DRAFT PRESIDENTIAL ARTICLE FOR HIGHLIGHTS MAGAZINE

"The Meaning of the Statue of Liberty"

For 100 years now Miss Liberty, that grand statue in New York Harbor, has been a symbol of the freedom and the opportunity that we enjoy in the United States. Freedom and opportunity that many people in the world are not allowed by their governments to have.

She has welcomed millions of new immigrants to this country, maybe even your grandparents or great grandparents. To them, the Statue of Liberty was their first real glimpse of America, the land they chose as the place to build a better life for themselves and their families.

To young Americans, Miss Liberty takes on a special meaning. She is the link from the past to the present, and she is the promise of the future.

With her torch held high, she is lighting the way through "the golden door" of opportunity and showing you that the path to the future is in freedom. ~~Soon~~ it will be your ^{privilege} [duty] to make certain that our country will always be the place where those who dare to dream can succeed. ~~---~~

The millions of new Americans who sailed past Miss Liberty were drawn here by the dream that with hard work and freedom there was no limit to what they could do.

We were blessed by these new people who became citizens and helped build our country and protect our freedom.

They helped make our country great because they brought something special from every corner of the world. And in doing so we have been able to prove that people who are different can live together.

Miss Liberty has been standing guard, watching our progress as we worked to build America and keep her free.

She has seen our armed forces sail off to fight in foreign wars for the freedom and democracy of others and to keep our country safe. And she welcomed them home again as heroes.

During the past 100 years Miss Liberty has seen all the progress that we have made as a nation. She has seen us go from wooden sailing ships to space ships that let us explore the ^{next} [final] frontier. There we will develop new ways to help all of us here on Earth.

Whenever you see the Statue of Liberty, remember what she means to us and to the world. She is standing guard over the promise of freedom and opportunity that is the real meaning of the American dream.

Dear Joe:

The President's article for HIGHLIGHTS received--we're all delighted here and grateful to him, and to Mr. Gibson and you for your help. I've got you down to get advance copies (they should be available approximately June 1).

If you should ever get this way (we're a little east of Scranton on U.S. Route 6, not far from I-84) we'd like to show you our shop and have a chance to meet you.

All kinds of good fortune for your time in The White House.

Sincerely,

Tom

Miss Liberty has been standing guard, watching our progress as we worked to build America and keep her free.

She has seen our armed forces sail off to fight in foreign wars for the freedom and democracy of others and to keep our country safe. And she welcomed them home again as heroes.

During the past 100 years Miss Liberty has seen all the progress that we have made as a nation. She has seen us go from wooden sailing ships to space ships that let us explore the final frontier. There we will develop new ways to help all of us here on Earth.

Whenever you see the Statue of Liberty, remember what she means to us and to the world. She is standing guard over the promise of freedom and opportunity that is the real meaning of the American dream.

"The Meaning of the Statue of Liberty"

For 100 years now Miss Liberty, that grand statue in New York Harbor, has been a symbol of the freedom and the opportunity that we enjoy in the United States. Freedom and opportunity that many people in the world are not allowed by their governments to have.

She has welcomed millions of new immigrants to this country, maybe even your grandparents or great grandparents. To them, the Statue of Liberty was their first real glimpse of America, the land they chose as the place to build a better life for themselves and their families.

To young Americans, Miss Liberty takes on a special meaning. She is the link from the past to the present, and she is the promise of the future.

With her torch held high, she is lighting the way through "the golden door" of opportunity and showing you that the path to the future is in freedom. Soon it will be your duty to make certain that our country will always be the place where those who dare to dream can succeed.

The millions of new Americans who sailed past Miss Liberty were drawn here by the dream that with hard work and freedom there was no limit to what they could do.

We were blessed by these new people who became citizens and helped build our country and protect our freedom.

They helped make our country great because they brought something special from every corner of the world. And in doing so we have been able to prove that people who are different can live together.

Miss Liberty has been standing guard, watching our progress as we worked to build America and keep her free.

She has seen our armed forces sail off to fight in foreign wars for the freedom and democracy of others and to keep our country safe. And she welcomed them home again as heroes.

