CEREMONY ESTABLISHING THE
NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR DEMOCRACY

DATE: Friday, December 16, 1983

LOCATION: Old EOB, Room 450

TIME: 11:30 a.m.

FROM: Robert C. McFarlane RCM

I. PURPOSE

To reaffirm the Administration's and your personal commitment to building the infrastructure of democracy. The ceremony will be bipartisan, including the leadership of both political parties and of business and labor. All are anxious to join together in support for this major initiative.

II. BACKGROUND

The National Endowment for Democracy (NED) was approved by Congress on November 18 as part of the State Department Authorization Bill and signed into law by you shortly thereafter. The NED is a major foreign policy accomplishment. You called for the creation of this organization in June 1982 at Westminster. Background data on the Endowment is attached at Tab A.

III. PARTICIPANTS

The approximately 175 guests will include a broad spectrum of society and selected foreign diplomats.

On stage will be the key architects of the Program:

- Congressman Dante Fascell: Interim Chairman of the NED, principal supporter in Congress.
- Chuck Manatt: Democratic Party.
- Frank Fahrenkopf: Republican Party.
- Bill Brock: Chairman of the American Political Foundation while the study was undertaken.
- Lane Kirkland: Labor.
- Michael Samuels: American Chamber of Commerce.

DEC 16 1983

IV. PRESS PLAN

Writing pool and open photo coverage of your remarks.

V. SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

-- 11:25 a.m.: I will escort you and the Vice President to Room 450, Old EOB.

-- 11:30 a.m.: Fascell makes brief remarks welcoming you and guests.

-- 11:33 a.m.: Brief remarks by you from the podium (text to be provided).

-- 11:40 a.m.: Accompanied by Fascell, shake hands with NED Board and other distinguished guests in first row of audience.

THE DEMOCRACY PROGRAM

SUMMARY OF KEY POINTS: NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR DEMOCRACY (NED)

- 1) NED proposals and The Democracy Program are not part of the original USIA Project Democracy package. The private sector Democracy Program study -- suggested by President Reagan -- moved ahead independent of the USIA package, and was only "joined" with USIA in the legislative package when it was determined that USIA should be the funding source.
- 2) NED would be created as a private non-profit corporation which would receive $31.3 million in USIA grant funds to be disbursed as follows:
 - $5 million each to the Republican and Democrat International Institutes;
 - $13.8 million to the Labor Free Trade Union Institute (figure taken from the Administration's own proposals);
 - $2.5 million for the Chamber's Center for International Private Enterprise ($1.5 million addition to Administration proposals); and
 - $5 million in discretionary grant funds to the Endowment for other private sector programs.
- 3) NED will be governed by a Board of Directors that will maintain an approximate balance between the parties. However, the Board's authority over the programs of the institutes remains limited.
- 4) Normal Congressional oversight will apply -- including additional restrictions applied by the House Appropriations Committee which require re-programming procedures before funds are released.
- 5) Operations of NED and all Institutes will be open to Public and Congressional scrutiny, but will not be bound by USIA programs, or direct USIA oversight.

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS: NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR DEMOCRACY
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1983

Good morning and welcome. It's good to have you all here to help celebrate the launching of a program with a vision and a noble purpose. The National Endowment for Democracy is more than bipartisan; it's a genuine partnership of Republicans and Democrats, labor and business, conservatives and liberals, and of the executive and legislative branches of Government. It's such a worthwhile, important initiative that I am tempted to ask, "Why hasn't this been done before?"

Well, we're doing it now and it's largely because of the hard work of good people. Chuck Manatt, Frank Fahrenkopf, Dante Fascell, Bill Brock, Lane Kirkland and Mike Samuels -- you have my heartfelt thanks and warmest congratulations. The establishment of the National Endowment goes right to the heart of America's faith in democratic ideals and institutions. It offers hope to people everywhere.

Last year in London, I spoke of the need and obligation to assist democratic development. My hope then was that America would make clear to those who cherish democracy throughout the world that we mean what we say.

Speaking out for human rights and individual liberty, for the rule of law and the peaceful reconciliation of differences, for democratic values and principles is good and right, but not good enough. We must work hard for democracy and freedom, and that means putting our resources -- organizations, sweat, and dollars -- behind a long-term program.

Well, the hope is now a reality. The National Endowment for Democracy, a private non-profit corporation funded by the Congress, will be the centerpiece of this effort. All Americans can be proud of this initiative and the congressional action which made it possible. By engaging the energies of our major political parties, of labor, business and other groups such as the academic community, the forces of democracy will be strengthened, wherever they may be. They will have a caring group of Americans to go to, to get assistance, advice, and cooperation.

This program will not be hidden in shadows; it will stand proudly in the spotlight, and that's where it belongs. We can and should be proud of our message of democracy.

Democracies respect individual liberties and human rights. They respect freedom of expression, political participation, and peaceful cooperation. Governments which serve their citizens encourage spiritual and economic vitality. We will not be shy in offering this message of hope.

Through the National Endowment, the private sector will promote exchanges between the American people and democratic groups abroad. It will stimulate participation in democratic training programs and institution-building overseas. The Endowment will work closely with those abroad who seek to chart a democratic course. And all this work will be sensitive to the needs of individual groups and institutions, and of course it will be consistent with our own national interests.

The National Endowment will let the people at the grassroots who make our democracy work, help build it elsewhere. The organizations now being formed by the Republican and Democratic parties, and by labor and business will be the key to success. They will also be expressions of what's best and most valuable in American public life.

We are not naive. We are not trying to create imitations of the American system around the world. There is no simple cookbook recipe for political development that is right for all people. And there is no timetable. While democratic principles and basic institutions are universal, democratic development must take into account historic, cultural, and social conditions. Each nation, each movement will find its own route. And in the process, we will learn much of value for ourselves.

Patience and respect for different political and cultural traditions will be the hallmark of our effort. But the competition of ideas is healthy, and it is in this spirit that the National Endowment reaches out to people everywhere. And we will reach out to those who can make a difference now, and to those who will guide the destiny of their people in the future.

Much depends on us. But we can be confident that the tide of history is a freedom tide. That's the real message of our time and it may just be the reason why those who don't like to hear the truth are so worried.

BRIEFING PAPER FOR THE PRESIDENT

MEETING: CABINET COUNCIL ON COMMERCE AND TRADE
DATE: DECEMBER 16, 1983
TIME: 12 NOON (75 MINUTES)
LOCATION: CABINET ROOM
FROM: CRAIG L. FULLER

I. PURPOSE

The Cabinet Council on Commerce and Trade is meeting to review recommendations from the Trade Policy Committee with regard to the Administration's policy concerning textile imports.

II. BACKGROUND

Following the meeting with Senators Thurmond, McClure and Helms as well as Congressmen Campbell, the Trade Policy Committee has engaged in an intense interagency process to determine what options are available to deal with the increasing levels of textile and apparel imports.

The working luncheon will give USTR, Commerce and others an opportunity to brief you on the nature of the problem concerning textile and apparel imports. Options will be reviewed and a recommended course of action will be presented.

III. PARTICIPANTS

Members of the Cabinet Council on Commerce and Trade and senior members of the White House staff.

IV. PRESS PLAN

White House photographer only.

V. SEQUENCE

Secretary Baldrige will introduce the subject. He and Ambassador Bill Brock will conduct the opening briefing.
