TALKING POINTS

MEETING WITH US-PHILIPPINE BUSINESS COMMITTEE

THE OVAL OFFICE MAY 14, 1987

-- Pleased to have you in the Oval Office to discuss the Philippines.

--Congratulations on the foresight of your commitment to expand American business ties with the Philippines.

--I continue to be bullish on the Philippines. The time is right to invest.

--Gratified that you -- our major business leaders -- have recognized the opportunities and the needs there.

--In the year since the triumph of democracy that inspired the world, President Aquino has made incredible progress.

--She has changed the fundamental course of her country in ways which accord completely with American values and traditions.

In that short time, she has accomplished:

--a renewal of democracy and democratic traditions;

--a return to political stability; and

--most of the market-oriented framework necessary to fulfill the country's enormous economic potential.

--Mac Baldrige was just there, and was impressed with the extent of economic reform, though more remains to be done.

--We have proven again and again in the United States just how well markets do work when given the opportunity.

-- Therefore, we expect to see investment and growth rise significantly in the Philippines as the country continues to emerge strongly from the important transition underway there.

--American business will want to be in the forefront of that economic expansion.

--Your Committee and the activities it will sponsor will be instrumental in assuring that American business is there for the take-off.

DRAFT PRESS RELEASE

PRESIDENT'S MEETING WITH US-PHILIPPINE BUSINESS COMMITTEE THE WHITE HOUSE MAY 14, 1987

President Reagan told the US members of the US-Philippine Business Committee today that the time is right to invest in the Philippines. In an Oval Office ceremony for the US charter members, the President praised the commitment of these American corporate leaders, their chairman, Maurice Greenberg, and the sponsoring institution, the US Chamber of Commerce to expand Amercian trade and investment ties with the Philippines. He recalled the extraordinary progress President Aquino has made toward restoration of democracy and the rekindling of economic growth and pledged to continue to seek ways to contribute to Philippine economic recovery.

The Business Committee, which grew out of President Aquino's visit to the United States last September, is designed specifically to promote and facilitate trade and investment flows between the two countries. The group will coordinate strategy with a counterpart council of over 30 Philippine business leaders. Committee Chairman Greenberg, President and Chief Executive Officer of American International Group, Inc., a worldwide insurance firm with major interests in the Philippines, outlined the goals of the Committee and thanked the President for his personal endorsement of their mission. Joining Mr. Greenberg as vice chairmen are James Robinson, Chairman and Chief Exceutive Officer of American Express Company and Raymond Johnson, President and Chairman of Caltex Petroleum Corporation.

Committee leaders and their Philippine counterparts will meet next month in Manila for an initial joint planning session.

Washington, D.C. 20520

Dear Mr. Fascell:

Thank you for your letter of February 10 requesting comment from the Department of State on H.R. 59.

We wholeheartedly endorse this legislation directing the President to foster studies in constitutional democracy at Santo Tomas University by supporting the creation of a professorship to be funded by U.S. veterans. This is precisely the sort of public diplomacy initiative with which the Administration is seeking to strengthen U.S.-Philippine relations. In this year marking both the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution and the adoption of a new Philippine charter, Congress could have selected no more timely topic to celebrate our two nations' continuing commitment to shared democratic principles.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

J. Edward Fox Assistant Secretary Legislative and Intergovernmental Affairs

The Honorable Dante B. Fascell, House of Representatives.

MEMORANDUM FOR FRANK C. CARLUCCI

JAMES KELLY FROM:

SUBJECT: Philippine-US Business Committee

During President Aquino's visit to Washington, we agreed to a Philippine-US Committee that would work together to promote business, investment and economic development by encouraging our two private sectors together in cooperative efforts.

The Filipinos have their committee formed and Secretary Baldrige met with them during his trip to Manila this month.

The US counterpart is being headed by Maury Greenberg in coordination with the US Chamber of Commerce. He has solicited CEOs and Presidents of major US corporations to serve on the board. He has eight signed up and expects to reach 15-20 members.

The kick-off organizational meeting is scheduled for the Cordell Hull Conference Room on May 14, 1987 followed by a photo op with the President in the Oval Office. We are working with the Chamber and appropriate USG agencies for the program and the notional first cut is at Tab A. A short welcome to the White House by you would be a significant boost to the program. It would take only five minutes and we would prepare short remarks.