During the past 100 years Miss Liberty has seen all the progress that we have made as a nation. She has seen us go from wooden sailing ships to space ships that let us explore the final frontier. There we will develop new ways to help all of us here on Earth.

GEORGE D. LUNDBERG, MD
(312) 280-7100

President Ronald Reagan
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mr. President:

As you may recall from our correspondence last summer, annually since 1983 The Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) has featured a Hiroshima theme issue focusing on radiation biology, nuclear medicine, and the prevention of nuclear war.

We have been very gratified by the many recent positive steps toward world peace such as the award of the Nobel Peace Prize to the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War, the inclusion of many of the points we made in our JAMA "Prescriptions for Peace in a Nuclear Age" editorial in your remarkable talks in Geneva, and the historic exchange of televised messages by you and Mr. Gorbachev on January 1.

In our continuing physician's quest for peace, we are now planning our August 1, 1986 JAMA. I hereby invite you to prepare an article for our consideration for inclusion in that fourth annual Hiroshima issue. Since JAMA reaches more than 600,000 physicians in eight languages in 132 countries, it is the ideal forum for addressing physicians who are dedicated to the promotion of life, and the protection of health.

For your guidance, I have enclosed a copy of our 1985 Hiroshima issue and an "Instructions for Authors" sheet. Exactly the same invitation is being sent to Mr. Gorbachev. I hope we hear from you.

Sincerely,

George D. Lundberg, M.D.

GDL/ml
Enclosures

Instructions for Authors

Send manuscripts to the Editor, George D. Lundberg, MD, JAMA, 535 N Dearborn St, Chicago, IL 60610. Manuscripts are considered with the understanding that they have not been published previously and are not under consideration by another publication. A complete report following presentation or publication of preliminary findings elsewhere (eg, in an abstract) can be considered. Include copies of possibly duplicative material that has been previously published or is currently being considered by another publication when submitting a manuscript.

In the cover letter, designate one author as correspondent and provide a complete address and telephone number. Manuscripts should have no more than six authors; a greater number will require justification. All coauthors should have contributed to the study and manuscript preparation. They should be thoroughly familiar with the substance of the final manuscript and be able to defend its conclusions.

Editing.—All accepted manuscripts will be copy edited according to AMA style, and returned to the corresponding author for approval. The authors are responsible for all statements made in their work, including any changes made by the copy editor and authorized by the corresponding author.

Reprints.—Forms for ordering reprints are included with the edited typescript sent for approval. Reprints are shipped six to eight weeks after publication.

Manuscript Preparation^{1,2}

- Submit an original manuscript and three photocopies, typed on one side only of standard-sized white bond paper. Use ample margins.
- Double-space throughout, including title page, abstract, text, acknowledgments, references, legends for illustrations, and tables. If a word processor is used, use a letter-quality printer and do not justify right-hand margins.
- Start each section listed above on a new page, numbered consecutively in the upper right-hand corner, beginning with the title page.
- On the title page type the full names, highest academic degree obtained, and affiliations of all the authors. If an author's affiliation has changed since the work was done, list the new affiliation as well. Also state the name and affiliation of any statistical reviewer consulted, and briefly acknowledge financial support provided to the authors for this research.
- Include an abstract of 150 words or less, stating the problem considered, methods, results, and conclusions.
- Use metric units throughout the manuscript.
- Use generic names of drugs, unless the specific trade name of a drug used is directly relevant to the discussion.
- Do not use abbreviations in the title or abstract, and limit their use in the text.

Tables.—Double-space on separate sheets of standard-sized white bond paper. Title all tables and number them in the order of their citation in the text. If a table must be continued, repeat the title on a second sheet, followed by "(cont)."

Illustrations.—Submit in triplicate as professionally prepared glossy photographs. When roentgenographic photographs are used, submit a high-contrast print, never the original film. Color transparencies are preferable to color prints.

Number illustrations according to their order in the text. Type the figure number, the name of the senior author, the short form of the manuscript title, and an arrow indicating "top" on a gummed label; affix it to the back of the print. Never mark on the surface of the print or on the transparency itself.

- Double-space legends (maximum length, 40 words) on separate sheets of standard-sized paper. Indicate magnification and stain used for photomicrographs.
- Acknowledge fully all illustrations and tables taken from other publications, and submit written permission to reprint from the original publisher.

