Dear Mr. Stern:

I want to thank you for the information on the proposal for a White House Conference on Veterans' Education and training.

Mr. Robert P. Nimmo, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, wrote to you on December 7, 1981, indicating that a White House Conference would not be warranted at this time because of the work being done by the Military Manpower Task Force. I would concur with Mr. Nimmo and ask that your proposal be held in abeyance until such time as the Congress acts on the President's recommendations.

I would like to commend your committee's efforts in generating widespread interest in such a proposal.

Sincerely,

NASAA

SERVICE TO OUR VETERANS
FOR MORE THAN A QUARTER-CENTURY

STATE APPROVING AGENCIES

WHAT IS NASAA?

The National Association of State Approving Agencies was officially incorporated in the State of Oklahoma in 1948,

"to bring together the sovereign states in a concentrated effort to improve education and training for eligible veterans."

WHAT DOES NASAA STAND FOR?

Since its inception, NASAA has believed that it is a working partner with veterans. In fulfilling its commitment, NASAA believes that it should do all that is humanly possible to help veterans apply their natural abilities, through education and training, to achieve a better life for themselves, for their families, and for their communities.

WHAT ARE THE PURPOSES OF NASAA?

Through the operations for its various committees and regional and national meetings, NASAA represents its member agencies in matters affecting the education and training of veterans and in achieving the professional growth needed to provide the maximum assistance to veterans that is expressed in the Association's charter.

In striving to achieve this end, it is the purpose of the National Association of State Approving Agencies to:

1. Promote high professional standards, policies, and ethical practices among the members,
2. Provide a better understanding of the role and functions of State Approving Agencies,

3. ~~Represent the mutual interests of the membership on matters~~ coming before the Association,
4. Provide a forum in which the interchange of ideas and information can be facilitated,
5. Encourage and support quality education and training for veterans and other eligible persons, and,
6. Foster intercourse and cooperation between all concerned and interested agencies on matters affecting the education and training of veterans and other eligible persons.

WHO DOES NASAA REPRESENT?

Each designated State Approving Agency within a state, territory, or the District of Columbia shall be encouraged to maintain adequate representation in the Association. A large portion of these agencies are members of the Association, but we still strive for a 100% membership.

Members represent a spectrum of state agencies, such as Departments of Education, Governor's Veterans Councils, Veterans Service Offices, Labor Departments, Departments of Veterans Affairs, and others. These members have ties with many other state agencies which contribute to the training of veterans, such as the State Education Agency, School Licensing Authority, Apprenticeship Council, Office of Consumer Affairs, Office of Attorney General, Employment Security, and Vocational Rehabilitation.

WHAT IS A STATE APPROVING AGENCY?

The concept of the State Approving Agency originated with the G. I. Bill after World War II when the authors of the bill recognized the responsibility of the State for the education of its citizens. This concept and the intent of Congress in support of the concept has appeared in every G. I. Bill since that time.

The activities of the SAA's and the manner in which they have carried out their responsibilities have been reviewed many times over the intervening years by members of Congress and by the Executive Branch of the Federal Government. With each new G. I. Bill, Congress has reinforced its belief in the value of the SAA's. This is best exemplified by the following excerpt from the committee report on the post-Korean G. I. Bill:

"The system of approval of educational institutions by State Approving Agencies has proved its worth in connection with (Previous G. I. Bills)--. The Committee looks to the approval functions as one of the basic safeguards against abuse and therefore expects that these approval and supervisory efforts will be fully supported by the Veterans Administration."

WHAT DOES AN SAA DO?

1. Determine whether or not a training institution complies with the law and with the State's Approval criteria,
2. Perform regular supervisory functions to determine continued compliance with the criteria,

3. ~~Keep the training institutions informed of their approval status~~ and of changes in the laws and criteria,
4. Furnish information to the Veterans Administration as to the approval status of training institutions, and provide additional services as may be requested from time to time by the Veterans Administration.

AND THERE IS MORE!

Because of their ties with other agencies and other laws, the SAA may provide other services that are not performed by any other agency.

1. Provide consultative services on state laws and regulations as they concern appropriate education and training,
2. Provide a repository of information regarding schools, even those which may no longer be in existence,
3. Provide an unbiased and disinterested third party between schools, between schools and the public, between schools and other governmental agencies so that the differences can be resolved without litigation,
4. Provide recommendations for legislation concerning guidelines for training institutions.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

December 30, 1981

Dear Congressman Heftel:

Thank you very much for your letter of support for a White House Conference on Veterans Education and Training.

I have been in touch with the Veterans Administration on this matter. As you will see from the attached correspondence between Mr. Stern and Mr. Nimmo, a Military Manpower Task Force has been established. Mr. Nimmo's conclusion is that a White House Conference on Veterans' Education and Training is not warranted at this time. This appears to conclude the matter in the absence of Congressional action.

