TIME: 8:45 to 10:15 a.m.

FROM: John S. Herrington

I. PURPOSE

To meet the most recent high ranking Presidential appointees from the Departments and Agencies who have been selected in the last eight months and to review your Administration's goals; to enhance morale, commitment, and loyalty among these major policy makers.

II. BACKGROUND

Since the beginning of the Administration it has been established, as a matter of good policy, that you meet at least once, each of your nearly 500 appointees who require Senate confirmation. Previously, you have taken part in similar breakfasts in March and October of 1981, and in September of 1982.

III. PARTICIPANTS

71 Presidential appointees (see attached list) and 21 White House staff members.

IV. PRESS PLAN

White House Photographer Only

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: BREAKFAST WITH NEWLY-APPOINTED
ADMINISTRATION OFFICIALS
TUESDAY, MAY 24, 1983

Thank you very much, and good morning. It is a real pleasure to be able to spend time with you like this, momentarily out of the whirlwind of our daily schedules. Most of you have been on the job for a while now -- many of you working personally with me from time to time, all of you dedicated to our common goals. But it seems, as we go through our hectic days, there is barely enough time to complete the task at hand. I'm afraid I don't stop often enough to tell you what a good job you're doing, and how grateful I am that you are doing it. So, I'd like to thank you now -- and thank you not only for myself, who you make look good, but thank you on behalf of the country you are serving so well.

I know life sometimes gets a little frustrating out there in the trenches. After all, we are trying to change a monolithic Federal bureaucracy firmly set in its ways. And I know, as you make those tough decisions day after day, as you steer our programs around pitfalls and over countless obstacles, it must seem as if there is far more grit than glory in this revolution we are trying to bring about. But don't lose sight of all we've accomplished. Our progress already has been significant, and now, with you on the team, it will only be greater.

We vowed to renew America, to restore her economic strength, her defensive strength and her moral strength. Since we've been in charge, we've set America once again on a course of economic growth. Inflation and interest rates are both less than half what they were and we have begun what I believe will be a strong, healthy and sustained economic recovery. We've made progress rebuilding our defenses, but this still remains a great challenge. Convincing the Congress of the dire threat we face is one of our toughest battles, but we will not stop trying until we are sure our country is strong enough to remain both free and at peace. And America is experiencing a moral revival, with the American family once again taking its rightful place as the cornerstone of our society. Many of our social policies -- like prayer in school, tuition tax credits and anti-abortion legislation -- have yet to be passed by the Congress. But we will not stop pressing for their adoption.

These next few months will be critical for many of our programs. They will require all the exceptional qualities and talents you bring. That's why I appointed you. And speaking of appointments, I would ask you, in your own hiring decisions, to be mindful of the qualities I sought in you. Seek individuals who are not only well qualified, but who also have a strong commitment to the philosophies of this Administration.

This is a moment in history when, if we act worthy of ourselves, we can reverse the course toward catastrophe America had been on, preserving and renewing democracy and freedom for generations to come. But if we do not seize this moment, if we become the Government instead of changing it, we may miss the chance forever.

We have a mission: to restore America's greatness by unleashing the powers, energies and dreams of the American people. So let us keep our sights firmly set on our goal, mindful that we are only temporary stewards of this land. The minute any of us begin to think of Government as we, instead of they, we will have begun to lose the fight.

Looking out on you I am filled with confidence. I know that together we are more than equal to the challenges ahead. Good luck and God bless you, and thank you, once again.

MEETING WITH SENATOR WILLIAM ARMSTRONG (R-COLORADO)

DATE: Tuesday, May 24, 1983

LOCATION: The Oval Office

TIME: 10:15 a.m. (15 minutes)

FROM: Kenneth M. Duberstein Ker Q.

I. PURPOSE

To seek Senator Armstrong's support for the MX Resolution.

II. BACKGROUND

The Senate is currently debating S. Con. Res. 26, the MX Resolution. Although the outlook for passage is optimistic, the vote is still expected to be close, and there are several Senators who remain undecided or have yet to give a firm positive commitment. We need to have as good a margin as possible on this vote in order to create a favorable atmosphere for subsequent action on the defense spending bills.

Senator Bill Armstrong has indicated that he remains uncommitted on the MX vote. Armstrong has concerns about the technical aspects of MX, including vulnerability and cost. It would be helpful for you to assure Armstrong of your personal conviction that we must have the MX as an integral part of the Scowcroft Commission's report and to respond to any questions Armstrong may have. Senator Armstrong is up for reelection in 1984.

III. PARTICIPANTS

The President
The Vice President
Senator William Armstrong (R-Colorado)

Staff

James A. Baker III
Edwin Meese III
William Clark
Kenneth Duberstein
Robert McFarlane

IV. PRESS PLAN

White House photographer only.

