BITBURG

Bitburg, county capital of the Southern Eifel, located in the hills between the Kyll and the Nims rivers, has been for centuries the natural center of this predominantly agriculturally-oriented area.

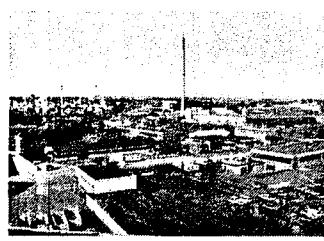

mes, a market town developed at this crossroad point. Even today wall remnants and a Roman villa in the immediate neighborhood bear witness of the importance of the almost 2 ha-large settlement, constructed around 330 A.D.

Several wars caused much grief to the city. There was first the heavy destructions of the 30-year war, then the county capital was almost totally destroyed by bombing and artillery fire in WW II. Subsequent to the destruction of Christmas Eve 44, Bitburg was declared a "dead city" in the military reports.

The faster than expected reconstruction of the city is proof of the strong vital energy of this citizens. From the ruins emerged a modern city, especially valued as an attractive shopping town with a busy economic life. In addition to creating new jobs in industry and trade, housing construction was of foremost importance. Through farsighted development planning, the necessary prerequisites for obtaining unexpensive construction terrain were met. The efforts for providing additional and maintaining existing and stable jobs are continued. In the past, good results were obtained in this area, especially after Bitburg became one of the cities to be included in the regional promotion program of the Federal Government. However, more efforts are necessary to create new jobs for manpower becoming available through agricultural restructuring. In this respect, the capital of the largest county in Rheinland-Pfalz has an important mission to fulfill for its surrounding area.

In recent years, it was possible to persuade engine and tool manufacturers to settle here. Bitburg also has a non-business connected training workshop for metal workers, where 170 apprentices and retrainees are learning their trade.

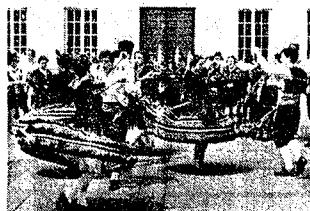

The city is trying to avoid possible rural-exodus tendencies of manpower by settling of additional industries in the approximately 20 acres large industrial area where good development possibilities exist.

Because of its central location in the European communities and its close proximity to the Benelux countries, Bitburg offers ideal settlement opportunities. Located at the intersection of several Federal highways at only 27 KM from the central- and university city of Trier, the city will soon have good traffic connections with Antwerp, Brussels, Liège, and the Rhein-Main/Rhein-Neckar area via Federal Auto-bahn A-60. With the Beginning of the construction work on the new A-60 between German border and Bitburg, and the soon to follow continuation up to Wittlich (A-48) this traffic improvement plan has entered a decisive stage.

As the capital of Bitburg-Prüm County, Bitburg is today the economic and cultural center of the Southern Eifel. Today's image of the city is marked by the world-wide known Bitburg Brewery with almost 600 employees and by the nearby NATO air base.

The city has approximately 12,500 residents. One has to add just as many members of the U.S. Forces and of a French Garrison.

The special importance of the city as an European and International border town is underlined by a large folklore and music festival, which takes place annually on the second weekend in July.

Bitburg has a fine reputation as cultural center of the Southern Eifel. Haus Beda, a cultural foundation by Dr. Hanns Simon, is the center of a large, first-rate cultural program, well known beyond the borders of the Southern Eifel. For his great merits on the cultural plan, the founder, Dr. Hanns Simon, was offered honorary citizenship of Bitburg in 1979

Because of its perfect location, Bitburg is the ideal starting point for walks and excursions to the Bitburg-Land vacation area, to the German-Belgian and German-Luxembourg national parks or to the nearby cities of Trier and Luxembourg.

It certainly pays to get to know the Bitburg area with its beautiful landscape. The vacation center in the Prüm valley with the Bitburg "Stausee" and the Sportshotel Südeifel, as well as the Gondorf deer-park, also deserve special attention.

Dear Mr. President,

I request that you reconsider your refusal to visit Dachau during your trip to Germany. Many survivors of the Holocaust consider themselves left behind as witnesses. They take every opportunity to teach the rising generations about the horrors of the past, that we might work together to avoid them in the future.

There is no reason not to visit the cemetery of the German war dead. But there are compelling reasons to visit Dachau. We fought for principles which were denied six million. Your visit would give a quiet affirmation that we stand for the same freedoms today as the ones we fought for then.

My father gave his life as an Air Force bomber pilot over Germany six weeks after I was born. If your visit to honor German war dead can be done in a spirit of mutual healing between the two countries, then why can't a visit to Dachau be done in a spirit of mutual sorrow?

I believe my father fought in the name of freedom and justice, and I hold no malice toward Germany. A visit to Dachau, not in memory of any combatants, would be a remembrance of the innocent who died.

I am familiar with the work of Raoul Wallenberg. It would be fitting, that in a month where a movie catalogues the life of a man who gave his all to save thousands, you would be willing to take a moment to remember millions.

We remember the dead precisely because we hold a reverence for life. Please reconsider. Arrange to visit that place of pest horror, that you may affirm a realistic hope for the future.

Sincerely,

Terrance D. Olson

Dear President Reagan:

I note with interest that the press is attacking you in regard to your planned visit to the Bitburg Cemetery in Germany.

As a fellow American (I immigrated to the United States 23 years ago), I feel compelled to tell you a story that may offset some of this criticism.

My father, Adolf Dressler, is buried at Bitburg. He was a farmer in his late thirties, not a member of the Nazi Party, when he was drafted into the infantry from our small community close to Koblenz. During his tour of duty, he saw action initially on the Russian Front and missed the Leningrad Siege by just a few weeks.

As the war was coming to an end, he was assigned to an infantry regiment fighting in Luxembourg.

On January 19, 1945 (see attached copy of grave marker), he was killed in Luxembourg. A nineteen year old German soldier wrapped my father's body in a blanket and carried him on his back for three days to assure him a burial on German soil. Through the young soldier's help, my father's remains were located several years later and moved to Bitburg.

I consider it an honor that my President plans to visit the last resting place of my father.

Only a handful of SS-Troopers are buried at Bitburg. The rest of the graves are those of many Germans like my father, who were forced to serve under the Nazi regime.

The "Meiji Constitution" initiated many reforms. Eventually, in 1898, the last of the galling "unequal treaties" with Western powers was removed, signaling Japan's new status among the nations of the world. In a few decades, by creating modern social, educational, economic, military, and industrial systems, the Meiji's "controlled revolution" had transformed a feudal and isolated state into a world power.

Wars With China and Russia

The Japanese leaders of the late 19th century, alert to internal and Western "power politics," regarded the Korean peninsula as a "dagger pointed at the heart of Japan." It was over Korea that Japan became involved in war with the Chinese Empire in 1894-95 and with Russia in 1904-05. The war with China established Japan's dominant interest in Korea, while giving it the Pescadores Islands and Formosa as well. Japan defeated Russia in the war of 1904-05, and the resulting Treaty of Portsmouth awarded Japan certain rights in Manchuria and in southern Sakhalin, which Russia had received in 1875 in exchange for the Kurile Islands. These two wars gave Japan a free hand in Korea, which it formally annexed in 1910.

World War I to the Present

World War I permitted Japan, the only Asian Ally, to expand its influence in Asia and its territorial holdings in the Pacific. The postwar era brought unprecedented prosperity to the country. Japan went to the peace conference at Versailles in 1919 as one of the great military and industrial powers of the world and received official recognition as one of the "Big Five" of the new international order. It joined the League of Nations and received a mandate over Pacific islands north of the Equator formerly held by Germany.

During the 1920s, Japan progressed toward establishing a democratic system of government. However, parliamentary government was not rooted deeply enough to withstand the economic and political pressures of the 1930s. During this period, military leaders were increasingly influential.

Japan invaded Manchuria in 1931 and set up the state of Manchukuo. In 1933, Japan resigned from the League of Nations. The Japanese invasion of China in 1937 followed Japan's signing the "anti-Comintern pact" the previous year and was part of a chain of developments culminating in the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941. After 3 years and 9 months of war, resulting in the loss of hundreds of thousands of lives and including the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan signed an instrument of surrender on the U.S.S. Missouri in Tokyo Harbor on September 2, 1945.

As a result of World War II, Japan lost all of its recently acquired possessions and retained only the home islands. Manchukuo was dissolved, and Manchuria was returned to China; Japan renounced all claims to Formosa; Korea was granted independence; southern Sakhalin and the Kuriles were occupied by the U.S.S.R.; and the United States became the sole administering authority of the Ryukyu, Bonin, and Volcano Islands. The United States returned control of these islands to Japan by 1972 with the reversion of Okinawa.

After the war, Japan was placed under the international control of the Allied Powers through the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers, Gen. Douglas MacArthur. U.S. objectives were to ensure that Japan would become a peaceful nation and to establish democratic self-government supported by the freely expressed will of the people. Political, economic, and social reforms were introduced. The method of ruling through Japanese officials and a freely elected Japanese Diet (legislature) afforded a progressive and orderly transition from the stringent controls immediately following the surrender to the restoration of full sovereignty when the treaty of peace with Japan went into effect on April 28, 1952.

Since then, Japan has been ruled by conservative governments that pursue a policy of maintaining close cooperation with the West. The institutions of parliamentary democracy have become progressively stronger. The post-treaty period also has been marked by tremendous economic growth.

GOVERNMENT

Japan's parliamentary government—a constitutional monarchy—operates within the framework of a constitution that became effective on May 3, 1947. Sovereignty, previously embodied in the emperor, is vested in the Japanese people, and the emperor is defined as the symbol of the state. Japan has universal adult suffrage with a secret ballot for all elective offices. The government consists of an executive branch, responsible to the Diet, and an independent judicial branch. The government is essentially a parliamentary system patterned on the British model, with a House of Representatives and a House of Councilors.

Executive power is vested in a cabinet composed of the prime minister and ministers of state, all of whom must be civilians. The prime minister, who must be a member of the Diet, is appointed by the emperor on designation by the Diet and has the power to appoint and remove ministers, the majority of whom must be from the Diet.

Japan's judicial system, based on Roman law, consists of several levels of courts with the Supreme Court as the final judicial authority. The Japanese Constitution includes a bill of rights similar to the U.S. Bill of Rights, and the Supreme Court has the right of judicial review. Japanese courts do not use a jury system, and there are no administrative courts or claims courts. Because of the system's basis in Roman law, court decisions are made in accordance with statute law, and only Supreme Court decisions have any direct effect on later interpretation of points of law.

The constitution requires that regulations for the organization and administration of local governments be "in accordance with the principle of local autonomy." However, Japan does not have a federal system, and its 47 prefectures are not sovereign entities in the sense that U.S. states are. Most are not financially self-sufficient but depend on the central government for subsidies. Governors of prefectures, mayors of municipalities, and prefectoral and municipal assembly members are popularly elected for 4-year terms.

HEADLINE: Asks At May Day Rally Who Else But America Would Give Egypt That Much Aid

BYLINE: By MAURICE GUINDI, Associated Press Writer

DATELINE: CAIRO, Egypt

KEYWORD: Mubarak

BODY:

President Hosni Mubarak told a May Day rally today that America will give Egypt $2.315 billion in economic and military aid in the coming fiscal year, and asked who else would give Egypt that much money.

"Who else is going to give me $2.315 billion as a grant?" Mubarak said. "I am not defending America ... but it is helping me. Am I going to accept or refuse?"

Mubarak compared the $2.315 billion 1985-86 aid figure with this fiscal year's $2.2 billion in economic and military aid from the United States.

He did not mention Egypt's request for supplemental aid of about $1.8 billion for the two years.

He emphasized that Egypt was making no concessions to the United States in return for its aid, and he noted Egypt's refusal to provide military bases to the United States.

Mubarak said the aim of his Washington visit in March was twofold - "to urge the United States to reactivate its role in the peace process as a partner with a special responsibility ... and to guarantee the stability of economic and military cooperation between the two countries."

"These two objectives were realized satisfactorily."

He said the United States also is "moving toward a solution of the Palestinian problem." This was an apparent reference to a Middle East exploratory tour by U.S. envoy Richard Murphy that ended Sunday.

The State Department has said the trip by Murphy, an assistant secretary of state, produced no breakthroughs, but did not result in setbacks.

Secretary of State George Shultz is due to visit Israel, Egypt and Jordan May 10-14.

LEXIS NEXIS LEXIS NEXIS

The Associated Press, May 1, 1985

Mubarak today defended Egypt's special relationship with the United States, and called his Washington visit "the most successful of all my visits to the United States."

Mubarak told the rally he is willing to meet anywhere with Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres, but only after Israel agrees to send a territorial dispute to arbitration and meets two other conditions demanded by Egypt - Israel's troop withdrawal from Lebanon and "movement on the Palestinian problem."

Mubarak forcefully supported the right of the Palestine Liberation Organization to choose representatives to Middle East peace talks.

Egypt's territorial dispute with Israel is over ownership of Taba, a 250-acre tract on the Gulf of Aqaba.

Egypt, which signed a peace treaty with Israel in 1979, withdrew its ambassador to the Jewish state in September 1982 to protest the Lebanon invasion in June 1982 and a massacre of Palestinian refugees there by pro-Israeli Lebanese militias.

Today, Mubarak welcomed the Israeli troop withdrawal from Lebanon now under way as "a step in the right direction."

He said that once the three Egyptian conditions have been met, "I shall be prepared to meet him (Peres) anywhere, and there will be no problem."

HEADLINE: Russian exile decries Soviet prison law

DATELINE: ST. LOUIS

KEYWORD: Solzhenitsyn

BODY:

Natalya Solzhenitsyn, the wife of exiled Russian writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn, says a new Soviet law allows sentences of prisoners without granting them second trials.

Solzhenitsyn, whose husband authored "The Gulag Archipelago" - the epic work about life in Soviet prison camps -- termed the law "a new Gulag."

The law, added to the Soviet constitution during the 15-month reign of the late Soviet leader Yuri V. Andropov, Solzhenitsyn says allows prisoners to be sentenced to additional time without trial once they are imprisoned.

"Most Americans have no idea about this law, No. 183," she said. "They can spend a life in prison. No other country has such a law."

Solzhenitsyn made her comments to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch while in town for a performance of the Kammergild Chamber Orchestra. Her son, Ignat, 12, is concert pianist with the orchestra which was scheduled to perform Sunday at the St. Louis Art Museum.

Solzhenitsyn, along with her husband and three sons, was exiled from the Soviet Union in the winter of 1974.

She said she was concerned for Sergei Khodorovich, a man who administered a welfare fund in Russia that her husband set up for families of Soviet political prisoners. Solzhenitsyn said word reached her late last week that Khodorovich had been charged with breaking the law while in a criminal prison in Norilsk near the Arctic Circle in eastern Siberia. He has been in that camp since March, she said.

No specifics of the charge are known in the West. Under the law, Khodorovich's three-year prison term can be extended indefinitely. As far as she knows, no additional sentence had been handed down.

A news conference Solzhenitsyn held in Washington in the fall of 1983 just before Khodorovich's original sentencing, and the public mention of his case by President Reagan seem to have pressured Soviet authorities to sentence Khodorovich to three years, a relatively light term, she said.

Proprietary to the United Press International, January 27, 1985

But she says now that the international limelight has dimmed, this second charge could keep him in prison indefinitely.

"Sergei was never a political man," she said. "Not a dissident at all. He never even wrote a dissenting letter. However, Soviet authorities "followed him everywhere, bugged his home, searched his letters," she said.

Khodorovich was arrested in April 1983 and was tried Dec. 14, 1983.

Khodorovich, who took over the fund in 1977, knew the risks he was taking in distributing help through the Solzhenitsyn fund, she said. He frequently described his work as being an outgrowth of his new belief in Christianity after an atheistic upbringing, she said.

The fund receives all world rights from the sale of the "The Gulag Archipelago." The family gets no money for the book, which won her husband the 1970 Nobel Prize for Literature.

Since no private foundations are allowed in the Soviet Union, the Russian Fund For Persecuted Persons and Their Families, was incorporated in Switzerland in April 1974. Natalya Solzhenitsyn serves as international president of the fund.

The Solzhenitsyn's now live in a rural area of Vermont.

HEADLINE: Peru Tries Democratic Change

*Mirko's
Indian in Nicaragua*

BODY:

In Latin America, preserving democracy has always been even harder than periodically restoring it. If Peru actually inaugurates Alan Garcia Perez, the victorious candidate of the American Popular Revolutionary Alliance, as president in July, it will mark the first time in 40 years that power there has been transferred democratically.

That achievement has become more likely since the withdrawal from active campaigning of Alfonso Barrantes Lingan, an independent Marxist, who ran second and would be the only opponent in a runoff. Mr. Barrantes recognized that he had no chance; he drew 23 percent in this month's first round, against Mr. Garcia's 47 percent.