Again, thank you for your interest in this matter.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Blackwell:

I am writing to express my support for the proposal for a White House Conference on Veterans Education and Training.

A White House Conference on Veterans Education and Training would be an excellent forum in which to discuss the future of veterans' educational programs. It would allow special interest groups and veterans' organizations concerned with veterans' education and training to pool their knowledge and experience and to formulate proposals for improving our current programs. In view of the need to address how we can most effectively use our limited resources to achieve the most efficient and effective programs, I urge you to approve the proposal for a White House Conference on Veterans Education and Training.

Thank you for your consideration. Please do not hesitate to contact me if I may be of further assistance to you in this matter.

Sincerely,

CEC HEFTEL

Mr. Robert Stern
Chairman
White House Conference Committee
National Association of State
Approving Agencies
Michigan Department of Education
P. O. Box 30008
Lansing, Michigan 48909

Dear Mr. Stern:

Thank you for your letter and the information concerning a proposal by the National Association of State Approving Agencies for a White House Conference on Veterans' Education and Training.

The questions about a new GI Bill education and training program are many and complex. The President has recommended that the Chapter 32 Post-Vietnam Era Veterans' Educational Assistance Program (VEAP) be continued. This extension will permit a thorough evaluation of the Program by the Department of Defense and the Veterans Administration. The Department of Defense Authorization Act of 1981, Public Law 96-342, established a pilot program under which certain individuals, who enlisted or reenlisted in the armed forces on or after October 1, 1980, and before October 1, 1981, will be provided educational assistance. The Department of Defense is reviewing the results of this pilot program to determine its effectiveness.

There is a Military Manpower Task Force, which is chaired by the Secretary of Defense, Caspar Weinberger. The Task Force is composed of White House officials, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force, and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The Task Force is currently studying recruitment, military pay, GI Bill benefits and the need for a permanent education and training program. After the Task Force has completed its work and reported its findings, the President will make recommendations to the Congress.

I have reviewed your Association's proposal. The Association's efforts and concerns must be commended. However, in view of the continuing evaluation of the Post-Vietnam Era Educational Assistance Program, the Department of Defense pilot program and the current work of the Military Manpower Task Force, I do not believe that a White House Conference on Veterans' Education and Training is warranted at this time.

Mr. Robert Stern

Although I cannot support your proposal, I do appreciate the Association's interest in veterans' affairs and the work which the Association and your Committee expended in the preparation of the proposal.

Sincerely,

ROBERT P. NINGO
Administrator

PROPOSAL
WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE
ON
VETERANS EDUCATION & TRAINING

I. Forward

Enacted by the Congress in 1944, Public Law 78-346 has been amended several times through 1980, but it remains the "G. I. Bill of Rights" in the hearts and minds of all veterans of military services in the United States. It was conceived as a means of preventing a repetition of what created in 1919 a dissatisfied veteran, one who had served his country in World War I and was demobilized with $60 Separation pay, a railroad ticket home, and, all too often, no job. The act, popularly known as the "G. I. Bill," provided for readjustment to civilian life in a changed society.

An unexpected number of veterans used their education benefits. During the peak year of 1947, 1,158,000 G. I.'s were enrolled in college and 2,546,000 in other types of education and training. The World War II G. I. Bill ended on July 25, 1956. During its 12 year existence, 7.8 million veterans (slightly more than 50 percent of those eligible) received training. The total cost to the taxpayers was $14.5 billion.

On July 16, 1952, President Harry S. Truman signed Public Law 550, the "Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1952," passed by the 82nd Congress. P.L. 550 ended payments to the institutions and provided for payments to the veterans. The State Approving Agency was now required to insure proper record keeping as well as the normal process of approval of educational and training facilities in each State. When the Korean G. I. Bill ended on January 31, 1965, 2,391,000 (42 percent of those eligible) had received training or education. The cost to taxpayers was $4.5 billion.

President Lyndon B. Johnson signed Public Law 538, the "Veterans Readjustment Benefits Act of 1966," on March 3, 1966. It is also known as Title 38 of the United States Code. The program went into effect June 1, 1966. This legislation provided benefits for Vietnam veterans and has subsequently been amended and extended to care for eligible recipients through 1980.

Since the close of World War II, about 18 million veterans have used $52 billion to further their education or training, 7 million of them attending college. The Veterans Administration estimates that additional income taxes from veterans whose lifetime earnings were increased as a result of government assistance amount to several times more than the cost to the Federal government.

As we enter the 80's we find continued interest in having a "G. I. Bill" for education; however, the current view is no longer readjustment, but rather retention. Bills currently being discussed in Congress deal with the problem of not only getting people to join the service, but also to remain in service.

Generally Congress with input from the Veterans Administration has developed a G. I. Bill as a means of alleviating immediate concerns, yet it does not appear that any educational program for veterans has been developed with a view to the future.

II. Statement of Purpose
