EXECUTIVE CLERK, WHITE HOUSE OFFICE OF THE: Records, 1981-1989

 The Library received an accretion to this collection in 2010. It will be processed and added to the collection at a later date. The additional material is listed at the end of the inventory.

In existence since 1865, the Executive Clerk's Office is the oldest functioning staff office of the White House. The White House Office of the Executive Clerk is responsible for the formal certificates, preparation and disposition of all official Presidential documents. These include nominations to the Senate, commissions of appointment, acceptances of resignations, Executive Orders, Proclamations, and Messages to Congress. In addition the office serves as the official point of Presidential receipt for formal documents from the Congress, such as resolutions, enrolled bills, and Senate confirmations. The Clerk's office returns presidential vetoes to Congress and the Clerk is allowed on the Senate and House floors for this purpose.

The Executive Clerk's office staff maintains background material and reference on all the nomination responsibilities of the President, updating any if changed by legislation at any time. The Office can provide precise information including historical data on all of the public documents the President produces. The Office is also responsible for keeping track of the timing on enrolled bills – last date to sign, when a “pocket veto” is effective, etc.

The White House Office of the Executive Clerk records received by the Reagan Library consist largely of enrolled bills from Congress, a set of records regarding pocket vetoes and the formal resignations at the end of the Reagan administration.

Ronald R. Geisler served as Executive Clerk throughout the Reagan administration and his Deputy was Dan Marks. Some of their work product is found within the collection.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This collection is currently organized into three series: SERIES I: BILL REPORTS, 1981-1988; SERIES II: POCKET VETOES, 1981-1988 and SERIES III: OFFICIAL RESIGNATIONS, 1988-1989. We will be adding additional series when we process the 2010 accretion.

SERIES I: BILL REPORTS, 1981-1988 (48.1 l.ft., Box 1-121)

This series consists of the Office of Management and Budget memos to the President regarding pending Congressional enrolled bills. The OMB memos consist of the full name and sponsors of the bill, the last day for action on the bill, the purpose of the bill, a listing of agency recommendations (approval, disapproval, or no objection), and a general discussion of the pros and cons of the bill and a fuller summary of agency opinions on the bill. This memo was generally signed by the head of OMB. The OMB memo is the attachment to a summary note sent to the President from the White House Secretary: Richard Darman, 1981-1984; David Chew, 1985-March 1987; and Rhett Dawson, April 1987-1988. Katherine Ladd, the Director of the White House Secretariat signed many of the memos for long periods during 1988 when Rhett Dawson appears to have been away from the White House. The White House note summarizes approval or disapproval recommendations of the White House Offices most involved with the bill. In some cases, agency positions are included.

Folders also contain the notes and comments from the various White House staff and offices regarding specific enrolled bills. These comments are written on the White House Staffing Memo form, or sent as separate memos from the various offices/staff members. Letters and memos from agencies expressing their opinions on particular enrolled bills of interest are included. Congressional reports on the bills can be found in about one half of the series.

Some bills include “signing statements” from the President. These are noted on the box list inventories with an asterisk. Folders with statements or vetoes usually contain a tracking sheet from the Office of the Executive Clerk.

SERIES II: POCKET VETOES, 1981-1988 (1.2 l.ft., Boxes 122-127)

This series consists of the formal material regarding bills the President did not sign within the ten days required by the Constitution but was unable to return to Congress with a veto due to Congressional adjournment. This situation is commonly called a “pocket veto.” The folder contents are consistent throughout this series. The contents include the President’s Memorandum of Disapproval, a note containing the chronology of the bill and the date the veto becomes effective, a press release version of the Memorandum of Disapproval, and the formal printed copy of the bill sent to the White House from Congress.

SERIES III: OFFICIAL RESIGNATIONS, 1988-1989 (1.3 l.ft., Box 128-131)

This series consists of the original copies of official resignations from mostly Executive branch appointed officials. There are a limited amount of White House staff, ambassadors, Cabinet Secretaries and judicial resignations. The remainder of the resignations is mostly from the Assistant or Deputy Secretary level. The material consists of the original incoming resignation and a series of edits and drafts of the president’s acknowledgement of this resignation. The work product is primarily from the Office of Presidential Personnel and the White House Correspondence Office. It appears to have been “too late to file” back with the Clerk’s office and was accessioned by the Library in 1991. This is not a comprehensive group of resignation letters for the Reagan Administration.