Mr. Garcia's party was founded and led for half a century by Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, a charismatic, controversial politician who died in 1979. Under him the Revolutionary Alliance was Peru's major civilian party, a factor in every democratic election without ever attaining power. It is now approaching power because all its main rivals, including the military, have had their turn and failed. Sadly, this also applies to the outgoing civilian Government of President Fernando Belaunde Terry, who five years ago won a convincing 45 percent of the vote. This year, his party's candidate managed only 5 percent. President Belaunde's term was marred by deep recession, spiraling inflation, a crushing foreign debt and a brutal counterinsurgency campaign against the Shining Path terrorists. Peruvian society, divided by regional and ethnic inequalities, became even more demoralized.

Now it banks on the 35-year-old Mr. Garcia. To the extent that he fits any political classification, he is a man of the moderate left. After the strong showing of Mr. Barrantes's party, the balance of congressional power will be further left.

Left-wing civilian government is a novelty for Peru. But there are no known ideological solutions to its major challenges: combating terrorism by democratic means and paying overdue bills with inadequate resources. Mr. Garcia will need all his charisma, and abundant help from democratic friends.

HEADLINE: Sandinista claim CIA gave Rebels Surface-to-air Missiles

BYLINE: By FILADELFO ALEMAN, Associated Press Writer

DATELINE: MANAGUA, Nicaragua

KEYWORD: Nicaragua -CIA

BODY:

Defense Minister Humberto Ortega on Sunday claimed the Reagan administration is providing anti-Sandinista rebels with surface-to-air missiles.

He said the Soviet-designed SAM-7 missiles, which are shoulder-fired, were acquired by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and given to the rebels.

The Reagan administration will be responsible for "any situation that might come out of the possession of this type of weapons in the hands of irregular forces," said Ortega, brother of President Daniel Ortega.

The SAM-7s could be obtained by "irregular forces that fight in other countries, such as El Salvador" and be used "for terrorist ends," he added.

Leftist guerrillas are fighting the U.S.-backed government in El Salvador, and the Reagan administration has accused Nicaragua of supplying the Salvadoran guerrillas with weapons.

Nicaragua's army has Soviet-made surface-to-air missiles that destroyed at least one rebel plane last year.

Last week, a Nicaraguan rebel leader, Indalecio Rodriguez, told The Associated Press that his group, the Nicaraguan Democratic Force, has SAM-7 missiles in its arsenal.

Rodriguez refused to say how many SAM-7s the rebels have, but he said they had "enough" to counter the Soviet MI-24 helicopters the Sandinistas are believed to have received last November.

Ortega also told reporters that 200 rebels were killed and 800 were wounded in a recent artillery attack on a guerrilla camp in northern Nicaragua.

He said the base was near Wamblan on the Honduran border in Jinotega province, about 125 miles north of Managua, but did not say when the attack occurred.

The Associated Press, April 28, 1985

In another development, the Defense Ministry announced that rebels attacked a government construction plant Saturday night, destroying 16 trucks, a medical post and a commissary. It did not mention any casualties in the assault near Condega, 125 miles northeast of the capital.

The government also announced it had released 14 Miskito Indians who had been jailed for counter-revolutionary activities. Lumento Campbell, the Sandinista representative for the Atlantic coast, said they were released as part of an agreement signed April 22 in Mexico between the Sandinista government and Misurasata, a rebel group made up of Miskito, Sumo and Rama Indians.

The Miskitos, most of whom live along the Atlantic coast, have had strained relations with the Sandinistas. They accuse the Sandinistas of trying to imposed Marxism on them and not respecting their culture.

HEADLINE: AID VOTE IS A POLITICAL BLOW FOR NICARAGUAN REBELS

BYLINE: By STEPHEN KINZER

DATELINE: MANAGUA, Nicaragua

BODY:

The House vote last week that cut off American military aid to the Nicaraguan rebels is unlikely to have an immediate effect on their fighting ability, diplomats and Sandinista Government officials say. "They can get $14 million from a lot of different places, so the money isn't that great a loss," a Western Ambassador said. "The real damage is more difficult to measure. You have to wonder how many people are going to want to get behind a cause that the United States Congress has abandoned."

The contras, as the insurgents are called, will also face new logistical problems in obtaining their arms and munitions. They may have to venture directly into the Byzantine world of international weapons sales, where the C.I.A., through its network of agents in Europe and Latin America, formerly served as a go-between.

The House vote placed Honduras and Costa Rica, which have tacitly supported the anti-Sandinista war, in an awkward position. Both countries have allowed contras to operate from their territory and must now consider whether to follow Congress's lead and make life more difficult for them.

The principal contra leader, Adolfo Calero Portocarrero of the Nicaraguan Democratic Force, said he anticipated no financial trouble; international attention generated by the debate in Washington had attracted new private donors. "On Tuesday, we received a considerable commitment from a foreigner, not an American, for much more than we have ever received from any one person," he said. "People with real money are calling."

Speaking before the vote, Nicaragua's President Daniel Ortega Saavedra repeated his offer of amnesty to rebel soldiers. A lieutenant in the state security agency said the offer applies to anyone who surrenders, even high officers in the contra forces. At least one senior rebel commander was reported to be taking up the amnesty offer. The Government also announced that it would comply with a pledge it made in February and send 100 Cuban advisers home this week. But Mr. Ortega insisted that events in Washington would not be permitted to change the character of the Nicaraguan Government. "The United States still doesn't understand that this is an irreversible revolutionary process," he said, addressing a crowd in La Libertad, his home town. "Here there can be no backward steps." As the contras consider how to deal with their setback in Washington, Sandinista commanders are acting to reinforce their already considerable military superiority. They have moved thousands of families from rural areas where sympathy was strong for the rebels, hoping to dry up sources of supply for rebel bands. They have brought new and powerful artillery pieces to the front, and have pressed ahead with the controversial policy of military conscription. But perhaps the mightiest weapon in the Sandinista arsenal, the Soviet-made MI-24 helicopter gunship, has not been seen in battle. The decision not to use it, diplomats said, has probably been based at least partly on political considerations. Introducing Soviet gunships, with their devastating firepower, might well have had an effect on the debate in Washington.

Moscow's Contribution

Although the contras cannot boast of great military success, one of their goals - crippling the economy - has been all but achieved. On city street corners and in small villages, complaints about the Sandinistas are as often economic as political. Big price increases announced last week were the latest in a series of economic shocks, which Sandinista leaders blame on the fighting and the pressure from the Reagan Administration. President Ortega announced last week that he would soon visit Moscow to seek increased Soviet economic assistance. Eastern European countries account for a growing percentage of Nicaragua's foreign trade, and there is considerable speculation about how generous the new Kremlin leadership will be with Nicaragua.

Mr. Ortega announced his trip only days after President Reagan said that Soviet military personnel had been spotted in Nicaraguan battle zones near the Honduran border.

The White House said a small group of Russians were "probably there as military advisers rather than involved in actual combat." But Soviet military aid thus far has consisted principally of weapons. Cubans and others provide military advice and assistance in the war areas.

The Sandinistas remain anxious to renew their talks with the United States, which were held in Manzanillo, Mexico, until Washington suspended them this year. The Administration now insists that the Sandinistas talk instead to contra leaders, but they have refused to do so. "The dog is the least responsible member of the household," Mr. Ortega said in rejecting dialogue with the contras.

"You have to talk with the one who orders the dog around. In this case, the owner of the dog, the one who feeds and supports it, is the Government of the United States."

A leading advocate of talks with the rebels, the Archbishop of Managua, Miguel Obando y Bravo, was named a Cardinal last week. Although he is a sharp critic of the Sandinistas, Mr. Ortega paid him a congratulatory visit.

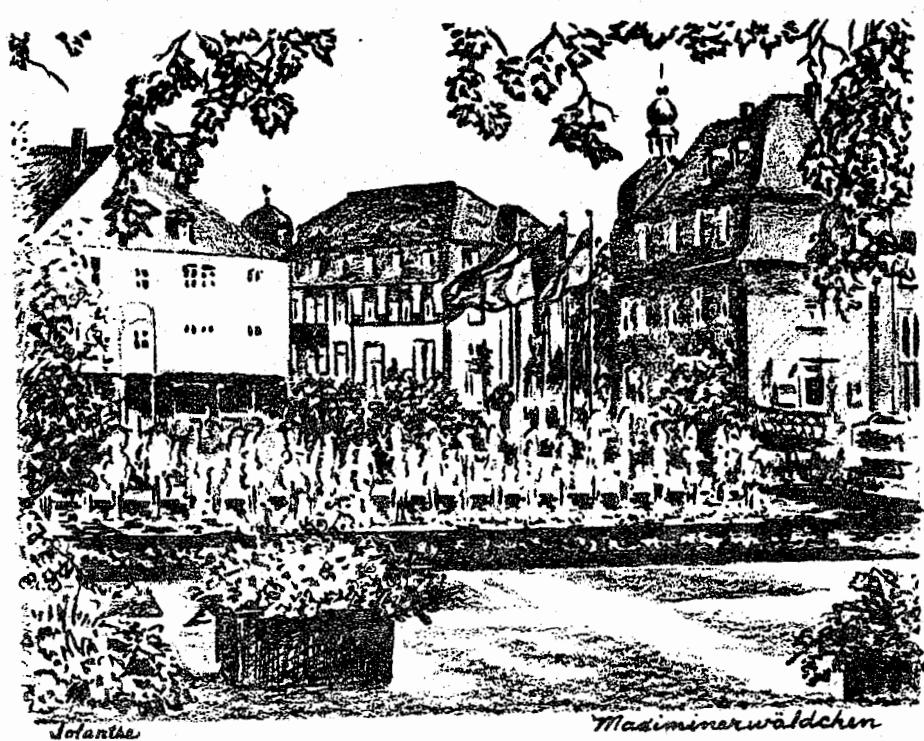

The Sandinistas have also been willing to talk with Brooklyn Rivera, the Miskito Indian leader whose indigenous coalition, Misurasata, joined forces with the contras. Last week, there were indications that this dialogue was making progress. In a joint communique, the Sandinista Front and Misurasata said they would try to avoid military conflict while the Government brings food and medicine to Indian areas and tries to re-establish fishing and other industries there. The Government also promised to pardon all Indian prisoners accused of anti-Government acts. The two sides agreed to meet again in Bogota, Colombia, late next month.

In order to obtain a valid driver's license, you must meet several requirements. You must possess a U.S. license, attend a driver orientation course and pass a written examination.

The Driver's Testing and Training Station is located in Bldg. 304, next to the Recreation Center. The required Overseas Orientation and Standard Traffic Safety Course is offered every Monday and Friday from 0900 to 1100. Before taking the written examination you should study the Driver's Handbook and Examination Manual for Germany. This manual can be picked up at Bldg. 304. The written examination consists of 100 questions on German traffic laws and 50 questions on the international road signs. If you fail the exam, retesting is conducted on Wednesdays from 0730-1100. In addition, before you take the exam, obtain the application for POV USAREUR operator's license from your unit headquarters. A minimal fee, paid by check or money order is required for the license.

Inquiries concerning a motorcycle license can be made at Bldg. 304.

INTERNATIONAL DRIVER'S LICENSE

Some countries outside the Federal Republic of Germany require an international license to operate a vehicle within their borders. The driver's testing and training station can direct you to the office in Bitburg where these licenses can be obtained.

Requirements for the license are 1) an application, 2) a valid POV USAREUR operator's license, 3) vertical photograph taken while in civilian dress, size one and a half by two inches. (You can have this photograph taken at Bestkauf for about 1 DM. 4) U.S. passport (required only for DA/DAO Civilians and dependents.) 5) a fee of 7 DM is charged for the license.

VALUE ADDED TAX

Almost everything you buy on the German economy has a 13% tax included in the price. Active duty military, DoD employees and their dependents need not pay the tax. The Central Base Fund at Bitburg (NAFFMB) is the place to go to get tax relief. It is located in Bldg. 301, right across the street from the mailroom.

All goods and services sold on the economy that are subject to the VAT may be purchased by CBF for authorized individuals. To qualify for the tax relief you must meet certain guidelines. Minimum price for the purchases is 50 DM and automobiles, furniture, heating oil, car repairs, and household goods such as crystal and china, are authorized purchases. Goods and services must be for the sole use of the authorized individual, except that bona fide gifts are allowed under AFR 30-15. Check with the Legal Office before filling out the paperwork. Purchases which will not be authorized include: items to be re-sold to unauthorized personnel; purchases to support any business activity, even if the individuals involved in the purchase are authorized; materials for prefabricated permanent structures or additions to permanent structures.

How to Obtain Tax Relief:

1. Select goods or services you desire.
2. Obtain from the merchant a complete bill describing the goods or services, the exact total price, the exact amount of the tax and the net total (minus the tax). Have the bill made out to Central Base Fund-Bitburg.
3. Take the bill to the NAFFMB office in BLDG 301, right across the street from the mail room.
4. Fill out the required forms. Pay for the merchandise, plus a $2.00 processing fee, in dollars. (The exchange rate will be the same as their monies are channeled into the community. To name a few, the wives' clubs have provided financial support to Family Services, the Red Cross, Scouting, youth sports, the high school band, high school scholarships, and the Recreation Center.

To enjoy your stay in Bitburg, you will probably be happier if you are busy. The wives' clubs can help you by planning and promoting social, cultural and welfare activities. Both clubs have monthly coffees and luncheons, each has monthly activities you can join (bingo, mah jongg, bridge, crafts, and bowling;) each organizes tours-- ranging from shopping in England to skiing in Austria to sunbathing in Spain; and each club sponsors a large, yearly Bazaar for the entire Eifel community-- the folks at home may have a K-Mart, but you have a hangar-full of European treasures to choose from, oh joy!

The NCO Wives' Club is open to all wives of NCO Open Mess members. Dues are currently $1.25 per month and payable at the meetings. The NCOWC meets every Tuesday at 1 PM at the NCO Club: 1st Tuesday- bingo; 2nd Tuesday- business meeting; 3rd Tuesday- activity day; 4th Tuesday- luncheon.

The OWC is open to any wife of an Officer's Club member. The dues are currently $2.00 per month and will appear on the sponsor's club bill. Meetings and activities are held at the O'Club. In 415 A.D., a document referred to Bitburg as the fortified city of Bedense (another name for Beda). So that is considered the town charter for Bitburg. Then the Huns arrived from Asia and destroyed what was built by the Franks and Romans. It was a terrible time.

In 715 A.D., the Huns were defeated by the Franks. The Franks became the leading Germanic tribe. The Germanic tribes settled in the Rheinland and in ancient Gaul (now France). It became the Frankish Empire. Under Charlemagne (Charles the Great) 768-814, the Empire extended from the Baltic Sea to Southern Italy under the banner of Christianity. In 800 A.D., the Pope crowned Charlemagne Emperor in Rome. In 814, after Charlemagne's death the Frankish Empire was divided into two parts - the Western Frankish Empire (France) and the Eastern Frankish Empire (Germany).

