Biography

Biography

Judyt Mandel is a former long-time foreign service officer, consultant and educator.

Mandel was born in the Bergen-Belson holding facility for Jewish survivors of the Holocaust to Jewish Polish parents who had survived their time at the Auschwitz concentration camp. The Landsteins immigrated to America in 1950 and settled in Brooklyn, New York. Mandel attended Sarah Lawrence University on a needed scholarship and graduated in 1968 with a B.A. in political science. She attended the Ecole des Hautes Etudes Internationales, one of the leading academic centers for international relations, and the University of Geneva during her junior year. She spent her senior year at the London School of Economics and Political Science, concentrating on political science and Russian politics..

Following her graduation, Mandel entered the School of International Public Affairs at Columbia University where she graduated in 1970 with a degree in international relations.

In 1972 Judyt Landstein married James Mandel and she joined the Department of State where she remained until she retired in 1991.

During her time at the State Department, Mandel was posted to the American embassies in Russia twice, and London. For five years she served at the National Security Council in the Reagan and George H.W. Bush Administrations. Her expertise at the NSC was in U.S.-Russia relations and nuclear proliferation issues.

Leaving the State Department, Mandel was a consultant for URS Corporation from 2002-2011 where she worked to establish commercial contacts and cooperation between Russia and the United States businesses.

Since leaving URS, Mandel has been an seminar leader/instructor/Professor at Columbia University where she established a scholarship fund in her parent's name.
