SUMMARY:

This reporter was interested in the indication that the Administration might adopt a policy of "mainlining" medical service to veterans, that is, allow veterans to choose between going to VA hospitals and going to other medical facilities.

Veterans groups would no doubt violently oppose any such scheme, as would the VA itself. I explained that ours is not a policy office, but that I had heard no discussion of this concept at any level within the Administration.

De Montigny is asking to make significant changes in the IHS, which he believes is not responding to the requirements of legislation which provides for self-determination for Indian tribes in the area of health services. He would like to see the Indian Health Service national bureaucracy shrink, and more resources put in the hands of the tribal governments. I put him in touch with John McLaughery at OPD.

MEMORANDUM FOR: ELIZABETH H. DOLE

VIA: Red Cavaney
Jack Burgess () and Diana Lozano ()
Morton Blackwell

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: WEEKLY SUMMARY REPORT
Week Ending Saturday, September 5

RED FLAGS: The time has come to significantly increase meetings and briefings with the conservative organization leadership. I will be proposing a substantial number of these meetings in the next few days.

KUDOS: Kudos to the conservative and pro-life activists who organized the Rally for Life in Dallas on September 3rd. Many of these people are strongly opposed to the O'Connor nomination and deeply concerned about what they perceive as an insensitivity in the Administration to their issues. I have ~~spoken~~ spoken to several of the speakers and organizers of this rally and have reviewed the news coverage in Dallas, the New York Times story, and wire service dispatches printed elsewhere. In all cases, the speakers carefully distinguished their concerns about O'Connor and the Administration's handling of related matters from their enthusiastic support of the President in their legislative program. Despite numerous attempts from reporters at news conferences and in private interviews, the conservative leaders involved in the program stuck to their praise and support of the President. If there is no further provocation on this issue, as for instance highly unsatisfactory answers by Judge O'Connor in her hearings, or a pattern of left-wing ~~XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX~~ opinions by O'Connor on the Supreme Court, we have weathered this storm with the President's winning coalition intact.

CHANGES IN ISSUE FORECAST: One matter which is of increasing concern to conservative groups is the scarcity of record votes in the Congress. The conservative organization leadership is now urging conservative leaders in the Congress to begin to begin to produce record votes on their major issues of concern. There have been very few record votes this year on conservative vs. liberal issues, particularly social issues. More votes are necessary if these organizations are to be able to activate the troops in 1982 as they did in 1980. It is not necessary in every case, or even in most cases, for the Administration to ~~XXXXXXXXXXXX~~ actively push for these record votes. But conservative leaders on the Hill will be much less inclined to force such votes if they have reason to believe their actions would cause big frowns for this end of Pennsylvania Avenue. On some issues, such as the Legal Services Corporation, the President may be very comfortable in leading the fight, but on others it will be in his best interest to allow the congressional conservatives to organize their own battles. I believe it is highly important that the senior staff not stand in the way of independent congressional efforts to force record votes in a mistaken attempt to maintain an aura of invincibility on the Hill. If conservatives lose some votes, which they obviously must, our posture should be one of allowing the Congress to work its legislative will.

MEMORANDUM FOR:

JAMES A. BAKER III

FROM:

ELIZABETH DOLE

SUBJECT:

Weekly Summary Report ending Sept. 12
Conservative/Limited Government;
Portfolio Veterans; American Indians; Religious Groups; Fraternal Groups
Manager Morton C. Blackwell

SIGNIFICANT ACTIVITIES

- 9/9/81 - Met with John McClaughrey of OPD, Assistant Secretary of the Interior
1:15 PM Ken Smith and his staff to discuss establishment of religious consultation process between the Administration and the tribal governments
- 9/10/81 - Met with Deputy Assistant Secretary of Interior Roy Sampsel, R.C.A.
10 AM officials, and representatives of the Five Tribes in Oklahoma regarding R.C.A. proposal for training program at closed BIA school, Chilocco.
- 9/10/81 - Robert Nimmo, Administrator of Veterans Affairs at the VA,
4 PM introduced Charles Hagel (new Deputy Administrator of the VA)
to 17 veterans organization leaders

RED FLAGS

Conservative women leaders of pro-family activities are very concerned about rumors relating to a pending executive order concerning women. Diana Lozano and I are working toward a consultation meeting very soon with these pro-family leaders. Such a meeting, prior to the President's announcement, would go a long way toward replenishing a badly depleted reservoir of good will.