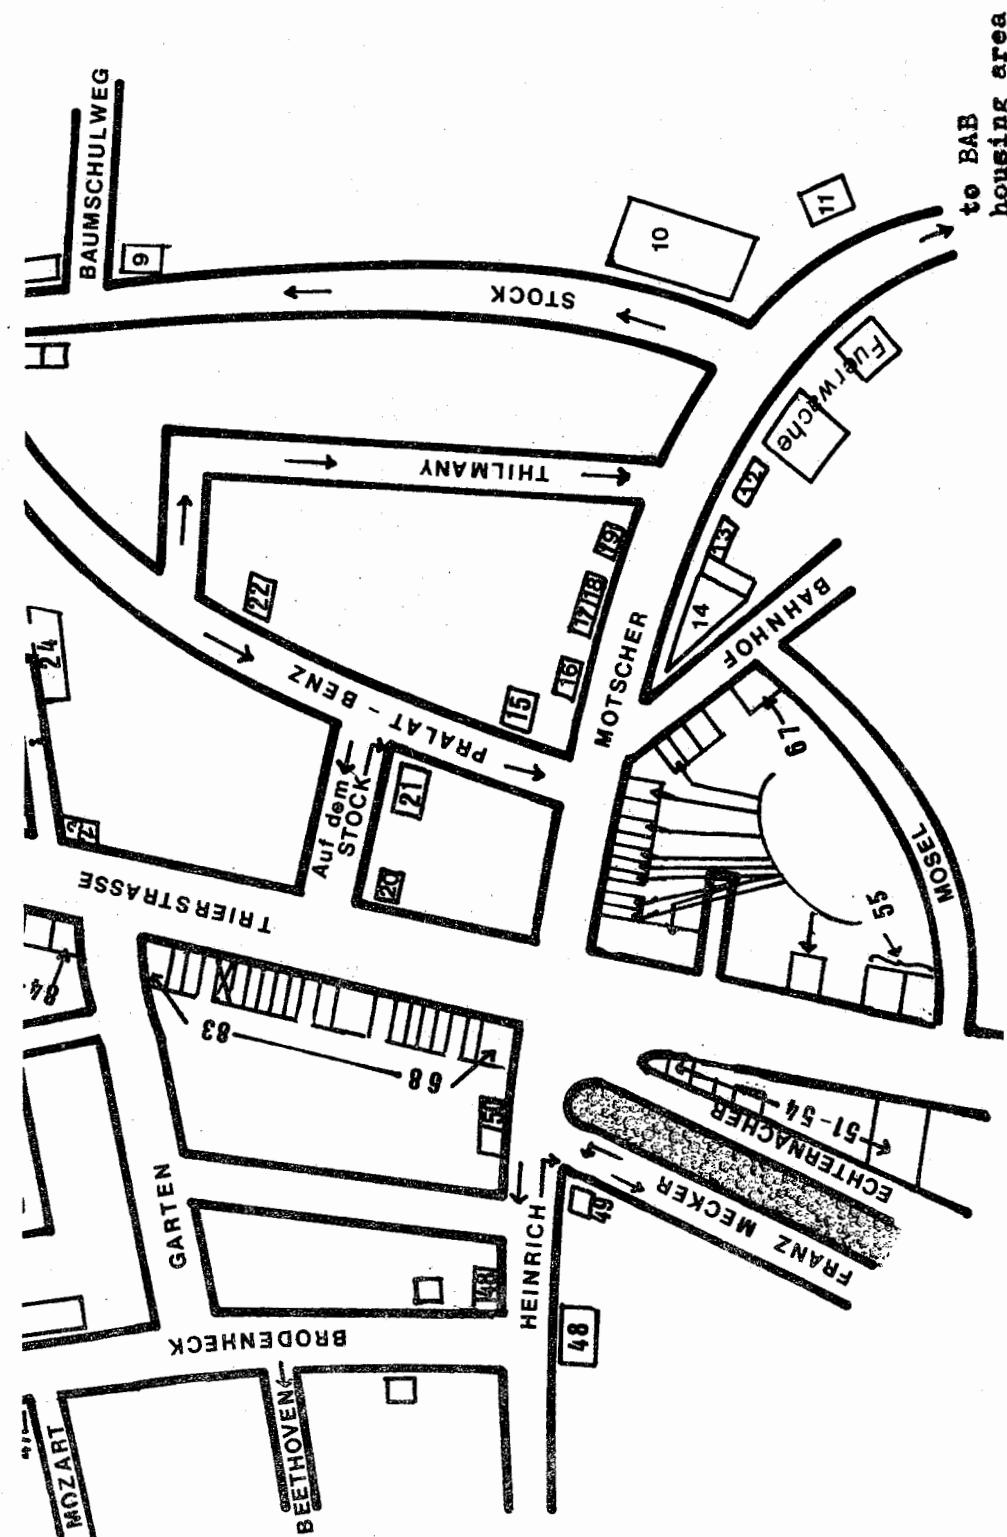

The Bitburg area became the subject of continuous warfare among German princes and Luxembourg for 400 years.

In 1239 Luxembourg acquired Bitburg County and kept it for 500 years. Bitburg was granted the rights of a free city which meant considerable freedom in political and administrative matters.

In 1340-1351, a new city wall south of the Roman walls was built enlarging the area of town to the south beyond the Roman wall. During this period city streets were laid out much as they are today.

Spanish rule meant a time of war and plagues for Bitburg. The Thirty Years War from 1618-1648 involved the Eifel area as a battlefield for Spanish, Austrian, French, Dutch and Swedish armies.

In 1632, a Swedish army laid siege to Bitburg. For several months they attempted to starve and defeat the people within the city walls. Inside the walls the people

HISTORY OF BITBURG

The coat of arms of Bitburg is made up of three towers, a city gate, two crosses and two stars around the gate. The three towers symbolize the thirteen towers that once stood on the original Roman wall surrounding the city. The two crosses represent the two churches that have stood in Bitburg. The two stars represent the two market places that Bitburg developed.

In 200 B.C., the Celtic Tribe settled in this area. They were farmers and horsebreeders. In 100 B.C., the road between Trier and Beda (the old Celt name for Bitburg) was built. In 51 B.C. the Romans came and occupied Beda. They burned down the Celt homes and made the Celts work for them. At this time the road from Bitburg to Cologne was built. The Romans prospered in Beda for 400 years. From 250-300 A.D. a wall was built around Bitburg that had thirteen towers. It made Bitburg a Roman fortification.

In 407 A.D., the Romans withdrew and the Franks from east of the Rhine River moved in the area along Trier. The Frankish influence is still noticeable in the many were becoming low on supplies. So a trick to fool the Swedish army was developed. A tailor had several goat-skins left over. A group of boys dressed up in the goat-skins and ran about the city wall to make it appear that the townspeople had plenty of meat to eat. The Swedes were fooled and withdrew. There is a memorial to this incident on the wall of the Brewery showing boys and goats on a wall.

In 1667, French Marshall Crecy captured the town and had the mayor and city councilmen hung. Two years later he had the town destroyed so that the church only remained standing.

In 1714 to 1795 Bitburg was under the rule of Austria and the city became a commercial center with safe travel and reduced trade restrictions.

France annexed the area next but after the fall of Napoleon (1813) Bitburg became part of the Prussian Rhine Provence. This led to the German Empire in 1870. Bitburg became important in agricultural and commercial areas in this time.

From 1914-1918, World War I was hard on Bitburg; 110 local soldiers died fighting in France. There is a small plaque honoring them in the Bitburg Museum grounds.

During World War II (1939-1945) Bitburg was destroyed. The German Forces had a Supply and Communications Center here and it was attacked continuously by the American Forces. The Battle of the Bulge took place nearby.

By December 1944 about 85 percent of Bitburg was in ruins. After the war Bitburg and the rest of Germany began the job of rebuilding that was to be so successful. The town that one sees today was almost entirely built since 1945.

In 1952, the 36th Tactical Fighter Wing came to Bitburg to start building the air base on what had been farmland. The air base became the latest in a long line of military forces to use the area.

5. Take the check and papers back to the merchant and claim your purchase.

Most merchants in the Bitburg area are familiar with this program and are very cooperative. If you deal with a merchant who does not understand about the bill, NAFFMB has an information sheet written in German. Pick one up and take it to the business.

What NAFFMB can and cannot do:

1. NAFFMB will accept personal checks up to $1000. If your bill is more, you must bring a cashier's check or money order.
2. NAFFMB charges $2.00 for each transaction.
3. Automobiles may be purchased through this program. All paperwork must be complete before a check is issued. All automobile purchases must be paid for with a cashiers check or credit union check.

For additional information, call 7276. Office hours: Monday- Friday 0800-1130; 1300-1600.

THE WIVES' CLUBS

Welcome to Bitburg! Although this is not a resort area, nor a cosmopolitan center, nor a leader in the "fantastic weather" competition, we do hope you will learn to enjoy your tour in Bitburg and partake of all the area and its people have to share with you.

At any base the best part of a tour comes from the friends you make and this is especially true in an overseas tour where your friends become a substitute family for you own so far away. We in the wives' clubs hope to meet you at our coffees, luncheons and activities. The wives' clubs provide a place to meet people and to share interests.

The clubs are also very positive contributors to the entire Bitburg community. Many long hours of volunteer work go into the organization of the clubs and most of

CIVILIAN EMPLOYMENT AND VOLUNTEER WORK

It is possible for dependents to find jobs here at Bitburg, although opportunities are limited. The Civilian Personnel Office, Bldg. T133, is located just outside the Trier gate. This office handles some of the jobs available including "GS" positions, as well as openings at MWR activities such as the NCO Club, the Rec Center and the Bowling Alley. A "recruitment notice" is posted each week in the office listing the job openings on base. Applications for these jobs are available at the office; a separate application must be made for each job.

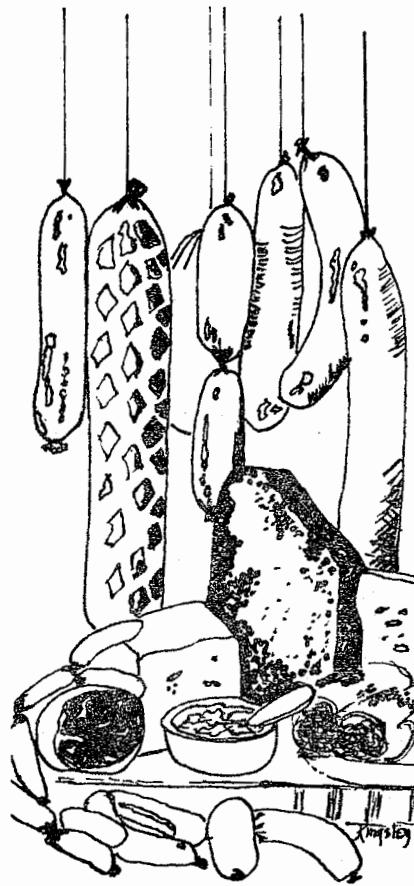

Other organizations, such as the schools, American Express, the Federal Service Credit Union, Noritake, Wedgewood and U.S. car and insurance dealers, do their own hiring. Apply directly to their offices or representatives on base. The Army, Air Force Exchange Service hires independently. The BX offices accept applications on Friday from 1330 to 1600.

There are many opportunities for volunteer work on base. The Red Cross, the schools, the library, Family Services, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts are just some of the organizations that would be happy to have a few hours of your time. Contact the individual organizations to find out how you can contribute your time to the welfare of the community.

EATERIES IN GERMANY

To earn the name restaurant in Germany, a full range of hot meals must be available. In smaller towns old line German food is served at a Gasthof, Gasthäuser, Gaststuben or a Gastwirtschaften. A Weinstuben (wine parlor) often does not serve complete lunches or dinners but can provide you with substantial snacks to accompany your wine. For beer and food, visit a Braus or Bierkeller. Cafes sometimes offer hot dishes. They can provide you with snacks. Konditorien are pastry shops. A Ratskeller, located in the basement of the city hall, often has the best beer and filet steaks in town. A Schnellimbiss, Schnellgästatte or Imbisstube is a German snack bar for those in a hurry.

GYMNASIUM

The Bitburg Gymnasium offers different co-educational programs such as basketball, softball, volleyball, racquetball and flag football. A par-course was recently constructed for the determined jogger. Outdoor tennis courts are available on a first come first served basis. The gym also offers saunas, weight room and rental lockers. A Pro shop, located just behind the main building, sells athletic equipment. For further information call 7710. The gym is open 24 hours a day, every day.

People stationed in Europe may take advantage of the free daily troop train and reasonably priced military billeting in Berlin. Travel to Berlin requires some pre-planning, however. The train leaves daily from the Frankfurt Train Station (Hauptbahnhof). Reservations for the troop train must be made forty-two days in advance of the day you wish to travel. To make reservations, call Autovon 8-444-5182, Or 8-444-5755. The civilian number is 0611-151-5182. Flag orders are required for travel on the troop train. AE Form 2793 is available in each Orderly Room. This form must be sent to Army Headquarters at least thirty days in advance of your travel date. Military personnel need only a uniform, an ID card and orders to visit East Berlin. Dependents must have a fee-tourist passport to travel in the east. (Most dependents come to Germany with a no-fee passport.) The Personal Affairs Office at Bitburg (Bldg. 116, phone 7589) has complete information about traveling to Berlin.

MILITARY HOPS

Almost free air travel via MAC is an inexpensive way to see the rest of Europe if you are patient and lucky. Space available travel is limited. Dependents must travel with their sponsor.

Ramstein and Rhein Main are the best places to catch hops. Planes go from there to such places as Spain, Italy, Greece, Turkey, England and the USA. Report to the MAC Passenger Terminal and place your name on the waiting list. A fee of $10 is charged for each space available seat. The MAC flight schedules appear daily in the Stars and Stripes newspapers.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Cost of registration is $10.00 for the first child, $5.00 for each additional child, $20.00 maximum for a family. The MWR office can give you the name of one of the officers to contact for more information. Phone 7901.

MARS

Did you know that there is a way to call home to the states without overextending your budget? It's MARS, the Military Affiliate Radio System, run by the Comm. Squadron both for the personal use of all DOD personnel and their families, as well as for official military needs. The facility is open 24 hours a day, but the best time to make a call from Germany is during the early evening and on through to the early morning hours. Calls can be placed by calling the MARS station, 7828, or by going to the station in Bldg. 244 to request a call. Depending on atmospheric and seasonal conditions, as well as the number of calls requested before yours, your call could be placed either immediately or not for several hours.

An alternative to a MARS call, is the MARS-gram. Just fill out a MARS-gram form, available at the Rec Center and at the MARS station, and the MARS station will send the message, get a reply for you if you like, and deliver that return message to you. This free service takes one to four days - it's like a telegram, only it's free.

TRIER: This city entered the pages of history over 2000 years ago during its 400 year long part in the Roman epoch. Its importance is documented by buildings and excavations. Well-known Roman sights are the Porta Nigra (the fortress city gate), the Imperial Baths, and the Amphitheater. See also the Basilica, the Dom, the former Electoral Palace and the Roman museum. You can read more about the city in the small local guidebook, which is available in English. Also in the area is an animal park, lots of walking paths and good shopping. (note: Trier rhymes with "beer" not "air".)

TRAVEL

LUXEMBOURG AND AREA

Luxembourg City, called the green heart of Europe, is about an hour from Bitburg. The city is an interesting combination of old and new. It is an international banking center, but still has the narrow streets and market squares of old.

Luxembourg City is over a thousand years old. French is the official language and Belgium Francs the currency. Overlooking the Petrusse River is a high line of ancient fortifications. At one time this settlement, which was clustered around a hilltop castle, was one of the mightiest fortresses in Europe. "The Gibraltar of the North", it was fought over by various powers for four centuries. Located here are the casemates of the Bock, a twenty-one kilometer network of underground passages hewn out of solid rock. These can be toured.

There is an American military cemetery in Hamm, about five kilometers outside of Luxembourg City. Here are the graves of General George Patton, Jr. and the soldiers of the famed World War Two Third Army.

BEAUFORT: Location of very fine ruins of a feudal castle.

ECHTERNACH: Here there is a Benedictine Abbey, founded in the Seventh Century by Saint Willebrurd. A celebration and dancing procession in his honor are held after Pentecost. Many interesting shops and buildings are in the area. Take Rt. 257 toward Luxembourg, approximately a twenty-five minute drive from Bitburg.

LIBERIUS KAPELLE: A small chapel in the woods overlooking Echternach. Go on a nice day for a picnic and a fantastic view. Take Rt. 257, turn right at Erzen/Ferachweiler. Just before Erzen, turn left at a very small sign reading "liberius Kapelle and Haus Hubertus". You can leave your car at the parkplatz and walk through the woods on a marked path to the chapel and a lookout point. Haus Hubertus is good for snacks or a meal and is in a lovely setting.

RESOURCES

The Air Force Aid Society operates out of CPBO, Bldg. 116. It gives aid primarily in the form of interest-free educational or emergency loans to meet unexpected expenses. Active and retired Air Force personnel and their dependents are eligible to apply for aid. Air Force regulations state that you must contact Red Cross first and if they cannot help you, then contact the aid society. Phone 7878.

The American Red Cross is located in Bldg. 217, across from the Library and provides many services to both active duty personnel and their dependents including

Counseling in the field of personal and family problems;

Communications service to aid in re-establishing direct contact with family members to obtain health and welfare reports, and to verify death or illness of family members for travel purposes;

Financial aid when travel is necessary due to emergencies involving immediate family members, and for rent, food and utilities when receipt of entitlements is interrupted.

Local calls within twenty kilometers of Bitburg cost 23 pfennig for the first eight minutes. Additional time costs more. Within Germany, the long distance rates are determined by the time of day the call is placed, the duration of the call and the distance called. Night rates are from 1800 to 0600 weekdays, and from 1800 Friday to 0600 Monday and on holidays. Collect calls cannot be made within Germany due to the Bundespost regulations. Calls to countries bordering Germany will be cheaper during the night period 1800-0800. For calls to the United States, the highest rates are from noon to midnight; the lowest from midnight to noon. No difference in rates exists between weekdays, weekends and holidays. Person-to-person calls have an added basic fee and a higher rate per minute.

Making calls initially seems a complicated matter, however, here is a guide:

To call any base military phone (i.e. sponsor's duty phone, hospital, BX, etc.), dial 6 plus the four digit number; from a military number to your housing or a local Bitburg number, dial 9 plus the four digits; from Bitburg housing to downtown or other civilian numbers in housing, dial the four digits only.

To dial outside the Bitburg area you must first dial the town's prefix and then the four digit number. Here is a list of commonly used local prefixes:

SIRENS

If it's not noon and a siren goes off, it generally signals an "Alert". The siren is usually accompanied by a loudspeaker announcement preceded and ended with "Exercise, exercise, exercise". Here's what the siren signals mean and the action you must take if you are on base during an alert: Steady-three minutes-recall-military report to duty stations; Wavering-red-attack imminent-take cover (stay inside); Broken wavering-black-nuclear attack-take cover in fallout shelter (stay inside); Steady-15 seconds-yellow-all clear-head for home! It is good practice to stay off base during alerts or carry a book so that if you have to "take cover" in the gym for an hour or two, you will have something to do.

