Tony & Susan Alamo
Christian Foundation
Alma, Ar.

Dear Tony,

It's a great pleasure for us to write this letter wishing that as you receive it, it will find you and the brothers and sisters enjoying the blessings of God our Lord in keeping the duties of a Christian required in His holy ministry.

It's been some time even in Susie's life since we wished to make our greatfulness manifested for having taken in our Jose Felipe who has lived with the congregation for the last 10 years and has received our visits without a problem whatsoever to us. First in Saugus California. Every year around the Christmas Holidays at those oportunities we lived with them and they always shared their meals with us also provided us lodging in one of the apartments they have for the brothers.

Now that we reside in the United States, Ft. Smith Arkansas, we can see each other more frequently in Dyer or Alma since we are closer we have been able to appreciate the work accomplished in both the spiritual as well as the material, such as construction of fully furnished living facilities, school, nursery, restaurant, recreation area, club house, swimming pool, means of transportation and last but most important, a beautiful church for Sunday services and small chapel for daily services.

To the said congregation, beside our son, belong many other persons who before they found the way, serving God our Lord, were in the world so lost that even treatment by medical specialists was not able to help them. Every change in them and their lives is the work of God who led them to the foundation where beside the knowledge of God's word they found understanding, love and a home in a Christian family.

For everything mentioned above we thank God every day praying for His blessings upon the congregation and that he would give you the wisdom, power, and guidance to continue on in the ministry that He has placed in your hands.

With love in Christ Jesus,
your brother and sister

Dear Tony:

Mrs. Millen and I wish to express our appreciation for the ministry of the Christian Foundation in Alma, Arkansas. We have had the privilege of visiting our daughter Mary and her husband Jerry twice prior to their entering the Foundation. At the time of my recent heart condition they came home to visit for several days.

It was our privilege to worship in the church at Dyer last year and to meet you then. We feel that you are engaged in a very important mission with young people that many other churches neglect or cannot reach. Our children have been truly changed by their acceptance of the Lordship of Christ and the Spirit's presence in their lives.

We hope to visit again when health permits and to see more of your work. We have found you to be engaged in basic fundamentalist Christian ministry with love and concern for people burdened with sin and guilt.

May God continue to strengthen you and lead you by His Spirit.

Dora and William Millen

Dear Mr. Alamo,

I write in response to Simon's request, and yours, for a letter from me, as a parent of a member of your organization.

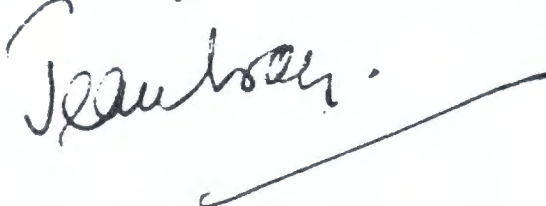

As you know, I was profoundly worried at Simon's decision in 1970 to remain in the States, rather than return to England to train for a career. However, I was pleased when we heard that he was happily married to Janet, and that they had had their first son, whom they named after yourself, and from time to time we had a letter from Simon. In December 1980 we made a trip to Houston to attend the wedding of a niece, and were more than delighted when Simon phoned us at the wedding reception to invite us to drive up to Arkansas to meet him and his family, and he arranged for us to stay at a motel in van Buren for the visit. We had an overwhelmingly happy re-union with Simon and met Janet and Tony and Jonathan for the first time, the boys then being 5 and 6 years old. After giving us an excellent supper in the restaurant at Alma, they took us to their very pleasant apartment, where we spent the evening playing with the children and catching up on news. It was very, very happy for us and we returned to England feeling very much happier than we had done; it was clear to us that Simon was greatly enjoying his varied work with the organization, that he had a happy marriage to a lovely girl and had two really delightful sons.

Last autumn I was seriously ill; in March this year we accepted an invitation from a friend in Los Angeles for me to have a brief recuperative holiday as her guest. We had not anticipated seeing Simon and family owing to distance, so we were overjoyed when Simon was enabled by yourself, to drive the 1500 odd miles to California to see us, and again we spent two happy days with him. We were only sorry Janet and the children could not be there too, but we spoke to Janet on the phone, and have since had letters from the children.

We are planning to visit the States again next spring, when I hope to celebrate my 60th birthday with them. What more could one want?!