The Honorable, Ronald Reagan President, United States of America White House Washington DC 20005

Dear Mr. Reagan:

I am corresponding in regards to the information Document Research Corporation provided your office in September of 1986. The September 1986 packet of information contained documentation regarding the Marcos wealth and its source.

Numerous articles of this subject matter have made current events.

This letter and the attachments within are to inform you of our activities and all communication conducted with the President, and/or the nominated representatives of the Philippines. My immediate objective refuses to allow the possibility that you would not be knowledgeable of the facts and activities occurring; should you decide to include this issue in your schedule.

It would be my sincere desire to thank you for your support and continued interest in this multi billion dollar swindle of the United States of America. However, I have as yet to receive answer or recognition to any correspondence posted to you.

Respectfully,

Document Research Corporation John Overton President

Dear Mr Diaz:

I am in receipt of your letter dated August 3rd 1987; in answer to our telegram to Mrs. Aquino. I would like to extend my sincere appreciation for your prompt attention to the telegram. We are most anxious to share our information with you.

We have rendered extensive investment in our investigations. The documents we possess are quite sensitive; and in many cases life threatening. The Marcos wealth is only a fraction of our discovery over all. For these mentioned reasons, it is essential not to communicate this knowledge by mail, phone, or telegram. We must maintain control of the documents and evidence to continue with this pursuit. It is imperative we join in person and commence with a conference, which would require a representative of yours and the United States Government. I must admonish, time is of the essence to preserve and protect.

We believe it would expedite matters, accompanying a very interesting and profitable conclusion, if you contacted President, Ronald Reagan, United States of America; and requested he appoint a representative of the United States of America to join with us.

Again, I would like to thank you for the effort you have placed in this critical issue thus far. We look forward to your response in the immediate future.

Respectfully,

MEMORANDUM FOR JAY B. STEPHENS

FROM:

M: VICKI MASTERMAN  $\mathcal{V}^{r}$

SUBJECT: Correspondence Regarding American Anglican Covenant Trust

In the attached correspondence, the Document Research Corporation has offered to "collaborate" with the President in publishing or otherwise communicating their "discovery" relating to the American Anglican Covenant Trust revealing "greed, bloodshed, conspiracy and manipulation of political power unequaled in the history of the United States." Although the letter does not articulate the issues it addresses or allegations it makes, it appears to ask the President to participate in a "valuable" commercial venture.

Accordingly, I have attached a proposed response for your signature declining the offer.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

October 10, 1986

Dear Mr. Overton:

Thank you for your September 17, 1986 letter offering to collaborate with the President in publishing or otherwise communicating your information relating to the American Anglican Covenant Trust.

It has been the policy of this Administration to refuse requests for involvement in any publication or communication which may create the appearance that the President is endorsing a commercial venture. Even for charitable or other non-profit organizations, use of the President's name in collaborative or promotional purposes is generally approved only for entities in which the President has been personally involved or participates as President as a matter of historical precedent. We must, therefore, decline your offer.

We appreciate the fact that this result may be disappointing to you, but trust you understand the policies necessitating it.

Sincerely,

Jay B Stephens Deputy Counsel to the President

ATTN: The Honorable President of the United States

Dear President Reagan;

Document Research Corp. has been contracted to (1) trace the activities of the American Anglican Covenant Trust (which dates back some 450 years to the time of Martin Luther) aka The Evangelical Oregon Trust, and; (2) to explore the "appropriate" death of a Donald Allen Goodwill (in 1982) who was apparently too outspoken about his knowledge of those involved in spin-off matters on this same subject.

True heirs of the American Anglican Covenant Trust (the Evangelical Oregon Trust) have lost control of the vast wealth generated from its' holdings by way of conversion by individuals who were/are in a position of power. This exploitation seems to touch on every major outrageous occurence known to this country in the past fourty years (at least) including:

World War II Korean War The War in Viet Nam The Bay of Pigs Invasion Death of John F. Kennedy Death of Robert Kennedy The Jim Jones Guyana suicide masacre Marcos Rebellion in the Phillipines Death of George Getty of Getty Oil Death of William Lear of Lear Jet Corporation Plus missing shiploads containing some 10,000,000 (ten million) tons of uranium consigned to the U.S. Government from the multi-trust Evangelical Oregon Trust holdings..... etc, etc., etc....

