Biography

Charles P. Smith received a doctorate from the University of Southern California in 1970. During the 1960s, he served on Ronald Reagan's gubernatorial staff in California; specifically, he orchestrated an electronic data processing unit to make office/data management files more efficient. After aiding Reagan's presidential campaign in 1980, Smith served the President in a number of capacities throughout Reagan's entire administration. Among his positions were Deputy Director of the Office of Planning and Evaluation (1981-1982) and Senior Policy Analyst in the Office of Policy Development (1986-1987). Smith also served as Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy Development and Research at the US Department of Housing and Urban Development (1982-1986) where he studied federal housing vouchers for low-income families. Under President Bush, Smith also tackled escalating crime rates and increasing drug use as the Director of the Bureau of Justice Assistance in the US Department of Justice (1988-1