Das Land Rheinland-Pfalz und seine Verwaltung

Rudolf Rumetsch

Das Land Rheinland-Pfalz, über dessen Gemeinden, Städte, Verbandsgemeinden und Landkreise diese Buchreihe in Bild und Text berichtet, ist entstanden mit der Bestätigung seiner Verfassung durch die Volksabstimmung vom 18. Mai 1947. Es ist seit 1949 eines der elf Bundesländer der Bundesrepublik Deutschland. Das Landesgebiet war nach dem Ende des Zweiten Weltkriegs von Juli 1945 an der nördliche Teil der französischen Besatzungszone in Deutschland. Vor der Hitlerdiktatur war dieses Gebiet seit dem Wiener Kongreß 1815 aufgeteilt auf die Länder – bis 1918 Königreiche – Preußen (Südteil der Rheinprovinz mit den Regierungsbezirken Koblenz und Trier sowie seit 1866 ein Teil der Provinz Hessen-Nassau) und Bayern (Regierungsbezirk Pfalz) sowie die Länder (bis 1918 Großherzogtümmer) Hessen-Darmstadt (Provinz Rheinhessen) und – bis 1937 – Oldenburg (Teile des Landkreises Birkenfeld). Die Hauptstädte und die politischen wie wirtschaftlichen Schwerpunkte dieser Länder lagen alle außerhalb des heutigen Landesgebiets. Dies und die Nähe der deutschen Westgrenze, die auch Ursache starker Kriegsschäden im Dreißigjährigen Krieg, in den Erbfolge- und Revolutionskriegen des 17. und 18. Jahrhunderts, ganz besonders aber im Zweiten Weltkrieg, war, sind wohl die Gründe, weshalb dieser Raum mit seinen waldreichen Höhengebieten der Eifel, des Hunsrück, des Westerwalds und Einrichs, der Haardt, des Westrichs und des Nordpfälzer Berglands, dem fruchtbaren, vom Donnersberg überragten Alzeyer Hügelland und mit seinen weinreichen Tälern und Hängen des Rheines, der Mosel, der Saar, Nahe, Ahr und Lahn wirtschaftlich nur schwach entwickelt war. Die Armut des Landes führte vor allem im 18. und 19. Jahrhundert zu starken Auswanderungen in die nahegelegenen industriellen Ballungsgebiete an Rhein, Ruhr und Saar, aber auch nach Übersee (USA, Brasilien) und Osteuropa.

Rheinland-Pfalz hat seit der Währungsreform und der Einführung der sozialgebundenen freien Marktwirtschaft im Jahre 1948 in zielbewußter Arbeit diesen Entwicklungsrückstand weitgehend aufgeholt. Das beachtliche wirtschaftliche Wachstum der fünfziger, sechziger und auch noch der siebziger Jahre und der dadurch ermöglichte Massenwohlstand erleichterten erheblich die harmonische Eingliederung der Heimatvertriebenen und Flüchtlinge aus Ost- und Mitteldeutschland. Das staatsrechtlich junge Land mit seiner lebensfrohen und weltoffenen Bevölkerung von rund 3,6 Mio. Einwohnern ist heute dank seiner zentralen Lage in der Europäischen Gemeinschaft und seiner guten Verkehrsverbindungen ein »Land mit Zukunft«. Es ist zugleich aber auch ein Land mit alter und reicher Vergangenheit. Die Dome zu Speyer, Worms, Mainz und Trier ebenso wie unzählige – teils erhaltene oder wieder aufgebaute, teils zerstörte – Burgen, Schlösser und Klöster im Lande künden sichtbar bis heute davon.

Die drei Kurfürstentümer Mainz, Trier und Pfalz, deren Symbole heute das Landeswappen bilden, und die bis zur Französischen Revolution 1794 neben unzähligen kleineren weltlichen und geistlichen Herrschaften hier gewaltet haben, waren im Mittelalter ein Kernraum des Heiligen Römischen Reiches Deutscher Nation. Die bewegte Geschichte des Landesgebiets, von den Kelten und Römern, den Alemannen und Franken über die bis in 18. Jahrhundert bewahrten mittelalterlichen Herrschaftsverhältnisse bis hin zu den gewaltigen technischen, wirtschaftlichen, sozialen, kulturellen und politischen Umwälzungen im 19. und 20. Jahrhundert hat nicht nur in vielen historischen Bauwerken sichtbare, sondern auch manche unsichtbaren Spuren im Lande hinterlassen. Ohne Wissen um diese Vergangenheit ist die Gegenwart nicht zu verstehen und sind die Probleme der Zukunft nicht zu meistern. Deshalb wäre zu wünschen, daß gerade die jüngere Generation sich mehr mit der Geschichte der Welt, in die sie hineingeboren ist, beschäftigt.

Das Bundesland Rheinland-Pfalz mit seiner Landeshauptstadt Mainz (bis 1950 Koblenz) ist nach seiner Verfassung eine parlamentarische (repräsentative) Demokratie mit Grundrechten seiner Bürger und mit Gewaltenteilung bei seinen Staatsorganen und damit ein freiheitlicher, demokratischer und sozialer Rechtsstaat im Sinne des Grundgesetzes der Bundesrepublik Deutschland. Das Volk als Träger der Staatsgewalt wählt für vier Jahre in freier Wahl nach dem Verhältniswahlrecht (Listenwahl) in vier Wahlkreisen die 100 Mitglieder des Landtags als Organ der Gesetzgebung. Der Landtag wählt den Ministerpräsidenten und bestätigt die von ihm vorgeschlagenen Minister als Landesregierung. Ministerpräsidenten waren ab 1947 Peter Altmeier, ab 1969 Helmut Kohl, seit 1976 ist es Bernhard Vogel. Die in Ministerien gegliederte Landesregierung ist für die Landesverwaltung politisch verantwortlich; der Ministerpräsident vertritt das Land nach außen. Die Rechtsprechung obliegt unabhängigen Gerichten, deren Obergerichte in Koblenz (Verfassungsgerichtshof, Oberverwaltungsgericht und Oberlandesgericht), in Mainz (Landessozialgericht und Landesarbeitsgericht) und in Zweibrücken (Oberlandesgericht) ihren Sitz haben. Das Finanzgericht für Rheinland-Pfalz befindet sich in Neustadt an der Weinstraße.

Die Landesverwaltung

Die Ministerien (Ministerium des Innern und für Sport, Ministerium der Finanzen – auch für Baurecht zuständig –, Ministerium der Justiz, Kultusministerium, Ministerium für Soziales, Gesundheit und Umwelt, Ministerium für Wirtschaft und Verkehr, Ministerium für Landwirtschaft, Weinbau und Forsten und Ministerium für Bundesangelegenheiten in Bonn) sind mit der Staatskanzlei als Dienststelle des Ministerpräsidenten und dem Rechnungshof in Speyer im Aufbau der Landesverwaltung die obersten Landesbehörden. Ihnen sind für bestimmte zentrale Aufgaben obere Landesbehörden (z.B. Statistisches Landesamt in Bad Ems, Oberfinanzdirektion in Koblenz, Landesamt für Jugend und Soziales in Mainz) nachgeordnet. Eine besondere Stellung nehmen die Landesuniversitäten in Mainz, Kaiserslautern und Trier, die Fachhochschulen sowie die Hochschule für Verwaltungswissenschaften in Speyer ein.

Auf der Mittelstufe der Landesverwaltung ist das Land Rheinland-Pfalz eingeteilt in die drei Regierungsbezirke Koblenz, Rheinhessen-Pfalz und Trier, die jeweils von einer Bezirksregierung unter Leitung eines Regierungspräsidenten (für Rheinhessen-Pfalz mit dem Sitz in Neustadt a.d.W.) verwaltet werden. Die Bezirksregierungen führen die Dienst- und Fachaufsicht über die ihnen nachgeordneten staatlichen Behörden, die Rechtsaufsicht über die Landkreise, die kreisfreien und großen kreisangehörigen Städte und sind daneben grundsätzlich für Verwaltungsaufgaben zuständig, die zur Erledigung durch die obersten Landesbehörden (Ministerien) oder durch untere Landesbehörden nicht geeignet sind.

Die Unterstufe der allgemeinen Landesverwaltung bilden die 24 Landkreise mit ihren von Landräten geleiteten Kreisverwaltungen und die 12 kreisfreien Städte mit ihren von Oberbürgermeistern geleiteten Stadtverwaltungen. Kreisfreie Städte wie Landkreise sind zugleich auch kommunale Gebietskörperschaften mit dem Recht der Selbstverwaltung. Während die Kreisverwaltung daher zugleich staatliche und kommunale Behörde ist, bleibt die Stadtverwaltung eine rein kommunale Behörde; die kreisfreien Städte nehmen deshalb die staatlichen Aufgaben der Kreisverwaltung – außer Polizeivollzugsdienst und staatlicher Rechtsaufsicht über die Gemeinden – als übertragene Staatsaufgaben unter der Fachaufsicht der ihr insoweit vorgesetzten staatlichen Behörden wahr.

Neben den Behörden der Allgemeinen Landesverwaltung bestehen in Rheinland-Pfalz ebenso wie in den anderen Bundesländern für bestimmte Aufgabengebiete besondere staatliche Behörden, so z.B. die Finanzämter, die Gesundheitsämter, die Katasterämter, die Gewerbeaufsichtsämter, die Straßenbauämter oder die Wasserwirtschaftsämter. Ihr Dienstbezirk deckt sich oft mit dem Landkreis oder der kreisfreien Stadt, mitunter ist er aber auch größer. Diese unteren Sonderbehörden unterstehen teils – ebenso wie die Kreisverwaltungen als staatliche Behörden – der Bezirksregierung, teils aber auch direkt besonderen oberen Landesbehörden (z.B. die Finanzämter der Oberfinanzdirektion, die Straßenbauämter der Landesstraßenverwaltung). Zum Zwecke der Raumordnung und Landesplanung – oberste Landesplanungsbehörde ist die Staatskanzlei – ist das Land Rheinland-Pfalz in fünf Regionen (Mittelrhein-Westerwald, Trier, Rheinhessen-Nahe, Rheinpfalz und Westpfalz) eingeteilt, denen die fünf »Oberzentren« Koblenz, Trier, Mainz, Ludwigshafen a.Rh. und Kaiserslautern zugeordnet sind. Die Landkreise und kreisfreien Städte dieser Regionen bilden jeweils eine »Regionale Planungsgemeinschaft«, deren Hauptaufgabe die Aufstellung und Fortführung (nicht aber die Durchführung) eines Regionalen Raumordnungsplans ist, der das »Landesentwicklungsprogramm« der Landesregierung für den Bereich der Region vertiefen und ergänzen soll.

Die Verwaltungsreform

Die Verwaltungsreform, mit deren Verwirklichung das Land Rheinland-Pfalz als erstes Bundesland nach Vorarbeiten, die bis 1963 zurückgehen, 1967 begonnen und 1974 abgeschlossen hat, bewirkte zahlreiche Änderungen des Gebiets und des Aufgabenbestandes im Bereich der Landesverwaltung und noch mehr im Bereich der kommunalen Selbstverwaltung. Ziel dieser Reform war es, die Verwaltungsorganisation, die weitgehend noch aus dem 19.Jahrhundert herrührte, an die seitdem erheblich veränderten Verhältnisse und Bedürfnisse anzupassen, ohne dabei aber bewährte Grundlagen des Verwaltungsaufbaus total zu verlassen.

Durch insgesamt 17 »Landesgesetze über die Verwaltungsvereinfachung« sind – mitunter nach lebhaften Diskussionen – die Zahl der Regierungsbezirke durch Auflösung der Regierungsbezirke Montabaur und Rheinhessen von 5 auf 3, die Zahl der Landkreise von 39 auf 24, die Zahl der Gemeinden von 2 912 auf 2 303 vermindert worden. Zugleich sind zahlreiche Amtsgerichte, Finanzämter, Forstämter und andere Sonderbehörden zu größeren und damit leistungsfähigeren Einheiten vereinigt und die Veterinärämter, denen auch die Lebensmittelüberwachung obliegt, in die Kreisverwaltungen eingegliedert worden.

Hauptstück der Verwaltungsreform in Rheinland-Pfalz war aber unbestritten die Bildung von 163 Verbandsgemeinden. Anders als die Nachbarländer Hessen, Nordrhein-Westfalen und Saarland haben Landesregierung und Landtag von Rheinland-Pfalz bewußt darauf verzichtet, die zahlreichen kleinen Gemeinden im ländlichen Raum zu großräumigen, aus mehreren rechtlich unselbständigen Ortschaften zusammengesetzten »Einheitsgemeinden« zu vereinigen. Vielmehr haben sie – darin unterstützt von den kommunalen Spitzenverbänden, insbesondere von dem damaligen Gemeindetag – für diejenigen Aufgaben einer modernen Gemeindeverwaltung, für deren Erfüllung regelmäßig die einzelne Landgemeinde (das Dorf) sowohl nach Einwohnern wie nach Einnahmen zu schwach ist (z.B. die Bereitstellung von hauptamtlichen fachlich geschulten Verwaltungsmitarbeitern, den Bau und die Unterhaltung von Hauptschulen, von Einrichtungen der Wasserversorgung, der Abwasserbeseitigung und des Brandschutzes sowie von zentralen Sportstätten), eine neue Verwaltungsstufe zwischen der Ortsgemeinde und dem Landkreis geschaffen: die Verbandsgemeinde.

Grundlage der Bildung von Verbandsgemeinden waren nach Forderungen der Raumordnung und Landesplanung erarbeitete und in der Regel auf zentrale Orte ausgerichtete »Zielpläne«. Erleichtert war die Bildung von Verbandsgemeinden dadurch, daß seit der Zeit Napoleons im Gebiet der ehemals preußischen Rheinprovinz bereits Ämter, im Gebiet des ehemals bayerischen Regierungsbezirks Pfalz teilweise gemeinschaftliche Bürgermeistereien und Einnehmereien als für mehrere Gemeinden zuständige gemeinschaftliche Verwaltungseinrichtungen bestanden haben. Darauf haben sich – abgesehen von einigen Startschwierigkeiten in den ehemaligen Bezirken Montabaur und Rheinhessen, in denen zuvor keine gemeinschaftlichen Verwaltungseinrichtungen vorhanden waren – die Bevölkerung und die Ortsgemeinden relativ schnell und gut an die Verbandsgemeinde als bürgernahe neue Verwaltungseinrichtung gewöhnt. Nur wenige Verbandsgemeinden (Morbach, Boppard, Grafschaft und Wörth am Rhein) haben von der Möglichkeit, sich in eine verbandsfreie Gemeinde umzuwandeln, Gebrauch gemacht. Nur 30 größere Gemeinden, deren Einwohnerzahl und deren Finanzen für alle Gemeindeaufgaben ausreichen, blieben verbandsfrei. Hinzu treten 8 große kreisangehörige Städte (Bad Kreuznach, Idar-Oberstein, Neuwied, Andernach, Mayen, Lahnstein, Bingen und Ingelheim), die so leistungsfähig sind, daß sie sogar bestimmte Aufgaben der Kreisverwaltung selbst erfüllen können. Zwar haben sich vereinzelt auch im ländlichen Raum kleinere benachbarte Gemeinden vereinigt; Eingemeindungen größerer Umfangs gab es aber nur im Umland mittlerer und größerer Städte (Mittel- und Oberzentren). Hier waren oft Nachbargemeinden bereits eng mit der Stadt verflochten oder gar fast zusammengewachsen. Insgesamt ging aber in Rheinland-Pfalz die Zahl der kreisangehörigen Gemeinden weit weniger als in anderen Bundesländern zurück. Die Möglichkeiten der Bürger, sich ehrenamtlich als Ratsmitglied, Ortsbeiratsmitglied, Beigeordneter oder gar Bürgermeister in der Kommunalpolitik zu betätigen, sind deshalb hier viel stärker als in anderen Bundesländern entwickelt. Die Probleme, die anderwärts durch übergroße Gemeinden aufgetreten sind, bleiben daher uns in Rheinland-Pfalz erspart. Der Rheinland-Pfälzer hat weithin seine Heimatgemeinde behalten.

Der zweite Teil der Verwaltungsreform, nämlich das Bemühen, für jede öffentliche Aufgabe denjenigen Aufgabenträger bzw. diejenige Behörde zu bestimmen, welche diese Aufgabe am sachgerechtesten, bürgernächsten und wirkungsvollsten mit möglichst geringem Aufwand erfüllen kann (Funktionalreform), ist zwar eine Daueraufgabe der Verwaltungspolitik, weil sich der Aufgabenbestand ständig ändert; es liegt aber auf der Hand, daß mit der landeseinheitlichen Bildung leistungsfähiger Verwaltungseinheiten sich die Möglichkeit bot und diese genutzt wurde, zahlreiche Verwaltungsaufgaben von den Ministerien auf die Bezirksregierungen (z.B. bei der Schulverwaltung), von den Bezirksregierungen auf die Kreis- und Stadtverwaltungen (z.B. im Baurecht, Schülerbeförderung) und von den Kreisverwaltungen auf die Verwaltungsbehörden der Verbandsgemeinden und verbandsfreien Gemeinden (z.B. im Gewerberecht, Paß- und Ausweiswesen) zu übertragen.