Many people have met with untimely death or have disappeared along this trail to the Trusts' wealth. It is our belief that firm and positive steps should be taken as quickly as possible to reverse the direction of spurious activities.... to stop these violations and criminal actions.

Because we know the information and documentation of proof-of-fact concerning the above is very valuable, our firm has secured the irrevokable and exclusive rights to publish (or cause communication in any form) the subject matter in our possession (or which may be acquired by us) relative to the American Anglican Covenant Trust et al and its' assigns, whether it be fact or fiction.

This letter will serve as our offer to collaborate with you on the expose' of our 'discovery'.

Sincerely yours,

John P. Questa

I have been asked to respond on behalf of President Reagan to your letter of September 23 requesting his assistance in helping your municipality recover from the effects of a typhoon.

The President sympathizes with all victims of natural disaster and extends his best wishes for a speedy recovery from the tragic effects of the storm. As you may know, the U.S. Government is providing substantial economic assistance to the Philippine Government to spend in accordance with the needs of its people. I regret that there are presently no additional U.S. Government funds available for use in circumstances such as those described in your letter. I urge you to enlist the assistance of appropriate agencies of the Philippine Government.

Dear President & Mrs. Reagan:

At first, let me introduce myself as the Municipal Mayor of Boac, Marinduque, Philippines. As public servant like you, I am deeply concerned and involved in the griefs and anxieties, miseries and sufferings of my less privileged people.

Recently, a typhoon directly hit the Province of Marinduque particularly the Municipality of Boac, leaving the area with thousands of homeless families, destroyed crops and livestocks and damaged government buildings. Our people are now suffering from scarcity and poverty.

Believing in your benevolence, generosity and primary concern for the welfare of the Filipinos, may we seek your personal assistance in whatever form, to help us in our period of rehabilitation especially our people. Though we know the government-to-government policy, we take the liberty of directly seeking your personal assistance in the hope that you will extend to us the assurance of your highest considerations and benevolence.

More power to you and your country!

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Jacaban:

I have been asked to respond on behalf of President Reagan to your letter of November 3 in which you suggested that the U.S. protect its military facilities in the Philippines by restoring the Philippines' status as an American commonwealth.

The United States has worked closely and constructively with the government of an independent Philippines for more than 40 years. President Aquino and her commitment to her nation's freedom and prosperity enjoy the Administration's unequivocal support. Excellent relations based on shared political values and mutual respect will play a key role in the upcoming review and renegotiation of our Military Bases Agreement with the Philippines. A continued U.S. military presence in the Philippines is in the sovereign interest of both countries. Please be assured that we will do all we can to focus public debate on the bases issue in the Philippines on ways in which those facilities contribute to that country's political, economic, and security interests.

Sincerely,

Dear Sir:

The enclosed editorial "From Manila: A Warning Shot" is an omenous warning to the American people that mainly due to the fact that the Philippine economic crisis is unattended, the communist insurgency is growing in strength every passing day... insurgency strength that puts our Subic Naval Station and Clark Air Force Base in gret danger of removal.

The editorial made mention that "there is a possibility, especially if there are further attacks on American personnel in the Philippines, that the bases will become a political issue in this country." The attack on American personnel is bad enough, but the insyrgency's nefarious design to close our U.S. Military Bases is far more important because it involves the dignity and welfare of the whole American nation.

The time for America to make the U.S. Military Bases in the Philippines a political issue is now. The bases have already been made a political issue in the Philippines. It is high time for the United States to respond to the Philippine dilemma.

It is highly proper for the American people to discuss the issue thoroughly, and if they come to the conclusion that Subic Naval Station and Clark Air Force Base are not essential to the maintenance of America's future super-power status, now is the time to relocate those bases.

On the other hand, if America decides to keep those bases permanently to keep Russia from dominating the vast Asian-Australian regions, then the United States must act fast to make the Philippines a Commonwealth of the United States again. We firmly believe that the Filipino people prefer democracy to communism as their way of life.

Please accept re-assurances of my highest esteem.