I send you my best wishes, and hope sincerely that the pain of losing your wife is a little easier for you to bear.

Yours sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "Jean Boer", followed by a long horizontal flourish line.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I would like to say a few things about the Tony and Susan Alamo Christian Foundation.

First of all, I don't know where you people are getting your information from but I used to live there and I always had three square meals a day and more than I could eat. Also there were never any chains attached to me. They never in any way forced me to stay.

I just want some of you people to understand that there should be more places like the Tony and Susan Alamo Christian Foundation.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script, reading "James J. Moragflor". The signature is written in dark ink and is positioned below the word "Sincerely,".

To Whom it may concern:

When my son Albert left for California he was 20 years old, confused, unhappy and uncertain of his future. In California he was clothed, fed and "saved" by the Pony and Susan Alonso.

Albert kept in touch with his family through phone calls and letters from the very beginning.

I was very curious and apprehensive about his new lifestyle but when his father & I visited him in Laquas, California, I had the opportunity to meet his friends and see how happy he was. When I returned home my mind was at ease and I was satisfied that he was well fed, well clothed and most of all healthy and happy.

Albert calls me regularly and I have always been able to get in touch with him. He has been with the foundation almost 12 years now and its work is very important to him.

I expect to see Albert in Nashville
this coming winter and am looking forward to a happy visit.

Sincerely
Eva & Granty

To Whom it may concern, July 15, 1983

When I had visited my son Phil in California, at the Sony Alamo Christian Foundation Church I enjoyed the services very much. It was so beautiful it touched my heart. After I received the Lords blessings, it has done something to me. It put joy to my heart. Thank you Jesus! I enjoyed all the most delicious foods that was served. I've never tasted anything like it. I do hope to make another visit to the Sony Alamo Christian Foundation Church, in the near future.

Sincerely
Mrs. Genevieve Hersey

To whom it may concern:

Recently an acquaintance of mine brought to my attention an article written in a widely circulated magazine about the Tony and Susan Alamo Foundation situated in Alma, Arkansas.

I feel that since such an ambitious effort has been made to degrade and demoralize such an honorable and worthy Christian group as this, who have done, and continue to do, so much to help our nation's youth get back on the road to recovery, I feel it is time for us "former members" as the article stated, to step forward and be heard.

I live in Jackson Michigan, am a free lance musician in this area and a pretty successful teacher. I am not the confused, bewildered young man that I was in the past before I came to the Tony and Susan Alamo Christian Foundation almost 14 years ago in West Hollywood, California. I had so many problems bottled up inside me that no one even knew about, that most people would have said I was an incorrigible reject. I thank God there were two people like Tony and Susan Alamo who cared enough for people like me to come out in the streets of Hollywood and tell us that there was hope and a way out of a seemingly hopeless predicament and that that way was the Lord Jesus Christ. I then attended one of their services and for the first time I heard the true gospel of Jesus Christ. I was moved so much that I decided I wanted to make a commitment to Christ. I then asked if I could stay, they took me in, fed me, gave me a wonderful place to live and began to show me how that there is an answer in the wonderful Word of God for every one of our problems.

I was there for 5 years and then I decided I wanted to come back to Michigan for a while. Since I have moved back to Michigan I have made several visits to their beautiful facilities in Arkansas and once to Nashville. Their accommodations and hospitality have always been superb. Each time I have returned for a visit, I find that it just keeps getting better and better. I think the thing that stands out the most is how everyone there is so happy and full of joy and how such a love and purpose for what they're doing for Christ.

5.

The reason I stay here in Michigan is that there is such a desperate need here for the same kind of ministry. I share with others the wonderful things I have learned at the Tony and Susan Alamo Christian Foundation and, invariably, their reply is "boy I wish we had something like that here." You know I am earnestly praying, and believe with all my heart, that God will move in that direction and this is just what our whole nation needs to bring it back to God where it once was long ago.

I can only ask those people (whether it be the media or individuals) who would strike out against or say anything unfavorable about this marvellous group of Christian people and the wonderful things they have done for the Lord and for our society, for which good work do you stone them?

Sincerely,
George M^cCluer

I hereby authorize the South-west Times Record, or any other newspaper, to print and publish this letter either in part or in its entirety.