References.—Number references in the order in which they are mentioned in the text; do not alphabetize. In text, tables, and legends, identify a reference with superscript Arabic numerals. In listing references, follow the AMA style currently in use, abbreviating the names of journals in the form given in

Index Medicus. Examples:

1. Black DW: Laughter. JAMA 1984;252:2995-2998.
2. Weinstein L, Swartz MN: Pathogenic properties of invading microorganisms, in Sodeman WA Jr, Sodeman WA (eds): Pathologic Physiology: Mechanisms of Disease. Philadelphia, WB Saunders Co, 1974, pp 457-472.

Cover Letter.—Include one of the two following statements regarding copyright and the statement regarding the financial interests of the authors. The editors must have the relevant statements in order to consider the manuscript.

Copyright Transfer.—"In consideration of the American Medical Association's taking action in reviewing and editing this submission, the author(s) undersigned hereby transfer(s), assign(s), or otherwise convey(s) all copyright ownership to the AMA in the event that this work is published by the AMA."

Federal Employment.—"I was an employee of the United States Federal Government when this work was investigated and prepared for publication; therefore, it is not protected by the Copyright Act and there is no copyright of which the ownership can be transferred."

All accepted manuscripts become the permanent property of the AMA, and may not be published elsewhere without written permission from both the author and the AMA.

Financial Interest.—List all affiliations with or financial involvement in any organization or entity with a direct financial interest in the subject matter or materials of the research discussed in the manuscript (eg, employment, consultancies, stock ownership). All such information will be held in confidence during the review process. Should the manuscript be accepted, the editor will discuss with the author the extent of disclosure appropriate for publication.

Informed Consent.—If the manuscript reports the results of an experimental investigation of human subjects, state formally that consent was obtained from the subjects after the nature of procedure(s) had been fully explained. Include a signed statement of consent from the patient (or, if the patient is a minor, from both parents or the legal guardian) with all identifiable photographs. Consent forms must contain a specific statement that photographs and information related to a case may be published separately or together, and that the patient's name will not be disclosed.

MANUSCRIPT CHECKLIST

- (1) Include the original typed manuscript (including abstract, references, legends, and tables), plus three photocopies.
- (2) Leave right-hand margins unjustified.
- (3) Put references in proper format in numerical order, making sure that they are cited in the text.
- (4) Send three sets of all illustrations.
- (5) Provide and label the abstract.
- (6) Include complete consent forms for patient photographs.
- (7) Include consent forms for illustrations and tables previously published elsewhere.
- (8) Include in the cover letter (a) copyright transfer statement OR statement of federal employment during time of the study, (b) statement of any financial interest in any subjects discussed.
- (9) Include all authors' personal signatures on copyright transfer form.
- (10) Designate a corresponding author and provide a telephone number and address.

I hereby invite you to prepare an article for our consideration for inclusion in that fourth annual Hiroshima issue. Since JAMA reaches more than 600,000 physicians in eight languages in 132 countries, it is the ideal forum for addressing physicians who are dedicated to the promotion of life, and the protection of health.

For your guidance, I have enclosed a copy of our 1985 Hiroshima issue and an "Instructions for Authors" sheet. Exactly the same invitation is being sent to Mr. Gorbachev. I hope we hear from you.

Sincerely,

George D. Lundberg, M.D.

Instructions for Authors

Send manuscripts to the Editor, George D. Lundberg, MD, JAMA, 535 N Dearborn St, Chicago, IL 60610. Manuscripts are considered with the understanding that they have not been published previously and are not under consideration by another publication. A complete report following presentation or publication of preliminary findings elsewhere (eg, in an abstract) can be considered. Include copies of possibly duplicative material that has been previously published or is currently being considered by another publication when submitting a manuscript.

In the cover letter, designate one author as correspondent and provide a complete address and telephone number. Manuscripts should have no more than six authors; a greater number will require justification. All coauthors should have contributed to the study and manuscript preparation. They should be thoroughly familiar with the substance of the final manuscript and be able to defend its conclusions.

