Biography

Biography

Michael McManus was born in Boston on March 11, 1943. He grew up in the suburbs of Boston and New York City. He earned a B.A. degree in Economics from the University of Notre Dame (1964), and a law degree from Georgetown University Law

Center (1967). From 1968 to 1970 he served in the Army, as an attorney stationed at Fort McNair in Washington, DC. After his discharge, he was an attorney with the law firm Cadwalader, Wickersham and Taft (1970-1974) and the American Freedom Train Foundation (1974-1975). In December 1975 he joined the Department of Commerce, as a Regional Representative of the Secretary of Commerce for two years. He then returned to the private sector, as an attorney with the pharmaceutical firm Pfizer Inc.,

In April 1982 McManus became the chief assistant to Michael Deaver, the White House Deputy Chief of Staff. He was assigned to oversee the logistics of President Reagan's trip to Versailles, France for the 1982 G-7 Summit of Industrialized Nations. Once this Summit ended, McManus began work on the 1983 G-7 Summit, for which the United States was the host country. He was the official leader of the independent group that organized the Summit, which was held in Williamsburg, Virginia in May 1983. After the Williamsburg Summit, McManus was promoted from a Deputy Assistant to a full Assistant to the President. He continued working with the Office of Presidential Advance on event scheduling and logistics, especially for President Reagan's overseas trips. He assisted Mr. Deaver with internal administrative matters. He dealt with various issues, special projects, and outside organizations on behalf of Deaver and the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff.

In October 1983, McManus was named the White House liaison on matters pertaining to the 1984 Republican National Convention. In January 1984 he took on direct oversight of most aspects of White House communications, as part of a reorganization of the White House staff undertaken for the 1984 campaign season. After President Reagan won re-election, McManus became a member of the advisory board for the 1985 Inaugural, while Deaver served as Chairman of the 1985 Inaugural Committee.

McManus left the White House staff effective March 31, 1985. Since then he has held leadership positions with various corporations in the New York City area, primarily in the banking and pharmaceutical fields.

Scope and Content Note

Scope Note

The material within this collection reflects the intensive nature of planning and “advancing” Presidential events and trips. Separate series are maintained for five of the President’s foreign trips, reflecting the large amounts of material pertaining to these trips and McManus’s key role in planning them. The trip-based series can include material on advance site visits, event proposals, lists of event attendees, draft and final trip schedules, and thank-you notes to people who helped with the trip.

The collection also reflects the large supervisory role the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff acquired after David Gergen, Director of Communications left the White House staff in late 1983. In effect, the Office was now providing the strategic guidance for the Office of Communications, Office of Media Relations, Office of Public Affairs and to some degree the Office of Speechwriting. McManus took on a large part of these responsibilities.

The collection includes material reflecting the Office of Deputy Chief of Staff’s responsibility for making all the arrangements of the Summit of Industrialized Nations (G-7) held in Williamsburg, Virginia at the end of May 1983. Michael McManus was appointed the Coordinator for Administration for the Summit, supervising the independent group organizing the Summit. While working closely with the Summit group, McManus also retained his White House job and functions

With the original McManus collection, we found about 4-5 cubic feet of the specific records for the Summit of Industrialized Nations independent body. This body was located outside the White House in Jackson Place and had an Executive Director running day-to-day operations. We have transferred this material to a created collection for the Summit of Industrialized Nations. There is some additional McManus work product in the Summit collection (see separate inventory).

The remaining material within this collection focuses on the political and ceremonial functions of the President including fund-raising trips and events; the 1984 Republican Convention in Dallas, Texas, and the 1985 Inaugural. (Series 9-11) All of these series are considered “personal” papers of President Ronald Reagan misfiled within McManus’ presidential records. As such it is processed and made available under the deed of gift of the President regarding this material.

As a general note on filing practices by McManus, his office staff liked to group his work product in big broad topics usually in large expansion ("accordion") folders. We have retained this original order with overarching folder titles from the accordion folders and used some folder subtitles to break up the material in more specific units.

The Michael McManus collection consists of 11 series: SERIES I: Subject File, SERIES II: 1983 Williamsburg Summit, SERIES III: European Trip 1982, SERIES IV: South and Central American Trip 1982, SERIES V: Far East Trip 1983, SERIES VI: China Trip 1984, SERIES VII: 1984 Economic Summit - London, England, SERIES VIII: Events, SERIES IX: 1984 Republican National Convention, SERIES X: 1985 Presidential Inaugural, and SERIES XI: Political - General.
