. I will only be offering your name to those tentative employers who request references.

I am greatfully aware of the benefits I have received from your generosity. Unfortunately at this time I am incapable of properly compensating your good deeds. If at anytime you become aware of an opportunity for me to do something for you in return, do not hesitate. I am

Appreciatively yours,

Michael Bennett

EXPERIENCE

1979-
Present

Protocol Officer, Department of State

- Planned, organized, and supervised the visits of numerous Chiefs of State, Heads of Governments, Foreign Ministers and other high-ranking officials to the United States. Recommended itineraries to Foreign Embassies and worked with the Embassies to develop a final schedule which accommodated desires of both the USG and the Foreign Government. Worked closely with the White House, the Congress, and other Government Agencies, advising on policies and arrangements pertaining to their portion of the visit.
- Travelled throughout the United States with Foreign Visitors, coordinating and planning a program which would be most beneficial to the visitor as well as local officials, allowing for maximum exposure for both. This also involved arrangements for transportation, hotel accommodations, funding and coordination of security.

- Accompanied numerous Presidential Delegations abroad as the senior coordinator. All aspects of planning, scheduling and logistic coordination were utilized during these visits -- particularly in visiting a third world country where a US Embassy presence was either non-existent or very limited.
- Counseled and maintained close contact with military authorities, U.S. Secret Service, Congress, Foreign Embassies, Government Agencies and U.S. Corporations.

1973-78

Personal Assistant to the Secretary of State

- Handled schedule and correspondence for both Secretary Kissinger and Secretary Vance. This involved channelling information to the proper Bureaus within the Department of State, tasking Bureaus for recommendations for the Secretary, ensuring that all Bureaus with a need-to-know were aware of issues requiring the Secretary's attention and ensuring all pertinent Bureaus were informed of actions taken by the Secretary.
- Travelled extensively throughout the world both with the Secretary and also advancing his visits abroad to coordinate logistics and scheduling.

Dear Tom:

Thank you for the letter regarding Louise Brunsdale. I met with Louise when we were looking for someone for the Blair House job.
I know of her dedication to the Reagan effort.

She is a delightful lady and we will keep her in mind as we fill future positions.

With best wishes.

Dear Mike:

I realize a new Social Secretary has already been chosen, but if there are any other changes being made in that office -- or at the Protocol Office, with Gahl Hodges leaving -- I hope you will seriously consider Louise Brunsdale.

Louise -- whom you may have met at some time -- now works for Jeane Kirkpatrick in New York. She is gracious, attractive, energetic, puts people at ease and, perhaps most important, does not get ruffled in a crisis. During the 1980 Reagan campaign, she was first a receptionist and then overseer of the volunteer operation. Every day seemed to bring a new problem, but -- as I'm sure those who worked with her will confirm -- Louise was able to handle them all calmly, despite the highly emotional atmosphere in which she was working.

Even if there is no present position for her, I urge you to meet with Louise -- she is in Washington on many weekends -- just in case something should open up in the future.

Cordially,

Thomas S. Winter
Editor

P.S. Thanks for your help with Terry Scanlon. He has already been able to do some good work at the Consumer Product Safety Commission budget hearings.

ROBERT A. ROWLAND

WASHINGTON, D. C. 20007

March 25, 1983

The Honorable Helene von Damm
Assistant to the President
for Presidential Personnel
The White House
Washington, D. C. 20500

Dear Helene:

I am writing to request, with all urgency, your recommendation of E. Ross Buckley for appointment as a member of the Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission.

When I became Chairman of the Review Commission, one of my primary goals was to reduce the case backlog, and at the same time to seek to achieve a decisional philosophy which would be compatible with the views of President Reagan. A part of my goal has been achieved: the case backlog has been reduced from 351 cases to 163. However, accomplishment of the remainder of that goal will depend in large measure on the philosophical disposition of the new appointee to the Commission.

The cases presently pending on our backlog, as well as new cases being directed for review are of a substantially complicated and legally complex nature. Their disposition will require that the new member of the Commission be able to assimilate quickly a tremendous volume of very unique case law, become immediately familiar with the Commission's procedures, and, most importantly, form with me the majority necessary to the proper disposition of our case load.

Ross Buckley's appointment would accomplish this. He is, at present, the General Counsel of the Commission. As such, he is intimately familiar with our prior case law and procedures and is on excellent terms with all of the Commission's staff. In addition, his political and philosophical background, which he and I have discussed frequently and at length, assure me that his presence on the Commission will provide the balance and majority that I need.

Mr. Buckley's political credentials are, in my estimation, most impressive. He is a cousin of William F. Buckley, of National Review, and Senator James L. Buckley, both of whom, as you know, have national reputation. His sister, Mrs. Malcolm L. Milburn, of Austin, Texas, was active for many years in Republican politics, and is a former National Committeewoman from Texas and former President of the National Federation of Republican Women's Clubs. Ross Buckley was active in Republican politics in Louisiana and was a Republican candidate for Congress in 1960, and for Mayor of New Orleans, Louisiana in 1962.

Prior to coming to the Review Commission, Ross Buckley was employed for twelve years in the Department of Justice. While as a Federal employee, he was unable to participate in partisan political activity. He, nevertheless, was supportive, commensurate with the restrictions of the Hatch Act, of Republican candidates in Virginia. His wife, Mary, serves on the Fairfax County Committee of the Republican Party, has been an active member and officer of the Vienna, Virginia Republican Women's Club for the last ten years, and is presently Vice-President of that club. His son, John Buckley, was a "pro-Reagan" alternate delegate to the 1976 National Convention, was a Republican member of the House of Delegates of the Virginia Assembly, and was an Elector in the 1980 election. Ross Buckley participates in local non-partisan politics as a member of the Town Council of the Town of Vienna, Virginia, on which he is at present serving his seventh year in office.

His supporters for appointment to the Review Commission, in addition to myself, include Congressman Frank Wolf, Senator Paul Trible, Secretary of Labor Ray Donovan, and Assistant Secretary Thorne Auchter. Senator Orrin Hatch, Chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, has also expressed his support, as has John Alderson, Chairman of the Reagan Committee in Virginia, and Ed Noble of Synfuels Corporation.

I believe that Ross Buckley's appointment will add the needed dimension to the Review Commission which will assist me to expedite the work of the Commission. I also believe that his confirmation by the Senate will present little difficulty. His years of service with the government, and the fact that he has no ties to either Industry or Labor will be advantageous in avoiding most, if not all, hostile criticism.

I strongly urge his nomination.

Sincerely,