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

Senator Armstrong to arrive through the Southwest Gate, enter the West Basement, and be escorted to the Oval Office for a 15-minute meeting with the President.

Attachment: Talking Points

SUGGESTED TALKING POINTS FOR MEETING WITH SENATOR WILLIAM ARMSTRONG

- Bill, I appreciate your coming down to visit with me today. I know this is a busy week in the Senate with the MX, the Debt Limit, and other measures. I did want an opportunity to visit with you before the Senate votes on the MX Resolution. This matter is of great concern to me, and I understand you have some reservations about the MX.

- Our strategic triad must be modernized. Placing Peacekeeper in existing Minuteman silos will enhance our deterrent capability by requiring the Soviets to continue considering all three legs in their military planning. While we fully support development of a small, single warhead missile, its earliest possible operational date is the early 1990's. After so many years of neglect, we simply cannot afford to wait for a new missile on which work is just beginning. We need to modernize our ICBM with Peacekeeper now.

- My modernization plan is based on the recommendations of the bipartisan Commission on Strategic Forces. The central value of the Commission's recommendations is its thoughtful integration of the direct relationship between modernization programs (like Peacekeeper) and the positive impact of modernization on both arms control and deterrence. If the United States foregoes this package, the Soviet Union would not have any real incentive to agree to reductions.

-- Bill, if I or any of my staff here can respond to any specific questions you may have, we would be glad to do so. (Discuss Armstrong's concerns).

-- I am glad we had this opportunity to talk, and I hope you will be able to support me on this important MX vote.

PRESENTATION OF NATIONAL MEDAL OF SCIENCE

TUESDAY, MAY 24, 1983
EAST ROOM
12 Noon

FROM: JAY KEYWORTH

I. PURPOSE

Present the Nation's highest scientific honor, the National Medal of Science, to 11 distinguished scientists and engineers. One other recipient is unable to attend.

II. BACKGROUND

The National Medal of Science was authorized by public law in 1959. The law specifies that the President shall award the medal from time to time to individuals who in his judgment deserve special recognition for their outstanding contributions to knowledge in the physical, biological, mathematical, engineering, behavioral or social sciences. Since 1962, 154 medals have been awarded (not including the current awards).

III. PARTICIPANTS

Eleven of the 12 recipients will be present. They are:

Dr. Philip W. Anderson, Princeton University and Bell Laboratories.
Dr. Seymour Benzer, California Institute of Technology.
Dr. Glenn W. Burton, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Tifton, Georgia.
Dr. Mildred Cohn, University of Pennsylvania.
Dr. F. Albert Cotton, Texas A&M University.
Mr. Edward E. Heinemann, Heinemann Associates, Rancho Santa Fe, California.
Dr. Donald L. Katz, University of Michigan.
Dr. Yoichiro Nambu, University of Chicago.
Dr. Gilbert Stork, Columbia University.
Dr. Edward Teller, Hoover Institution, Stanford University.
Dr. Charles H. Townes, University of California, Berkeley.
Absent: Dr. Marshall Stone, University of Massachusetts.

IV. PRESS PLAN

Full press coverage.

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

Ceremony scheduled for 15 minutes. Open with brief remarks (two minutes) by the President, followed by presentation of individual medals. Jay Keyworth will read citations.

Attachment: List of medalists and citations
Remarks

Recipients of the National Medal of Science for 1982

Biological Sciences

SEYMOUR BENZER

For elucidating the fine structure of the gene and unifying the classical and molecular concepts of gene structure and function.

GLENN W. BURTON

For outstanding contributions to the biological sciences that have helped to feed the hungry, protect and beautify the environment, and provide recreation for millions.

MILDRED COHN

For pioneering the use of stable isotopic tracers and nuclear magnetic resonance spectroscopy in the study of the mechanisms of enzymatic catalysis.

Chemistry

F. ALBERT COTTON

For contributions of unique range, depth, and importance to inorganic and structural chemistry, especially the discovery and elucidation of multiple metal-metal bonds and the application of group theory to chemical problems.

GILBERT STORK

For his contributions as one of the world's most innovative and productive organic synthetic chemists who has discovered a variety of important synthetic reactions which have made possible the synthesis of some of the most complicated and important biologically active compounds.

Engineering Sciences

EDWARD H. HEINEMANN

For his outstanding contribution as a creator-designer and engineer responsible for the design and production of a series of famous aircraft for the military forces of the United States and allied nations.

DONALD L. KATZ

For solving many practical engineering problems by delving into a wide group of sciences and making their synergistic effects evident.

Mathematical Sciences

MARSHALL H. STONE

For his original synthesis of analysis, algebra, and topology, the new vital area of functional analysis in modern mathematics.

Physical Sciences

PHILIP W. ANDERSON

For his fundamental and comprehensive contributions to the theoretical understanding of condensed matter.