Andererseits sind, um gleichwertige kommunale Leistungen im ganzen Lande zu sichern, manche früher einzelgemeindlichen Aufgaben auf geeignete Träger übergegangen, so die Wasserversorgung und Abwasserbeseitigung auf die Verbandsgemeinden, die Abfallbeseitigung auf die Landkreise.

Die kommunale Selbstverwaltung

Die kommunale Selbstverwaltung, deren Gebiets- und Aufgabenbestand im Zuge der Verwaltungsreform in Rheinland-Pfalz die soeben geschilderten Änderungen erfahren hat, die aber – im ganzen gesehen – gestärkt aus diesen Reformjahren hervorging, ist durch das Grundgesetz und die Landesverfassung rechtlich gewährleistet. Die kommunalen Gebietskörperschaften – Gemeinden, Städte, Verbandsgemeinden und Landkreise –, zuvörderst die Gemeinden, sind Grundlage und Glieder des demokratischen Staates, berufen, das Wohl ihrer Einwohner zu fördern, und berechtigt, alle öffentlichen Aufgaben ihres Gebietes wahrzunehmen, die nicht ausdrücklich durch Gesetz anderen Stellen vorbehalten sind. Diese »Gebietshoheit« unterscheidet die kommunale Selbstverwaltung grundsätzlich von der Selbstverwaltung anderer rechtsfähiger Körperschaften, Anstalten und Stiftungen des öffentlichen Rechts wie etwa den berufsständischen Kammern, den Hochschulen, den Sparkassen und den Trägern der gesetzlichen Sozialversicherung, denen eine solche weitgehende Verfassungsgarantie nicht zur Seite steht.

Kommunale Selbstverwaltung ist die Wahrnehmung öffentlicher Aufgaben im Rahmen der Gesetze durch frei gewählte Organe in eigener Verantwortung. Sie wirkt also nicht unter der politischen und rechtlichen Verantwortung von Landtag und Landesregierung, sondern entscheidet im eigenen Namen und auf eigene Gefahr. Zu Rechten gehören stets auch Pflichten. Wer im kommunalen Bereich Verantwortung trägt, hat daher die (positiven oder negativen) Folgen seiner Entscheidungen selbst zu tragen. Bei jedem örtlichen Problem nach dem Staate zu rufen, ist mit dem Geist der Selbstverwaltung ebensowenig vereinbar wie eine Bevormundung der freigewählten kommunalen Organe durch staatliche Stellen. Eigenverantwortliches Entscheiden setzt voraus, daß den kommunalen Gebietskörperschaften bestimmte Freiräume und Befugnisse eingeräumt sind, so die Personalhoheit, die Finanz- und Abgabenhoheit, die Ortsgesetzgebung (Satzungsgewalt), und daß die staatliche Aufsicht auf die Beachtung der Gesetze beschränkt ist. Diese Rechte und Befugnisse umschreiben den Wesensgehalt der kommunalen Selbstverwaltung, den der Staat – gleichgültig durch welche Stelle und auf welchem Weg – nicht antasten darf.

Das Kommunalverfassungsrecht des Landes Rheinland-Pfalz, bestehend aus Gemeindeordnung und Landkreisordnung, trägt diesen Forderungen der Verfassung Rechnung und setzt sie in an den praktischen Verhältnissen und Bedürfnissen des kommunalen Lebens orientierte Regeln um. Dabei sieht das rheinland-pfälzische Kommunalverfassungsrecht grundsätzlich eine Aufgabenverteilung und damit auch eine Verteilung der Verantwortung auf zwei selbständige Organe vor: Die Willensbildung (Beschlußfassung) obliegt der in allgemeinen, gleichen und freien Wahlen nach einem (ab 1984) personalisierten Verhältniswahlrecht für fünf Jahre gewählten Volksvertretung (Gemeinderat, Stadtrat, Verbandsgemeinderat). Diese kann zu ihrer Entlastung Ausschüsse bilden; alle wichtigen Entscheidungen, insbesondere die Beschlußfassung über den Haushaltsplan und über alle Satzungen, sind ihr jedoch selbst vorbehalten. Die Zahl der Ratsmitglieder hängt von der Einwohnerzahl ab; sie reicht von fünf bei Gemeinden unter 300 Einwohnern bis zu 59 bei Städten über 150 000 Einwohnern. Die Ausführung der Ratsbeschlüsse ist dagegen allein Sache des vom Gemeinderat gewählten Bürgermeisters. Diesem Gemeindeorgan obliegt daneben die Führung der laufenden Verwaltungsgeschäfte sowie die Verwaltung der der Gemeinde übertragenen staatlichen Aufgaben (z.B. Standesamt, Ortspolizeibehörde, Statistiken). Zugleich ist der Bürgermeister Vorsitzender des Gemeinderats und vertritt die Gemeinde nach außen.

Der Bürgermeister ist in Ortsgemeinden, d.h. in Gemeinden, die Mitglied einer Verbandsgemeinde sind, ehrenamtlich tätig; seine Amtszeit von fünf Jahren deckt sich mit der Wahlzeit des Gemeinderats. In verbandsfreien Gemeinden und Städten, in Verbandsgemeinden, großen kreisangehörigen und kreisfreien Städten wird dagegen der Bürgermeister hauptamtlich bestellt und für eine Amtszeit von 10 Jahren gewählt. Er führt in kreisfreien und großen kreisangehörigen Städten die Amtsbezeichnung »Oberbürgermeister«. Zur Unterstützung und Vertretung des Bürgermeisters wählt der Gemeinderat Beigeordnete, die in Ortsgemeinden stets ehrenamtlich für fünf Jahre, in den anderen Gemeinden und Verbandsgemeinden zum Teil auch hauptamtlich für 10 Jahre bestellt werden. Hauptamtlichen Beigeordneten wird ein bestimmter Geschäftsbereich der Verwaltung (Dezernat) zugeteilt, den sie in Vertretung des Bürgermeisters selbständig leiten. Bei Städten mit zwei oder mehr hauptamtlichen Beigeordneten bilden diese mit dem Bürgermeister das Kollegium des »Stadtvorstands«, dem bestimmte wichtige Verwaltungsentscheidungen vorbehalten sind. Unter dieser »Verwaltungsspitze« verfügen alle hauptamtlich geleiteten Gemeinden, Städte und Verbandsgemeinden zur Erledigung ihrer vielfältigen Aufgaben über fachlich vorgebildete Beamte, Angestellte und Arbeiter, deren Dienstvorgesetzter der Bürgermeister ist und für die grundsätzlich das gleiche Dienst-, Besoldungs- und Versorgungsrecht oder Tarifrecht gilt wie für die Landesbediensteten.

Das 1973 auf diesen bewährten Grundlagen neugestaltete Kommunalverfassungsrecht von Rheinland-Pfalz hat – hierbei zum Teil Vorbild auch für andere Bundesländer – eine über das Wahlrecht hinausgehende Erweiterung der Mitwirkungsmöglichkeiten der Bürgerschaft am Gemeindeleben gebracht. Gerade im überschaubaren Raum der heimatlichen Gemeinde ist eine Beteiligung am öffentlichen Leben am ehesten möglich. Zur Verbesserung der Bürgernähe sind die Gemeindeverwaltungen zunächst gehalten, ihre Einwohner über alle wichtigen Gemeindeangelegenheiten in geeigneter Form zu unterrichten, sie im Rahmen ihrer Möglichkeiten in Verwaltungssachen über ihre Rechte und Pflichten zu beraten, ihren Verwaltungsgliederungs- und Geschäftsverteilungsplan im Rathaus auszuhängen und dort eine Sammlung des gesamten geltenden Rechts zur Einsicht für alle Einwohner bereitzuhalten. Der besseren Information der Einwohnerschaft dienen auch die Bürgerversammlungen, die mindestens einmal jährlich abgehalten werden sollen. Weiter können die Ausschüsse des Gemeinderats bis fast zur Hälfte ihrer Mitglieder mit Bürgern besetzt werden, die nicht Ratsmitglieder sind. Die Gemeinden können zur Förderung des örtlichen Gemeinschaftslebens ihr Gebiet in Ortsbezirke einteilen, für die vom Gemeinderat aus der Bürgerschaft ein Ortsbeirat, von diesem ein Bürger zum ehrenamtlichen Ortsvorsteher gewählt wird. Der Gemeinderat kann ferner zu bestimmten Beratungsgegenständen Sachverständige und Vertreter der Betroffenen anhören und schließlich kann eine bestimmte Zahl von Einwohnern über 18 Jahre unter bestimmten Voraussetzungen in einem besonderen, »Bürgerinitiative« genannten, Antragsverfahren den Gemeinderat verpflichten, eine bestimmte Angelegenheit der örtlichen Selbstverwaltung, für deren Entscheidung er zuständig ist, zu beraten und zu entscheiden. An den Gemeinden und ihren Bürgern liegt es, diese vielfältigen Beteiligungsmöglichkeiten sinnvoll zu nutzen.

Das durch die Funktionenteilung zwischen den zwei eigenverantwortlichen Organen Rat und Verwaltungsspitze gekennzeichnete, sog. dualistische Kommunalverfassungssystem, das auch im benachbarten Saarland gilt und das gerne – wenn auch zu ungenau und daher mißverständlich – als »Rheinische Bürgermeisterverfassung« bezeichnet wird, prägt nicht nur die rheinland-pfälzische Gemeindeordnung, sondern auch die Landkreisordnung. Über die Verbandsgemeinden, für die ebenfalls die Gemeindeordnung gilt, ihre Bildung und ihre Aufgaben ist oben bei der Schließung der Verwaltungsreform in Rheinland-Pfalz bereits Näheres ausgeführt.

genen öffentlichen Aufgaben als freie Aufgaben der Selbstverwaltung übernehmen; im Vordergrund stehen aber die ihnen durch Gesetz übertragenen großen Pflichtaufgaben der Leistungsverwaltung wie die Sozial- und Jugendhilfe, der Bau und die Unterhaltung von Berufsschulen, Gymnasien, Kreisstraßen und von Gewässern II. Ordnung, die Schülerbeförderung und die Abfallbeseitigung, also die gleichen Aufgaben, wie sie auch den kreisfreien Städten als Pflichtaufgaben der Selbstverwaltung obliegen. Sie sind wie diese meist auch Gewährträger von Sparkassen und zum Teil auch Träger von Krankenhäusern. Daneben fördern die Landkreise im Rahmen ihrer Ausgleichsfunktion in vielfältiger Form soziale, kulturelle und wirtschaftliche Aktivitäten ihrer Gemeinden.

Das Gebiet des Landkreises ist zugleich das Gebiet der Kreisverwaltung als unterer Behörde der allgemeinen Landesverwaltung, von der oben bereits die Rede war. Die Kreisverwaltung mit ihrer Doppelfunktion als Behörde des Landkreises und des Staates – wobei auf die beiden Aufgabenbereiche jeweils etwa 50 v.H. der Arbeit entfallen – ist somit eine wichtige »Nahtstelle« zwischen der Staatsverwaltung und der kommunalen Selbstverwaltung. Deshalb wirken auch bei der Bestellung des Landrats, der seit 1982 Landesbeamter für eine Amtszeit von 10 Jahren, aber zugleich neben dem Kreistag Organ des Landkreises ist, Landesregierung und Kreistag in der Weise zusammen, daß die endgültige Ernennung zum Landrat der Zustimmung des Kreistages mit der Mehrheit seiner gesetzlichen Mitgliederzahl bedarf. Weitere Abweichungen vom Grundmuster der Gemeindeordnung bestehen darin, daß der Landrat bei Abwesenheit von ehrenamtlichen, vom Kreistag gewählten Kreisdeputierten vertreten wird; ferner, daß bei der Kreisverwaltung zwar Beamte des höheren Dienstes zu Dezernenten, die in ihrem Geschäftsbereich den Landrat entlasten und vertreten, bestellt werden können, daß diese Dezernenten aber nicht die Rechtsstellung der Beigeordneten nach der Gemeindeordnung haben. Schließlich besteht mit dem Kreisausschuß ein Pflichtausschuß des Kreistages, dem eine Reihe wichtiger Entscheidungen vorbehalten ist.

Erwähnt sei bei diesem Überblick über die Struktur der kommunalen Selbstverwaltung in Rheinland-Pfalz noch der Bezirksverband Pfalz als »Gemeindeverband höherer Ordnung«. Er hat die Aufgabe, eine Reihe überörtlicher öffentlicher Einrichtungen im Gebiet des ehemaligen Regierungsbezirks Pfalz zu unterhalten oder zu fördern, so z.B. die Psychiatrische Pfalzklinik Landeck, die Meisterschule für Handwerker und die Pfalzgalerie in Kaiserslautern, die Gehörlosenschule in Frankenthal, die Landwirtschaftliche Untersuchungs- und Forschungsanstalt und das Historische Museum in Speyer. Sein Beschlußorgan ist der unmittelbar vom Volke gewählte Bezirkstag, der den Bezirksausschuß und mehrere Fachausschüsse zur Vorbereitung und Durchführung seiner Beschlüsse wählt. Die laufenden Verwaltungsgeschäfte des Bezirksverbands Pfalz führt die Bezirksregierung in Neustadt a.d.W.

Das Kommunalverfassungsrecht wird auch in Rheinland-Pfalz ergänzt durch eine Reihe weiterer Gesetze, die wichtige Grundlagen für die Arbeit der Selbstverwaltung bilden und die fast alle nach der Verwaltungsreform eine zeitgemäße Neugestaltung erfahren haben. Während das Kommunalwahlgesetz das aktive und passive Wahlrecht der Bürger zu den kommunalen Volksvertretungen und das Wahlverfahren im einzelnen regelt, ist das Zweckverbandsgegesetz die Rechtsgrundlage für die gemeinsame Erfüllung bestimmter Aufgaben durch mehrere kommunale Gebietskörperschaften. Die gebietliche Neuordnung hat zwar viele Zweckverbände überflüssig gemacht, trotzdem sind solche oder auch Zweckvereinbarungen mitunter noch notwendig, so z.B. für die Verwaltung der Gemeindeforsten, die Unterhaltung von Hauptschulen oder für Einrichtungen der Wasserversorgung und Abwasserbeseitigung im ländlichen Raum.

Die wohl wichtigste Ergänzung des kommunalen Verfassungsrechts sind aber die Gesetze auf dem Gebiete der kommunalen Finanzen, denn ohne ausreichende Finanzmittel, die in eigener Verantwortung verwaltet werden können, ist eine kommunale Selbstverwaltung nicht möglich. Die beiden wichtigsten Gemeindesteuern, nämlich die Grundsteuer und die Gewerbesteuer, beruhen zwar ebenso wie die Beteiligung der Gemeinden an der Einkommensteuer auf Bundesgesetzen; die Erhebung von Gebühren und Beiträgen als Entgelten für kommunale Lieferungen (z.B. Wasser) und Leistungen (z.B. Straßenausbau) ist dagegen im Kommunalabgabengesetz des Landes geregelt. Ebenso beruhen die Erhebung der Hundesteuer und der Vergnügungssteuer auf Landesgesetzen. Diese eigenen Einnahmen, zu denen noch Erträge aus kommunalem Vermögen (z.B. aus der Waldwirtschaft, aus Vermietung und Verpachtung) treten, bedürfen jedoch der Ergänzung durch die Leistungen des Landes aus dem Finanzausgleich. Er beruht auf Grundgesetz und Landesverfassung und hat zum Ziele, die auch im Staatsinteresse notwendige kommunale Leistungsfähigkeit unabhängig von den örtlich oft sehr verschiedenen eigenen Einnahmen zu sichern. Mit dem Finanzausgleichsgesetz von 1977 hat das Land Rheinland-Pfalz dieses wichtige Rechtsgebiet sachgerecht neu geordnet. Wie die Länder an bestimmten bundesrechtlichen Steuern (Gemeinschaftssteuern), so sind die Gemeinden und Gemeindeverbände als Gesamtheit an bestimmten Einnahmen des Landes (Verbundmasse) zu einem bestimmten Hundertsatz (Verbundsatz) beteiligt. Die »Ausgleichsmasse«, die sich daraus ergibt, wird teils als »Allgemeine Finanzzuweisungen« nach bestimmten Merkmalen, die die örtliche Leistungsfähigkeit und den örtlichen Bedarf abstrakt ausdrücken, teils als »Zweckzuweisungen«, die auf Antrag zur finanziellen Förderung bestimmter kommunaler Vorhaben gewährt werden, verteilt. Das Finanzausgleichsgesetz ist zugleich auch die Rechtsgrundlage für die Erhebung von Umlagen durch die Verbandsgemeinden, die Landkreise und den Bezirksverband Pfalz von ihren Mitglieds-Gebietskörpeschaften. Sie sind dazu bestimmt, den durch eigene Einnahmen oder Landesmittel nicht gedeckten Ausgabenbedarf zu finanzieren. Dieser Überblick, der nicht lückenlos sein kann, wäre noch unvollständiger, wenn nicht auch die kommunalen Spitzenverbände (Gemeinde- und Städtebund, Städteverband und Landkreistag) hier erwähnt würden. Sie sind Landesverbände ihrer Spitzenverbände auf Bundesebene, fördern den so wertvollen Erfahrungsaustausch unter ihren Mitgliedern und vertreten deren gemeinsame Belange gegenüber Landtag und Landesregierung, die ihrerseits alle Vorhaben, die die kommunale Selbstverwaltung berühren, mit diesen Verbänden erörtern.