Editing.—All accepted manuscripts will be copy edited according to AMA style, and returned to the corresponding author for approval. The authors are responsible for all statements made in their work, including any changes made by the copy editor and authorized by the corresponding author.

Reprints.—Forms for ordering reprints are included with the edited typescript sent for approval. Reprints are shipped six to eight weeks after publication.

Manuscript Preparation^{1,2}

- Submit an original manuscript and three photocopies, typed on one side only of standard-sized white bond paper. Use ample margins.
- Double-space throughout, including title page, abstract, text, acknowledgments, references, legends for illustrations, and tables. If a word processor is used, use a letter-quality printer and do not justify right-hand margins.
- Start each section listed above on a new page, numbered consecutively in the upper right-hand corner, beginning with the title page.
- On the title page type the full names, highest academic degree obtained, and affiliations of all the authors. If an author's affiliation has changed since the work was done, list the new affiliation as well. Also state the name and affiliation of any statistical reviewer consulted, and briefly acknowledge financial support provided to the authors for this research.
- Include an abstract of 150 words or less, stating the problem considered, methods, results, and conclusions.
- Use metric units throughout the manuscript.
- Use generic names of drugs, unless the specific trade name of a drug used is directly relevant to the discussion.
- Do not use abbreviations in the title or abstract, and limit their use in the text.

Tables.—Double-space on separate sheets of standard-sized white bond paper. Title all tables and number them in the order of their citation in the text. If a table must be continued, repeat the title on a second sheet, followed by "(cont)."

Illustrations.—Submit in triplicate as professionally prepared glossy photographs. When roentgenographic photographs are used, submit a high-contrast print, never the original film. Color transparencies are preferable to color prints.

Number illustrations according to their order in the text. Type the figure number, the name of the senior author, the short form of the manuscript title, and an arrow indicating "top" on a gummed label; affix it to the back of the print. Never mark on the surface of the print or on the transparency itself.

• Double-space legends (maximum length, 40 words) on separate sheets of standard-sized paper. Indicate magnification and stain used for photomicrographs.

• Acknowledge fully all illustrations and tables taken from other publications, and submit written permission to reprint from the original publisher.

References.—Number references in the order in which they are mentioned in the text; do not alphabetize. In text, tables, and legends, identify a reference with superscript Arabic numerals. In listing references, follow the AMA style currently in use, abbreviating the names of journals in the form given in

Index Medicus. Examples:

1. Black DW: Laughter. JAMA 1984;252:2995-2998.
2. Weinstein L, Swartz MN: Pathogenic properties of invading microorganisms, in Sodeman WA Jr, Sodeman WA (eds): Pathologic Physiology: Mechanisms of Disease. Philadelphia, WB Saunders Co, 1974, pp 457-472.

Cover Letter.—Include one of the two following statements regarding copyright and the statement regarding the financial interests of the authors. The editors must have the relevant statements in order to consider the manuscript.

Copyright Transfer.—"In consideration of the American Medical Association's taking action in reviewing and editing this submission, the author(s) undersigned hereby transfer(s), assign(s), or otherwise convey(s) all copyright ownership to the AMA in the event that this work is published by the AMA."

Federal Employment.—"I was an employee of the United States Federal Government when this work was investigated and prepared for publication; therefore, it is not protected by the Copyright Act and there is no copyright of which the ownership can be transferred."

All accepted manuscripts become the permanent property of the AMA, and may not be published elsewhere without written permission from both the author and the AMA.

Financial Interest.—List all affiliations with or financial involvement in any organization or entity with a direct financial interest in the subject matter or materials of the research discussed in the manuscript (eg, employment, consultancies, stock ownership). All such information will be held in confidence during the review process. Should the manuscript be accepted, the editor will discuss with the author the extent of disclosure appropriate for publication.

Informed Consent.—If the manuscript reports the results of an experimental investigation of human subjects, state formally that consent was obtained from the subjects after the nature of procedure(s) had been fully explained. Include a signed statement of consent from the patient (or, if the patient is a minor, from both parents or the legal guardian) with all identifiable photographs. Consent forms must contain a specific statement that photographs and information related to a case may be published separately or together, and that the patient's name will not be disclosed.