I am the stepfather of a son who my wife and I recently allowed to leave Miami Beach with some of the families going back to the Foundation in Arkansas. Justin is a rambunctious six-year-old who charms everyone he meets -- when I became his father five years ago, I had an expensive photographic composite made of him for modeling purposes, so charmed was I by this beautiful little blond-haired, blue-eyed angel. But neither his mother nor I could ever bring ourselves to give him what he most needed -- discipline, guidance, faith. We had never had enough of these qualities to pass on what we ourselves lacked. I love(d) Justin beyond any rational limits -- friends, relatives, even his mother would tell me I was sacrificing too much of myself for him -- but I knew I was only compensating for the guilt I felt for not being able to give him what he really needed. And the fact that he had alcoholism on both sides of his family was a threat that constantly nawed away at me, portending future troubles if proper steps were not soon taken.

Somehow, karma, fate or whatever led us to come into contact with a few families who had come down from the Foundation to establish a mission in the Sodom and Gomorrah land of South Beach. I had sent Justin to an expensive Jewish camp sponsored by a nearby temple simply because it was the best camp in the area, a vestige of better days. In fact, I was raised Jewish myself but did not want any religious trips laid on Justin, and the camp was basically secular, perhaps only a dash of Israeli dancing and sabbath services on Fridays. Justin had been to a Baptist day-care center in the hip Coconut Grove section we raised him in, so we thought it cute that he got a smattering of different religions as long as neither brainwashed him.

Shortly after the Foundation families moved into our building we could not help but notice that we were seeing less and less of the little sprite: he would come home from camp, sometimes grab a snack, and run out to visit his new friends across the courtyard. I was happy about this because the children of these new families seemed much better off than the lost, un-or misguided kids who lived in the building and whom I'd often felt sorry for, since their parents seemed either too poor or uncaring to send them to summer camp. A few were older than Justin, and I could see a sadness in their faces that I cringed to think would ever emerge in the face of my little angel. Yet in his face other ominous emotions were becoming evident to me, now that he wasn't a baby anymore -- selfishness, recklessness, only-child syndromes. I kind of hoped that these new folks and their children would be a better influence on him and perhaps present him with a situation that he would have to deal with in such a way as to force him to grow out of these patterns.

I quickly became friendly with one of the mothers of the new children in particular -- Dorothy Curry, who was (fatefully) a first-grade teacher, just the grade Justin was entering. Since I am always looking for omens, the obvious possibility immediately clicked in my mind. As I got to know her and the other parents better, I came more and more to see in inevitable flow of fate that was taking place right before my very eyes.

Any but an arrogant "intellectual" (I originally came to Miami to teach at the university) would be convinced of the divinely caused nature of the events that led us to meet the beautiful people of the Foundation and allow them to take our little angel back with them to the paradisaical mountain ridge upon which they have built their homes, their schools and their faith. I must in my objective rationality refuse to admit divine intervention, although I know full well that Dorothy and the rest of the parents view me as the messenger who brought another little blonde lamb to their fold. They would of course, have loved it if his parents were bent on being saved too, but my aforementioned cynicism has apparently also rubbed off enough on Jenny to prevent her from joining the flock, even though she happened to attend a fundamentalist school as a teenager.

At any rate, the incredible blessing that has been bestowed upon our "unsaved selves" in having met these few faithful people stems from a grace that I will never understand. I was always one to laugh at any kind of "cult", and would never have stood for Justin to leave me for anyone or anything, but these people are a breed apart. They are not a "cult" -- they are a clan with a faith. They live much like the families of Israeli kibbutzim -- in loving, closely allied "loose-family" units in which the harmful debilitating effects of the nuclearized family have been broken down to reach out and include uncles, aunts, cousins and friends, much like the way in which humans lived for thousands of healthier years than we are seeing now. The children have many parents, many siblings, and much wider psychosocial in- and output than in the unnaturally truncated nuclear-family situation. Justin cutely took advantage of this set-up at first by flitting from family to family, leaving one if he was "rudely" spanked for the spoiled behaviours we had never had the inner strength to break him of. But in the end it will prove the undoing of his child's intentions and lead him to a more positive life. I only wish I could be there for more than occasional visits to see all the subtle steps that will occur within him.