Schließlich sei noch hier der Partnerschaften gedacht, die das Land Rheinland-Pfalz seit langem mit der französischen Region Burgund und seit 1982 auch mit dem Zentralafrikanischen Staat Ruanda verbinden, zu denen aber zahlreiche kommunale Partnerschaften mit europäischen Städten und Gemeinden, vor allem solchen im benachbarten Frankreich, hinzukommen. Diese kommunalen Partnerschaften dienen nicht nur der Völkerverständigung, sie erweitern auch den geistigen Horizont und bieten die Möglichkeit zu vielerlei Vergleichen. Solche Vergleiche – sowohl mit den Verhältnissen in der eigenen Vergangenheit als auch mit den Verhältnissen in der weiten Welt – können die Erkenntnis fördern, daß unsere auf Selbstverantwortung, Leistung und Menschlichkeit gegründete staatliche, wirtschaftliche und soziale Ordnung und ihre verfassungsmäßigen Einrichtungen, die wir uns im freien Teil Deutschlands nach den Zerstörungen des Zweiten Weltkriegs und bitteren geschichtlichen Erfahrungen während der vergangenen Jahrzehnte aufgebaut und erarbeitet haben und für die das Land Rheinland-Pfalz ein gutes Beispiel ist, es wert sind, bewahrt, verteidigt, und – wo nötig – weiter verbessert zu werden.

Die politische Struktur des Landes

Das Land Rheinland-Pfalz ist als Gliedstaat der Bundesrepublik Deutschland nach seiner Verfassung ein »demokratischer und sozialer Rechtsstaat«. Ein solcher Staat sieht daher seine Aufgabe nicht nur in der Wahrung von Recht und Sicherheit, sondern auch in der Förderung sozialer Gerechtigkeit und gleichwertiger Lebensbedingungen für alle seine Bürger. Grundlage dazu ist das Landesentwicklungsprogramm, das die Landesregierung zuletzt 1980 neu aufgestellt hat. Während vor 1980 das Bemühen im Vordergrund stand, die Nachteile der jahrzehntelangen Grenzlage des Landes Rheinland-Pfalz mit ihrer einseitigen Ausrichtung auf militärisch-strategische Zwecke und die hier länger spürbaren Folgen des Zusammenbruchs zu überwinden, strebt das neue Entwicklungsprogramm an, die z.Zt. noch strukturschwachen Landesteile in ihrer Leistungskraft anzuheben und möglichen weiteren Entwicklungen in den Aktivräumen des Landes den Weg zu ebnen. Dem Entwicklungskonzept liegt ein mehrstufiges System von zentralen Orten und Verbindungswegen zugrunde.

Rheinland-Pfalz wurde aus ehemaligen Teilen Preußens (Regierungsbezirke Koblenz und Trier, vier Landkreise des Regierungsbezirks Wiesbaden), Hessens (Rheinhessen) und Bayerns (Pfalz) durch Verordnung des Oberbefehlshabers der französischen Besatzungszone vom 30.8.1946 gebildet. Es ist 19 845,81 qkm groß und hat eine Wohnbevölkerung von 3 636 506 Einwohnern. Landeshauptstadt ist Mainz. Die in einer Volksabstimmung angenommene Landesverfassung datiert vom 18.5.1947 (GVBl.209).

In den Landtag werden für eine Legislaturperiode von jeweils 4 Jahren 100 Abgeordnete nach dem Landeswahlgesetz in der Fassung vom 1. September 1982 und der Landeswahlordnung gewählt.

Dieser Volksvertretung obliegt die Gesetzgebung; die Rechtsprechung ist Aufgabe unabhängiger Gerichte. Die Verwaltung obliegt der vom Vertrauen der Volksvertretung getragenen Landesregierung, soweit Aufgaben nicht von rechtsfähigen innerstaatlichen Gemeinschaften, Gemeinden und Landkreisen, wie auch von berufsständischen und sozialen Einrichtungen (z.B. Kammern und Krankenkassen) in eigener Verantwortung erfüllt werden.

Neben dem Landtag, der Landesregierung und der Rechtsprechung besteht als viertes unabhängiges verfassungsmäßiges Organ gemäß Artikel 134 der Landesverfassung und des § 5 des Gesetzes vom 23.7.1949 der Verfassungsges richtshof (Mitglieder: Vorsitzender, 2 Berufsrichter, 5 Nichtberufsrichterliche).

Innerhalb der Landesregierung ist als nicht weisungsgebundene Landesbehörde der Rechnungshof Rheinland-Pfalz mit Sitz in Speyer eingerichtet.

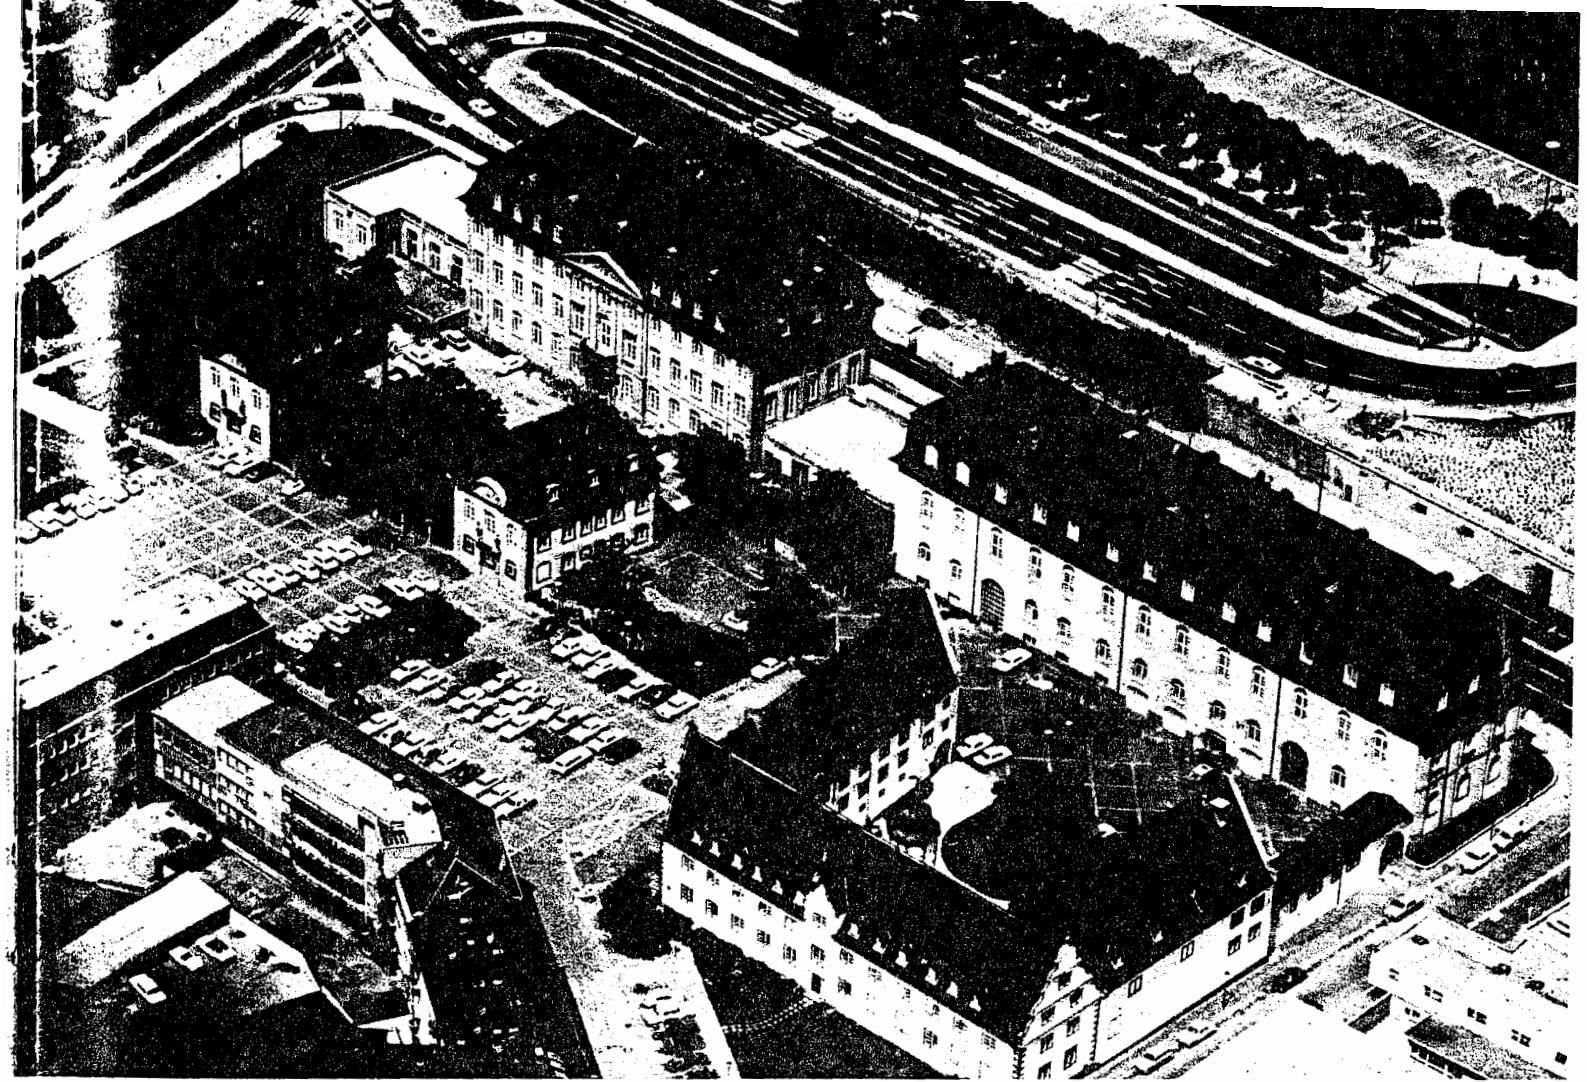

Die Gemeinden haben das Recht auf Selbstverwaltung; sie können in ihrem Gebiet jede öffentliche Aufgabe der örtlichen Gemeinschaft übernehmen, soweit diese nicht durch Gesetz ausdrücklich anderen Stellen im dringenden öffentlichen Interesse ausschließlich zugewiesen wird (freie Selbstverwaltungsaufgaben). Als Pflichtaufgaben der Selbstverwaltung erfüllen die Gemeinden die ihnen als solche durch Gesetz übertragenen Aufgaben.

Die Landesregierung

Der Ministerpräsident, 7 Fachminister und der Minister für Bundesratsangelegenheiten bilden die Landesregierung. Der Ministerpräsident ist Vorsitzender im Ministerrat; er bestimmt die »Richtlinien der Politik« und vertritt das Land nach außen. Innerhalb der politischen Richtlinien des Ministerpräsidenten leitet jeder Minister seinen Geschäftsbereich selbstständig und in eigener Verantwortung.

Der Ministerpräsident wird von der Mehrheit des Landtags gewählt und ist, wie auch die Mitglieder des von ihm bestimmten Kabinetts (Minister), diesem gegenüber verantwortlich. Gegenwärtig, in der Zehnten Wahlperiode 1983/87, besteht die Landesregierung neben der Staatskanzlei, der Behörde des Ministerpräsidenten, aus sieben Ministerien:

- Ministerium des Innern und für Sport
- Ministerium der Finanzen
- Ministerium der Justiz
- Ministerium für Wirtschaft und Verkehr ✓
- Ministerium Landwirtschaft, Weinbau und Forsten ✓
- Ministerium für Soziales, Gesundheit und Umwelt ✓ ↗
- Kultusministerium
- Minister für Bundesangelegenheiten – Vertretung des Landes Rheinland-Pfalz beim Bund

Die staatliche Verwaltung des Landes reicht, anders als die des Bundes, bis in die einzelnen Städte und Gemeinden (Staatl. Auftragsangelegenheiten). Ihr Aufbau ist in der Regel dreistufig. So ist z.B. oberste Bauaufsichtsbehörde das Ministerium der Finanzen, obere Bauaufsichtsbehörde die Bezirksregierung, untere Bauaufsichtsbehörde die Kreisverwaltung, in kreisfreien Städten und großen kreisangehörigen Städten die Stadtverwaltung.

Die wichtigsten staatlichen Behörden unterhalb der Ministerien sind die 3 Bezirksregierungen als Mittelinstanz der allgemeinen Landesverwaltung in Koblenz, Trier und Neustadt a.d.W. Auf der Kreisebene sind es die 24 Kreisverwaltungen, die neben Selbstverwaltungsaufgaben der Landkreise die Staatsaufgaben der Kreisstufe wahrnehmen. Auch die Gemeinden, vor allem die 12 kreisfreien Städte, die 8 großen kreisangehörigen Städte und die 163 Verbandsgemeinden nehmen Staatsaufgaben als Auftragsangelegenheiten wahr.

Neben den Bezirksregierungen und den Kreisverwaltungen als Behörden der allgemeinen Landesverwaltung besteht in Rheinland-Pfalz eine Reihe von Sonderbehörden, deren räumliche Zuständigkeit sich entweder auf das ganze Land oder auf Teilbereiche des Landes erstreckt, die nicht immer mit einem Regierungsbezirk oder einem Landkreis übereinstimmen.

Die für das ganze Land zuständigen Sonderbehörden sind das Statistische Landesamt in Bad Ems, das Landeskriminalamt in Mainz, das Landesvermessungsamt in Koblenz, die Oberfinanzdirektion in Koblenz, das Landesamt für Jugend und Soziales in Mainz, das Landesamt für Umweltschutz und Gewerbeaufsicht in Mainz, das Landesamt für Gewässerkunde und das Geologische Landesamt in Mainz, die Direktion der Straßenverwaltung in Koblenz und das Landesamt für Denkmalpflege in Mainz.

Nur für Teile des Landes zuständige Sonderbehörden sind die Gesundheitsämter, die Medizinaluntersuchungsämter, die Chemischen Untersuchungsämter, die Kataster- und Vermessungsämter, die Finanzämter, die Versorgungsämter, die Gewerbeaufsichtsämter, die Forstämter, die Straßenbauämter, die Straßenneubauämter, die Wasserwirtschaftsämter, die Eichämter, die Kulturämter.

Mainz – Hauptstadt des Landes

Die rheinland-pfälzische Landeshauptstadt Mainz liegt auf dem linken Rheinufer gegenüber der Mainmündung. Ihre 98 qkm umfassende Fläche erstreckt sich von der Ingelheimer Rheinebene weit in das Alzeyer Hügelland hinein. Das Landschaftsbild um Mainz wird bestimmt durch den Gegensatz von modernen Industrieansiedlungen, Wohnsiedlungen und den Anbau von landwirtschaftlichen Sonderkulturen, insbesondere Obst, Wein und Gemüse. Seit der Jungsteinzeit ist das Gebiet um Mainz besiedelt; ein altsteinzeitlicher Rastplatz wurde auf dem Linsenberg gefunden. Um 38 v.Chr. richtete Agrippa hier ein Lager für zwei römische Legionen ein, das die Basis für den Ausbau zur Hauptstadt der Provinz Germania superior darstellte. Der römische Name Mogontiacum geht möglicherweise auf eine Kultstätte des keltischen Gottes Mogen zurück.

Die durch eine feste Rheinbrücke zu dem jenseitigen Castellum (heute Mainz-Kastel) noch geförderte Verkehrslage von Mainz brachte reges Leben. Zahlreiche Funde zeugen davon in den Mainzer Museen, u.a. die künstlerisch hervorragende Jupitersäule, die von Militärkaufleuten z.Zt. Kaiser Neros an der zum rheinabwärts gelegenen Hafen führenden Straße errichtet worden war, und der aus dem Lagerbereich stammende Dativius-Victor-Bogen (Nachbildungen auf dem Deutschhaus- und Schloßplatz). Ende des 3. Jahrhunderts wurden angesichts der drohenden Germanenüberfälle die verstreuten Zivilsiedlungen in der Rheinebene zusammengezogen. Das Militär verlegte seine Quartiere vom Kästrich (Name der Höhe, auf der das castrum lag) hinunter, und die sich daraus bildende Stadt, die um 297 zum ersten Mal als civitas erscheint, umgab sich mit einer festen Mauer. Im Mittelalter nur geringfügig zum Flusse hin und rheinaufwärts erweitert, bezeichnete dieser römische Mauergürtel noch bis in die 2. Hälfte des 19. Jahrhunderts die Grenze des am Rande von Weinbergen und Gärten durchsetzten Stadtraumes. Der Glanz Mogontiacums als Hauptstadt der um 300 neugebildeten Provinz Germania prima erlosch während der Völkerwanderungszeit. Um die Mitte des 5. Jh. lag es in Trümmern.

