SECRET ATTACHMENT

January 20, 1987

Mr. President:

In NSDD 250 you tasked the DCI to give an assessment in Soviet and other Foreign Reactions to a Zero Ballistic Missile World. The DCI's response is attached. It is a thorough job, worthy of your personal attention.

I suggest you read the overview, the first paragraph on page 16 on the possibility of cheating and paragraphs 66 through 96. (Starting on page 29.)

MEMORANDUM FOR: The Honorable Frank C. Carlucci
Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs

--EYES ONLY--

SUBJECT: NSDD 250 Response (S [REDACTED])

Frank -

1. Attached is the DCI response to a key portion of the tasking that was posed to the Director in NSDD 250; that portion of the tasking that dealt with verification matters and was assigned to Ken Adelman and the DCI jointly as well as the response to the question on the collection resources necessary for monitoring, will follow at a later date. (S-NF)

2. The attached paper has been reviewed by senior CIA and DIA officials. It has also been provided on a "close-hold" basis to senior officers on the Joint Staff in an effort to assist them in their efforts to prepare the detailed responses that are required of the JCS by NSDD 250.

(S [REDACTED])

3. The paper covers a lot of important issues. I want to emphasize that, although I think it is highly unlikely that the Soviets would go along with a move to eliminate ballistic missiles while retaining bombers and cruise missiles, they, in fact, would be in a much better position to take advantage of such a new regime than most people realize. These points are well documented in the paper. Larry Gershwin, my National Intelligence Officer for Strategic Programs, is available to discuss the package further should you desire. Fritz Ermarth participated in writing this paper and is thoroughly familiar with its contents. (S [REDACTED])