MISCELLANEOUS

If we make a substantial effort now to reestablish cordial relationships with the pro-family forces, the flap over the appointment of Judge O'Connor can be put behind us. These people are a major part of the President's political base, and there is no bar to making them feel comfortable with the Administration once more if we take concrete steps to show that we still consider them a part of the President's team.

Kudos to VA Administrator Robert Nimmo who has retained cordial relations with veterans organization leaders despite the problems in filling the Deputy Administrator's slot, and the potential concerns which might have arisen among the veterans groups by his letting go of several highly placed VA officials, including Nick Longworth.

Vietnam Veterans Memorial Foundation.

This group is agitated by a few press criticisms of the design of the memorial. They wanted to do some crash briefings of senior White House staff on the subject. I suggested that there is now no cause for real concern. The criticism had such a large number of factual errors, I told them, that they should make light of the criticism by poking fun at the errors in an op ed piece to be submitted to the Washington Post. I further told them that if any serious problem develops, I would help them communicate with the senior staff.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

September 22, 1981

TO: Flo Randolph - Ed Meese's office
FROM: Morton Blackwell and Jack Burgess
RE: C.L.U.S.A.

Re our meeting with C.L.U.S.A. on September 21, their principal request was that the White House designate someone on the Hill to manage the Foreign Assistance Act.

They sense a lack of commitment here on the topic of foreign aid. They hope that any statements that the President makes encouraging volunteerism will include a reference to the traditional American support of voluntary programs to help the needy overseas.

Below is a list of the people present at the meeting.

Dr. Russell E. Morgan	National Council for International Health 298-5901
Samuel E. Bunker	N.R.E.C.A. 573-9686

POLITICAL TECHNOLOGY INSTITUTE

Marriott Twin Bridges, Washington, D.C.

THE MOST VALUABLE EXPERIENCE OF ALL

Here is proof that the conservative movement is getting its act together.

Many of the best known leaders of American conservative activity are assembling September 24-26, 1981 in Washington, D.C. at the Marriott Twin Bridges to share their organizational secrets. This gathering is for the specific purpose of exchanging the hard-won know-how which has built the nation's biggest and most successful conservative organizations.

Most conservative meetings concentrate on presentations on issues. Most such meetings spend a lot of time on inspirational speeches filled with horror stories about how bad the liberals are. This rigorous three day conference, called the Political Technology Institute will be different, very different.

If you already are convinced that fifty years of liberal domination have been a disaster for the U.S., this Institute is for you. If you already are inspired to work hard for the 1980 campaign goals of President Ronald Reagan, this Institute is for you. If what you now need most is to learn how these leaders built the conservative movement (sometimes referred to as the New Right), this Institute is for you.

If you already are philosophically sound and you want to learn how to win, this Institute is for you.

Look over the attached schedule of topics and speakers. Never before have this many top leaders gathered to hold a political training program. They are gathering to share their secrets of success, with each other and with you!

Tuition is $100.00. This includes all six lunches and dinners. There is a special room rate of $55.00 and reservations can be made by calling direct the Twin Bridges Marriott at 202/628-4200. Be sure to mention you are attending the Political Technology Institute.

If you have any questions, write the Institute or telephone Larry Woldt at 703/893-1550.

P.S. This is not a social event. It is a working session. Only those seriously wanting to study how to build conservative organizations and win conservative victories are invited. Attendance is limited. Apply now.
