Dear Lyn:

You know this comes with mixed emotions. Yes, I accept your resignation -- but, no, I'm not happy about it. Maybe I should say, "wait 'til I get my hat and I'll go with you".

Thanks for all you've done and thanks for your generous words. Nancy and I wish you and Bonnie happiness and success in all you undertake. Just remember, you may be out of the administration, but you are still in our lives 'til the end of the road.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: KENNETH M. DUBERSTEIN KMD
SUBJECT: Letter from Congressman Hagedorn

On your log of mail for January 4, you indicated an interest in seeing the attached correspondence from Congressman Tom Hagedorn.

You will recall that the Congressman enclosed an article written by his son, Jim, responding to an editorial in the George Mason University paper which was critical of your performance in office.

Can we find out ~~for~~ Jim Hagedorn's address? He attends George Mason U. (son of the Congressman) Then send this letter to Jim & a copy to the Congressman.

Dear Jim

Pardon my addressing you by your 1st name but I know your father so well and am now so indebted to you I felt you wouldn't mind.

Your father showed me the letter you wrote to the editor of "Broadside" in my defense. You make me feel very proud and very grateful. I hope our paths cross one day so I can tell you in person how much I appreciate your generous words.

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT:

IN THIS HOUR OF DARKNESS FOR THE POLISH NATION, IT IS IMPOR-TANT, AS YOU ARE DOING, TO MAKE A FIRM AND UNMISTAKABLE REPRESENTATION TO THE GOVERNMENT OF POLAND IN REGARD TO REPRESSION AND DENIAL OF HUMAN RIGHTS OF THE PEOPLE NOW OCCURRING THERE.

HOWEVER, THE ECONOMIC SANCTIONS MAY TEND TO WEIGH MORE HEAVILY UPON THE POLISH PEOPLE THAN UPON THE RULING GOVERNMENT UNLESS MEASURES ARE TAKEN AT THE SAME TIME TO ASSURE THAT EMERGENCY FOOD SUPPLIES ARE CHANNELLED TO THE GENERAL POPULACE.

W.U. 1201-SF (R5-69)

WE ALREADY KNOW THAT SEVERE SHORTAGES, RATIONING AND HARDSHIP AND HUNGER WILL BE A FACT OF LIFE FOR THE GALLANT PEOPLE OF POLAND FOR MANY MONTHS AND PERHAPS EVEN LONGER IF A POOR HARVEST OCCURS IN 1982.

THE PEOPLE OF POLAND NEED FOOD AND HOPE IF THEY ARE TO CONTINUE TO SEEK AN INCREASING VOICE FOR THEMSELVES IN THEIR OWN DESTINY.

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, ARE CONVINCED THAT A WIDE CROSS SECTION OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE CONCUR IN OUR THINKING THAT IMMEDIATE EMERGENCY FOOD AID IS THE MOST VITAL THING THAT CAN BE DONE.

W.U. 1201-SF (R5-69)

WE PROPOSE THAT YOU TAKE THE LEADERSHIP IN MOUNTING A PUBLIC AND PRIVATE EFFORT TO ASSURE SUCH FOOD AID, STARTING WITH A COMMITMENT THAT FEDERAL STOCKS OF FOOD WILL BE MADE AVAILABLE.

WE PROPOSE THAT, AS NEEDED, 100,000 TONS OF DAIRY PRODUCTS (BUTTER, CHEESE AND DRY MILK POWDER) BE MADE AVAILABLE AND THAT OTHER FOODS IN READILY USABLE FORM BE SUPPLIED SO THAT IMMEDIATE AND DIRECT DISTRIBUTION CAN BE MADE WHERE NEEDED.

TO DRAMATIZE THE AMERICAN COMMITMENT, IT WOULD BE APPROPRIATE THAT THE FIRST SHIPMENTS BE MADE BY AIRLIFT THROUGH NEARBY NEUTRAL COUNTRIES. ON OTHER SHIPMENTS, WE HAVE THE COMMITMENT OF THE INTERNATIONAL LONGSHOREMENS ASSOCIATION THAT THEY WILL LOAD SUCH EMERGENCY FOOD AID.