YOICHIRO NAMBU

For seminal contributions to the understanding of elementary particles and their interactions.

EDWARD TELLER

For his outstanding contribution to molecular physics, understanding the origin of stellar energy, the theory and application of fusion reaction, the field of nuclear safety, and for his continued leadership in science and technology.

CHARLES H. TOWNES

For fundamental contributions to the understanding of matter through its interaction with electromagnetic radiations and the application of this knowledge to the service of mankind, most notably in the invention of the maser and laser.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NATIONAL MEDAL OF SCIENCE PRESENTATION
TUESDAY, MAY 24, 1983

It's a privilege for me today to play a part in honoring twelve Americans who have made outstanding contributions to our way of life through science and engineering. As I read over the list of their activities, I'm impressed not only by the profound intellectual achievements represented, but also by the wide range of their expertise. We have before us leaders in the fields of physics, biology, agriculture, chemistry, aircraft design, engineering, and mathematics. It's a testimony to the strength of American science and engineering that we have such men and women whose genius is acknowledged not only in this country, but around the world.

It's fitting that we are taking special care to honor the recipients of the National Medal of Science Award at a time when our technological leadership is being challenged from abroad. In the past, too many Americans tended to take our preeminence in science and engineering for granted. We must never forget that what we enjoy now is the result of superior professionals, like those we are honoring. And today, as never before, these individuals have international competition.

I would hope that today's event does not go unnoticed by America's young people, and that many of them will be encouraged to emulate the example of these distinguished citizens. We, as a Nation, cannot rest on our laurels in this vital area of concern; and American young people need to know their well-being depends on our continued progress in science and technology. Only by excelling in this vital area can we hope to maintain technological momentum -- momentum so essential to our freedom and our prosperity.

As I went through the briefing papers about today's recipients something else struck me. Among those we honor today are some who were not born in this country, but are naturalized citizens. It is a tribute to our society that creative and diligent men and women like these have chosen America as their adopted land, and have found here fertile soil for their talent. Many scientists and engineers come to us from places where repression stifles creativity and chokes off opportunity for expression and development. America has gained so much by the infusion of such talent, and today all our citizens are better off because of it.

Let me express again the gratitude of the American people to all of you we honor with this Medal. We deeply appreciate what you've done, and we thank you.

Now, my Science Advisor, Jay Keyworth, will read the citations for the awards.

[President's Conclusion]

Congratulations to all of you and God bless you.

LUNCHEON MEETING WITH HENRY KISSINGER

DATE: Tuesday, May 24, 1983

TIME: 12:15 p.m.

LOCATION: Oval Office

FROM: WILLIAM P. CLARK *wpc*I. PURPOSE

To meet over lunch with Henry Kissinger to hear his views on the Middle East, arms control initiatives, the MX, and other subjects.

II. BACKGROUND

Kissinger has been traveling extensively and a tour d'horizon with the former Secretary of State is timely. I anticipate the most lively topics for discussion will include such diverse subjects as arms control, Middle East peace initiatives, and particularly the current status of the MX package on the Hill.

CABINET TIME

DATE: May 24, 1983

LOCATION: Cabinet Room

TIME: 3:30 P.M. (60 minutes)

FROM: Craig L. Fuller

I. PURPOSE

To discuss a number of issues which deal with concerns of women.

II. BACKGROUND

Faith Whittlesey will provide an overview on the perception of this Administration attributed to women. This will provide the basic context for the discussion.

Child Support Enforcement: CCHR developed a plan for dealing with the issue of absent fathers' failure to deliver the court-granted child support. The plan would not be mandatory but would be a carrot and stick approach involving federal funds.

IRS Aid in Child Support Enforcement: Last year the IRS aided HHS in securing the refunds due to delinquent fathers of AFDC supported mothers. The Secretary of the Treasury will update the Cabinet on this program as similar programs are under consideration.

IRA Spousal Contributions: CCEA has discussed the concept of fair and equitable use of IRAs. The discussion will center on use of IRA accounts by women in the work force versus women who are homemakers.

Dependents' or Child Care Allowance: CCEA has discussed increasing the allowance permitted under current law.

Occupational Opportunities for Women: OPM Director Don Devine discussed five ways in which the federal government could be more receptive to opportunities for women in the federal government. These five recommendations will be considered today.

Cabinet Briefing
Page Two

Presentation by Elizabeth Dole: Secretary Dole will outline a program she has developed at the Department of Transportation to assist women in moving into career enhancement roles.

Private Sector Child Care: Jim Coyne, Director of the Private Sector Survey will brief the Cabinet on the program it has developed and is implementing in this area. It is in the area of corporate day care.

Flexitime for Federal Contractors: Senator Armstrong has introduced legislation which would permit federal contractors opportunity to employ flexitime.