Gleichwohl haben Reste der inzwischen längst christlichen Bevölkerung die Zerstörung überlebt. In der Merowingerzeit erholt sich die Stadt unter Führung ihrer Bischöfe, unter denen Sidonius im 6. Jh. rühmend genannt wird. In Mainz wurden Münzen geprägt; die Museen bergen zahlreiche Funde aus der fränkischen Zeit. Eine neue, glanzvolle Periode setzte ein, als Bonifatius, der Bischof der Germanen (»Apostel der Deutschen«), das Bistum 746/47 übernahm und Mainz damit zur kirchlichen Metropole Deutschlands machte. Unter seinem Nachfolger Lul wurde die Erzbischofswürde 781/82 fest mit dem Mainzer Stuhl verbunden, der – seit der napoleonischen Zeit freilich nur als Bischofssitz – das Ehrenprädikat »heilig« führt: sancta sedes Mogontina. Ein volles Jahrtausend lang standen die Erzbischöfe von Mainz im Vordergrund des kirchlichen und politischen Geschehens: als Erzbischöfe der größten Kirchenprovinz mit zeitweise 15 Suffraganbischöfen, als Bischöfe einer sich vom Hunsrück bis zur thüringischen Saale erstreckenden Diözese, als Reichserzkanzler und – seit dem 13. Jh. – als Kurfürsten mit einem ausgedehnten weltlichen Territorium, stets ranghöchste Fürsten des Reiches, Leiter der Königswahlen und schließlich, seit dem 16. Jh., auch als Inhaber des Direktoriums im Reichstag. Vom Ende des 8. bis Ende des 18. Jh. lässt sich die Mainzer Geschichte nach dem Rechts- und Machtverhältnis der Erzbischöfe-Kurfürsten zu ihrer Kathedralstadt in die erzbischöfliche (bis 1244), die freistädtische (bis 1462) und die kurfürstliche Zeit (bis 1798) gliedern.

Von den damaligen deutschen Städten kam nur Köln der mittelrheinischen Metropole an Bedeutung gleich. In Mainz lebte eine reiche Judengemeinde mit einer in ganz Europa berühmten Rabbinerhochschule. Einige der Grabsteine auf dem alten Judenfriedhof stammen noch aus dem 11. Jh. Auf Erzbischof Willigis (975-1011), den einflussstarken Berater der letzten Sachsenkaiser und langjährigen Rechtsregenten, geht der Neubau des St. Martinsdomes zurück (1009), des Schauplatzes mehrerer Königskrönungen. 975 begonnen, kam der Bau 1036 zu einem ersten Abschluß, doch wurde er schon bald (nach 1081) erweitert und später wiederholt umgestaltet. Die um die Mitte des 13. Jh. einsetzende, fast lückenlose Reihe seiner Erzbischöfsdenkmäler besitzt unmittelbare historische Zeugniskraft. Die zweigeschossige St. Gotthardskapelle (1137) im Nordteil des Domes ist der einzige Rest des alten erzbischöflichen Palastes. Die meisten der zahlreichen mittelalterlichen Kirchen innerhalb und außerhalb der Erzbischöfsstadt sind längst verschwunden, darunter auch das Benediktinerkloster St. Jakob (Zitadelle) und auch das um 800 auf dem Albansberg südlich vor der Stadt an altchristlicher Kultstätte von Erzbischof Richolf erbaute berühmte St.-Albans-Kloster. Es war das Hauptkloster des Erzstiftes, wo wichtige Synoden abgehalten wurden, ein Zentrum geistigen Lebens und klösterlicher Kunst, Grabstätte der meisten Mainzer Kirchenfürsten bis ins 11. Jh., auch der Fastrada, einer Gemah-lin Karls des Großen (späte Grabschrift im Dom), und Liudolfs und Liutgards, der Kinder Ottos I. An ein uraltes Nonnenkloster erinnert noch die Altmünsterkirche (17. Jh.), an das ursprünglich vor den Mauern errichtete Petersstift (10. Jh.) die heutige Pfarrkirche St. Peter (1756), an das von Willigis gegründete und besonders bevorzugte Stephansstift die Stephanskirche (13./14. Jh.) auf dem Kästrich. Die westlich vom Dom gelegene und mit ihm früher gottesdienstlich eng verbundene Johanniskirche, ebenfalls einst Sitz eines Stiftes, enthält noch karolingisch-ottonische Bauteile und ist wahrscheinlich die älteste Mainzer Bischofskirche.

Die Bildung einer vom Erzbischof unabhängigen Stadtgemeinde begann in Mainz wie auch in anderen Bischofsstädten gegen Ende des 11. Jh. in den Kämpfen des Investiturstreites. Um 1115 erzwangen die Mainzer von Kaiser Heinrich V. in offenem Aufruhr die Freilassung Erzbischof Adalberts I., der ihnen zum Dank ihre ersten städtischen Freiheiten gewährte. Den Text des Privilegs grub man in die von Willigis gestifteten ehemals Türflügel der Liebfrauenkirche ein; sie zieren heute das Marktportal des Domes. Streitigkeiten der städtischen Oberschicht mit dem Erzbischof Arnold von Selenhofen führten 1160 zu dessen Ermordung, was der Bürgerschaft mit der Reichsacht 1163 einen schweren Rückschlag einbrachte. Zwar feierte der inzwischen wieder gnädig gesinnte Kaiser Friedrich I. (Barbarossa) auf der Maraue am Kasteler Ufer gegenüber Mainz an Pfingsten 1184 das weithin gerühmte Reichsfest, doch die 1163 zur Strafe zerstörten Mauern wurden erst um 1200 wieder instandgesetzt; das von zwei staufischen Löwen flankierte Portal des Eisernen Turmes zeugt noch davon, während sonst aus romanischer Zeit, abgesehen vom Dom, den Kirchtürmen von St. Emmeran (Ende des 12. Jh.) und St. Christoph (1240-50) und Teilen des Heiligen Geist-Spitals (nach 1236), kaum noch Reste erhalten sind. Im 13. Jh. begann ein rapider Anstieg des städtischen Gemeinwesens. Erzbischof Siegfried III. von Eppstein (1230-49), der als »Königmacher« Heinrich Raspes und Wilhelms von Holland auf seinem Grabmal im Dom abgebildet ist, verlieh den Mainzern 1244 das Privileg, das neben bedeutsamen Freiheiten die Wahl eines Stadtrates gewährte und als Grundgesetz der Mainzer Stadtfreiheit gelten kann. In den heftigen Kämpfen jener Zeit zerstörten die Mainzer 1250 mit Unterstützung König Wilhelms die vor ihren Toren gelegene, einst unter Kaiser Friedrich I. als Sperrfestung gegen die Stadt errichtete Burg Weisenau.

Kaum war der Stauferkrieg am Rhein beendet, da wurde 1254 von Mainz aus, vornehmlich durch Arnold Walpod, der »Rheinische Bund« gegründet, der bald mehr als 70 Städte und zahlreiche Fürsten und Herren zur Wahrung des Landfriedens im Reich vereinigte. Zwar gelang es der Bürgerschaft nicht, verfassungsrechtlich völlig unabhängig zu werden; dennoch war die Bezeichnung von Mainz als »freie Stadt« im 13. und 14. Jh. den tatsächlichen Verhältnissen angemessen. Mainz hatte als Handelsstadt damals eine große Zeit. Ein Monument jener wirtschaftlichen Bedeutung war bis 1812 das stattliche Kaufhaus, das die Bürger um 1317 zur Ausübung ihres Stapelrechtes erbaut hatten. Kurz vorher war Heinrich von Meißen, gen. Frauenlob, Minnesänger und »König der fahrenden Leute«, im Domkreuzgang bestattet worden. Aus der rund 200jährigen Epoche der Mainzer Stadtfreiheit sind nur wenige Bauten erhalten: die Pfarrkirchen St. Christoph und St. Quentin, das Heiliggeist-Spital, die Stephanskirche, die Kloster-Kirchen der Reichen Klarissen (heute Naturhistorisches Museum), der Karmeliter und der Antoniter (später Armen Klarissen, heute wieder Antoniuskapelle), ein paar Mauern und Giebel von Wohnhäusern (z.B. Hof zum Korb, Korbgasse) und von kirchlichen Gebäuden, der Holzturm, der Eiserne Turm und der Alexanderturm als Hauptreste der Befestigung. Wie fast alle Patrizierhäuser sind auch die Höfe des Geschlechts der Gensfleisch verschwunden, dem der berühmteste Mainzer Bürger, Johannes Gutenberg (etwa 1397-1468), entstammte. Unglückliche äußere Politik, Ständekämpfe, in denen die Zünfte 1332 die Gleichberechtigung mit den Geschlechtern im Rat und 1444 das alleinige Regiment erlangten, vor allem auch stete Reibereien mit der Geistlichkeit, hatten die Stadt in erdrückende Schulden gestürzt, die ihren Handel nahezu erstickten. Mainz geriet in starke Abhängigkeit von befreundeten Nachbarstädten, besonders von dem aufblühenden Frankfurt. Das Ende der Stadtfreiheit war gekommen, als in der Fehde zweier Gegenerzbischöfe der päpstliche Kandidat Adolf II. von Nassau die auf der anderen Seite stehende Stadt am 28.10.1462 im Straßenkampf eroberte. Der Nassauer hielt auf dem Dietmarkt, dem heutigen Schillerplatz, ein strenges Strafgericht, verbannte die meisten der überlebenden männlichen Bürger und kassierte die städtischen Privilegien.

Bis zum Ende des 18. Jh. blieb Mainz nun eine landesherrliche Stadt. Die Kurfürsten residierten in der 1478-81 am Rhein errichteten Martinsburg (1807 abgerissen), später in dem daneben im 17.-18. Jh. erbauten Kurfürstlichen Schloß. In der Stadt gaben Hof- und Stiftsadel den Ton an; noch heute fallen im Straßenbild die zumeist im 17. und 18. Jh. entstandenen Adelshöfe auf: der Osteiner und Bassenheimer Hof am Schillerplatz, der Schönborner und Erthalter Hof in der Schillerstraße, der ältere Dalberger Hof am Ballplatz, der jüngere Dalberger Hof in der Klarastrasse, der Stadioner Hof in der Großen Bleiche und die Eltzer Höfe in der Bauhofstraße. Dazu gesellen sich repräsentative Ordensbauten, wie das Deutschhaus (heute Landtag Rheinland-Pfalz) und die Kommende zum Hl. Grab, und kurfürstliche Gebäude, wie z.B. das Alte (17. Jh., zum Sautanz, heute Südwestfunkstudio) und Neue Zeughaus (heute Staatskanzlei und Stresemann-Gedächtnisstätte), der Marstall (heute Altertumsmuseum) und das Rochus-Spital.

Von Kirchenbauten aus dem 18. Jh. stehen noch die Peterskirche, die Augustinerkirche mit dem dazugehörigen Kloster-Gebäude und die Ignaz-Kirche. Von den einst zahlreichen, von Wohlstand zeugenden Bürgerhäusern aus dem endenden 17. und dem 18. Jh. mit ihren ehemals für das Mainzer Straßenbild so charakteristischen Madonnen- und Heiligenstatuen ist nur sehr wenig geblieben, voran der Römische Kaiser am Liebfrauenplatz mit seiner prächtigen Fassade (heute Gutenberg-Museum). Den Marktbrunnen – eines der frühesten Renaissancedenkäler in Deutschland – hat Erzbischof Albrecht von Brandenburg 1526 zur Erinnerung an den Sieg Kaiser Karls V. über Franz I. von Frankreich bei Pavia und die Niederwerfung der Bauern errichtet.

Von den vielen Aspekten der Mainzer Geschichte war der des Kriegs- und Festungswesens von besonderer Bedeutung. Es war das Schicksal der Festung Mainz, daß ihre starken, auch im 18. Jh., besonders unter dem baufreudigen und prachtliebenden Kurfürst Lothar Franz von Schönborn (1695-1729), weiter ausgestalteten Anlagen wiederholt dem Feind zugute kamen, der im Handstreich die schwache Besatzung außer Gefecht setzte, bevor die Reichsarmee herangerückt war. So nahmen auch 1792 die französischen Revolutionstruppen unter Custine die Stadt mühelos in Besitz, wo sich eine Regierung aus den Reihen der revolutionsfreundlichen Mainzer »Kubisten« bildete, darunter führende Intellektuelle (z.B. Georg Forster). Der Verlauf der Belagerung, die verheerende Kanonade durch die Reichstruppen und die Kapitulation am 23.7.1793 sind durch Goethes Augenzeugenbericht festgehalten.

Nach einer letzten, kriegsüberschatteten Episode kurfürstlicher Herrschaft zogen Ende 1797 auf Grund des Friedens von Campo Formio die Franzosen erneut in Mainz ein, das 1801 im Frieden von Lunéville Frankreich einverlebt wurde. Napoleon weilt mehrmals in Mainz, der Hauptstadt des Departements Donnersberg, und war eifrig besorgt um den weiteren Ausbau der Festungswerke und um städtebauliche Projekte, die in der Anlage des Gutenbergplatzes mit dem Durchbruch der späteren Ludwigsstraße teilweise verwirklicht wurden. Nach den Beschlüssen des Wiener Kongresses wurde Mainz hessisch und Hauptstadt der neuen Provinz Rheinhessen; der Großherzog bestimmte – wie zuvor Napoleon – das Deutschhaus zu seinem Palais. Zugleich war Mainz Festung des Deutschen Bundes, und zahlreiche hier garnisierte österreichische und preußische Heereinheiten gaben dem städtischen Leben eine neue Note. In dem unter dem Einfluß der französischen Revolutionsideen liberal und demokratisch gesinnten Bürgertum fehlte es auch nicht an aktiv katholischen und sozialreformatorischen Kreisen um die bedeutende, weit ausstrahlende Persönlichkeit des Bischofs von Ketteler (1850-77).

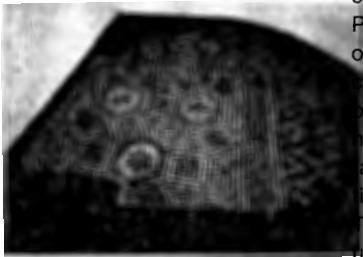

Die wirtschaftliche Entwicklung und die räumliche Ausdehnung der 1873 zur Reichsfestung gewordenen Stadt war durch ihren Festungsgürtel gehemmt; erst um die Jahrhundertwende wurde ihre Erweiterung, vor allem nach Norden (Neustadt), und die Ausbreitung der Industrie auf beiden Rheinseiten möglich. Die inzwischen weit vor die Stadt verlegten Festungswerke verschwanden erst nach dem 1. Weltkrieg.

Nach dem Zweiten Weltkrieg, in dem in der Altstadt vier Fünftel aller Bauten zerstört wurden, kam es durch die Bildung der Besatzungszonen zur Abtrennung der rechtsrheinischen Stadtteile, die schließlich treuhänderisch dem neu gebildeten Land Hessen zugeordnet wurden, während die linksrheinische Stadt zum Land Rheinland-Pfalz kam. 1950 wurde der Regierungssitz des Bundeslandes Rheinland-Pfalz von Koblenz nach Mainz verlegt. Die Ende des 19. Jahrhunderts begonnene Industrieanstaltung wurde in den 50er und 60er Jahren forciert vorangetrieben; dem trugen die Eingemeindungen von vormals selbständigen Gemeinden Rechnung, zuletzt im Rahmen der territorialen Verwaltungsreform 1969.

Mit 187 570 Einwohnern ist Mainz die größte rheinland-pfälzische Stadt. Ihre Siedlungsdichte übertrifft mit 1 919 Einwohnern je qkm nicht nur das Landesmittel (183), sondern auch den Durchschnitt der kreisfreien Städte (942) beträchtlich; lediglich Ludwigshafen weist eine noch dichtere Besiedlung aus. Neben der Innenstadt haben von den Mainzer Stadtteilen die Vororte Gonsenheim, Mombach, Bretzenheim und Lerchenberg die meisten Einwohner. Als Landeshauptstadt und Oberzentrum der Region Rheinhessen-Nahe verfügt die Stadt über alle Einrichtungen von zentralörtlicher Bedeutung. Sie ist Sitz der Landesregierung und des Landtags sowie der Verwaltungen des Landkreises Mainz-Bingen. In der Stadt befinden sich ein Landgericht, das Landessozialgericht, das Landesarbeitsgericht und zahlreiche andere Landesbehörden sowie eine Wasser- und Schifffahrtsdirektion. Hier domizilieren die Industrie- und Handelskammer für Rheinhessen, die Landeszentralkbank als Hauptverwaltung der Deutschen Bundesbank mit einer Hauptstelle, das Zweite Deutsche Fernsehen und ein Landesstudio des Südwestfunks. Die Stadt besitzt ein Theater und beherbergt die größte rheinland-pfälzische Universität, die Akademie der Wissenschaften und der Literatur sowie das Max-Planck-Institut für Chemie. Museen sind das Römisch-Germanische Zentralmuseum, das Mittelrheinische Landesmuseum, das Gutenberg-Museum als Weltmuseum der Druckkunst, das Naturhistorische Museum und das Dom- und Diözesanmuseum. Mainz ist der Geburtsort von Anna Seghers, und Carl Zuckmayer verbrachte seine Jugendjahre in Mainz.