Besides their fundamentally positive clan set-up, though, the Foundations families impressed me as not only the most loving but also sophisticated and even "secular" religious group I had ever encountered. They even allow things that permissive I always thought I would not if I ever formed a communal group -- toy guns among the kids, meat-eating among everyone. But as for the last, "not what goeth into a man's mouth defileth him, but what cometh out," though let me add that the group eats no more meat than the average population. The toy guns are not really too prevalent either and reflect a basic non-uptightness rarely found in any group of their type.

Dorothy cried when she left, with Justin in her arms and her own kids sprawled in the back of the van. She handed us two packets of letters dealing with parent-child relationships between unsaved parents and saved kids who'd come to live at the Foundation's various locations. I grew to love Dorothy (whose name, another omen, is the same as my mother's) and the other parents in the short time I knew them. They need never worry about our support of their faith and works, even if Dorothy says that I am too "hung up" on concepts to surrender myself, and even if our friends think we're crazy.

To whom it may concern,

We would like to help set the record straight concerning all the accusations against the Tony and Susan Alamo Christian Foundation.

File

My husband, 2 children and I were living in Ft. Smith, Ark. trying to start a small business in June of 1979. Things weren't working out at all. We had hoped to live in Ft. Smith and attend the foundation's church. We were penniless and had a baby due shortly. Tony and Sue took us in, clothed, housed, and fed us and paid all our doctor bills. They gave my husband a job driving truck. Any amount of money we could have brought in could not have offset the expenses we incurred. We lived in the foundation for a year. We left of our own free will and were not made to feel we "owed" anything to anyone.

We praise ~~the~~ Lord and thank God for ~~the~~ Tony and Susan Alamo Christian Foundation and all its members and Tony and Susan Alamo as ~~pastors~~ who are not afraid to speak the truth. We were not deprived of our sleep. We could come and go as we pleased, we ate better than we've ever eaten in our lives, we were not "isolated" from society, and we were certainly not "brainwashed". We lived in a very nice, completely furnished, two-bedroom apartment. I stayed home with our new baby and prepared all our meals just like any housewife. We had more food than we could eat. When we ate in the foundation

②

cafeteria the food was delicious and bountiful. The children were a joy to behold - well-behaved,
happy, and healthy.

The Tony and Susan Alamo
Christian Foundation is a true and mighty work of God and someday soon the whole world is going to know it. We will support and defend the Tony
and Susan Alamo Christian Foundation to the end.

Dear Tony,

Many Thanks to you for taking the time to write to us, we read all the letters from parents who have sons or daughters that are a part of the foundation, we did not need these letters to prove to us the good work that is being done there by all as we seen with open eyes and minds while in Saugus what was going on and we were so impressed by not only the unity but the real concern all the members show for each and every other person that entered the foundation, wouldn't it be wonderful if we could all live in harmony as they do. It really grieves us to hear of people who sit back and criticize the hard work being done by all the members, how many of those people would go into the streets and take a fallen person home with them and feed them, not very many in fact probably none, they

2/ are all too busy saying it's none of our business, well they should all stop cold in their tracks and thank god that some one has taken the time to care for those in need of help, before they believe any lies said about the foundation why don't they take the time to visit and see for themselves what is really going on, I know for sure they would say "well done" and may even get involved themselves.

Our son has always been sturdy and a level headed person, if he thought for one second that something was amiss he surely would not have stayed there for all those years (Thirteen) we are so proud of what he is doing, and we tell all our relatives and friends of the Tony & Susan Alamo Christian Foundation, I have your letter here on my counter open for anyone who visits us to read. We hope to visit your church in Arkansas soon and I really look forward to the

31 services and to be among all those beautiful people again, these people really care. I shall close for now, God Bless and keep up the good work.

Sincerely

As the senior member of the law firm of Gean, Gean & Gean, I am writing this letter concerning Tony Alamo, who is President of the Tony and Susan Alamo Foundation, a non-profit and religious corporation, organized under the laws of the State of California, and who has applied for authorization to do business in most of the 50 States.

This firm of attorneys has represented Tony Alamo and the Foundation for approximately five years. I was personally acquainted with Susan Alamo, now deceased, and I have never known a woman whom I would consider to have higher standards during all my acquaintance with her or who could possibly be a finer Christian lady. Tony Alamo has always acted as a Christian gentleman, and in all his dealings with our firm and in all the matters with which we have been legally associated with him, he has acted with the highest integrity and honesty.
