Dear Mr. President:

As Chairman of the Tony Conigliaro Benefit Committee in Marin County, California, I would like to express to you the sincere gratitude of my committee and myself for your open letter to Tony. Your greetings were read at the Sports Banquet which was held here on May 21, 1983, to raise the badly needed monies necessary for this brave young man to achieve a degree of normalcy in his life.

You dignified the entire evening by taking the time away from your hectic and demanding schedule to acknowledge this fallen warrior. Mr. President, your warmth and caring truly showed; and they created a great sense of pride in every one of the 850 people who was in attendance.

As a committee, we have adopted as our motto "Expect a Miracle"; and it appeared to us that the first step in the miracle was a letter from the President of the United States.

Respectfully,

Donald R. Saccani, Chairman

Dear Tony:

I wanted to take a moment to let you know that Nancy and I are thinking of you and the family, and that we wish you the best during these tough times. With your courage and determination, you will be back to your old self again soon.

With our warmest personal regard.

Dear Judge:

I, too, enjoyed our visit and, like you, think it was high time we met.

But I'm writing to thank you for your generous words in your letter and, even more, for the words about this country of ours -- yours and mine. You told me of your thoughts outside the Oval Office -- believe me, I have similar thoughts sitting in that office.

Please give my regards to your family, and God bless you.

Dear Mr. President:

My visit with you on May 4 was an unexpected and welcomed honor. I am profoundly grateful for having had that opportunity. To meet, at last, the person most responsible for my judicial career (three judicial appointments) had long been a cherished hope. More importantly, the opportunity to visit with the most courageous president of our time was an unbelievable thrill, not only for me, but for my family who enjoyed it vicariously. Thank you so much for making it possible.

Before I close, I would like to share a personal thought. As I waited to see you, I thought to myself, in what other country in the world could a child of poor immigrant parents be provided the opportunity to attain one of the highest judicial offices in the world. Where, but in this great land of ours, could he be waiting in the White House lobby to see this remarkable president. My parents came from the now famous West Bank. Though born here, I returned to live there for six years. When we returned, I was not able to speak, read or write a word of English -- and here I was sitting in the White House lobby as a U.S. District Judge. Those were my random thoughts.

I was overcome with gratitude and love for our country. Like you, I do not understand her detractors, those thoughtless few who attack and undermine her at every turn. I must confess, sir, that I have very little patience with such people. I love America and would die to protect her. You are doing a tremendous job trying to get this country back on course. Please run for reelection. The country needs you now, more than ever.

Cordially,

Edward Rafeedie

dear Mr. PAEGIDENT

You are meeting on Thursday with my brother Philip --- about education.

Tonight, you spoke at the Bob Hope birthday —about our service men and women.

Well, my son, Douglas, joined the Marines at 18 out of high school in 1965 as a private. At 20 he was a 2d Lt. at Hue City in TET.

Returning to the States as a company commander and captain, he went to college after duty(3 states, 4 colleges, 9 years) to earn his B. A., in 1978.

Now on May 15, as a civilian working on guided missle production for Texas Instruments(driving 3 nights a week plus Saturday 140 miles R/T over 2 1/2 years) Douglas earned his Masters in Business Administration. U. of Dallas.

You worked for years, against the tide; often the effort came out of your wife's time, as Douglas' did out of Judy's.

Somehow, in this country we know it is all worthwhile, don't we?

Your father told me of your coming marriage. I hope you won't mind my offering congratulations. Your father has been more than kind in his helpfulness to me. Thanks to him, I'm still able to get into the saddle in these times when I can't get to our ranch.

I wish you a lifetime of happiness and can assure you marriage is the best way to achieve that. Thomas Jefferson said, "Happiness in the married state is a blessing to be desired above all others." Now I didn't hear Jefferson say that but I know he's right. Ignore all the cynical jokes about marriage, a man can't be complete without it. It's worth working at and the more you work at it the more happiness you'll have.

Dear Brute:

As usual, your column hit it right on the nose and the fuzzy minded right on the head.

I enjoyed your report on the work weekend only I cried a little.

By the way (and back to your column) you probably know this but, just in case you don't, back in those days of Winston's ignored warnings he summed up appeasement with a masterful statement. He said, "If you will not fight when you can win without bloodshed, if you will not fight when your victory will be sure and not too costly, you may come to a time when you will have to fight with all the odds against you and only a precarious chance of victory. There may be a worse case; you may have to fight when there is no chance of victory because it is better to perish than to live as slaves."

Again, thanks and best regards.

For Reagan, a Bull Market Could Mean a Second Term

ESPITE THE sluggishness of the general economic recovery, it is easy to understand the elation around the White House over the bullish stock market.

On the basis of past performance, the market has frequently signaled the shape of things to come, not only economically, but politically. At the moment, it seems to be suggesting that President Reagan will be re-elected next year, if he runs.

Although it is not infallible, the Dow Jones industrial average, when interpreted historically, has correctly forecast the outcome of presidential elections about 80 per cent of the time since 1900, and its few failures can be traced to unusual political crises.

