Biography

The White House Social Affairs office was a part of the Office of the First Lady during the Reagan administration. The staff, including the Social Secretary and Assistant/Deputy Social Secretary, was answerable to the First Lady's Chief of Staff, and there appears to have been considerable Nancy Reagan involvement with this office. However, unlike members of the First Lady's staff, the Social Office worked on many events that did not include the First Lady or have her involvement. Because of this unique distinction, we have separated the Social Affairs Office and staff members as a separate collection. Staff collections for the Social Affairs Office are for Muffie Brandon, Linda Faulkner, Catherine Fenton, Gahl Hodges, and the Graphics and Calligraphy office and its Director, William Gemmel.

Scope and Content Note

The Social Office records include two fairly distinct series transferred to White House Records Management by two individuals. The "Events Files" were sent by Shirley Campolieto and the "Chron Files" were sent by Judy Spangler. Both these individuals were detailees to the White House from other agencies and were officially working for Gemmel, but informally working on all Social Affairs Office activity. We have not created separate collections for these individuals, but have included the series in the Social Affairs office records.

The following material is ordered in a very rudimentary preliminary arrangement completed by the Library staff on August 4, 1999.