Job Sharing: This concept involves two persons sharing the same job. An example is two women sharing the job of assistant district attorney or two persons serving as a single support staffer but splitting the forty hour week into two twenty hour weeks.

Pension Equity: This issue is a difficult one and requires careful consideration since it is one issue you dealt with in the State of the Union. Must or should pension plans which cost the same pay out the same incremental payment or total benefits for men and women? The issue is multi-faceted and the ramifications are far-reaching.

Unisex or Gender-based Insurance Rates: A piece of legislation, HR 100, which deals with this concept is in Committee. The Administration must determine its position on the general issue and then whether to take a position on this piece of legislation. It is a very difficult situation as to issue has not involved much study and little statistical knowledge.

Appointments for Women in the Reagan Administration: John Herrington, Assistant to the President for Presidential Personnel will discuss our overall record on appointments of women.

MEETING WITH THE NEW YORK ISLANDERS AND SELECT MEMBERS OF THE NEW YORK CONGRESSIONAL DELEGATION

DATE: Tuesday, May 24, 1983
LOCATION: The Rose Garden
TIME: 4:30 p.m. (10 minutes)
FROM: Kenneth M. Duberstein KMD.

I. PURPOSE

To satisfy the request of Congressman Ray McGrath (R-NY) that the President honor the New York Islanders, winners of the Stanley Cup.

II. BACKGROUND

On Tuesday, May 17, the New York Islanders defeated the Edmonton Oilers to win their fourth consecutive Stanley Cup victory. This fourth consecutive title for the Islanders matches a feat accomplished only twice before by the Montreal Canadians for five years, 1956-1960, and four years, 1976-1979.

The New York Islanders have quickly become heroes in their home state, with the New York Senate rapidly passing a resolution to congratulate them on their sweep of the finals. This meeting will give these popular athletes an opportunity to be photographed with the President and can be expected to generate press coverage in New York, beneficial to the President.

During the meeting, the players will present the President with a hooked rug, bearing the insignia of the New York Islanders. They will also bring the Stanley Cup.

Also in attendance at the meeting will be the owner and team captain of the Washington Capitals. The New York Islanders defeated the Washington Capitals in the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

SUGGESTED TALKING POINTS

- Congratulate the players on their victory over the Edmonton Oilers.

- Note that four consecutive Stanley cup victories is a remarkable feat and that you look forward to watching them try to break the record of the Montreal Canadians (if they can beat the Washington Caps again).

- Ask the assembled players to express your congratulations on the victory to their teammates.

- Thank the players for the rug and ask them to express your thanks to John Pickett, the team owner.

MEETING WITH FOUNDER OF THE FRIENDSHIP FORCE

DATE: May 24, 1983

LOCATION: Oval Office

TIME: 4:45 p.m.

FROM: Faith Ryan Whittlesey

I. PURPOSE

To meet Japanese businessman and philanthropist, Ryoichi Sasakawa and to recognize his generosity to numerous charities including the Friendship Force.

II BACKGROUND

Senator Mark Hatfield, who is a Board Member of the Friendship Force, has requested this meeting with Mr. Ryoichi Sasakawa and his son, Yohie. They will be accompanied by Mr. Sasakawa's aide and interpreter, Itaru Tanaka, and Dr. Wayne Smith, the Founder and Chief Executive Officer of the Friendship Force. Mr. Sasakawa is a former Japanese politician who played an important role in the economic revival of Japan after World War II, but for the past 20 years has devoted himself to philanthropy, specifically in the area of eradication of smallpox and the promotion of world peace and harmony.

He has voluntarily contributed over 7 billion dollars to numerous charities, including the Friendship Force.

The Friendship Force, based in Atlanta, Georgia, provides opportunities for over 25,000 foreign visitors to reside in American homes for a one week period each year. In addition, it facilitates travel by Americans to foreign countries in similar home-visit situations. Its Board includes Senator Mark Hatfield, Muhammed Ali, Kirk Douglas, Martin Luther King, Sr. and Congressman Jim Wright.

Friendship Force is a non-political exchange program totally funded by private contributions. Its efforts stress the principles of private sector voluntarism, which you have strongly supported.

TALKING POINTS FOR MEETING WITH FRIENDSHIP FORCE
PARTICIPANTS, MAY 24, 1983, 4:45 P.M., OVAL OFFICE

- Welcome to the White House and to the United States.
I want to thank you for your support of so many worthwhile causes which promote international cultural exchanges of ideas and philosophies.
- The sort of efforts which the Friendship Force fosters help people in different countries understand Americans and help Americans understand their common bonds with foreign friends. Your efforts and those of Friendship Force represent the sort of voluntary spirit which has made America and Japan great countries. I hope each of us can do more in terms of such voluntary efforts.
- I thank you and your son, as well as Dr. Wayne Smith and Senator Mark Hatfield, for visiting me here today.