For example, 11 of the past 13 presidents saw the Dow rise from midterm to the time of the next election. In six cases, the gain topped 25 per cent. All but one of the six was either re-elected or followed by a candidate from the same political party.

Conversely, the presidents who witnessed less than a 21 per cent advance in the industrial average during their last 24 months in office were in fatal trouble. In every case save one (Franklin D. Roosevelt) a member of the cpposite political party followed each of these presidents.

· Where does this leave Reagan At the 1932 midterm election the market stood at 1,022, as against Friday's alltime closing high of 1232.59. That's a gain of more than 20 per cent, which leaves Reagan between now and November, 1984, to pick up less than one more percentage point to meet the 21 per cent success standard.

If history is any guide, "we should see a rising market during 1983," reports Selection and Opinion, a Value Line market analysis. It notes that in the past 13 administrations, the llow Jones average has failed to climb only twice during the third year of a president's term. Both of those exceptions occurred during the Great Depression 50 years ago.

Selection and Opinion also points | Nov. 6, 1984.

out that "almost every incumbent president - regardless of party affiliation - sees the Dow Jones industrial average climb during the final year of his term." So, as things stand, Reagan

There are about 32 million individual investors in the United States who are $500 billion richer than they were last summer.'

looks like a cinch to enjoy a gaan of 21 per cent or more in the Dowy between Nov. 2, 1982, and Election Day.

Two years after Reagan was elected, the average was 7.8 per cent higher than it was in November, 1980. That increase sounds modest, but it is the biggest since the Eisenhower era. The gain in John F. Kennedy's first two years, for instance, was 6.6 per cent.

Moreover, since Aug. 12, 1982, when the market closed at a two-year low of 776, the index has climbed well over 400 points, or about 55 per cent.

On Wall Street there is an old saying that as January goes, so goes the year. This year, the Dow Jones started off at 1.027, and by Friday was 205 points higher.

In any case, a New York Times study shows that, from the postwar record, the odds are 5-1 that a stock market advance in January will be followed by a gain for the full year. Moreover, as Business Week reported, the stock market has correctly forecast eight economic turning points since 1948.

Not everybody is impressed by the performance of the market, for there are still more than 11 million unembloved, and business recovery is still porty. Yet a bull market has a broader inpact than is generally perceived.

There are about 32 million individal investors in the United States who are $500 billion richer than they vere last summer. Besides direct owners of stock, there are also indiect owners, like those who have an nterest by ottocke owned by instituions, such as pension and profit-sharing plans, life insurance companies and mutual funds.

That adds up to a big slice of the public.

RE: Amendment to Communications Act

DT: June 9, 1983

To assure that those who broadcast directly to the home via common carrier satellites are subject to the provisions of the Communications Act applicable to broadcasters, the following amendments to the Communications Act are suggested:

1. Amend Section 3(o) of the Act (47 U.S.C. §153(o)) to read as follows:

"Broadcasting" means the dissemination of radio communications intended to be received by the public whether or not for a fee or a charge, directly or by the intermediary of relay stations including dissemination via satellite facilities, whether owned directly or leased or purchased in whole or in part from a common carrier.

2. Add a new subsection (gg) to Section 3 (47 U.S.C. §153(gg):

"Broadcaster" means any person engaged in broadcasting.

3. Amend Section 301 (47 U.S.C. §301) by inserting the phrase "engage in broadcasting or" before the word "use" the second time it appears in the Section.

PERSONAL FOR THE PRESIDENT

The Honorable Ronald W. Reagan President of the United States The White House 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue Washington, D.C. 20505

My dear Mr. President:

As I have commented in the Oval Office and in several letters to you, the Federal Communications Commission is in skilled and dedicated hands as a result of your naming Mark S. Fowler as Chairman.

Fowler is a splendid American and so dedicated to the principles for which you stand as our great President.

However, I feel impelled to comment directly to you, Mr. President, concerning a decision reached by the Federal Communications Commission on June 2, 1983, in granting permission to a foreign individual, Rupert Murdoch, the publisher, to commence a direct satellite-to-home broadcast service via the simple leasing of transponders to be made available for operation on Canada's ANIK-C2 through GTE Satellite Corporation. This service could start as early as this fall.

Mr. President, it is not important that a foreigner uses that particular facility. What is significant is that a foreign national can do this, thus bypassing the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, an Act which precludes more than twenty percent ownership of any broadcast licensee by a foreigner.

Mr. President, if Murdoch can get away with it, and most likely transmit the "trash" available in his print media, why cannot we expect possible participation by a person of leftist persuasion or some other party alien to our beloved land such as the incredible head of Iran or Yasser Arafat.

For obvious reasons, I cannot act directly with the Federal Communications Commission on this, nor can I even suggest that to you or your able staff. That would be entirely wrong with the Federal Communications Commission being an independent agency.