Bitburg, county capital of the Southern Eifel, located in the hills between the Kyll and the Nims rivers, has been for centuries the natural center of this predominantly agriculturally-oriented area.

Already in Celtic times, a market town developed at this crossroad point. Even today wall remnants and a Roman villa in the immediate neighborhood bear witness of the importance of the almost 2 ha-large settlement, constructed around 330 A.D.

Several wars caused much grief to the city. There was first the heavy destructions of the 30-year war, then the county capital was almost totally destroyed by bombing and artillery fire in WW II. Subsequent to the destruction of Christmas Eve 44, Bitburg was declared a "dead city" in the military reports.

The faster than expected reconstruction of the city is proof of the strong vital energy of its citizens. From the ruins emerged a modern city, especially valued as an attractive shopping town with a busy economic life. In addition to creating new jobs in industry and trade, housing construction was of foremost importance. Through farsighted development planning, the necessary prerequisites for obtaining unexpensive construction terrain were met. The efforts for providing additional and maintaining existing and stable jobs are continued. In the past, good results were obtained in this area, especially after Bitburg became one of the cities to be included in the regional promotion program of the Federal Government. However, more efforts are necessary to create new jobs for manpower becoming available through agricultural restructuring. In this respect, the capital of the largest county in Rheinland-Pfalz has an important mission to fulfill for its surrounding area.

In recent years, it was possible to persuade engine and tool manufacturers to settle here. Bitburg also has a non-business connected training workshop for metal workers, where 170 apprentices and retrainees are learning their trade.

The city is trying to avoid possible rural-exodus tendencies of manpower by settling of additional industries in the approximately 20 acres large industrial area where good development possibilities exist.

Because of its central location in the European communities and its close proximity to the Benelux countries, Bitburg offers ideal settlement opportunities. Located at the intersection of several Federal highways at only 27 KM from the central- and university city of Trier, the city will soon have good traffic connections with Antwerp, Brussels, Liège, and the Rhein-Main/Rhein-Neckar area via Federal Auto-bahn A-60. With the Beginning of the construction work on the new A-60 between German border and Bitburg, and the soon to follow continuation up to Wittlich (A-48) this traffic improvement plan has entered a decisive stage.

As the capital of Bitburg-Prüm County, Bitburg is today the economic and cultural center of the Southern Eifel. Today's image of the city is marked by the world-wide known Bitburg Brewery with almost 600 employees and by the nearby NATO air base.

The city has approximately 12.500 residents. One has to add just as many members of the U.S. Forces and of a French Garrison.

The special importance of the city as an European and International border town is underlined by a large folklore and music festival, which takes place annually on the second weekend in July.

Bitburg has a fine reputation as cultural center of the Southern Eifel. Haus Beda, a cultural foundation by Dr. Hanns Simon, is the center of a large, first-rate cultural program, well known beyond the borders of the Southern Eifel. For his great merits on the cultural plan, the founder, Dr. Hanns Simon, was offered honorary citizenship of Bitburg in 1979.

Because of its perfect location, Bitburg is the ideal starting point for walks and excursions to the Bitburg-Land vacation area, to the German-Belgian and German-Luxembourg national parks or to the nearby cities of Trier and Luxembourg.

It certainly pays to get to know the Bitburg area with its beautiful landscape. The vacation center in the Prüm valley with the Bitburg "Stausee" and the Sportshotel Südeifel, as well as the Gondorf deer-park, also deserve special attention.

This office provides assistance to all Bitburg personnel, married or single. Their office is located in Building 105. Their number - and others that you may need when you first arrive - are listed below.
2. If your sponsor has not been able to meet you at the airport, transportation to Bitburg will be via charter bus, known as the "White Swan." The bus departs from the entrance of the Rhein Main terminal every day at 1300 hrs and will arrive at Bitburg in the late afternoon. You should check with the Information Desk or the Traffic Management Office (TMO) in the terminal to be manifested on the bus. If you have arrived in Frankfurt via commercial flight, you should contact the USO lounge in Section C of the Frankfurt International Airport terminal; they will help you get over to Rhein Main, and there you can be manifested as indicated above. The TMO will also assist you if you have misplaced baggage. Occasionally the White Swan is booked to capacity - if you're told that, please ask the people on duty to contact Bitburg TMO to have additional transportation provided. The White Swan will take a scenic route through the Eifel region and the vineyards to Bitburg, with a rest stop at Hahn Air Base. You will not need German currency for the trip of the rest stop.
3. Upon arrival at Bitburg, the White Swan will stop at the Base Chapel to let off single members, and then continue on to the Billeting Office for the accompanied personnel. Your sponsor has been notified of your projected arrival. In the event that you do not have a sponsor or there is nobody there to greet you, CDMO or the Billeting Office will contact your unit to advise them of your arrival. If you have still had no contact with your unit, you should come to the CBPO Customer Service unit, Room 12, in Building 116, on the next day.
4. If your baggage is missing when you arrive at Bitburg, contact the Bitburg TMO. Chances are it was mistakenly unloaded at Hahn or Spangdahlem Air Base, and it will follow shortly after your arrival. If you lose any personal items, contact TMO and then report losses to the Security Police.
5. The telephone numbers below are provided to assist you. If you want/need to call Bitburg before you leave Rhein Main on the White Swan, there is a telephone in the terminal for your use.

SUBJECT: Housing Availability - Bitburg Air Base

TO: Incoming Personnel

1. Welcome to Bitburg Air Base, located in the beautiful Eifel mountain region of West Germany. We at the Family Housing Office are here to assist you in locating permanent housing, on or off base as soon as possible. Also the Family Housing Office administers your entitlement for Temporary Lodging Allowance so you will want to see us right away upon arrival.
2. The Housing Assistance Section maintains listings of available housing off-base. These units consist of everything from single houses to high rise apartments. Most units are duplexes with the landlord occupying half of the building. Housing off-base is generally considered inadequate by American standards because of the lack of kitchen cabinets, shelves, storage space and bedroom closets. Housing Supply however will supply you with closets, cabinets, stove, refrigerator, washer and dryer while living off base. Rental prices will vary but can be considered to be high. Prices can range from as low as $180.00 for a 1 Bedroom apartment (unfurnished) to $500.00 for a 4 Bedroom house. Also, utilities are high and are generally paid by the tenant in addition to the rent. Landlords in Germany are no different than those in our own country. They are entrusting you with the single most valuable investment they will ever make, their house. Treat it as if it were your own home. Remember that you and your family represent America. Treat it with cleanliness, thoughtfulness, pay rental and utility debts in a timely manner and be a congenial neighbor. We have bilingual interpreters to assist you in striking a good contract for off-base rentals.
3. On base housing consists of 2, 3 and 4 Bedroom units in what is described as "Stairwell apartments" with 24 units per building. Located in the housing area are the Commissary, BX, Theater, all Schools, Chapel, Bank, Gas Station, Repair garage and other activities and services. Living in on-base housing is convenient for an active family.
4. Waiting times for on-base quarters is estimated as follows:

For all rank categories: 2-Bedroom unit 4-10 months
3- " " 6-10 months
4- " " 3-6 months

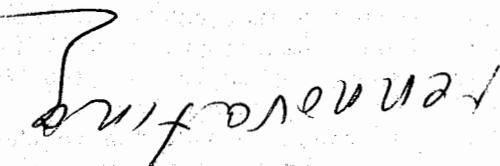

Please keep in mind that the above waiting times are estimates and will vary depending on your date of rank, arrival month, family size and number of people applying for quarters.

5. You are now entitled to Full JTR in Germany - however we recommend not bringing your full entitlement. Off-base housing is generally smaller than units in the CONUS and storage space is very limited both on and off-base. Besides most members want to take advantage of purchasing fine furniture and souvenirs during their tour here. You should bring necessary dining, bedroom and living room furniture, since you will not be authorized these items from housing supply.

6. Should you desire any further information concerning Family Housing, please call autovon 453-7585. The Housing Office is located in Bldg 207 and the staff is looking forward to assisting you to locate housing.

SUBJECT: Single and Unaccompanied Personnel Housing
RECORDED AND INDEXED BY: [Redacted] DATE: [Redacted]

TO: [Redacted] (SAC, USAF, Bitburg AB)

RE: Single and Unaccompanied Personnel Housing
1. Congratulations on your assignment to Bitburg AB Germany! You probably have many questions about your new job, the area, and so on. Somewhere near the top of your list is a question about where you are going to live. The following provides some of the information on what to expect in quarters if you are single or unaccompanied and assigned to Bitburg AB Germany. Although we have tried to be as complete as possible, there are elements of the accounting and finance and transportation regulations that can not be covered briefly. If you have any questions you should see your accounting and finance or traffic management officer.

a. Single/Unaccompanied Officers/Senior NCOs. On-base quarters are not available for you. Existing unaccompanied officers and SNCO quarters are being converted to use for transients because of the high demand for these type quarters on Bitburg AB. You will be authorized full JTR coming to Bitburg. You should plan to bring the minimum furniture necessary to set up your house or apartment off-base. You will not need to bring basic appliances, wardrobes, or kitchen cabinets since these will be provided by the government.

(1) Single Officers/ NCOs. Since you will be living off-base, you will be authorized to draw BAQ at the without dependent's rate, in addition to other allowances that may be appropriate. Upon your arrival you will be authorized to stay in the Visiting Officer/Airmen Quarters up to 30 days, if there are openings. During that time, until you are able to locate permanent off-base quarters, you will be entitled to other allowances to defray the costs of your temporary living arrangements.

(2) Unaccompanied Officers/SNCOs. The same conditions apply to you on the availability of government quarters as they do for single officers. The difference is that if you are serving an unaccompanied tour, you will draw Family Separation Allowance (FSA) I, provided your family does not live in the overseas area. FSA I is equivalent to BAQ at the without dependent rate. You will also continue to draw BAQ at the with dependent rate to defray the costs of maintaining a home for your dependents, if your family does not live in government quarters.

b. Single/Unaccompanied E-1s thru E-6s. We are not where we want to be in providing quarters for you. There are ten dormitories on Bitburg AB. All have central shower rooms. Until recently, we were also required to house our E-1s through E-4s, three to a room. In July 1984 we received a waiver to this requirement and have started authorizing members to move off-base with entitlement to the appropriate allowances (BAQ). This will allow us to house our personnel two to a room. We are presently in the process of transitioning to two people per room. However, we will not reach that goal until December 1985. This is due to large numbers of airmen who must move out and the maintenance work that will affect the liveability of some dorms at times.

(1) Single E-1s thru E-6s. You may be required to live in an on base dormitory at this time. Upon your arrival you will be assigned to a Visiting Airmen Quarters (VAQ) room or a dormitory transient room. On your first duty day, your unit will refer you to the Centralized Dormitory Management Office (CDMO) where you will be assigned to your unit dormitory, if there is space, or to one of the four female floors if you are a female. If you are an E-4 and below, keep in mind that initially you may have two roommates and personal storage space is limited. Don't bring too many oversized personal items that will make living in the dormitory uncomfortable. If you are interested in living off-base and drawing single-rate BAQ which may occur, then you can sign up on the BAQ waiting list at CDMO when you arrive.

(2) Unaccompanied E-1s thru E-6s. For dormitory assignment purposes you will be treated like single airmen and NCOs discussed previously. The only difference is that you will continue to draw BAQ at the with dependent rate in order to support the housing of your family elsewhere, assuming your dependents do not reside in government family quarters or in the overseas area. If you desire to live off-base with allowances and other entitlements to defray your costs, you, too, can place your name on the BAQ waiting list and at the appropriate time, you will be advised government quarters are not available.

2. For those that will be living in the dormitories there is a lot happening to improve the living conditions:

- a. First, as previously mentioned, we are transitioning to two to a room;
- b. In late 1984, new carpet is being installed in the common areas of all dorms;
- c. Beginning in 1985, we have two dorms scheduled each year for an alteration project that results in a shared bathroom between each pair of rooms.
- d. Until all dormitories are altered to the room-bath-room configuration, the Base Civil Engineer, through the Quarters Improvement Committee, has programmed some upgrades of the mechanical systems and facelifts (painting, carpets in rooms, vinyl accent walls, texture ceiling finishes, new drapes, and bedspreads).

3. The preceding provides general information on the housing situation for single and unaccompanied personnel. If you have any more specific questions, please contact your sponsor. He or she can provide you a current status by checking with Billeting or CDMO and advising you.

VAT Program Lives

If you're interested in saving money, the VAT (Value Added Tax) Relief Program is for you! VAT is the German Tax added to merchandise and services purchased on the German economy.

Since the start of the Vat Relief Program in January 1979, military and civilian personnel at Bitburg have saved thousands of dollars on their purchases made on the local economy.

The people at the bitburg Non-Appropriated funds Financial Management Branch (NAFFMB), have made this a one-stop shopping procedure for your convenience. It usually takes 15 minutes to process your paper work and to have a check prepared for return to the vendor.

Although the procedure is very easy, customers often make some minor errors which cause them inconvenience and additional trips. Because tax relief - not rebate, as some individuals may think - is approved by the German Government, deviations from the policy are not possible.

HOW TO PROCESS YOUR APPLICATION:

1. Customers must bring at least one copy of the invoice from the vendor or company, made out to Central Base Fund, Bitburg.
2. Never pay the vendor in advance. The check you receive from NAFFMB is the payment of the invoice.
3. Bring U.S. dollar check or money order. We do not accept cash or Deutsch Marks.

Although many vendors have been very cooperative, the use of this program is strictly voluntary on their part. Letters of explanation in both German and English are available at NAFFMB.

If you are not sure about a procedure or a purchase, be sure to call ext 7409. or visit the VAT office in Bldg 301.

This program is for your convenience and your cooperation helps to make it as simple as possible.

In order to realize any savings a minimum purchase of 50DM has been set.

Welcome to Bitburg Rod and Gun Club, home of the best Skeet Team in Europe. We'd like to take this opportunity to tell you about our activities here at the Bitburg Rod and Gun Club. As I'm sure you have heard, hunting in Germany is expensive and there is no shooting, fishing etc...WRONG! The Association of Rod and Gun Clubs of Europe are situated throughout Europe. You will find a Rod and Gun Club at most military bases. Here at Bitburg we have extensive Hunting, Fishing and Shooting programs for the active sportsperson, as well as the beginner. We have hunting and fishing classes available throughout the year, which are mandatory for fishing and/or hunting permits. Our classes are taught by qualified instructors, which are trained here in Europe. We also offer our members a wide variety of shotguns, rifles, and pistols, as well as fishing and hunting equipment. For the non sportsperson we have a large line of quality giftware, including china. For our Skeet and Trap Shooters we have 3 Skeet ranges and 2 Trap ranges, which are open a few days during the week from 1700 until dusk during the summer, and every weekend from 1000 until dusk. Also members can participate in German DJV Shooting (combination shotgun, rifle and pistol). Don't forget to check with your TMO to bring your firearms with you! Those wishing to purchase firearms here at the Rod and Gun Club are permitted to take them back with you when you leave. Sounds great doesn't it? To join the Rod and Gun Club, just come in and fill out a membership card, which costs $3.00 per year and $1.00 per month dues, simple as that, and fun times are sure to happen for you at the Rod and Gun Club. BELIEVE BELONG BEGIN.....

We on Bitburg, girls and adults alike, wish you, the public to become more aware of our program and it's service to the home, the community, and the world. We go about our tasks all year doing many things which help to foster International good will and understanding in this, our hostess country of Germany. We do not seek credit or acclaim but only that the public be conscious of the value of our program to the INDIVIDUAL GIRL-- that she may learn new skills, that she may understand true meaning of living under a democratic system and that she has a good, wholesome time during the years in which she must GROW UP.

We BELIEVE that through the ideals upon which the Girl Scout movement is founded--our girls of today will be prepared to accept adult roles as tomorrow's leaders.

We BELONG to a world wide movement dedicated to inspiring girls with the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism and service that they may become happy resourceful citizens.

We BEGIN today to help our girls become the person they want to be--to gain confidence--to relate to others with growing skill maturity and satisfaction--to develop sensitivity and respect for the needs, feelings and contributions of others, and knowledge of her value as a person.

welcome to girl scouts