Very respectfully yours, Mateuto Melecio H. Jacaban National Chairman Filipino Americans for Reagan-Bush '80 & '84

From Manila, a warning shot

The shooting deaths of three Americans — two U.S. Air Force sergeants and a retired sergeant — and a Filipino businessman in three separate incidents near Clark Air Force Base north of Manila inject a grim new note into the Philippine government's struggle against the Communist-led guerrilla movement. It's likely, though not yet confirmed, that the killers were members of the New People's Army, which has vowed to hit American targets unless Washington stops providing military aid to the government of President Corazon Aquino.

This incident comes at a time when Aquino is under fire not only from the NPA but from the political mainstream. Aquino's right-wing opponents, including elements of the armed forces, accuse her of weakness in dealing with the Communist rebellion; there have been five coup attempts during her 20 months in power, and anything that exacerbates an already unstable situation is likely to encourage Aquino's enemies.

Moreover, the attack comes at an awkward moment in U.S.-Philippine relations. A U.S. military attache is returning home following accusations in Manila that he sided with right-wing rebels in the most recent coup attempt in August. That allegation, not yet substantiated, has emboldened Filipino politicians who want U.S. bases removed when the current lease on the Clark air base, the Subic Bay naval base and several smaller U.S. installations expires in 1991.

There's also the possibility, especially if there are further attacks on American personnel in the Philippines, that the bases will become a political issue in this country. Some Americans, in and outside Congress, regard the bases as neither necessary to this country's defense needs in the Pacific nor desirable from a foreign policy standpoint. The second objection rests largely on the fear that increasing U.S. military aid to Manila runs the risk of this country being closely tied to a government that could, if Aquino falters, once again become a repressive one.

O ne tragic incident does not, of course, warrant a major reassessment of U.S. policy. But it's a reminder that the Philippine situation is highly volatile, that the United States is deeply involved and — most of all — that U.S. policy must be thoroughly debated and soundly based in preparation for whatever new challenges to Philippine democracy may yet emerge. The time to do that is now.

Dear Mrs. Fish:

I have been asked to respond on behalf of President Reagan to your letter of March 21 urging increased assistance for the Philippines.

The Administration welcomes your support of the Aquino Government and its efforts to restore democracy and economic growth. As part of our continuing commitment to doing all we can to assist that government, Secretary of State Shultz recently met with Congressional proponents of a new multilateral aid initiative. While enthusiastic about the its objectives, the Administration believes that U.S. participation in such a program will depend on the availability of scarce fiscal resources.

While examining proposals for an enhanced multilateral assistance effort, senior U.S. officials have continued to encourage friendly governments to increase their bilateral assistance to the Philippines. For its part, the Administration has implemented measures designed to promote trade and investment necessary to sustain Philippine economic recovery. Prominent among such steps have been increasing the number of Philippine products eligible for trade preferences and expanded insurance coverage available to U.S. firms investing in the Philippines.

Please be assured that the United States will continue to do all it can to help the democratic government of President Aquino bring a better life to the Philippine people and defeat a pernicious Communist insurgency that threatens political stability and mutual US-Philippine security interests.

We sincerely thank you for your November 7, 1987 radio address to the nation in which you underscored America's support for Filipino democracy and President Aquino and called for "...substantial economic and military assistance for the Philippines."

The Council on U.S. - Philippine Relations represents a group of American citizens deeply committed to the growth and development of democracy in the Philippines and to the promotion of better relations between our countries. We are working with many Filipino-American and American groups here and in cites across the Unted States to call attention to the urgent need to support the Philippines, a valued democratic ally.

The Council, at a September 9, 1987 press conference on Capitol Hill, outlined a four point proposal to increase and speed economic aid to the Philippines, to increase duty free imports and to reduce the debt burden. A copy of the press statement and articles which appeared in Tiss Washington Post and The Philippine Star are enclosed for your information.

The Council shares with you and the Congress a concern about America's spending problems and mounting deficit. But we are also very concerned about the new damocracy in the Philippines and about American strategic interests there and in the Pacific.

The Council urges you to support assistance to the Philippines on the scale of the Marshall Plan to help in democratic reconstruction and to protect our strategic interests in that country.