Los Angeles, California 213/277-9399: 714/493-3316

The Honorable Ronald W. Reagan June 6, 1983 Page 2

I am suggesting, Mr. President, that one of your legislative aides review this matter to procure all the facts. Then I would suggest, respectfully, the introduction of legislation on the Hill, such a measure to become a part of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

Should one of your aides desire to call me, I would be most pleased to review this in more detail. Should such an individual desire to see me, I will be in Washington (at the Mayflower), Tuesday, June 6 through Thursday, June 9th.

Mr. President, my especial gratitude for any consideration you give these comments.

Ron, Dorothy joins me in our warmest wishes to you and Nancy.

Respectfully yours,

Tide Qual

I would like you to know that I am supporting Esther Greene for the position of United States Treasurer.

As you know, Esther was a supporter of yours when you ran for Governor, and has been a staunch loyalist ever since. She is an extremely capable person and would make an excellent Treasurer.

Sincerely,

THE WHITE HOUSE WASHINGTON

Dear Mr. Hannaford:

Please accept my apologies for the delay in responding to your letter to the President dated May 18. The President saw your letter and asked me to follow up immediately. Responsibility for the delay is entirely mine.

Delay notwithstanding, the issue you were concerned about -- the possible export of Alaskan oil -- remains under review. I expect it to be considered again by an interagency committee in the next two weeks. Only after that consideration will the options be presented to the President. I am confident that arguments in support of your point of view will be among those presented to the President. In any case, please be assured that the President has had the benefit of your counsel -- and again accept my apologies for the delay.

With best regards,

Richard G. Darman Assistant to the President

Dear Mr. President,

Soon you will be deciding the Administration's position with regard to the existing ban on the exportation of Alaskan oil. The proponents of export (among them our client the Alaska Lumber & Pulp Company) believe than an easing of the ban (such as a 200,000 barrel-per-day allowance), would have a number of benefits for our nation. Exportation, even on a limited basis, would lead to:

- * An improvement in our balance of trade (especially with Japan);
- * Development of new domestic oil reserves as a result of the incentive created by broadening the market for our existing oil;
- * New federal revenue (the "windfall" profits tax is calculated on the perbarrel price less the cost of transportation; transport to Japan would cost much less than it does to our Gulf ports);
- * Enhancement of our national security by reducing the dependence of Asian allies on uncertain sources of supply;
- * Strengthening our friendship with Mexico at a time of economic distress in that country (U.S. gulf port oil from Alaska could be replaced by Mexican oil).

Exportation of Alaskan oil would not raise consumer costs, for regardless of the final destination of a portion of Alaska's output, consumers would continue to pay the world price for oil. Their conservation decisions will continue to be based on the market's price signals.

The Hannaford Company, Inc. Public Relations & Public Affairs

Thinking back to 1979 I recall that you felt then that limited exportation made economic sense. The arguments for it today are, if anything, stronger. The case for exportation is gaining adherents across a broad range of the American spectrum. Among groups supporting it are the Environmental Policy center, Washington, D.C. (a clearinghouse for independent environmental groups throughout the country), the Washington State Environmental council, the Washington State Coalition Against Oil Pollution, the 15,000-member National Oil Jobbers council and the Independent Gasoline Marketers council.

We believe the leadership of the Maritime unions will be willing to talk about a compromise on the issue if they see movement beyond this grassroots level; that is, on Capitol hill, in the form of favorable action by the Senate Banking committee.

Sincerely,

Peter D. Hannaford

Dear Mr. President:

As Presidential Scholars, we feel honored to represent American youth and gratified by your confidence that we will play a part in shaping the future of this country. We cannot, however, accept this high honor without voicing our most profound fears for the future itself. We therefore call upon you, Mr. President, to make every effort to halt the nuclear arms race that endangers the tomorrows in which we hope to fulfill our dreams of today. We, the undersigned, endorse, and urge you to endorse, the nuclear freeze proposal outlined below. Such a proposal, with various amendments and revisions, has already been passed by the United States House of Representatives as Joint Resolution 13, on May 4, 1983.

The Freeze Proposal: To improve national and international security, the United States and the Soviet Union should stop the nuclear arms race. Specifically, they should adopt a mutual freeze on the testing, production, and deployment of nuclear weapons and of missiles and new aircraft designed primarily to deliver nuclear weapons. This is an essential, verifiable first step toward lessening the risk of nuclear war and reducing the nuclear arsenals.

Sir:

My family and I wish to express our gratitude for the unconditional pardon you signed on May 11, 1983, on my behalf.

The confidence in my character shown by your generous act is very much appreciated by all of us. My personal joy and pride in having restored my full rights and duties as a United States citizen cannot be expressed. I will dedicate myself to live up to the high standards of conduct expected of an invividual priviledged to receive a Presidential pardon.

Mr. President, I can only add that my family and friends join me in prayers that this great country will have the benefit of your strong leadership not only through 1984, but through 1988.

Respectfully,

Eugenio Rolando Martinez
