RECEPTION FOR WOMEN'S SPORTS FOUNDATION

DATE: Monday, September 26, 1983
LOCATION: The Hilton Room, Waldorf Hotel
TIME: 11:35 a.m.

FROM: Michael A. McManus, Jr.

I. PURPOSE

Recognize and pay tribute to women athletes and supporters of women's sports.

II. BACKGROUND

The Women's Sports Foundation (W.S.F.), originated in 1974, is the premier organization promoting professional and amateur sports for women of all ages. The Foundation is the brainchild of tennis pro Billie Jean King, and Donna de Varona, the current President of W.S.F.

On Monday night, September 26th, a special awards dinner will honor those who have made major contributions to the development of women's sports and recognize outstanding women athletes. At the dinner, five women will be inducted into the Women's Sports Foundation Hall of Fame.

The Hall of Fame inductees are: Dr. Tenley Albright
Andrea Mead Lawrence
Helen Stephens
Donna de Varona
Lt. Col. Micki King Hogue

In addition, tennis champion Martina Navratilova will be named as the Professional Sports Woman of the Year, and track star Mary Decker will be named as the Amateur Sports Woman of the Year. The U.S. National Women's Volleyball Team will be named as the Team of the Year.

The W.S.F. also will be honoring corporate sponsors for their support of women's sports.

As you are unable to attend the dinner Monday night, this brief reception was arranged so you would have the opportunity to recognize the work of the W.S.F. and the achievements of its honorees.

III. PARTICIPANTS

The President

Donna de Varona, President of Women's Sports Foundation

INTERVIEW WITH EDITORIAL BOARD OF THE NEW YORK POST

DATE: September 26, 1983
LOCATION: Presidential Suite
Waldorf Astoria Hotel
New York, New York
TIME: 2:30 p.m. (15 minutes)
FROM: Larry Speakes

I. PURPOSE

To participate in an on-the-record interview with editors and reporters of The New York Post. The interview will appear in their Tuesday, September 27 editions.

II. BACKGROUND

While it is expected that focus of their questions will be on such current issues as Lebanon, Secretary Watt, Korean airliner and Nicaragua, there may also be questions on the following: Deficits, the President's political plans, mass transit and any Administration plans for further cuts in the New York area, military contracts for the New York area and also a possible question on whether or not the President plans to see "The Right Stuff."

The President was previously interviewed by this group on March 23, 1982.

III. PARTICIPANTS

The President
Larry Speakes
Rupert Murdoch, Publisher of The New York Post
Roger Wood, Executive Editor
Bruce Rothwell, Editorial Page Editor
Steve Dunleavy, City Editor
George Artz, reporter
Fred Dicker, reporter
Niles Latham, reporter

IV. PRESS PLAN

White House photographer and Louis Liotta, photographer for The New York Post

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

Following introductions, the interview will begin.

FOREIGN POLICY QUESTIONS FOR INTERVIEW
WITH NEW YORK POST

1. Many Americans clearly want stronger sanctions on the Soviets for shooting down KAL 007. What other actions are you considering?
2. U.S.-Soviet relations are today at a new low point. Your long-standing realistic view of the Soviets has been borne out, but how do you plan to manage the super-power relationship from now on to restore some kind of dialogue?
3. Are you disappointed with the reluctance of our close NATO allies to join the U.S. in strong civil aviation sanctions against the Soviets? What does this incident do to the peace movement in Europe?
4. You have said that the Soviets have "abrogated" the 1963 agreement on Cuba. If so, what do you plan to do about it?
5. What are American objectives in Lebanon? Can that country be saved from partition? How far are you willing to go militarily to stop the Syrians and their Soviet backers?
6. How do you evaluate the situation in Manila? Will you visit the Philippines despite the obvious violence?

o Initiatives:

- Have improved child support enforcement (raised $168 million from delinquent fathers' tax refunds in 1982) and proposing much tougher action to go after $3-4 billion estimated in default from fathers not providing court-ordered payments.
- Practically eliminated marriage penalty and "widow's tax."
- Also increased child-care tax credit.
- Now examining question of spousal IRAs, making all wives -- whether in home or in workplace -- equally eligible for IRA savings accounts.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Civil Rights Commission Nominations

- o Action expected in Senate Judiciary Committee on Thursday. Very key vote.
- o Hearing record shows no doubt RR's nominees well qualified.
- o All are Democrats; known for independent-mindedness. Hard to see how Republican President's nomination of 4 Democrats who make no secret of disagreements with Administration can fairly be called an effort to "stack" the Commission.
- o Critics raising red-herrings in debate. RR's legal authority to appoint Commission members is clear. Commission part of Executive Branch; members serve at pleasure of President -- that's written explicitly on their Commission scrolls.
- o The real controversy is over quotas and busing. RR opposed to them. Most Americans are too. Happy to say RR's nominees share that view -- and it doesn't diminish their commitment to equal rights and vigorous enforcement of civil rights laws.
- o NOTE -- nominees are:
 - Morris Abram -- N.Y. lawyer, instrumental in obtaining Martin Luther King's release from Atlanta jail in 1960s. (Was not King's lawyer but was helpful.)
 - John Bunzel -- now at Hoover, long involved in civil rights. Bunzel is a Humphrey Democrat.
 - Robert Destro -- Catholic U. law professor, helped set up national civil rights legal service for Catholic league.
 - Linda Chavez -- to be staff director; now Shanker's assistant at AFT. Worked there, and on House committee staff before that, on Civil Rights legislation.
- o Note that RR has proposed longest (20 years) extension of Commission in its history. Also proposed that in future members be appointed for specified terms (though still would serve at President's pleasure).