Sincerely,

hile Modesta Salazar Fish Executive Director

The Council On U.S. Philippine Relations Urges More Aid for the Philippines

Dr. Roger J. Fish Council President Press Conference, U. S. Capitol September 9, 1987

The Council on U.S. - Philippine Relations represents a group of American citizens deeply committed to the growth and development of democracy in the Philippines. We are working with many Filipino-American and American groups here and in cities across the U.S. to call attention to the urgent need to support the Philippines in its hour of urgent need.

We celebrated like many Americans the victory of democracy in the Philippines 18 months ago. We celebrated, not just because we have a great deal of respect and admiration for the Philippine people or because of historical connection and cultural affinity, but also because our country did what we have so often failed to do in the past -- the United States stood firm for both democracy and did so in a way which respected the sovereign rights of the Filipino people.

The United States did not tell the Philippines what to do. We finally understood that the support of democracy, however fragile, is the foundation of American foreign policy and true to our own best traditions. We recall hugging our countrymen and our Filipino friends and toved-ones, and toasting both the Philippines for regaining its democracy, and the United States for doing the right thing.

We must remember, however, that the successful democratic revolution in the Philippines in February 1966 was only a beginning. The ouster of a dictator, while not easy, was less difficult than what the Philippines now faces - to undo 20 years of misrule, and put the Philippines on its chosen path of economic and social growth within a democratic framework. There is a danger that Americanis may feel, that having helped in the return of democratic institutions in the Philippines, we can now ignore it.

The Philippines needs American help now. It is true that the Philippines does hold strategic importance to American Interests in the world. But that should not be the only reason to support the Philippines. The Philippines represents what American foreign policy in a dangerous world should be all about, and that is, the support for democracy. If we fail to do whatever we can to help make Philippine democracy flourish, our nation will have lost whatever claim to the ideals of freedom and democracy that we still hold dear.

We Americans are celebrating the 200th anniversary of the Constitution of the United States. The very fact this document came 11 years after our Declaration of Independence shows that time and patient application is required to make democracy work. The conflict and strife in American history these past two centuries serves to underscore this truth. The Filipinos, having regained their freedom, ratified a new constitution within 11 months and reestablished an elected bicameral Congress in less than 15. These achievements were not easy, having been accomplished in the midst of continued fighting by the communists and repeated coup attempts by dissident military elements.

For democracy to survive in that country, the United States must provide the kind of interim economic and political support that we gave to Europe and Japan after World War ti, and to Israel in its proud light for independence and security.

It was one year ago this week that President Corazon Aquino made her official visit to the United States and made her memorable address to the joint session of Congress. Since then, certain so-called "realities" have set in, among them the spending problems which Congress and President Reagan face. But we do not think the Philippines has been given the priority it deserves. Consequently, we are calling on Congress to approve the following as it considers aid for the Philippines in the coming weeks:

- Immediate release in the form of cash transfer of undelivered monies in the Economic Support Fund (ESF) supplemental which have been allocated for the Philippines as project assistance and voted at the time of President Aquino's visit last year;
- A $200 million increase in supplemental emergency budget support to the Philippines above what is already called for in the House Appropriations measure. This would increase the estimated Philippine package from $284 million ($124 ESF; $110 MAP; $50 Agrarian Reform) to $484 million, a small sum relative to the rest of the federal budget, but vital to the success of democracy in the Philippines and American interests;
- Free and open access to American markets for all Philippine exports, through the granting of Carribbean Basin Initiative (CBI) like status effective immediately. This would significantly increase export earnings and further stimulate investment interest in the Philippines; and,
- The forgiveness of all American government loans to the Philippines, as has been the case with both Israel and Egypt, and the encouragement of creative means of debt relief by commercial banks and other lending agencies and institutions.

We believe that such actions would constitute the beginning of America's long-term commitment to the growth of Philippine democracy, which will benefit both of our great rations immeasurably. It would, in the long run, increase the Philippines domestic market for the goods of other countries, including the United States. It would likewise improve the investment climate in the Philippines thereby promoting the long term self-sufficiency of that nation.

We are a non-pertisan organization. We do not support any one political faction in the Philippines or in the United States. We do support Philippine democracy and independence and we are Americans who believe that, as the strongest beacon of hope for freedom-loving people around the world, the United States of America has a responsibility to help those who are also so committed.