BY CHANNELING THE FOOD ASSISTANCE THROUGH RECOGNIZED INTERNATIONAL AID ASSOCIATIONS AND THE CATHOLIC RELIEF SERVICE OF POLAND WE CAN HAVE CONFIDENCE THAT THE AID WILL REACH THOSE FOR WHOM IT IS INTENDED, FREE OF POLITICAL INTERFERENCE OR DELAY. SUCH AN APPROACH WILL BE WITHIN THE GUIDELINES WHICH YOU EXPRESSED IN THIS REGARD IN YOUR DECEMBER 23RD REMARKS.

AMERICAN WORKERS, FARMERS AND OTHER CITIZENS ARE JOINING TOGETHER IN RAISING OUR VOICES IN PROTEST AGAINST THE DESTRUCTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN POLAND. WE WILL GIVE MORAL SUPPORT IN EVERY WAY WE CAN.

THE POLISH NATION, NOW A THOUSAND YEARS OLD, HAS SURVIVED

W.U. 1201-SF (R5-69)

MANY A PERIOD OF CRISIS AND OPPRESSION. AS IT FACES TODAY'S CHALLENGE, AMERICA, WHICH HAS THE FOOD WHICH CAN SUSTAIN THE HEALTH AND VITALITY OF THE POLISH PEOPLE, MUST NOT LET THEM DOWN.

The Honorable Ronald W. Reagan
President of the United States
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Decontrol of Natural Gas Prices

Briefly, the events of the past three years in the petroleum industry have been quite dramatic and surprising. Because of two political happenings in the Middle East, the deposition of the Shah in Iran and the Iran - Iraq war, the price of oil was raised from about $13/Barrel to $34/B in 1981, where OPEC has tried to stabilize it. Events during 1981 has shown that this price level is too high and demand has slumped while production outside OPEC has increased. As a result prices have been weak as each nation in OPEC (other than Saudi Arabia) has tried to regain its market share. And an attempt in the U.S. to raise crude oil prices at the well by $1.00/B failed. Demand in the U.S. is down 15% because of the high price, imports are down 25% and oil production is slowly increasing as a result of a doubling of the drilling rate. Natural gas is also being developed rapidly. There is even some shut in production waiting to find a market. The price stability now prevailing should last barring a Middle East blow-up for three or four years while inflation catches up with the too-high oil prices.

When you decontrolled all oil in February it was predicted that prices of products would rise substantially. Nearly a year later prices at the consumer level are actually down and we are back to a competitive marketing environment in the U.S. and Europe. I believe the same thing would happen in natural gas if decontrol of all natural gas prices over a period of time were to be implemented; that is, the price increase would be much less than generally estimated.

For various geological and technical reasons, we have been finding more gas than oil as our exploration and drilling effort has more than doubled within the U.S. and it is probable that we have at least 10-15% shut-in producing capacity, or several trillion cubic feet on an annual basis. If all restrictions on price and use were to be lifted so that all gas sold at competitive BTU levels with oil, the average price would rise to about $4.50-$5.00 per MCF at the well-head and consumption of oil and gas would decline further, thus reducing imports of oil even more.

This would require lifting price controls on old "vintage" gas as well as all other higher priced categories, over a three or four year period, starting in 1983 but with a time certain for final decontrol. As occurred through decontrol of "old" oil, the price would go up less than expected and all fuels would be free to compete with each other. Granted, the 15-20% of "vintage" gas now selling below $1.00/MCF would rise substantially but, if necessary, a windfall profits tax on this "old" gas could be applied which would phase out, as in oil. Here the purpose is to have all gas and all oil sell at similar BTU prices to the consumer. This would make it difficult for any gas distributor to buy large amounts of incremental gas supplies at premium prices and "roll it in" to his over-all sales.

The complete deregulation of oil and gas selling at about $34/B of oil and gas equivalent, would leave coal prices well below oil and gas on a BTU basis, so they would rise also as would production. By then, all three hydrocarbon fuels would be competing vigorously for all markets where they can be used and the result would be less overall consumption of energy in the U.S. and increased domestic production, thus further reducing our need for imported oil. And the so-called "energy crisis" would be largely solved without government regulation through free-enterprise economics.

An even bolder idea in line with your aim to reduce excessive governmental regulations, would be to deregulate the interstate natural gas pipelines. Their volume has been rather stagnant for a decade and no new long interstate pipelines have been built. During this period they have used their cash flow to diversify into many other fields, but principally oil and gas exploration and production. This diversification has gone so far that a large majority of the interstate pipelines have more than half their earnings from sources other than transporting natural gas. With higher prices for natural gas their demand would decline moderately and with high fixed costs they would have to raise tariffs, to maintain earnings, which would again cause well-head prices to rise less than otherwise expected. And the ability to "roll-in" high-priced, uncontrolled natural gas would become uneconomic so that the $7.00-8.00/MCF uncontrolled gas would also come down to the competitive BTU level at about $5.00/MCF.

