THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

MEETING WITH SELECTED CONGRESSMEN AND SENATORS ON THE STEEL ISSUE

DATE: Thursday, August 4, 1983
LOCATION: The Cabinet Room
TIME: 1:00 p.m. (30 minutes)
FROM: Kenneth M. Duberstein to D.

I. PURPOSE

To accommodate the request of a bipartisan group of Senators and Congressmen who are leaders of their respective Steel Caucuses on Capitol Hill to advise the President of their views regarding the complex issues of concern to the American steel industry.

II. BACKGROUND

The House and Senate Steel Caucuses are bipartisan groups formed for the purpose of exploring solutions to domestic steel problems. Caucus members have requested on several occasions, both this year and last, an opportunity to meet with the President to discuss issues impacting on the steel industry.

Congressman Gaydos (D-Pennsylvania) and other House Steel Caucus leaders introduced legislation this week that would limit steel imports to 11 per cent of the market, a very low figure. It would also set a limit for iron ore imports and establish a steel tripartite committee. This legislation is certain to be a major focus of any Caucus presentation.

Recently, several members of the House Steel Caucus wrote to commend the President for his decision regarding import relief for the specialty steel industry. At that time, they again requested an opportunity to meet with the President and his advisors. This meeting will give the President an opportunity to discuss additional issues of concern to the domestic steel industry. It will also allow him to demonstrate his continued concern for those blue-collar workers in smokestack industries not yet reaping the full benefits of the economic recovery.

The Senate Steel Caucus which has forty-six members meets infrequently but has actively supported steel industry positions on several issues. Thirty-two Senators, for example, signed a letter to the President recommending action on specialty steel. A key issue currently is the purchase of foreign steel for use by domestic steel companies such as U. S. Steel's plan to purchase unfinished British carbon steel. This development has severely split labor and management.

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

Brief remarks by the President to be followed by open discussion with Congressional participants.

Talking Points

SUGGESTED TALKING POINTS FOR STEEL CAUCUS MEETING

- The steel industry in the United States is passing through the most difficult period in its history. With only brief exceptions, it has experienced constant problems since the 1973-1974 boom: profits have been inadequate for the substantial modernization that is required; costs have risen sharply; competition from substitute materials has intensified; and imports have grown to record levels, often through the use of unfair practices such as dumping and subsidization by foreign governments.
- This is a complex and long-run problem that demands a comprehensive and consistent policy response. We have been assembling the elements of such a response over the past two and one-half years and are now within sight of a much better future for the industry and its workers.
- Our economic recovery program is paying dividends for American industry. Normally, the recovery in steel lags the recovery as a whole, because steel demand depends largely on certain types of capital spending. The recovery, if it continues at a steady non-inflationary pace, should produce sharply higher capital spending--and thus steel demand--toward the end of this year or early in 1984.

- I do not believe that we can solve our problems through across-the-board import restraints. Given the steps we have taken with respect to the European Community and Japan, the principal problem is the disruptive pricing of imports from less developed countries. The best way to deal with that kind of problem is through our unfair trade laws.

- In another area--specialty steel--we have taken a number of unprecedented steps. Relief which went into effect two weeks ago is carefully tailored so that the relief is most stringent on the products where the need is greatest (bars, rods, and alloy tool steel).

- I am anxious to have the benefit of your thoughts. But first, let me turn to Bill Brock and Mac Baldrige for a few remarks (Note: following the Brock/Baldrige remarks, Jack Murtha (D-Pennsylvania) should be recognized to open the discussion).
