The Honorable Howard Baker,
The White House,
Washington D.C.

Greetings:

You have written to me many times during your "vacation" from active politics and I expected soon to hear you announce that you would be a candidate for the Presidency of the United States. When the news of your new assignment came over the air I, like so very many, rejoiced. This is your greatest hour to do something purposeful for the nation. You will be able to avert from its own mistakes.

I want you to know how happy I am, and to pledge my continued support. You were at the right place at the right time, and you can accept the challenge before you, knowing that the nation is blessed by you. I remember your father-in-law so well, and know how proud he would have been to see you chosen for such an opportunity. You will be able to bind up the wounds of this nation in distress.

I am sure you are gratified that you do not have to look farward to a greeting committee that can use your talents and wisdom in a way to square rounded interests with you for being willing to do so.

Cordially
Wm. Stewart Sullivan

Dear Mr. Baker,

This is one of the many fellow party members who feel that your coming into the leadership picture will be most helpful in keeping the Ship-of-State steering in the right direction.

I am supportive of the President and am of the opinion he was let down by some members of his staff it appears!

We as a nation, through our leaders, must not allow those few in the Middle East control our power of democracy and take away by distraction our role in the league of nations.

I wish you the best in your efforts to advise the President.

Very Truly Yours

Dear Senator Baker:

I don't know of anything that has happened which pleased me more than your acceptance of the appointment as Chief of Staff at the White House.

Nothing could have happened which could help the embroiled President, the Republican Party and our country more than your becoming Chief of Staff and replacing Donald Regan.

I enclose a tear sheet from the Saturday, February 28, 1987, editorial page of "The Orlando (Florida) Sentinel" expressing its view of your appointment. "The Orlando Sentinel" is one of the most prominent and widely circulated newspapers in Florida and is considered a liberal Democrat newspaper.

DATELINE HOUSTON IN THE WAKE OF LO...

A top-flight chief of staff

President Reagan's selection of Howard Baker as his new White House chief of staff works at two levels.

At the level of immediate need, the move gets Donald Regan out of the Oval Office and away from the president's ear. As the Tower commission report makes all too obvious, Mr. Regan bears a significant portion of responsibility for the Iran-contra debacle. His continued presence in a vital White House role — and Mr. Reagan's continued refusal to cut him loose — has served only to prolong, nearly to the breaking point, a national agony.

At a more far-reaching level, the choice of Mr. Baker installs in the White House — at long last — a chief of staff wise to the ways of Congress and well-respected by Republicans and Democrats.

From 1981 through his retirement from the Senate in 1984, Mr. Baker distinguished himself as that body's majority leader, just as he had distinguished himself earlier through his work on the Senate Watergate Committee. His long service on the Foreign Relations Committee gives him a breadth of experience on the international scene that Mr. Regan sorely lacked. He's no stranger, either, to the way budgets are written.

Mr. Baker will have to put his presidential ambitions on hold. For the next two years he will be too busy running the White House to run for it. Still, the exposure stands to boost his stock for any future race, which may help explain why he took the job after former Sen. Paul Laxalt and former Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis reportedly had turned it down.

More to the point, Mr. Baker's appointment is to the nation's benefit. For three months now the White House has been doing a scene straight out of soap opera. Mr. Baker's presence promises to put a lid on the melodrama and get Mr. Reagan redirected toward the critical issues facing his presidency.

The trade deficit, the budgetary crisis, Soviet relations — these matters won't resolve themselves. Whether Mr. Reagan has the right answers is one matter. That he must begin once again to show leadership is beyond dispute.

Seminole the vital link

Gentlemen, start your engines.

Florida Reps. Frank Stone and Rich Crotty are revving up an effort that could lead to a much-needed Central Florida expressway authority. Hallelujah.

Granted, a better expressway system is only one aspect of fixing the roads in the Orlando area this year. An increase in the gasoline tax is needed as well if Orange, Seminole and Osceola counties are to address the roads that cannot have tolls. But a regional expressway authority can solve the problem of how to build a beltway around the Orlando area.

With such an authority, all of the area's a regional authority. That is why Seminole County Commissioner Barbara Christensen loves the idea.

Problem is that others from the Seminole County Commission are hesitant. Chairman Fred Streetman says he is not convinced a regional expressway authority could do a better job than could Seminole County on its own.

But look at the bonding power that a united authority would create — particularly if money generated from Florida's Turnpike tolls could be used to help build the beltway. A united authority clearly could do a better job.

Letters to the ec

Uphold growth plan

AS A NEW Seminole County resident just discovering the beauty of the area, I hear the word "develop" and my adrenaline starts pumping. My hat is off to the Seminole County Commission for its decision last year to say no to an Arizona company, AMCOR Investment Corp. of Phoenix, which wants to build a development along the Wekiva River.

AMCOR appealed the commission's decision. I hope the administrative judge will be clear-sighted and uphold the county growth plan.

The hearing starts March 11 at commission chambers in Sanford. We hope that people will appear during three days, starting March 13, that are allowed for public input.

Let AMCOR return to Arizona: "develop" a better outlook on environment.

The first line in typing I learned...NOW IS THE TIME FOR ALL GOOD MEN TO COME TO THE AID OF THEIR COUNTRY!!! You have done just that! Many thanks and you have my prayers, the prayers of the whole U. S. of A. to carry out the job.

Who am I? I was born in Northeast Iowa - you know what goes on in that state - Waverly - later moving to Cedar Rapids. I moved to Cleveland, Tennessee in 1949 with the American Uniform Company - the first company to move from the North. We came from Minneapolis. And look what has happened to Cleveland.

I am at present, the membership chairman of Bradley County Republican Women. Hopefully one day, you can come to Cleveland, so we can shake your hand.

Sincerely,