Deregulating the whole natural gas industry, except intrastate and city distribution would also lead to fewer imports of gas from Mexico and Canada and at lower prices. It would almost certainly make Prudhoe Bay gas transported through Canada uneconomic since there would be no market for $10.00/MCF gas (the estimate of the delivered price in the U.S.). Prudhoe Bay Gas should be taken to Valdez through a parallel pipeline to the Alaska crude line and liquefied to be shipped to the U.S. West Coast or to Japan.

In summary, there is an opportunity over the next four or five years to completely deregulate the natural gas production and interstate pipeline industry with only modest effect on the consumer. It would finally place all three major energy sources-oil, gas and coal-on an equally competitive basis and lead to near self-sufficiency in energy in an emergency if the Strategic Reserve is filled and capable of producing 3 million B/D for six months.

I realize this is a difficult problem politically but the first six months of 1982 is crucial if the phase-out is to start in January 1983, and, with the "windfall-profits tax", help balance the budget.

Sincerely yours,

I am attaching a hand-written note from the President to Michael Deaver, as well as a copy of the letter to which it refers. Briefly it's about an offer of a low interest loan for a trillion dollars @ 5-6%, from a foreign source.

As additional background, just before Thanksgiving, the President's secretary received several phone calls from California with a similar proposition (the interest rate was higher, but the trillion remained the same). At that time it was hinted that the source of the $'s was the royal family of Saudi Arabia. This information was passed on to the NSC, but no one has followed up with them and we don't know what they did with it. (The caller was anxious for someone here to get in contact with the donor at a Swiss hotel and even gave us those telephone numbers.)

What should I do?

Honorable Ronald Reagan, President
White House
Washington, D.C.

Honorable Mr. President,

Here comes your old friend from West Los Angeles with a very special message for you. But, first of all, I do want to thank you from my heart for all that you are doing for our beloved country. Of course, our love and prayers are with you and dear Nancy always.

I know that you have difficulties (especially, this past week!), and, once again, the tremendous opportunity to help you has just come up again. You recall how a most honorable good friend of mine, Tony Acquaviva, spoke to you about the availability of large sums of money at a very low interest rate? This would, however, at that time, have been through Switzerland. Through some extraordinary circumstances Tony, who has many powerful friends, has enabled one of these to be in a position to help you enormously at this time in a financial way, perhaps even to the tune of a trillion dollars. The interest rate would never be higher than 8 %, perhaps, even as low as 6 %.

Once again, dear Mr. President, I must stress that Tony is an extremely honest and honorable man, deeply spiritual, and he most sincerely loves our beloved country and you, dear Mr. President, whom he greatly reveres. If you would like to consult with Tony before doing anything, his telephone number is (213)-273-2122). A few moments ago I called him at a time when he was praying to find a way to reach you. By God's grace, I discovered Mrs. Wilson's telephone number for the first time. I called her to discover that she will be seeing you tomorrow, God willing! I will quote, as far as I can, Tony's own message to you:

"Mr. President, I shall consider myself most blessed if I can help you, for I know you need help. My friend is a retired U.S. Colonel, who is all O.K. with the FBI and the Secret Service. He now lives in Washington, D.C., about 5 minutes away from you. His telephone number 451-2078, or 451-7238. The name is Colonel Jim Nunnes; code number-- AIF -TA slash J.J.N. (I believe that this is how Tony calls him on the 'phone!)" If I felt it would be necessary to go personally to Washington to introduce you to him, I would gladly go, but I would immediately step aside, if that is what you would wish. However, I know that he would call me, too, if this were needed. He is, I truly assure you, dear Mr. President, a most kind, honorable, courteous gentleman of impeccable integrity and irreproachable character. He, too, wants very, very much to help his revered President, and he is already helping in the agricultural department. Just a telephone call would bring him to the Oval Office where he could tell you how unbelievably low is the interest rate. In my last moments in this life, I will be more grateful for nothing than for my faith in God, and the fact that ,God willing, I shall enable my President to turn around the economy of the entire country as well as, probably, other countries. Now is the time when this could work out in the most favorable manner, a skilful and God-given road towards eliminating our national debt, and getting the economy moving fast.