Reagan Lacks Plan to Boost Philippine Aid Latest Coup Attempt, Guerrilla Attacks Draw Calls for More Assistance to Military

By Don Oberdorfer non Past Saul Pres

The most recent coup attempt against the Aquino government of the Philippines and military losses to communist guerrillas there have grabbed the attention of official Washington and touched off demands for new U.S. initiatives. But what to do, in view of the sensitive nature of the problems and severe cutbacks in foreign-aid funds, is an open question in the Reagan administration.

Officials of the State and Defense departments have devoted many hours to analyzing the Philippine -situation since the Aug. 27 coup attentot raised concerns about the government of President Corazon Aquinto, especially its military-related problems. So far, according to đić is involved in the internal discussions, nobody has come up with a plan of U.S. action.

These are some of the most sen-*altive issues of domestic policy in the Philippines," said a senior State Dispertment official, citing personel changes and policy shifts in the Philippine presidential palace and in the Philippine military establishthe Philippine military establish-ments if we had a lot of resources ilable, perhaps we could pour them in" and be in a better position to give advice, but there is no imte prospect of that, the official seid.

The situation is especially delicate because those under strongest criticism in Manila for alleged in-effectiveness-including presidential aides Joker Arroyo and Theodore Loccin Jr. and the armod forces chief of staff, Gen. Fidel V. Ramos—have been closest to Aquino since she took power in Fe-buary 1986. Moreover, questions of I-military authority and the reisted issues of policy toward the ommunist-led insurgency mong the touchiest in Manita. 202

In recent days, U.S. policy was to state strong support for Aquino and strong opposition to the coup at-L and to express the hope that she will deal vigorously with formidable problems that contrast her. ectore process concourses and The unstated implication was that she has been less than vigorous in some of her responses. A handicap in the current Wash-ington-Manila communications pro-

case is that the new U.S. a dor, Nicholas Platt, presented his credentials only days before the coup attempt and has not had time to build a personal relationship of confidence with Aquino or others in the Manila power structure.

Platt, a Foreign Service veteran with extensive Asian experience, was nominated by President Reagan last April. Rather than being sent quickly because of the dangers in Manila, Platt's confirmation was delayed for almost two months by Sen. Jesse Heims (R-N.C.) and confirmed only in early August.

A major asset is that Aquino and her Philippine democracy have unusually broad support across the U.S. political spectrum. This has been so since the dramatic events of early last year, which engaged Republicans and Democrats alike and captivated much of the U.S. public. Since then, foreign-policy experts of the right and left have been energized by their perceptions of the threats in Manila.

For U.S. conservatives, the threat of the communist New Peo-ple's Army has become even more serious for a country where the United States has major military facilities and security interests, and the Philippine government's inef-fectiveness is dealing with the insurgency has become even more dangerou

The conservative Héritage Foundation last week declared in a report that, despite the recent coup attempt, "it is not the Philippin military but the commun sta who pose the greatest threat to Aquino and Philippine democracy." The recommendations of the report, by policy analyst Richard D. Fisher Jr., are to double U.S. military aid, provide snore intelligence information and wrge Aquino to develop a coor-dinated civil-military counterineur-

"The armed forces of the Philippines are not now capable of cuping with the counterinsurgency tasks they confront." wrote Stilwell, who recently returned from a trip to Manila.

U.S. liberals and others with a stake in Aquino's brand of democracy have become alarmed about a different threat: the repeated coup attempts by forces loyal to former president Ferdinand E. Marcos and now an even more serious coup attempt by dissident military "reformists.

For the 1986 Asian "triumph for democracy" to be toppied by an undemocratic military coup would be a bitter pill for those who backed gress last September, the lawmak-Aquino and would be a major setback for the U.S. self-image and foreign policy.

The new council, headed by Roger J. Fish, a former Peace Corns. volunteer in the Philippines and a D.C. public schools official, is recmmending a near-doubling of U.S. economic aid to the Philippines and a small increase in U.S. military aid. [

Derwinski. "But we can't rob Peter to pay Paul by taking hundreds of mil-lions in new money for the Philippines from other countries which are already suffering drastic cuts."