Soviets & the 'truth': What do the skeptics say now?

September 8, 1983

...Soviets...are naked before the entire world....The President is right to have used his moving broadcast last Monday to ask Congress for prompt approval for his MX missile program and for the money needed to modernize America's still lagging defense. (criticizes CBS commentary after the speech and New York Times) ...quotes Mayor Koch:* "A candidate who appears to believe that America is what's wrong with the world may win some delegates to the Democratic convention. But he is not likely to be reviewing an inaugural parade up Pennsylvania Avenue." What say you, now, candidates Cranston, Hart, Mondale, Glenn, Hollings, and Askew? What say you, skeptics?

(Note: Appears to be a Koch quote. Could be an important middle-America view worth paraphrasing.)

Saudi Arabia holds the key to peace in war-torn Lebanon

September 9, 1983

U.S. Navy's bombardment of rebel militia positions was overdue...should be followed by much more concentrated retaliation if Lebanon's Syrian-supported private armies continue to try to force out the peacekeepers....Saudi King Fahd should stop trying to fool the rest of us and act responsibly.

The meaning of Freedom

On Larry Flynt's advertisement: Don't agree with it but he would have had no such right in the Soviet Union.

On September 10, the Post ran four editorials of local concern: convention center; Coney Island; Transit Authority, and the U.S. Open.

Moscow fears our Voice -- Let's make it stronger

September 12, 1983

If ever there were proof that President Reagan should ask Congress to give the VOA the tools with which to do its job it was provided by the Korean airliner tragedy. (compares Soviet and U.S. broadcast capabilities).

On September 13, the Post ran three editorials of local concern: primary votes; Board of Education; and Bottle Bill.

Who are the Syrians to dictate Lebanon's Fate?

September 14, 1983

President Reagan has finally accepted that what is going on in Lebanon is not a resumption of the country's protracted civil war but a direct bid by Syria -- aided and abetted by Moscow -- to take over as much of Lebanon as it can get away with. Soviet artillery, supplied by the Syrians and manned by Druse and Shiite Moslem militia, now holds Beirut to ransom.

On September 15, the Post ran editorials about a delay in the Westway Project; a New York contracting firm accused of boycotting Israel; and George McGovern.

Defense bill vote no feather in N.Y.'s congressional cap

September 16, 1983

(Critical of New York congressional delegation for vote on defense budget.)

The U.S. needs diplomatic parity too!

Soviet Union has 320 diplomats in Washington and San Francisco compared with only 190 U.S. diplomats in Moscow and Leningrad. Why should the Soviets continue to have so many more?

Peace in the Mideast: So many missed chances

September 17, 1983

On the 10th anniversary of the Yom Kippur War and five years since the Camp David Accords, it is a tragedy that the other Arab states have refused to make their collective peace with Israel.

Bond issue accord is only half the battle

September 19, 1983

Local issue -- state vs. city -- $1.25 billion bond issue and $1.9 billion in matching federal funds.

Memo to the UN: by all means, try life in Moscow

September 19, 1983

Gromyko's decision is no loss to anyone. By all means, let the UN's mollycoddled delegates consider whether it is suitable for the UN headquarters to be situated here. Few in New York City would shed any tears over their departure. Let them take their maids and butlers and diplomatic immunity and try life in Moscow. We would be rid of a massive Soviet espionage base; they would get the benefit of learning what it is like to live in a real communist state.

EDITORIALS BY THE NEW YORK POST (continued)

Now, is that too much to ask?

September 20, 1983

Now that Syrian forces are in action in Lebanon against the Lebanese Army, is it too much to expect that President Gemayel's Lebanese government -- or any Arab government, for that matter -- will ask the Security Council to condemn Syria as an aggressor and call on Syrian President Assad to withdraw his forces?

Massacre in Lebanon: why the TV blackout?

September 21, 1983

In the wake of large scale and horrific massacres in Lebanon, why the silence by the American TV networks? Over the past two weeks there have been roughly 75 reports on Lebanon by the major TV networks. Only four included the massacres as one its main items.

Today's Washington lesson: there are times for silence

September 22, 1983

President Reagan's forthright support yesterday for Lichenstein and what he had to say puts the issue in a broader perspective....Lichenstein may not have been articulating what Washington's faceless appeasers might like him to say, but he certainly said what many people around the world wanted him to say.

Quick to condemn, slow to react

September, 22, 1983

Rep. John Conyers, chairman of the House Subcommittee on Criminal Justice, didn't take long to reach his judgment that there is police brutality in New York City....Three hours is rather less than it took Conyers and fellow Michigan Democrat Rep. George Crockett to reach a conclusion on the Soviet shooting down of the Korean airliner on Sept. 1. Thirteen days later, when the House voted 416-to-0 to condemn the Soviet action as "one of the most infamous and reprehensible acts in history," Conyers and Crockett were the only Congressmen who abstained.