I know, dear Mr. President, that Tony could help very much towards a happy solution of this fiscal problem, for he has tremendous financial intuition, and Col. Nunnes would cooperate beautifully with him. I know both of them, and they are both , as you are, guided by the Holy Spirit ... Tony just called me. He says that you might try the 451-7238 number first in calling Col. Jim. Tony was on the verge of death on 3 occasions and he now feels that our heavenly Father must have spared him for something special! He says he admires your "spunk," and you deserve to succeed. This is how we all feel. God love and bless you, and do be again reassured of our devoted prayers on your behalf. Once again, however, I think you must be careful about your safety. We need you!

With all sincerity, deep gratitude, and love,

I am, yours respectfully,

Sister Mary Ignatius, DMJ.

MEMORANDUM FOR RICHARD G. DARMAN
ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT
THE WHITE HOUSE

SUBJECT: Offer of Loan to U.S. at Low Interest Rates

In response to your December 14 note to Secretary Regan, we advise against serious consideration of the proposed offer of a $1 trillion loan to the U.S. from an unidentified foreign source at a below-market interest rate of 5 to 6 percent.

Treasury has received many such informal proposals in recent years. This year they have been averaging about one a week. One offer was as high as $26 trillion, but most are in the hundreds of billions. At times, as a courtesy, Treasury has met and corresponded with intermediaries, but it becomes immediately apparent that these parties are either "con artists" or extremely naive. The fraudulent types are primarily interested in appearing to be "negotiating" with the Treasury (for purposes of inducing a party on the other side to take them seriously), and they generally attempt to continue discussions with us long after we have made clear that we do not take such proposals seriously.

We usually respond to such inquiries (most come in by telephone) with a brief statement that we have no interest in the proposals. Attached is a copy of a typical written response.

Please let me know if we can be of further assistance.

NOV 03 1981

Dear Ms. Anderson:

Secretary Regan has asked me to respond to your letter concerning your desire to arrange a loan to the U.S. Government.

The Treasury does not arrange private placements of its securities with individual investors, nor does it tailor the interest rates, maturities, and other terms and conditions of its securities to suit the needs of any individual investor. Rather, the Treasury offers its securities to the public at regularly scheduled public auctions, ranging from weekly auctions of 13-week and 26-week Treasury bills to quarterly offerings of longer term securities. The Treasury reserves the right to reject any or all bids at these auctions, and limits the amount of securities that may be purchased at an auction by any individual investor.

The Treasury welcomes and encourages individual investors to participate in the auctions of Treasury securities. Applications to purchase securities in these auctions may be obtained from any of the Federal Reserve Banks or branches or from the Bureau of the Public Debt in the Treasury Department. Also, many banks and other financial institutions will submit applications to purchase Treasury securities as a service for their customers. The enclosed pamphlet, "Buying Treasury Securities at Federal Reserve Banks", contains detailed information on how investors may participate in the public auction of Treasury securities.

Special issues of Government debt are sold only to Government accounts, Government agencies, foreign central banks or international official institutions.

I hope this information is helpful.

Sincerely,

:(Signed):

Dear Mr. President and Mrs. Reagan,

We want to thank you both so very much for the lovely Xmas card.

You and your family have shown so much concern and compassion for both Tom and myself during this entire ordeal. We have many things to thank you and your family for during Tom's stay in the hospital, the visits made to him by Mrs. Reagan, our dear first lady and your lovely children, your phone call and your letter to me. Really, Mr. President you have shown what we all knew "you love people and really care." We also thank you for the kind note you sent Tom when they retired him, it meant alot to hear from you. He lives with great pain in the arm each day but we are so thankful he is alive. Each day our prayers go out to Jim Brady and our prayers have been answered with joy when our President who we are so proud is able to live a normal life after being so close to death. Five days after the shooting I was admitted to the same hospital for detached retina in both eyes., they were unable to save the right eye but thank God the left eye was saved with the use of a contact lens.

Mr. President we both feel proud that Tom was in some way able to help save your life. He lived and I do have the one eye, something neither of us shall ever forget.

We wish for you and your family in 1982 a safe year filled full of all the plans you have for our great country. We are truly proud of you as our President and what you have been able to do during the first year in office. We hope someday we might have the joy of meeting you, a man with so much compassion. Again, We thank you for being so kind to us.

Sincerely,

Jean & Tom Delahanty
